How many weeds are you sowing?

Recently one ounce of Alfalfa seed was found to contain approximately 900 weed seeds, which would have resulted in the distribution of almost a million weeds to every acre sown.

And such examples as this are not uncommon. Forestall the danger of ruined crops now! Take every precaution in selecting and cleaning your seed—because on them principally depends the ultimate success of your crops.

Under the Weed Control Act the destruction of noxious weeds is compulsory. Let us co-operate to end this menace.

The Honor of the Big Snows

By James Oliver Curwood

Author of "The Danger Trail"

"I've kept your dinner for you, Jan. Why didn't you come sooner?"

"I had dinner with Gravois," he replied. "Jean said that you would hardly be prepared for five, Melisse, so I accepted his invitation."

He took down from the wall a fur sledge coat, in which Melisse had needed a rent a day or two before, and, throwing it over his arm, turned to leave.

"Jan!"

He faced her slowly, knowing that in spite of himself there was a strangeness in his manner which she would not understand.

"Why are you going away the day after tomorrow—two weeks before the others? You didn't tell me."

"I'm going a hundred miles into the south," he answered.

"Over the Nelson House trail?"

"Yes."

"Oh!" Her lips curled slightly as she looked at him. Then she laughed, and a bright spot leaped into either cheek. "I understand, brother," she said softly. "Pardon me for questioning you so. I had forgotten that the MacVeigh girl lives on the Nelson trail. Iowaka says that she is as sweet as a wild flower. I wish you would have her come up and visit us some time, Jan."

Jan's face went red; then white, but Melisse saw only the first effect of her heedless shot and was briskly gathering up the dishes.

"I turn off into the Cree lake country before I reach MacVeigh's," he was on the point of saying, but the words hung upon his lips, and he remained silent.

A few minutes later he was talking with Jean de Gravois. The little Frenchman's face was ominously dark, and he puffed furiously upon his pipe when Jan told him why he was leaving at once for the south.

"Running away?" he repeated for the tenth time in French, his thin lips curling in a sneer. "I am sorry that I gave you my oath, Jan Thoreau, else I would go myself and tell Melisse what I read in the papers. Pish! Why can't you forget?"

"I may—some day," said Jan. "That is why I am going into the south two weeks early, and I shall be gone until after the big roost. If I remain here another week I shall tell Melisse, and then"—

He shrugged his shoulders despairingly.

"And then what."

"I should go away forever."

"Then remain another week, Jan Thoreau, and if it turns out as you say I swear I will abandon my two iowakas and little Jean to the wolves!"

"I am going the day after tomorrow."

The next morning Iowaka complained to Melisse that Gravois was as surly as a bear.

CHAPTER X.

A Kiss and the Consequences.

MELISSE saw little of Jan during the day. At noon, Dixon told her that he had made up his mind not to accompany Thoreau on the trip south. The following morning, before she was up, Jan had gone. She was deeply hurt. Never before had he left on one of his long trips without spending his last moments with her. Outside of her thoughts of Jan, the days and evenings that followed were pleasant ones for her. The new agent was as jolly as he was fat, and took an immense liking to Melisse. Young Dixon was good looking and brimming with life, and spent a great deal of his time in her company. For hours at a time she listened to his stories of the wonderful world across the sea.

One day, a week after Jan had gone, he told her about the women in the world which had come to be a fairy land to Melisse.

"They are all beautiful over there!" she asked wonderingly, when he had finished.

"Many of them are beautiful, but none so beautiful as you, Melisse," he replied, leaning near to her, his eyes shining. "Do you know that you are beautiful?"

His words frightened her so much that she bowed her head to hide the signs of it in her face. Jan had often spoken these same words—a thousand times he had told her that she was beautiful—but there had never been this fluttering of her heart before.

There were few days which Iowaka and she did not hold in secret between them, and a day or two later Melisse told her friend what Dixon had said. For the first time Iowaka abused the confidence placed in her and told Jean.

"The devil!" gritted Jean, his face blackening.

He said no more until night, when the children were asleep. Then he drew Iowaka close beside him on a bench near the stove and asked carelessly:

"My angel, if one makes an oath to the blessed Virgin and breaks it what happens?"

He studied the startled look in his wife's big black eyes.

"It means that one will be forever damned unless he confesses to a priest soon after, doesn't it? And if there is no priest nearer than 400 miles it is a dangerous thing to do, is it not?"

A fierce snarling and barking of dogs brought Gravois to the door. They could hear Croisset's ruinous voice and the lond cracking of his big whip.

"I'll be back soon," said Jean, closing the door after him, but instead of approaching Croisset and the fighting dogs he went in the direction of Cummins' cabin. He gritted his teeth as young Dixon's laugh sounded loudly in the cabin. "Two fools!" he went on communing with himself. "Cummins—Jan Thoreau—both fools!"

During the week that followed Jean's little black eyes were never far distant from Cummins' cabin. Without being observed he watched Melisse and Dixon, and not even to Iowaka did he give hint of his growing suspicions. Dixon was a man whom most other men liked. There were a fascinating frankness in his voice and manner, strength in his broad shoulders and a general air of comradeship about him which won all but Jean.

The tiny line runners began leaving the post at the end of the second week, and after this Melisse and the young Englishman were more together than ever. Dixon showed no inclination to accompany the sledges, and when they were gone he and Melisse began taking walks in the forest when the sun was high and warm.

It was on one of these days that Jean had gone along the edge of the caribou swamp that lay between the Barrens and the higher forest. He heard the sound of voices ahead of him, and a moment later he recognized them as those of Melisse and Dixon. His face clouded, and his eyes snapped fire.

He peered forth from the bushes, his loyal heart beating a wrathful tattoo when he saw that Dixon dared put his hand on Melisse's arm. They were coming very slowly, the Englishman bending low over the girl's bowed head, talking to her with strange earnestness. Suddenly he stopped, and before Jean could comprehend what had happened he had bent down and kissed her.

With a low cry Melisse tore herself free. For an instant she faced Dixon, who stood laughing into her blazing eyes. Then she turned and ran swiftly down the trail.

A second cry fell from her startled lips when she found herself face to face with Jean de Gravois. The little Frenchman was smiling. His eyes glittered like black diamonds.

"Jean, Jean!" she sobbed, running to him."

"He has insulted you," he said softly, smiling into her white face. "Run along to the post, my pretty Melisse."

He watched her, half turned from the astonished Englishman, until she disappeared in a twist of the trail a hundred yards away. Then he faced Dixon.

"It is the first time that our Melisse has ever suffered insult," he said, speaking as coolly as if to a child. "If Jan Thoreau were here, he would kill you. He is gone, and I will kill you in his place!"

He advanced, his white teeth still gleaming in a smile, and not until he bunched himself like a cat at Dixon's throat was the Englishman convinced that he meant attack. In a flash Dixon stepped a little to one side and sent out a crushing blow that caught Jean on the side of the head and sent him flat upon his back in the trail.

Half stunned, Gravois came to his feet. He did not hear the shrill cry of terror from the twist in the trail. He did not look back to see Melisse standing there. But Dixon both saw and heard, and he laughed taunting-ly over Jean's head as the little Frenchman came toward him again, more cautiously than before.

It was the first time that Jean had ever come into contact with science. He darted in again in his quick, cat-like way and received a blow that dazed him. This time he held to his feet.

"Bah, this is like striking a baby!" exclaimed Dixon. "What are you fighting about, Gravois? Is it a crime up here to kiss a pretty girl?"

"I am going to kill you!" said Jean, as coolly as before.

There was something terribly calm and decisive in his voice. He was not excited. He was not afraid. His fingers did not go near the long knife in his belt. Slowly the laugh faded from Dixon's face, and tense lines gathered around his mouth as Jean circled about him.

"Come, we don't want trouble like this," he urged. "I'm sorry—if Melisse didn't like it."

"I am going to kill you!" repeated Jean.

It was the science of the forest man against that of another world. For sport Jean had played with wounded lynx. His was the quickness of sight, of instinct—without the other's science—the quickness of the great loon that had often played this same game with his rifle fire, of the sledge dog whose ripping fangs carried death so quickly that eyes could not follow.

A third and a fourth time he came within striking distance and escaped. He half drew his knife, and at the movement Dixon sprang back until his shoulders touched the brush. Smiling Gravois unsheathed the blade and tossed it behind him in the trail. His eyes were like a serpent's in their steadiness, and the muscles of his body were drawn as tight as steel springs, ready to loose themselves when the chance came.

There were tricks in his fighting as well as in the other's, and a dawning of it began to grow upon Dixon. He dropped his arms to his side, inviting Jean within reach. Suddenly the little Frenchman straightened. His glittering eyes shot from the Englishman's face to the brush behind him, and a piercing yell burst from his lips. Involuntarily Dixon started, half turning his face, and before he had come to his guard Gravois flung himself under his arms, striking with the full force of his body against his antagonist's knees.

Together they went down in the trail. There was only one science now —that of the forest man. The lithe, brown fingers that could have crushed the life of a lynx, fastened themselves around the Englishman's throat, and there came one gasping, quickly throttled cry as they tightened in their neck breaking grip.

"I will kill you!" said Jean again.

Dixon's arms fell limply to his side. His eyes bulged from their sockets, his mouth was agape, but Jean did not see. His face was buried on the other's shoulder, the whole life of him in the grip. He would not have raised his head for a full minute longer had there not come a sudden interruption—the terrified voice of Melisse, the frantic tearing of her hands at his hands.

"He is dead!" she shrieked. "You have killed him, Jean!"

Jean looked into Dixon's eyes.

"He is not dead," he said, rising and going to her side. "Come, my dear, run home to Iowaka. I will not kill him." Her slender form shook with agonized sobs as he led her to the turn in the trail. "Run home to Iowaka," he repeated gently. "I will not kill him, Melisse."

He went back to Dixon and rubbed snow over the man's face.

"My God, but it was near to it!" he exclaimed, as there came a flicker of life into the eyes. "A little more and he would have been with the unisoner!"

He dragged the Englishman to the side of the trail and set his back to a tree. When he saw that fallen foeman's breath was coming more strongly he followed slowly after Melisse.

Unobserved, he went into the store and washed the blood from his face, chuckling with huge satisfaction when he looked at himself in the little glass which hung over the washbasin.

"Ah, my sweet Iowaka, but would you guess now that Jean de Gravois had received two clouts on the side of the head that almost sent him into the deepest hereafter? I would not have had you see it for all the gold in this world."

A little later he went to the cabin. Iowaka and the children were at Croisset's, and he sat down to smoke a pipe. Scarce had he begun sending up blue clouds of smoke when the door opened and Melisse came in.

"Hello, my dear," he cried gayly, laughing at her with a wave of his pipe.

In an instant she had flung the shawl from her head and was upon her knees at his feet, her white face turned up to him pleadingly, her breath failing upon him in panting, sobbing excitement.

"Jean, Jean!" she whispered, stretching up her hands to his face. "Please tell me that you will never tell Jan—please tell me that you never will, Jean—never, never, never!"

"I will say nothing, Melisse."

WHERE YOU GET NO OLD STOCK

...7 of the 7000

AFTER eight to twelve years of hard exacting service, seven Canadian Experimental Farms have replaced their old Empire Milking Machines with new Empires.

Like many of Ontario's 7,000 dairymen who depend on Empire Milkers for easy, comfortable, time and money-saving milking, they stick to the Empire because it gets more milk and keeps cows in better condition. It milks all four quarters at once as the cow produces it and exactly recreates the calf's sack and three-way massage from tip to udder.

EMPIRE MILKING MACHINE CO., LTD.
Dept. 00, 352 Water Street
Peterborough, Ontario

Empire is Superior to Other Milkers Because

The Empire Milks As It Should. The Empire takes milk from all four quarters at once—just as the cow gives it down. This insures quicker milking, with less strain on the cow during the milking period and more milk. The Empire's three-sided up-to-udder squeeze (a patented feature) exactly duplicates the massage of a calf's tongue.

The Empire Is Easy To Clean. Empire teatcups can be placed on vats. Held firmly by vacuum, they do not clutch up or drop off. No harnessing to waste the operator's time.

The Empire Cleans Itself. Empire pails are sold with clean hot water, then hot, through the assembled units before the pump is stopped. Not necessary to remove inflations from cups after each milking.

The Empire Lasts Longer. Empire inflations give long service after many years. Patented reinforced Empire inflations prevent stretching—a feature exclusive to Empire. That is why Empire inflations are sold under a definite guarantee and last as long as is consistent with economy.

Presentation and Address.

On Saturday evening, March 10th, over seventy friends from Wesley Sunday School gathered at the home of Mr. Geo. Drew, and spent a social evening with Mr. Edgar Drew, and also presented him with a purse of money, prior to his removal to Moscow.

The address was read by Miss Sine, and the presentation made by Mr. Wilmot Breault. The address was signed by three members of Edgar's Sunday School class, of which he has been a teacher for the past seven years. Out of a total membership of twenty-seven of the young men's class, over twenty were present.

On the following Monday evening about fifty of Edgar's Desmond friends gathered at Mr. Geo. Drew's, and spent a social evening.

Dear Edgar,—We, your friends and neighbours of Desmond, have gathered in your home to have a pleasant evening before your removal from our midst, to enter into the mercantile business at Moscow. You have always had a willing heart and hand to offer assistance in any undertaking of the neighborhood. We will miss you in our social gatherings and in the church where you always took an active part; and we can all testify as to your loyal help as a neighbor.

We wish you every success in your new undertaking, and may God's blessing rest with you where ever you may choose to call your home.

We ask you to accept this purse of money as a token of remembrance from your Desmond friends.

EUROPE'S CULTURE

Englishmen "speak without opening their mouths and without looking at each other," says Dr. Hwny Ung, an accomplished Chinese, in his book, "A Chinaman's Opinion of Us and His Own Country." Therefore, "when there are many of them one cannot distinguish who is speaking."

"My cousin," he continues, "assures me that they do this in order to conserve their energy; instead of spending it uselessly, they save it for making money. They seem always to be half asleep, so that one would say they were dead men moving, and they resemble each other as much as the members of a herd of buffalo which I have seen on a rice plantation, and which nobody can tell apart."

This observant mandarin relates that among his acquaintances is an Englishman who is never known to utter a word save "Hum!" and yet is regarded as eloquent. "He holds forth his empty tea cup and growls a peremptory 'Hum!' and his wife knows instantly that he wishes the cup re-filled. When in a good humor he emits a deliberate and joyous 'Hum!' When irritated it is a much shorter 'Mum!' And thus he expressed a thousand things with a single syllable — a word, by the way, which is not in the dictionary."

In the whole domain of English literature, so far as he was able to observe, the author found "neither beautiful examples of filial piety, nor heroic actions, nor wise maxims, but always and everywhere the same story: a man and a woman speak of their great love, and want to die; but they do not die. And always the same repetitions—hair like a lion's mane,' 'eyes like those of a gazelle.' Then all ends with a marriage."

Finally, Dr. Hwey Ung opines that European civilization can never attain perfection so long as the fan is not in universal use.

"These soldiers who have no fans, how do they manage to march in good order in this torrid heat? And the orator, how can he give to his words all their value without this indispensable auxiliary?"

NEON GAS LIGHTS.

With the appearance of the new red advertising signs called Neon gas lights, many people have been wondering what they are and how they work. The red Neon light is not merely an electric light in a red glass tube. It consists of glass tubing bent into proper shape and filled with Neon gas through which electricity flows.

Neon is a rare element, found in the air and was discovered as late as 1897. Ordinary air contains fifteen parts of Neon to one million parts of air. It is tasteless, odorless, tasteless and very inactive chemically.

Electrically Neon is very unusual. It is exceedingly sensitive to electrical discharges; a tube containing a little mercury sealed in with pure Neon, when shaken, will cause the Neon to glow. The gas has electrical conductivity seventy-five times as great as air. The passage of high tension electrical current causes it to glow with a beautiful and penetrating red light.

The signs used for advertising purposes are glass tubes having electrodes for the passage of current into the gas. The light which the tube emits has a light ray of very long wave length. Neon light has the peculiar property of penetrating fog and murky atmosphere.

Humane Idea In Zoo.

Animals in captivity are to have a new deal at Munich, where the first "geographical zoo" is about to be constructed. The customs of exhibiting the various species of wild and domestic animals according to types or families will be disregarded. Bengal, African and Manchurian lions will not occupy cages next to each other. Instead, African elephants, zebras and other fauna from the same continent will have their quarters in the same sanction of the zoo. Wherever they are not of a type that seeks to devour or destroy the other, they will even be permitted to roam about within the same enclosure. The directors of the Munich zoo believe that this is a much more humane way of dealing with beasts in captivity. Cages will be abolished as far as possible. It is hoped that breeding in captivity will be encouraged by this system.

ODESSA Y. P. S.

The regular meeting of the Odessa Young People's Society was held on Monday evening, March 26th, the President, Clarence Sandwith, presiding. There were about fifty present who enjoyed the evening together. The meeting opened by singing Hymn No. 127, after which Rev. Mr. McQuade led in prayer. Psalm 122 was then read. Mrs. Robert Cairns and marion then gave an instrumental duett, followed by a paper on "Literature and Culture" given by Mrs. Courtland Snider, which was much enjoyed by all. A violin solo was then rendered by Miss Thora Kimberley, followed by Hymn No. 246. Miss Williams Clark then sang a solo "Silver Threads Among the Gold" after which Hymn No. 379 was sung. The social hour consisted of contests, after which lunch was served. All went home, reporting an enjoyable evening.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Arthur Clark.

On Friday evening last, March 23rd, 1928, Mrs. Arthur Clark, passed away, after an illness of a few weeks. Deceased, who was 34 years of age, was a woman of sterling character, and during her residence in Napanee made a large circle of true friends. Prior to coming to Napanee to reside she and her husband resided in Clarksville.

Mrs. Clark was a member of Grace Church, and in both church and social circles, she will be greatly missed.

The funeral was held at her late residence, on Alma Avenue, the service being in charge of her Pastor, Rev. W. P. Woodger, assisted by Rev. W. R. Merrick, of Morven, a friend of the family. The large attendance of friends and the many beautiful floral tributes bore testimony to the high esteem in which deceased was held. The remains were placed in the Riverside vault, interment to be made later at Cataraqui.

The pall bearers were Messrs. J. L. Boyes, W. H. Dunbar, S. E. Scott, W. B. Sills, S. McKim, and N. Bradshaw.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Clark is survived by her aunt, Miss Gibbs, Napanee, and a sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Preston, Vankleek Hill.

THE MILLS HATCHERY

On Wednesday, March 21st, we took off our first chicks, with a 61% hatch from 600 eggs set; the best tray giving us 73 fine fluffy chicks from 96 eggs set, or 76% hatch. These eggs were all laid in February, and as hatches giving 50% this early in the season are considered good, we feel justified in saying that you can make no mistake in letting us do your hatching for you. We have capacity for 36000 eggs, and can handle any number you desire to set, but as our space is being rapidly filled up, let us suggest that you order your space early.

We can supply you with Chicks from blood tested hens. Let us have your order now.

ENTERPRISE W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. S. Reid, on March 14th. The President, Mrs. H. A. Carscallen, took charge of the meeting.

After devotional exercises and routine of business, Mrs. Bunt gave a very interesting paper on "Christian Stewardship". A few of her points:—How harshly we condemn those who being entrusted with the funds of another who basely betray that trust; what witness are we His stewards making by the lives we are living; are we giving God His share of our money, our time and talents. Prayer is the strongest weapon Satan has to combind with. She concluded with an appeal to us to be loyal to our "Master", that we may not be ashamed to give an account of our stewardship of money, of prayer, of service, and of charity, She stressed the importance of being charitable in all things.

The Secretary read a paper written by Mrs. McKay, on the 23rd Psalm.

Rev. Mr. Bunt spoke very briefly on the work of the Mission at Oshawa among the Ukrainians. He eulogized the Woman's Missionary Society, and the work she is doing. Mrs. Reid read the 3rd chapter of the Study Book.

The meeting was closed with singing and prayer. Refreshments were served by the hostess. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. Reid for her kind hospitality.

The same evening a committee met and arranged for a quilting that was held in the basement of the church, March 22nd. There were a large number in attendance. Besides the four quilts, a very pleasant and sociable afternoon was spent. A good supper was provided for the small sum of fifteen cents. We were pleased to have with us Mrs. E. Hanna, Mrs. Ross Hanna and little Margaret, of Wesley.

OBITUARY

Mrs. (Dr.) Ming.

Genuine sorrow came to the hearts of a large circle of her friends on Monday last, on learning of the sudden death of Katherine Duckworth, wife of Dr. E. Ming, M.P.P. While for some months she has not been in good health, deceased was in her usual health even up to the very moment of her death, being engaged in her regular household duties when stricken. As a whole hearted, sympathetic neighbor and friend, we may safely say she was not excelled in town. To the poor boy, particularly, she was a genuine friend. Not so long ago she gave a regular banquet to fourteen boys, and when remonstrated with for giving so much of her strength and trouble in this way, said, "They are all some mother's boys, and it may do them good."

No sacrifice was too great for her, if the boy could be helped. Mrs. Ming was one of the three surviving members of the original Ladies' Aid of Grace Church, and has been a regular, helpful member continuously ever since. She will be greatly missed in this and all other Church work. Messages expressive of regret and sympathy were received from a great number of members of the Provincial House of Parliament, now in session, including one from the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, one from W. E. N. Sinclair, leader of the opposition, one from J. G. Lethbridge, leader of Progressives, one from P. Pontaine, one from Hon. J. S. Martin, and one from Hon. W. F. Nickle.

The death of Mrs. Ming is the first break in a family of ten brothers and sisters. Besides her sorrowing husband, deceased is survived by one son, Mr. L. H. Ming, B.A., of Ottawa; her only daughter, Florence, having predeceased her some years ago.

From Grace Church, the church she so greatly loved, was filled at the funeral service on Thursday afternoon, the service being conducted by her Pastor, the Rev. W. P. Woodger, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Boyce, B.A., of Brighton, the Rev. Mr. Terrill, of Consecon, and town ministers.

The floral tributes were beautiful beyond description, there being about fifty separate pieces, from the elaborate Government and Ministerial wreaths to the handful of violets from loving friends.

With others, the Beaver extends sympathy to the Doctor, and all who are so greatly bereaved.

Y. P. S. OF CONWAY AND SILLSVILLE

The eighth meeting of the Young People's Society was held on March 23rd, at the home of Mrs. Thos. Mellow, Conway, with the President presiding.

Games were played for an hour preceding the meeting. The meeting opened in the customary way, and after the usual routine of business, the current events were well given by Nellie Graham.

Leonard Mellow gave an excellent article on "The Metallurgy of Iron and Steel", a treatise which was both interesting and easily understood by the audience.

After the excellent lunch had been served, the meeting broke up.

The play, "The Country Cure", which the Society presented on March 16th, at Sillsville, was a success in every way. The characters were presented in excellent style, and the costumes left nothing to be desired. Besides the play there were songs and readings. A large number were present, and the receipts were very pleasing.

YARKER-COLEBROOK WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Yarker-Colebrooke Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Alfred Martin, at Yarker, on March 22nd. with thirty members and two visitors present, and the President, Mrs. N. Boyce, in the chair.

The meeting opened as usual by singing the Opening Ode, and the minutes of the last meeting were adopted.

The roll call was answered by giving a house cleaning hint, which was very timely and helpful at this season of the year. Two new members were added to the roll.

Several letters of appreciation for fruit sent to the sick were read by the Secretary.

After the usual business meeting, an entertaining programme was given, including readings by Mrs. F. Snyder, Mrs. Fardell and Miss Vivian Clark. These were very interesting. After the programme, lunch was served by the committee and the hostess, and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

The Institute are planning to put on their popular play, "Among the Breakers," in Newburgh after Easter. Further particulars of this will be given later.

A catalogue of farming implements sent out by a manufacturer found its way to a remote rural village, where it was evidently received with interest, for the firm got back a carefully-written, if somewhat slumsily expressed, letter, asking for further particulars about one of the articles advertised.

To this, in the usual course of business, was sent a typewritten answer.

By return of post the manufacturers received this reply : "You neet not print your letters to me. I can read writing !"

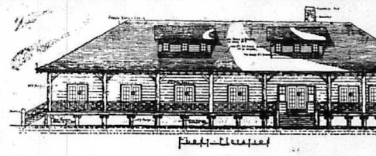
New Buildings for Jasper Park Lodge



Because approximately 10,000 people were accommodated at Jasper Park Lodge during the season of 1927, to say nothing of another 500 or so who were unable to secure accommodations at the time they desired to visit Canada's largest and finest National Park, it has become necessary to increase the accommodation at the Lodge, and four new buildings will be constructed between now and the opening of the 1928 season.

The popularity of Jasper National Park has grown tremendously since the charms of this magnificent natural playground have become better known. To provide accommodation for those who desired to visit this wonderland, the Canadian National Railways built and operate Jasper Park Lodge on the shore of beautiful Lac Beauvert, where the visitor finds every comfort of the modern city hotel awaiting him in surroundings of natural grandeur. With the additions being made this year to the buildings of Jasper Park Lodge, there will be accommodation for approximately 500 guests, and at the same time, additions to outlying camps are being made which will increase the facilities for caring for the ever-increasing number of people who seize the opportunities afforded of enjoying trail trips to distant beauty spots in the Park.

Announcement is made by Walter Pratt, General Manager and A. S. McLean, General Superintendent of Hotels, that this year the Lodge buildings will be increased by one 16-room cabin; one 10-room cabin and by a special building which will care for parties who go to the Lodge, taking with them their staff of servants, and desiring accommodation of a special class.

In addition to these, a golf club house is being constructed, which will provide necessary accommodation for the growing number of people who play over this, Canada's finest scenic golf course.

Outlying accommodation which is being provided or increased, includes additional accommodation at Maligne Lake camp, permanent buildings at Medicine Lake and Shovel Pass camps on the Maligne Lake trail, and a base camp on the Mount Robson-Berg Lake trail which will be reached either from Mount Robson station on the Vancouver line, or Emperor station on the Prince Rupert line. There will also be a permanent camp at Kinney Lake on the Berg Lake trail, so that parties journeying in from the railway to Berg Lake may break their journey there if they desire.

Logs and other material for these buildings are on the ground, the logs having been hauled down from the mountains for that purpose during the present winter, and the buildings will be ready for occupation when Jasper Park Lodge opens on May 21.

The golf club house (shown above) which is to be constructed, adjacent to the first tee of the splendid 18-hole golf course at Jasper Park Lodge has been found necessary for the comfort and convenience of the thousands of golfers who play over this course during a season. While none of the cabins of Jasper Park Lodge are very far removed from the golf course, it was considered advisable to have a club house, set aside for the golfers and equipped with lockers, showers and dressing rooms, lounge and verandahs where the golfers could make themselves comfortable, either while awaiting their turn to play off or between their rounds. The new club house building, which will be 100 x 30 feet, includes all of the facilities necessary for the comfort and convenience of those who will make use of it. From its wide verandahs there will be a clear view of the first and eighteenth fairways. Entering from the verandah, the golfer will step into a hall, from which a door leads off to the spacious lounge room with its open fireplace. This room will be comfortably furnished with chairs, tables and settees in keeping with the purpose for which it is designed. The plans show a well-lighted, comfortable room which will have everything necessary for the comfort and convenience of men and women golfers.

During the season of 1927, approximately 9,000 rounds of golf were played over the Jasper course by 7,500 players, which was an increase of 2,500 players over the 1926 total.

BUYING COMPANY SHARES

The modern tendency in industry seems to be toward decentralization of ownership. Public utilities particularly are encouraging the widest possible distribution of their stock among employees and subscribers—the people most vitally interested in the management of the industry.

In its annual report for 1927, the Bell Telephone Company of Canada gives interesting figures on the ownership of its stock among its employees, 13,041 of whom are eligible to subscribe. Of this number, 10,137 employees—over 77 per cent are now in process of paying for 35,096 shares. Since the inauguration of this easy payment plan in 1922, 26,826 paid-up shares with a par value of $2,682,600 have been issued to Bell workers indicating the commendable extent to which this plan encourages thrift and savings.

The Honor of the Big Snows

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD.
Author of "The Danger Trail"

Copyright, 1926, by the Bobbs Merrill Co

For a sobbing breath she dropped her head upon his knees. Then suddenly she drew down his face and kissed him.

"Thank you, Jean, for what you have done."

"Whew!" gasped Jean when she had gone. "What if Iowaka had been here then?"

The day following the fight in the forest Dixon found Jean de Gravois alone and came up to him.

"Gravois, will you shake hands with me?" he said. "I want to thank you for what you did to me yesterday. I deserved it. I have licked Mike Mellese to forgive me—and I want to shake hands with you."

Jean was thunderstruck. He had never met this kind of man.

"What the deuce!" he ejaculated, when he had found his senses. "Yes, I will shake hands."

For several days after this Jean could see that Mellese made an effort to erode him. She did not visit Iowaka when he was in the cabin. Neither did she and Dixon go again into the forest. The young Englishman spend more of his time at the store, and just before the trappers began coming in he went on a three days' sledge trip with Croisset.

The change delighted Jean. The first time he met Mellese after the fight his eyes flashed pleasure.

"Jan will surely be coming home soon," he greeted her. "What if the birds tell him what happened out there on the trail?"

She flushed scarlet.

"Perhaps the same birds will tell us what has happened down on the Nelson House trail, Jean," she retorted.

"Pouf! Jan Thoreau doesn't give the snap of his small finger for the Mackveigh girl!" Jean replied, warm in defense of his friend.

"She is pretty," laughed Mellese, "and I have just learned that is why men like to—like them, I mean."

Jean strutted before her like a peacock.

"Am I pretty, Mellese?"

"No-o-o-o."

"Then why"—he shrugged his shoulders suggestively—"in the cabin"—

"Because you were brave, Jean. I love brave men."

"You were glad that I pummeled the stranger, then?"

"Come home, Jan Thoreau," he hummed softly as he went to the store. "Come home, come home, come home, for the little Mellese has grown into a woman and is hurting to use her eyes."

Among the first of the trappers to come in with his furs was MacVeigh. He brought word that Jan had gone south to spend the summer holiday at Nelson House, and Cummins told Mellese whence the message came. He did not observe the slight change that came into her face and went on:

"I don't understand this in Jan. He is needed here for the carnival. Did you know that he was going to Nelson House?"

Mellese shook her head.

"MacVeigh says they have made him an offer to go down there as chief man," continued the factor. "It is strange that he has sent no explanation to me."

It was a week after the big caribou feast before Jan returned to Lac Bain. Mellese saw him drive in from the Churchill trail, but while her heart fluttered excitedly she steeled herself to meet him with at least an equal show of the calm indifference with which he had left her six weeks before. The coolness of his leave taking still rankled bitterly in her soul, but her hair and beard had grown, covering the smooth cheeks which he had always kept closely shaved. Her eyes glowed with dull pleasure as she stood waiting for him, but there was none of the old flash and fire in them. There was a strangeness in his manner, an uneasiness in the shifting of his eyes.

"Jan!" she said.

Her voice trembled; her lips quivered. There was the old glorious pleading in her eyes, and before it Jan bowed his unkempt head and crushed her hands tightly in his own. For a half minute there was silence, and in that half minute there came a century between them. At last Jan spoke.

"I'm glad to see you again, Mellese. It has seemed like a very long time!"

He lifted his eyes. Before him the girl involuntarily shrank back and Jan freed her hands. In them she saw none of the old love glow, nothing of their old comradeship.

"You will come to supper, Jan?"

"Surely, Mellese, if you are prepared."

CHAPTER XI.

Her Promise Kept.

JAN went from the cabin. Jean de Gravois and Iowaka were watching for him, and Jean hurried across the open to meet him.

"I am coming to offer you the loan of my razor," he cried gaily. "Iowaka says that you will be taken for a bear if the trappers see you."

"A beard is good to keep off the black flies," replied Jan. It is approaching summer and the black flies love to feast upon me. Let us go down the trail, Jean. I want to speak with you."

Where there had been wood cutting in the deep spruce they sat down, facing each other. Jan spoke in French.

"I have traveled far since leaving Lac Bain," he said. "I went first to Nelson House, and from there to the Wholdais. I found them at Nelson House, but not on the Wholdais."

"What?" asked Jean, though he knew well what the other meant.

"My brothers, Jean de Gravois," answered Jan, drawing his lips until his teeth gleamed in a sneering smile. "My brothers the carrion! I saw the two at Nelson House. One of them is a half wit, and the other"—he hunched his shoulders—"is worse. Pernaud, one of the two who were at Wholdais, was killed by a Cree father last winter for dishonoring his daughter. The other disappeared. So you see, Jean de Gravois, what sort of creature is your son at Mr. Levi Thompson's. Morven!"

"I see that you are a bigger fool than ever," Jean said quietly. "Jan Thoreau, you should break my neck—and tell Mellese?"

Unflinching the men's eyes met. A dull glare came into Jan's. Slowly he unbuttoned his long knife and placed it upon the snow between his feet, with the gleaming end of the blade pointing toward Gravois. With a low cry Jean sprang to his feet.

"Do you mean that, Jan Thoreau? Do you mean to give the knife challenge to one who has staked his life for you and who loves you as a brother?"

"Yes," said Jan deliberately. "I love you, Jean, more than any other man in the world. And yet I will kill you if you betray me to Mellese!" He rose to his feet and stretched out his hands to the little Frenchman. "Jean, wouldn't you do as I am doing? Wouldn't you have done as much for Iowaka?"

"I would not have taken her love without telling her," he said then. "That is not what you and I know as honor, Jan Thoreau. But I would have gone to her, as you should now go to Mellese, and she would have opened her arms to me, as Mellese will open hers to you. That is what I would have done."

"And that is what I shall never do," said Jan decisively, turning toward the post. "I could kill myself more easily. That is what I wanted to tell you, Jean. No one but you and I must ever know."

"I would like to choke that fool of a Croisset for sending you to hunt up that couple of Wholdais," he said. "Wholdais!" grumbled Jean.

"It was best for me."

They saw Mellese leaving Iowaka's home when they came from the forest. Both waved their hands to her, and Jan cut across the open to the store.

Jean went to the Cummins cabin as soon as he was sure that he was not observed. There was little of the old gayety in his manner as he greeted Mellese. He noted, too, that the girl was not her natural self. There was a redness under her eyes which told him that she had been crying.

"Mellese," he said at last, speaking to her with his eyes fixed on the cap he was twisting in his fingers, "there has come a great change over Jan."

"A very great change, Jean. If I were to guess I should say that his heart had been broken down on the Nelson trail."

Gravois caught the sharp meaning in her voice, which trembled a little as she spoke. He was before her in an instant, his cap fallen to the floor, his eyes blazing as he caught her by the arms.

"Yes, the heart of Jan Thoreau is broken," he cried. "But it has been broken by nothing that lives on the Nelson House trail. It is broken because of—you!"

"I?" Mellese drew back from him with a breathless cry. "I—I have broken"—

"I did not say that," interrupted Jean. "I say that it is broken because of you. If only I might tell you!"

"Do—do, Jean! Please tell me!" She put her hands on his shoulders. Her eyes implored him. "Tell me what I have done—what can I do, Jean?"

"I can say that much to you, and no more," he said quietly. "Only know this, my dear—that there is a great grief eating at the soul of Jan Thoreau, and that because of this grief he is changed. I know what that grief is, but I am pledged never to reveal it. It is for you to find out, and to do this, above all else—let him know that you love him. Not as a sister any longer, Mellese, but as a woman!"

Gravois did not stay to see the effect of his last words. Cummins and Jan came in together at supper time. The factor was in high humor. An Indian from the Porcupine had brought in two silver foxes that morning, and he was immensely pleased at Jan's return, a combination of incidents which put him in the best of moods.

Mellese sat opposite Jan at the table. She had twisted a sprig of red berries into her glossy braid, and a cluster of it nestled at her throat, but Jan gave no sign that he had noticed this little fatur, which was meant entirely for him.

"The MacVeigh put in his new trap line?" Cummins inquired after asking Jan many questions about his trip.

"It was MacVeigh who brought in word of you."

Mr. Ross. Plans were made for a social evening, to be held on Friday night, March 30th, in the Institute Community Hall. Part of the programme will consist of a Mock Trial, under the direction of the Institute. Everybody welcome. The programme for the afternoon was much enjoyed by all. Those contributing were Rev. Mr. Ross, Mrs. Claude Thompson, Mrs. Wilfred Spring and Mrs. Clarence Thompson. The saleslady being absent, the contents of the sale-filling bag were displayed by the President. A number of articles were sold, making the collection for the day $11.00. The meeting closed with the social half-hour, much repairing to the tables, all feeling that it had been an afternoon well spent.

Jock was learning to play the bagpipes. One night while he was struggling about the room, afraid for all he was worth, his wife attempted a mild and very belated protest.

"That's an awful noise you're making," she said.

Jock sat down and took off his boots, then got up and resumed his piping in his stockinged feet.

ODESSA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The postponed meeting of the Odessa Branch was held in the Library on March 21st. Some of the members from Wilton came over and assisted in the programme. They are surely enthusiastic institute workers as the roads were anything but good, but the attendance nevertheless was good.

After the opening the roll call was answered by "something wise or otherwise", the response being a variety of both. The most of the business was left over till the next meeting.

As we are somewhat handicaped for music at the library, the young ladies from Wilton brought string instruments with them. Miss E. Emberley certainly delighted everyone with her playing.

Mrs. W. C. Snider gave a carefully prepared paper on "What to Wear and What Not to Wear". She gave many suggestions as to colors, materials, etc.

Mrs. Archie Simmons gave the always popular paper on "Current Events".

The Misses Ethel and Helen Babcock sang beautifully "My Blue Ridge Mountain Home", the former playing the accompaniment.

Mr. Holmes, Manager of the Branch of the Royal Bank in Odessa, was present, and gave a very instructive talk on "Banking", explaining many practical things every woman should know. He brought a couple of pamphlets, "The Use of a Bank", and "That" which were distributed after the meeting. "Thrift and Value of It", as expressed by Sir Harry Louder, was read by Mrs. Nelson Smith, and contained much humor and value.

Mrs. Mabee moved a vote of thanks to the Wilton ladies and Mr. Holmes for helping in our meeting. This was seconded by Miss L. Aylsworth, and approved by a hearty applause.

The next meeting will be held on April 4th. There is to be a Housedress and Apron Parade, with a prize given. Roll call, "Garden and Poultry Hint" Also there is to be an exchange of seeds and bulbs.

The institute also had the short course in Millinery, with Mrs. Spring in charge. Twenty-three took advantage of the class, and nearly all had their hats completed. Mrs. Spring stead at the beginning said that the object of the class was not only the each one might make a hat, but the instruction from the first part of hat to be made till finished was worth the time spent.

Part of the success of the class was due to Mrs. Lee, Librarian, who kindly loaned her sewing machine and anything that was required.

"Did your wife accept you the first time you proposed?"

"No; I have only myself to blame."

EASTERN CANADA GARDENING SERVICE

Foliage As A Screen.

Too often the average garden loads up to a high board fence, garage, or chicken house, which, no matter how bright the display of flowers, looms up prominently from every angle. Such a disfigurement is not at all necessary, and it can often be turned to advantage. Where the gardener is the owner of the property, permanent screens can be trained over these affairs by utilizing Boston Ivy, Virginia Creeper, Dutchman's Pipe, Wild Clematis, and similar perennial vines. Even the person who expects to move next year can hide any unsightly background by using morning glories, wild hops, scarlet runner beans, sweet peas, Dolichos Lablab or hyacinth bean, which will grow rapidly, providing foliage and flowers to cover anything they are attached to. Sweet peas and morning glories can only be used on smaller buildings or fences, as they will not grow much over five feet, but the others named will run up to twenty feet, the hyacinth bean doing this easily and providing an abundant show of white, purple and lilac flower-spikes as well. For a standing screen, such as is necessary in front of a poultry fence or between gardens where there is no fence, sunflowers, cosmos, African marigolds, larkspur, dahlias and giant hollyhocks may be used. To thicken up some of the climbers, such as the scarlet runner beans, use climbing nasturtiums, which will benefit from some support.

Hints on Pruning.

This is the month for pruning in the small garden and larger place too. All of the dead canes should be removed from the raspberry patch as well as the spindly ones among the new growth. Some of the older wood should be cut away from the gooseberries and currants. Grapes must be pruned early to avoid excessive bleeding. These vines should be cut back to a mere skeleton as the fruit is borne on the wood grown this year. Fruit trees should be opened up to let in sunlight and air. In pruning trees, one should remember that ordinarily the flowers are borne on the new wood of the season. It should be the aim, therefore, to secure strong shoots for flower bearing, and not too many per plant; otherwise, small, weak stems and inferior flowers will result. Pruning of the hybrid perpetuals should be done early in the Spring, just before the new growth is appearing. Cut each cane back to six or eight buds from the ground, always cutting just above a bud pointing outward. The weaker growing hybrid teas are pruned more severly. If size and high quality of flowers are sought, all but five shoots are cut to the base, and each of these remaining five is cut back to three or four buds. All dead wood or weak shoots, or branches that cross each other should be removed in any case.

Advantages of Vegetable Gardeh.

Perhaps it may be more economical to buy fresh vegetables in the market if one figures his time is worth a lot of his daily income, but in this case with those vegetables which lose their crispness and flavour in a few hours there is a big disadvantage. One cannot buy quality in corn, for instance; to get it at its best one must step out of the garden right at the door. The same is true of young carrots, peas, beans, lettuce, spinach, and in fact almost every vegetable that grows early in the year. Then there is another advantage in having a garden within a few feet of the back door. So often, one forgets to order some vegetables at the store, particularly onions, or something needed for flavouring. The kitchen garden will supply any want in this connection. Canadian families, particularly those with young children, have found that they need more fresh vegetables. There is no secret of production there. The main things needed is a well prepared garden, preferably with open soil, and a sunny position. Plant the seed at the time advised in the catalogues, apply some quickly available fertilizer like nitrate of soda, cultivate well, water when necessary, and a supply of fresh vegetables is assured.

No Better Medicine For Little Ones

Is What Thousands of Mothers Say of Baby's Own Tablets.

A medicine for the baby or growing child that the mother can feel assured is absolutely safe as well as efficient—is found in Baby's Own Tablets. Baby's Own Tablets are prized by thousands of mothers throughout the country. These mothers have found by actual experience that there is no other medicine for little ones to equal them. Once a mother has used them for her children she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Charles Hutt, Tancook Island, N.S., writes :—"I have ten children, the baby being just six months old. I have used Baby's Own Tablets for them for the past 20 years and can truthfully say that I know of no better medicine for little ones. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all other mothers to do so."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or will be mailed upon receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ADOLPHUSTOWN Y.P.S.

The Young People's Society met at the home of Mrs. T. N. Davis, Thursday evening, March 15th, with a good attendance. The house was tastefully decorated with green, in honor of St. Patrick's Day. The guests also wore a badge of the same color. The Literary and Devotional programmes were omitted, and it became a typical Irish evening. Games were enjoyed in the early part of the evening, after which several contests were put on, musical and round games completing a very enjoyable evening. Refreshments were served, which consisted of Irish stew, pickles, jelly, coffee, etc., and the guests departed home, thanking the hostess for the splendid time, and all are looking forward to the St. Patrick's social next year.

There's a charming bit of country
That is known as Erin's Isle,
Where merry winds make music,
And the fairies dance the while.
'Tis the Land of the Shamrock,
Of the Shamrock, and Hilleen,
And the boys and girls show loyalty
A-wearin' of the green.

Sure, "The Wearing of the Green" is sung
Wherever there is found
A loyal son of Erin's Isle
The whole wide world around.
So, although 'tis not our country,
We'll join with their's our lay,
And sing "The Wearing of the Green"
On good St. Patrick's Day.

DIRTY EGGS A HANDICAP TO THE TRADE

That one of the most aggravating problems confronting the egg trade at the present time is the far too frequent marketing of dirty eggs, is the opinion of Mr. W. A. Brown, Chief of the Poultry Division of the Dominion Live Stock Branch. Farmers should realize, states Mr. Brown, that they can do much towards improving the egg industry by taking steps to prevent the production and marketing of dirty eggs and by discontinuing the very undesirable practice of washing eggs before marketing.

Under any circumstances, it is inevitable that a few slightly dirty or stained eggs will appear. But the farmer who consistently produces and markets an unusually high grade does not realize the bad effect of this practice on his market. These eggs are unpopular with consumers and in many cities it is almost impossible to sell them at any price. Washed eggs are even more dangerous as the poultry industry than dirty ones. Washing destroys the natural protective bloom of the egg shell and the shell being damp, mould spores often enter causing the egg to become unfit for food.

At the same time it is not difficult to prevent the production of dirty eggs. What is needed is an abundance of clean, dry litter on the floor, plenty of nests, about one to every six hens, clean straw in the nests, and frequent gathering of the eggs.

SOME CAUSES OF SOFT PORK

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Just what factors are responsible for the large number of soft pigs which sometimes arrive at the abbatoirs are not easy to determine, and unless the origin of these hogs is traced back through the various trade channels to their source, the contributing causes cannot be established definitely. Lacking facilities to investigate the problem from that angle, the alternative is to establish feeding conditions, which from experience have demonstrated that they are faulty, and by checking up on the carcasses, determine if these are the actual faults.

It has been observed that many Western hogs produce soft sides, and as it is a common practice to use rather restricted rations, consisting, in many instances, of single grains, this information was used as the basis upon which to conduct the investigation. It must not be assumed from the above statement that poor judgment in the selection and use of feeds is limited to the West, as such is not the case.

Tests recently conducted at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa with such single feeds as ground oats, ground barley and middlings, and compared with mixed meal rations, indicated that single feeds as a class are more conducive to producing well selected mixed meal rations. Also, it was found that the addition of buttermilk to these feeds decreased the percentage of soft sides.

Previous tests at this Farm indicated that corn or beans, when comprising all or a major part of the ration, had a tendency to produce softness. Hogs on the other hand, the use of good grain rations, and the supplementing of the ration with milk or succulence in some form, counteracted in a marked degree any tendency towards softness.

There also appears to be an intimate relationship between the stage of maturity or the physical condition of the hog and the firmness of flesh. Hogs which are unfinished or not carrying sufficient fat are frequently soft when slaughtered.

Evidence also points to the fact that unthrifty or poor doing hogs are fruitful sources of soft sides.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Stephen H. Robbin.

Joana E., relict of the late Stephen H. Robbin, passed peacefully away on Sunday morning, March 11th, 1928, at 5 o'clock, aged seventy-five years and five months. The late Mrs. Robbin before coming to Victoria in 1892 resided in Napanee, Ont., where her husband conducted a tailoring and gents furnishing store, and was the senior member in the firm of Robbin & Ford. She was the daughter of the late Donald McLiver and Joana Price, and is survived by one brother, Alex. McLiver, Toronto; and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Gardner, Hartford, Conn., and Miss Jane McLiver, E. Paso, Texas. Services were held yesterday at the Thomson Funeral Home, 1E25 Quadra Street, Rev. A. de B. Owen conducted the service, during which a solo was sung by Mrs. S. M. Merton, "Beyond the Dawn" (Sanderson). Lawton Partington presided at the organ. There were many friends present and beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and bearer. Messrs. H. S. Pringle, Fred Merritt, J. Wild and Richard Daverne acted as pallbearers. Interment was in Ross Bay Cemetery, where her husband, who predeceased her in 1906, is buried.—Victoria Daily Times, Victoria, B.C.

Mrs. Margaret Walker.

On Saturday, March 10th, 1928, Mrs. Margaret Walker passed peacefully away, after a few months' illness, at her home on East street, Napanee, in her 75th year.

Deceased who was born in Scotland, came to this country several years ago. After being in Canada a few years she was married to the late John Walker, of Hinch, in the Township of Camden, where she spent the greater part of her life. She was a kind neighbor and a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church, Camden V., and was very anxious and zealous for its welfare, doing all she could to advance the interests of her church. The pastor and his wife received a hearty welcome at her home, and she was often greatly attached to them, especially to the late Rev. and Mrs. Gandier, who presided over the charge with which this church was connected for a great many years.

After leaving Hinch and moving to Sharp's Corners she became a regular attendant at the mid-week services in connection with the Methodist Church. The late Mrs. Walker will long be remembered for her good influence in that neighborhood, being regarded by the Methodist congregation as a sincere Christian. A couple of years ago she became a resident of Napanee, where she endeared herself to several residents of the town who regretted to hear of her passing. She will be greatly missed in the home for her kindness and patience, taking an interest in everyone. How often she will be missed at the family circle, where her voice was so often heard as her heart was uplifted to God in prayer. Her views seemed to become broader and her christian character deeper during her advancing years. She was very fond of reading God's Word, and her friends will never forget her beautiful experience during the past few months, "the faith of God's presence" shining in her room after retiring at night. The trials of life are o'er, and surely she has gone home to be forever with her Saviour.

Two sons, Messrs. Wm. Walker, Napanee, and Chas. Walker, Newburgh, are left to mourn the loss of a devoted and unselfish mother. Her husband and an only daughter, Margaret, predeceased her several years ago.

The impressive funeral service at the home of her son, East street, was conducted by her pastor, Rev. W. P. Woodger, and was attended by several of her old neighbors and friends from the country and town, who came to pay their last respects to the departed. The remains were laid to rest by the pall-bearers, Messrs. J. Graham, J. Joyce, S. Baird, J. Frisken, F. Card and J. Stalker in Riverview vault, to await interment in the spring.

Address and Presentation

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Hagerman were completely taken by surprise, when they returned to their home in John St., Oshawa, on Thursday evening, March 22nd, and found to greet them about twenty-five of their friends and neighbours, who had gathered there to celebrate their sixth wedding anniversary. After games and dancing were indulged in, Mr. and Mrs. Hagerman were called to the middle of the room, where the following address was read by Mr. Archie Cook :—

Dear Jessie and Abe.—We, your friends and neighbours, have gathered here this evening, on the eve of your sixth anniversary. We feel we could not let this occasion pass without showing some love and esteem for you. As a little remembrance we ask you to accept this electric table lamp, which we hope will be useful to you, as it may it remind you of your friends in Oshawa.

Wishing you many more years of happy wedded life.

Signed on behalf of your friends.

MRS. SKLLECK.
MRS. A. C. COOK.

In a few well chosen words Mr. Hagerman thanked his wife, thanked the friends for such a lovely gift.

After lunch, all departed to their homes, wishing them many more years of happy wedded life.

Mother was administering medicine in the form of powder.

"You wouldn't catch me making such a fuss over a little powder," she coaxed.

"No—nor me, Mummy, if I just had to rub it on my face."

It seems hardly fair

Fathers and mothers used to look forward bravely, but not always happily, to the time when the boys and girls would go away to school in a distant city. It so often meant a break in the habits of home life—a sore trial.

Thanks to Long Distance—the boys and girls at school or college can still be kept within the family circle.

But don't expect them to pay for Long Distance calls out of their slender allowances. That seems hardly fair. The demands upon their none too fat purses are too frequent and too insistent.

Fix a day and hour when you will call them, and you'll find them eager to talk with you and welcoming the voice that can best cheer them on their way.

SICK ABED EIGHT MONTHS

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Could Do All Her Work and Gained in Weight

Melfort, Saskatchewan. — "I had inward troubles, headaches and severe pains in my back and sides. I was so sick generally that I could not sit up and I was in bed most of the time for eight months. An aunt came to visit and help me as I was unable to attend to my baby and could not do my work. She told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two bottles I could get up and dress myself. I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. When I first took the medicine I only weighed seventy-eight pounds. Now I weigh twice as much. If I get out of sorts or weary and can't sleep I always take another bottle of the Vegetable Compound. I find it wonderfully good for female troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. I will be only too glad to answer any letters I receive asking about it."—Mrs. WILLIAM RITCHIE, Box 486, Melfort, Saskatchewan. C

OBITUARY.

Rev. A. H. Coleman, M.A.

Rev. Abel Henry Coleman, M.A., father of Ven. Archdeacon J. H. H. Coleman, Rector of St. Paul's, Kingston, and grandfather of Rev. J. K. Coleman, incumbent at Sharbot Lake, who has not been in good health for some time, passed away on Saturday morning last, March 24th, 1928, in the Kingston General Hospital.

Rev. Mr. Coleman took his B.A. degree from Trinity College, Toronto, in 1869, and obtained his M.A. in 1886. His first charge was of the mission station at Vankleek Hill, which he held from 1869 to 1872, from where he was sent as incumbent at Leeds until 1878, afterwards being transferred to Rosslyn, where he stayed until 1879. He was in charge of the church at North Augusta from 1879 to 1889, and during this period did magnificent work, the result of which was the erection of the substantial stone church which stands in this parish as a tribute to his efforts. In 1889 he was appointed rector of Richmond, where he stayed until 1892, when he went to Arnprior, afterwards being transferred to Pequois in 1901, and to Hintonburgh in 1903, resigning from the active ministry in 1904. He was highly esteemed throughout his long and faithful service as a parish priest, and there are few men in the Church which he served so long, who was so loved and esteemed by his fellow clergy. Deceased made many friends in Napanee during his residence here, which was during the ministry of his son, as Vicar of St. Mary Magdalene Church. His passing will be mourned by many.

ALICE SIT-BY-THE-FIRE

BARRIE'S PLAY AT ST. ANDREW'S

On Monday evening, the "Little Theatre Players" of Belleville, entertained a large audience at St. Andrew's with a splendid presentation of Barrie's play, "Alice Sit by the Fire". The play itself is in the best Barrie style, kindly, humorous, and interesting, and it was acted in an artistic and realistic manner by this group of amateur players.

The stage setting was well done, and the lighting effects secured by discussing spotlights on the stage, produced a pleasing and vivid appearance.

The cast was well balanced, each part seemed to have just the proper character. John Dewar as Robert Gray, and Sylvia Ross as Alice Gray, played the leading roles, and did so with a precision and grace that would do credit to those much older and more experienced in acting. But mention of these is not to discount that which the others performed, as each and every one of the nine who took part acted without error and contributed to the harmony of the whole.

The final play of the better sort, acted by a group of young people, shows what can be done to foster good acting and a high interpretative stage work by amateurs.

Much of the success though of the undertaking was due to the careful preparation of the stage manager, Charles Kinnear, and the director, Murray Bonnycastle.

The cast was as follows :—

Amy Grey	Alice McIntosh
Cosmo Grey	Gardiner Duff
Ginevra Dunbar	Gerty Ketcheson
Nurse	Marion Ketcheson
Alice Grey	Sylvia Ross
Fanny	Mary-Lou Robinson
Robert Grey	John Dewar
Steve Rollo	John Redfern
Richardson	Agnes Gallagher

UNITED YOUNG PEOPLE

The three United Young People's Societies of the town met in St. Andrew's on Monday evening, and were addressed by the President of the Conference Committee on Young People's work, Mr. Holton, and by Mr. Dixon, the President of the Presbytery Committee. Musical numbers were given by Mr. Reginal Wiseman, of Grace Church and Miss Lenore Black, of Trinity. The speakers reviewed the work of the young people in the Conference since the formation of the United Church, and urged the people of the churches here to a deeper appreciation of the part they are playing in the great organization, which in this Conference has about 17,000 members.

The fraternal visit of these two leaders was much valued by those present, and as a result, a new interest is being taken in the larger aspect of the United Church. A choice and varied programme by C. A. Gales, Monologist; J. Silverman, Tenor Soloist; Bobbie Howarth, Comedian. Adults 35c., children 20c. Commence at 8 o'clock. 13a

The Conference Committee has secured the camp site at Sharbot Lake, and it is intended to make this a real centre of leadership training and recreation in the coming years.

Presentation and Address

At a regular meeting of Napanee Lodge, No. 86, I.O.O.F., held on Tuesday evening of last week, a very pleasant event took place, when Prof. W. T. Baird was made the recipient of a handsome black leather music portfolio, accompanied by an appropriate address. He has been lodge pianist for a good many years, and his services have been much appreciated by the members.

Following is a copy of the address :

Napanee, Mar. 19th, 1928.

Prof. W. T. Baird,

Napanee, Ontario.

Dear Sir and Brother,—The officers and members of Napanee Lodge, No. 86, I.O.O.F., congratulate you upon your engagement as organist and choir leader of St. John's United Church, Stratford, a promotion which we trust will prove of inestimable value to yourself and family.

Your co-operation with us during your membership in our Lodge has been greatly appreciated. Your interest has stimulated your brethren in the work of Oddfellowship, and your services, as pianist, have given an added zest to our meetings. We have noticed in our contact with you that you have a keen appreciation of high standards and you have by your example assisted in maintaining them in our Lodge.

It is with keen regret we bid you farewell, but we hope in the larger sphere of city life you will make as many warm friends as you have made in Napanee, where, not only in Lodge and Church circles, but in the community, you have given valuable assistance wherever you had the opportunity to serve.

We extend our best wishes to yourself and your family through the journey of life, and hope that associations with Napanee and our Brotherhood will occasion very pleasant memories in your future.

We ask you to accept this portfolio as a slight token of our fraternal regard, and wish you God speed.

Signed on behalf of Napanee Lodge, No. 86, I.O.O.F.

JAS. McGILLIVRAY, Noble Grand.

F. W. BARRETT, Recording Secretary.

A SCHEME THAT IS APPRECIATED.

Sickness, accident, pension and death benefits paid out of the fund provided by the Bell Telephone Company for the protection of its 14,500 employees and their dependants, amounted in 1927 to $290,941. Perhaps the best evidence of employee appreciation of the Company's Benefit Plan is to be found in the record of continuous service amongst Bell workers, more than one-quarter having served the Dominion with an equal record for long term service among its employees.

DEPARTMENT STORE

How Do You Do, "Mr. Clothes Buyer" !

Here is a message for you that will mean a saving of dollars on your Spring and Summer clothes requirements. To stimulate interest in the special display of the new Spring and Summer suitings and topcoatings of the producers of the well known "Clothes of Quality" brand, Canada's largest wholesale tailoring organization, "Extra Pants Free" will be given at our store with every suit ordered on Saturday, March 31st. We have also arranged to have the trained representative of the designer, Mr. R. H. MacLean, who will help you choose from the greatest selection of patterns, fabrics, and styles that this well known tailoring house has ever shown, lively or conservative cloths, plenty of blues and greys, mostly British importations from England's most prominent mills. He will carefully take your measurements, display suit and topcoat models that will enable you to judge the exceptional tailoring value offered by the makers of "Clothes of Quality". Prices range from $24.00 up. Every garment tailored to individual measurements and guaranteed to fit. Be at our store —don't miss this. If you are not satisfied, you will not be out one penny.

Sammy Cohen and Ted McNamara are now in the army in "The Gay Retreat," Fox Films feature comedy. Also a Good Comedy.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

ONE SHOW ONLY AT 8 O'CLOCK

The war has been film-treated in varying degrees from the brutality of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" to the film war-to-end-war of "What Price Glory?" "Roses of Picardy" treats the war from an entirely new angle, giving a wholly human impression of its effect on the lives of soldiers and civilians. Also a 2-reel Comedy. Special Music. Adults 35c., children 20c.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

Natalie Kingston, former premier dancer of the New York Winter Garden, was loaned to Samuel Goldwyn for the role of Donna Beatriz in "The Night of Love." Also a 2-reel Comedy.

The Famous Sheffield Strain White Leghorns is the product of 20 years careful selection and breeding for larger fowl—larger white eggs—higher production over a longer period—more vigor and health—all that goes to make more profit for the poultry keeper.

Do not be satisfied with interior or untried stock. Our prices are unusually reasonable for high quality body chicks.

Every egg we hatch is from yearling or older hens of Sheffield Strain, on our own plant.

We are breeding from over 900 hens this season. Each of these birds has passed our rigid tests. All weigh 4 lbs or more, are good type and lay large numbers of large white eggs.

The price of Sheffield Baby Chicks for April is $18.00 per hundred. 10% reduction in quantities of 300 or more.

Order early. 12a

I have interviewed a number of citizens during the past few days with a view to get a fair estimate of how many are in favor of Daylight Saving Time, and there are not a few. To get a fair estimate also from those who are not in favor, and there are sufficiently interested in this subject to take the trouble to address a postcard to the Mayor, stating their views, or else be in favor of Daylight Saving Time. The number of cards received will be taken as a basis for my report to the Council.

At the close of the meeting of the Dominion Board of the W. M. S. of the United Church of Canada, the delegates left with a feeling of sadness that not all the requests for help could be granted, and they long for the time when they can meet with a blank cheque book and fill it out with unlimited sums for the needs of all concerned. It is not true that back of all these urgent requirements, is the deep need, in our own souls, for a further waiting upon God? The closer the fellowship we have with Jesus Christ, the brighter will burn the flame of Christian service, and the more inexhaustible will become the gifts, whereby that service may be rendered. So let us all accept the message with which the Board closed its session, "If any man love me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what you will, and it shall be done unto you".

There will be a special Good Friday service in the United Church this week from 2 to 3 p.m.

REVIEW OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Toronto, March 30th, 1928.

Facing a rebuttal that left no room for doubt as to the wisdom of the government in pursuing the timber policy in connection with the industry, W. E. N. Sinclair was obliged in the Legislature this week to withdraw his motion calling for the appointment of a special committee or commission to make a survey of the administration of the Department of Lands and Forests. Mr. Sinclair, in debating his motion, contended that an explanation was forthcoming in connection with the course pursued in the disposal of the timber wealth of the Province. The Liberal Leader criticized the government for granting limits when only one tender was received.

Replying in such terms as to make the pressure of the motion impossible, Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests stated that the policy of the government was that the market was not at present favorable for the sale of timber limits. Lumber companies were going out of business for the simple reason that following the war they had bought stumpage at prices which made present day operation impossible. The government had therefore taken the attitude that while no timber limits were being sold, in cases where companies had established themselves had built up towns and were giving employment to thousands, some action was necessary to provide employment for citizens of Ontario. Accordingly, where lumber companies could show that they needed additional timber to keep their mills in operation, limits were granted at good prices. In each case the lumber companies had been protected by the establishment of an "upset" price by the government.

"These firms buy pulpwood by the cord and timber by the thousand feet," stated the Minister, "the matter of extreme importance is the upset price; that when we put property up for sale it should be with a proper upset price". We cannot allow our lumber villages to disappear and it would not be fair to take advantage of our right to cancel contracts."

Druglers physicians practising in the Province of Ontario must report communicable diseases under the provision of a new sub-section of the Public Health Act introduced in the Legislature by Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health. Present Statute merely stated that "any legally qualified medical practitioner" should be so responsible.

Following the adjustment of several disputes that had arisen in various sections of the province as a result of church union, Premier Ferguson has announced in the Legislature the hope that there will be no private bills introduced as a result of church controversies at the next session of the House.

"I think it is well that the Legislature should take cognizance of the fact that it is now three years since Confederation was passed in this House and a tribunal for adjustment appointed," stated the Premier. "There has been ample time to consider and move in connection with any grievance, and I am sure that you will agree that neither this legislature nor any committee should sit as a court of review. May I now express the hope that we will not have this controversy appear again in the Legislature, but where there is disagreement or friction they will bend their efforts towards adjustment."

Realizing that there has been a curtailment of horse breeding in the Province of Ontario in the past decade and that it has been found necessary to import great numbers of commercial horses to supply the Ontario market, the Ontario Department of Agriculture and the Dominion Department of Agriculture have inaugurated a joint policy for the furnishing of financial aid to the owners of good stallions as a means of promoting and stimulating interest in the industry. Under the new plan premiums to approved stallions will be increased approximately 100 per cent. The new plan will in no way interfere with the Ontario Stallion Enrolment Board. Under the joint operation the maximum premium paid to owners of approved stallions will be $300. A special Federal-Provincial premium certificate will be issued in addition to the regular certificates issued under the Ontario Stallion Enrolment Board when and after the stallion owner has complied with the Ontario Stallion Enrolment Board Act.

"With such encouragement being offered it is hoped that sufficient inducement is now being given not only to keep the good stallions at present in the province, but to encourage owners to buy stallions which will qualify as premium horses within the province," stated Hon. John S. Martin in making the announcement.

Without amendment main estimates to the amount of $33,603,312, were passed by the Legislature as submitted by the government for the year 1929. The additional bill validating the vote was also passed without question from the Opposition.

After considerable debate, during which members on both sides of the House admitted the merit of the bill, Premier Ferguson has withdrawn his Township School Board bill. In doing so, the Premier announced that during the recess of the House he would endeavour to ascertain what the larger unit meant to the individual ratepayer in a financial way. He will also discuss the measure before the Ontario Educational Association at its next convention. In withdrawing the Bill, the Premier stated that there was every indication that the bill was gaining favor, and that it would not be long before it was generally received by educationalists. He expressed the hope that during the recess the bill would find further favor with the public.

Freddy, aged seven, was anxious to find some way of earning money, but all his schemes came to naught, and finally his mother promised: "I'll give you threepence each week if you don't fight with John."

A Wonderful Tribute

Baby's Own Tablets Declared to Be Worth Their Weight in Gold

A mother has only to use Baby's Own Tablets once to be convinced that nothing else can equal them in banishing the ills of her little ones. Once used, always used, as long as there are small children in the home —that is the tribute thousands of mothers pay the Tablets.

Among the many, many mothers who are anxious to tell of their experience with Baby's Own Tablets is Mrs. Griffith, of East Hamilton, Ont., who writes:—"Shortly after coming to Canada I began giving the Tablets to my boy who was then six weeks old. The result was so pleasing that since that time I have always kept the Tablets in the house. I have two children now and both of them are the picture of health. Baby's Own Tablets are the only medicine they have ever had and I really believe the Tablets to be worth their weight in gold."

Baby's Own Tablets are free from all injurious drugs and can be given to the youngest babe with absolute safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MAPLE SUGAR MAKING IN CANADA

Canada's aboriginal inhabitants, the redmen, left as legacies not only the canoe, the snowshoe, and the toboggan, but also that valuable article of food and wholesome delicacy, maple sugar. When the first settlers arrived the Indians in springtime brought out their largest pots and kettles and proceeded to make syrup and sugar. The passing on of this knowledge was a boon to the settlers, because in a land that was well supplied with fish and game and wild fruit, and in which grain and vegetables soon became abundant, the two food necessities difficult to obtain were sugar and salt. In addition to their immediate uses these commodities were necessary to preserve foods; sugar for the conserving of fruit, and salt for curing fish and meats. Sons of pioneers have left on record how that, after the year's supply of maple sugar had been made, the fruits in that season would be preserved in pioneer style. The strawberries, ripening first, would be boiled in sugar and the concerve then poured into a keg and covered with a layer of powdered maple sugar. Following the strawberries came raspberries, blackberries, blueberries, and plums and cranberries, all of which would be treated in like manner; and the hope of the children of the family was that before winter arrived the keg would be quite full of delectable layers of concerve and sugar. In those days no thrifty housewife thought her family's needs were provided for unless she had stored on a high shelf in a cool place a row or two of maple sugar made by cooling the said sugar in milk pails.

As settlement advanced and population increased maple sugar making came to have a social significance. "Sugaring-off" time was made the occasion for an evening party of young people in the woods, when under the thin disguise of assisting the sugar maker, there was much sleigh-riding, racing of horses to the sugar "bush", eating of hot sugar cooled in snow, paying of forfeits and general jollity. It was in fact a sort of spring festival, marking the demise of King Winter. After the season's supply of syrup and sugar had been made, buckwheat cakes and maple syrup became during the spring months the national breakfast dish.

According to the Forest Service of the Department of the Interior the sap of all the maples contains sugar and in pioneer days, in times of scarcity, even the Manitoba maple, the least productive of the family in this respect, was tapped for the purpose of boiling sap to obtain sugar. In commercial practice, however, only the sugar maple (Acer saccharum) is tapped for sugar making.

With the passing of the pioneer stage and the opening of transportation routes the industry became relatively less important and maple food products —sugar, syrup, butter, and cream—are now generally considered luxuries, but with increasing population and wealth the market is continually broadening. The most popular form of the product of maple sap is syrup, the manufacture of which has now reached a high state of excellence and efficiency. It is sold in sealed containers, glass jars, and bottles, and, like honey, has its light and dark varieties. Most people like the thin, almost colourless liquid, but others, remembering happy days in the woods, prefer a thicker syrup that is rich amber colour and a good "thrupper", and the modern maple sugar maker is able to supply both tastes.

Maple syrup and sugar bring a better price from the stirring days of our early history. Drafters, firm, and delicious are recalled by the inimitable flavour of the truly Canadian product. The making of maple delicacies is a woods industry which conserves the forest, and whether the operations be conducted in the most modern plant, or in the old-fashioned sugar-house, the process is full of thrilling adventure and glorious romance in early Canada.

MR. SALE'S HOME IN MAYFAIR, LONDON.

In London there is a charming old house that is well known to Canadians generally, and to Eastern Ontario folk particularly. It is the home of Mr. Charles Vincent Sale, whose clever wife is remembered by many in this community as Miss Rose, daughter of an old Ontario family. Mr. Sale is Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company.

In the April issue of Canadian Homes and Gardens, two pages are given over to interesting photographs of the interior of Mr. Sale's home in Mayfair, London. The house is pure Adam in design, and indeed is given prominent mention in the Guide Book on London. The dining room on the first floor and the drawing room on the second are very nearly faultless in their period decoration, and the delicate French furniture and precious Lely pictures are quite in keeping with the atmosphere of quiet elegance.

WEDDING BELLS

Russell—McConkey.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in the St. Andrew's manse yesterday afternoon, when Ida Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McConkey, 216 Burke street, became the bride of Mr. John A. C. Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Russell, Albert street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. J. Maxwell. The bride looked lovely in a gown of blue georgette with hat to match and black bone and shoes. Her bridal bouquet was of sweet peas, roses and lily of the valley. Miss Viola Clark, who acted as bridesmaid, was charming in rose crepe de chine with rose bluh felt hat and black shoes and hose. Mr. George Russell, brother of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents. Then the happy couple left for a short trip to Toronto, the bride travelling in a navy coat trimmed with fur and sand crepe dress.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Russell will reside on Burke street.—Toronto Star.

BROODING AND FEEDING OF CHICKS

(Experimental Farms Note).

When the chicks have become thoroughly dry after hatching they may be removed from the incubator and taken to the brooder.

In doing this care should be taken to see that the chicks do not become chilled. A basket covered with flannel with a loose flannel covering makes a good carrier.

The brooder should be heated so that the introduction of the chicks will raise the temperature to above 100 degrees. This will be about 90 to 100 degrees in a compartment brooder, or where colony houses are used 95 to 100 depending on the number of chicks to be accommodated. The comfort of the chicks is readily determined by the sound or lack of sound. When they are comfortable they will be comparatively quiet with only occasional contented cheep, but if they are uncomfortable they will quickly announce the fact in a continual fretful discontented chirping.

When preparing the brooders, if shavings or alfalfa leaves are used for litter, boards on which to sprinkle coarse sand or fine oyster shell are placed in the pens.

When the chicks are placed in the brooders they should be confined to these pens for a few days, as if allowed before the chicks become accustomed to feeding from them at regular intervals five times a day, small quantities of the dry mash are sprinkled on the feeding boards. These are cleaned off after each feeding, and as soon as the chicks get used to the hoppers dependence is placed on them, and the hand feeding abandoned. Fountains of water, and where possible, sour milk is supplied, also hoppers of chick grit and fine oyster shell. When the chicks are from ten days to two weeks old light feeds of scratch grain are given in the litter to keep them busy. Green feed—sprouted oats, lettuce, chopped greens of various kinds are supplied.

This feeding is continued until the chicks are old enough to go on range, although if it is desired to bring the chicks along quickly moist mashes are used after the first ten days to two weeks.

The chick starter in use at the Farm is shorts, middlings, ground yellow corn and oat flour, equal parts, with 10 per cent animal feed added, 2 per cent cod liver oil and ½ to 1 per cent salt. The animal feed mixture is 2 parts meal meal, 2 parts bone meal, 2 parts fish meal, 2 parts cod liver meal, 2 parts milk powder, but where it is not convenient to get all these ingredients a good quality of meat and bone meal will give good results.

The Honor

By James Oliver Curwood

"I met him in the Great Lone Land country, but he said nothing of his trap lines."

He rose from the table with Cummins and started to follow him from the cabin. Helène came between. For a moment her hand rested upon his arm.

"You are going to stay with me, Jan," she smiled. "I want your help with the dishes, and then we're going to play on the violin."

"Close your eyes and don't move," she commanded, laughing into his surprised face as she run into her room.

A moment later she returned with one hand held behind her back. There came the snip of scissors and a little nervous laugh close to his head.

"It's terribly long, Jan!" Her soft hand brushed his bearded cheek. "Ugh!" she shuddered. "You must take that off your face, if you don't"—

"Why?" he asked through lack of anything else to say.

She lowered her head until her cheek pressed against his own.

"Because it feels like bristles," she whispered.

She reddened fiercely when he remained silent, and the scissors snipped more rapidly between her fingers.

"I'm going to prospect the big swamp along the edge of the Barrens this summer," he explained soon, laughing to relieve the tension. "A beard will protect me from the black flies."

"You can grow another."

She took the apron from about his shoulders and held it so that he could see the result of her work. He looked up, smiling.

"Thank you, Helène."

She went to the cupboard behind the stove and brought out her father's shaving mug and razor.

"I insist that you shall use them," she said, stirring the soap into a lather and noting the indecision in his face. "I am afraid of you."

"Afraid of me?"

He stood for a moment in front of the little mirror, turning his face from side to side. Melisse handed him the razor and cake.

"You don't seem like the Jan that I used to know once upon a time. There has been a great change in you since—since"—

She hesitated.

"Since when, Melisse?"

"Since the day we came in from the mountain and I put up my hair." With timid sweetness she added, "I haven't had it up again, Jan."

She caught a glimpse of his lathered face in the glass staring at her with big, seeking eyes. She had washed the dishes before he finished shaving. Then she took down the old violin from the wall and began to play, her low, sweet voice accompanying the instrument in a Cree melody which Iowaka had taught her.

Surprised, he turned her, his eyes glowing as there fell from her lips the gentle love song of a heartbroken Indian maiden, filled with its infinite sadness and despair. He stood silent until she had finished, staring down upon her bowed head. When she lifted her eyes to him, he saw that her long lashes were wet and glistening in the lamp glow.

She played again, her voice humming with exquisite sweetness the wordless music which he had taught her. At last she gave him the violin.

"Now you must play for me."

"I have forgotten a great deal, Melisse."

She was astonished to see how clumsily his brown fingers traveled over the strings. As she watched him her heart thrilled uneasily. It was not the old Jan who was playing for her now, but a new Jan, whose eyes shone dull and passionless, in whom there was no stir of the old spirit of the violin. He wandered listlessly from one thing to another, and after a few minutes gave her the instrument again.

Without speaking, she rose from her chair and hung the violin upon the wall.

"You must practice a great deal," she said quietly.

At her movement, he, too, rose from his seat, and while she turned to him again he had his cup in his hand. A flash of surprise shot into her eyes.

"Are you going so soon, Jan?"

"I am tired," he said in excuse. "It has been two days since I have slept, Melisse. Good night!"

He smiled at her from the door, but the "Good night" which fell from her lips was lifeless and unmeaning. Jan shivered when he went out. Little cold stars he clinched his hands, knowing that he had come from the cabin none too soon.

It was late when Cummins returned home. Melisse was still up. He looked at her startled eyes as she hovered over him, and when

"HOW DO YOU DO?"

Peculiar Form of Salutation In the Philippine Islands.

If someone should approach you and say, "How do you perspire?" or ask you if you have eaten your rice, don't be offended. These are the words by which the Egyptians and Chinese say "How do you do?" when they meet as acquaintance.

All races have their own peculiar forms of salutation. On islands near the Philippines natives grasp the foot of the person they wish to greet and gently rub their faces with it. South Sea Islanders rub noses and exchange gifts, while the Moors kiss each other's shoulders.

"How is your strength?" was the greeting in Ancient Rome, where every man was a warrior. The Greeks, with other things than war on their minds, said, "What business are you engaged in?"

The Frenchman's "I am charmed and enchanted to meet monsieur" is difficult to improve upon. "How do you find yourself?" is the German's greeting, and when a guest rises from table they express the hope that he has had a hearty meal and that he will find himself the better for the cheer of the repast.

Sport Invades Art.

Sport in art is being furthered in France as excellent propaganda for the cause.

Paintings, drawings, sculpture, plays and books that deal with any aspect of sport are brought to public attention by every possible means.

Rejection of sporting paintings from the various art salons each year furnishes grounds for much discussion. Recently when a boxing scene by Georges Pacoull was among the many other pictures discarded by the jury of the Autumn Salon, sporting newspapers reproduced the painting, interviewed the artist and argued in favor of the display of every possible bit of sporting art.

Why Boys Eat So Much.

If your son puts away a bigger meal than you yourself can eat, don't be surprised, advises the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He is merely behaving like any normal, active boy of nine to eighteen. At certain ages boys and girls may need one to one and a half times as much protein and mineral matter as adults, according to a new dietary scale worked out by the bureau that gives the needs of each member of the family.

Pisa's Slant Increasing.

The famous leaning Tower of Pisa is discovered to be leaning still further. During the last century it has left the perpendicular by another foot and is now 14¾ feet out. It is marvellous really that the list is not more, for the foundations go down only ten feet, as compared with the tower's height of 180 feet.

"You will never come to any good," mroared the father. "I go on thrashing you, but it seems to make no difference. I really don't know what you'll be when you grow up."

"An orphan, I hope," muttered the unfortunate boy.

Setting the Stage for Easter

With a Hat Brimful of Chic" "Crown Your Easter Costume

Such hats you will find abundantly displayed in our Millinery section. Hats just a few days in from our greatest Canadian manufacturers, supreme in their exclusive styles, and rich in their gorgeous colorings. Flower trimmings have re-entered the mode, and create many smart and original effects. They appear to carry a song of spring that is particularly alluring. Deft millinery fingers have worked wonders with shapes this season. Soft straws are extensively favored alone and in clever alliance with other delightful materials. The color range is effectively varied.

Priced from $2.69 to $12.00.

"Men's Lighter-Weight Top-Coats March in the Easter Parade"

These splendidly tailored coats will do three very useful things for you,—

They will protect your comfort against spring winds.

They will give you a real attractive appearance.

Their values will protect your pocket book.

Coats are fashioned from attractively patterned Coating Tweeds, in delightful Spring-time colorings. You can wear them at all occasions. They look their part on the street, in your car, whether travelling or going to church.

Prices from $15.00 to $24.50.

"Wear These Lovely Coats In The Easter Parade of Fashions"

Here are ultra smart Coats for women who prize individuality. Coats swayed by the smartest style features; coats that possess all the interesting and intricate details that create the mode.

Here are Coats beautifully fashioned from the finest of imported and domestic materials.

Coats so in harmony with refinement and good taste, appropriate for wearing on all occasions.

Featured in the fashionable shades of Navy and Black, as well as in other popular colorings. In sizes to fit everyone.

Prices from $16.50 to $44.50.

"Nothing Smarter Than Sport Coats for Misses' Spring Wear"

The glorious Spirit of Spring is successfully portrayed in these Easter Sport Coats. Fashion has seen to this, nothing has been overlooked that would make them more interesting or captivating. For here are colorings, expressed in one and more combinations; here are exquisite patterns, demure or strikingly bold; here are individual styles, stressing numerous authentic style features.

You will find Coats such as these unexcelled for Spring and Summer wear. Smart for motoring, travelling, school, business or street wear.

Priced from $10.95 to $49.50.

"Clever Styling Characterizes Our Coats for Smaller Girls"

Speaking her own mind, expressing her likes and dislikes is the privilege of the younger folk to-day. And this Easter time collection is large enough and varied enough to meet all their requirements and expressions. Displayed in delightful Spring-time colorings are Coats created from patterned Tweeds, from plain Twills, from solid colored Kashas. Many employ furs to further enchant them, while still others depend on simple style lines with insets of self, leather belts, novelty buttons and pockets for further ornamentation. Sizes from 4 to 14 years.

Priced from $5.95 to $16.55.

"Spring Calls Out a Riot Of Colors for Smart Dresses"

The dress and coat ensemble has many ardent admirers this spring season. It's popularity is assured because the various pieces may be worn individually. And the dress plays no mean role in the partnership.

For the most part these ensemble type dresses come in tailored effects. Variety and chic is provided by diagonal and irregular tucking—by pleated skirts, by contrasting colored vestees, by unusual neck-lines. Heavy weight frost crepe fashions them. Displayed in the new shades of Rigi Blue, Rose Glow, Misty Morn, Navy, Black, and Oakheart.

Priced from $16.50 to $32.50.

"Beneath the Surface You Must Have a Correct Foundation"

The most expensive costume will not look its part in the great Easter parade unless beneath the surface you have a fashionably correct and a properly fitted corset or corset combination.

We exploit three famous lines in foundation garments. Garments that are fashionably correct; garments that will mould your figure; garments that will make your frocks look their best. Stocks are now complete, and we invite your inspection. Phone our Corsetieres for fitting appointments.

Priced from $1.59 to $12.00.

CLOSING EXERCISES EVENING VOCATIONAL CLASSES

The Evening Vocational Classes which have been in operation at the Collegiate Institute for the last six months, were brought to a very pleasing conclusion on Tuesday evening by the Closing Exercises in the Collegiate Assembly Room. Practically all of the students were present, along with a number of their friends. The classes had arranged an exhibition of Showcard Writing, Furniture Drafting, Dressmaking and Bookkeeping which demonstrated the excellent work which had been done during the term.

At eight o'clock, Principal Beattie called the meeting together, and after a few remarks on the history of the Evening Classes, and the splendid showing made by the students, called upon Mr. Alpine Woods, Chairman of The Advisory Committee, to present the diplomas for the year. Mr. Woods pointed out that, due to the generous assistance of the Department of Education, the classes this winter had cost the town under $400.00. It was the intention to continue the classes another year in as many subjects as the attendance would warrant.

Mr. Roy Root presented the medals won in Typewriting, and Mr. U. M. Wilson presented the cups. On behalf of the teaching staff, Mr. J. H. Moffatt spoke of the pleasure it had been to teach the enthusiastic classes this year, and Mr. F. W. Knapp expressed the appreciation of the students for the opportunity offered for additional education.

The results of the attendance at the classes during the six months, are as follows :—

Bookkeeping	L. S. Beattie	34	25	76
Dressmaking	Miss Marjorie	11	7

ROBLIN W. M. S.

On Tuesday afternoon, March 27th, the W. M. S. of Roblin United Church met at the home of the President, Mrs. Alfred McCutcheon, where a very instructive and profitable time was spent. Although the roads and weather were unfavorable, quite a goodly number were present.

The meeting opened by singing Hymn 83, after which the President read a short passage of Scripture from Romans 10th chapter, and the Pastor, Rev. J. E. Oliver, led in prayer. Mrs. A. Telford read a leaflet entitled 'New Paths for Old Purposes". Mrs. Stewart Waddel also read a very instructive leaflet.

Our Corresponding Secretary read a letter from Mrs. Finlay, Superintendent Christian Stewardship, which was a real uplift, also a letter from Miss Thompson, telling us where the supply work this year was to be used, also what our allocation was.

After the business of the meeting was over, Mrs. W. Waddel read the Devotional Leaflet for March, "Enthusiastic Co-workers with God".

Five new members were added when the roll was called.

Meeting closed by singing of Hymn 123.

SURPRISING FIGURES

Figures bearing on the status of the telephone in Canada are often commented upon by visitors and correspondents from European countries. Such sources of information as the annual report of the Bell Telephone Company are quoted in comparisons between the Canadian service and that of older countries.

Doubtless it would prove of even greater interest to those across the ocean to learn that in Ontario and Quebec alone the average daily use of long distance in 1927 was 58,801 messages. This figure indicates to a degree astounding on the other side of the Atlantic the Canadian demand for rapid communication regardless of distance.

Mr. Coyne told of Harry Thaw's first visit to the new Roxy Theatre in New York, which is absolutely the last word—or shall I say shout?—in lavish decoration and ornate architecture.

"Thaw," said Coyne, "looked the whole thing solemnly over, and then said, 'I shot the wrong architect.'"

The Honor of the Big Snows

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD.
Author of "The Danger Trail"

An hour or so later he said to Iowaka:

"I can't help liking this man Dixon, and yet I don't want to. Why is it, do you suppose?"

"Is it because you are afraid that Mellisse will like him?" asked his wife, snuggling over her shoulder.

"Blessed saints, I believe that is it!" said Jean frankly. "I hate foreigners —and Mellisse belongs to Jan."

"A woman will not wait always," said Iowaka softly. "Jan Thereau has waited too long!"

A week later as they stood together in front of their door they saw Dixon and Mellisse walking slowly in the edge of the forest. The woman laughed into Jean's face.

"I did I not say that Jan had waited too long?"

Jean's face was black with disapprobation. He was angered at the coolness with which Jan accepted the situation.

Deep down in his soul Jan knew that each day was bringing the end of it all much nearer for him. He did not tell Mellisse that he had returned to Lac Bain to be near her once more, nor did he confide in Jean. Day after day he saw Mellisse and the Englishman together, and, while they awakened in him none of the fiery jealousy which might have rankled in the bosom of Jean de Gravois, the knowledge that the girl was at last passing from him forever added a deeper grief to that which was already cutting at his heart.

Dixon made no effort to conceal his feelings. He loved Mellisse. Frankly he told this to Jean one day when they were on the Churchill trail. In his honest way he said things which broke down the last of Jean's hereditary prejudices.

"I like him," he said to himself, "and yet I would rather see him in the blessed hereafter than have him take Mellisse from Jan!"

The big snow decided. It came early in December. Dixon had set out alone for Ledoq's early in the morning. By noon the sky was a leaden black, and a little later one could not see a dozen paces ahead of him for the snow. The Englishman did not return that day. The next day he was still gone, and Gravois drove along the top of the mountain ridge until he came to the Frenchman's, where he found that Dixon had started for Lac Bain the preceding afternoon. He brought word back to the post. Then he went to Mellisse.

"It is as good as death to go out in search of him," he said. "We can no longer use the dogs. Snowshoes will sink like leaden bullets by morning, and to go ten miles from the post means that there will be bones to be picked by the foxes when the crust comes!"

It was dark when Jan came into the cabin. Mellisse started to her feet with a little cry when he entered, covered white with the snow. A light pack was strapped to his back, and he carried his rifle in his hand.

"I am going to hunt for him," he said softly. "If he is alive I will bring him back to you."

She came to him slowly, and the beating of Jan's heart sounded to him like the distant thrumming of partridge wings. Ah, would he ever forget that look? The old glory was in her eyes, her arms were reaching out, her lips parted. He saw her face so near to him that he felt the touch of her sweet breath, and he knew that one of his rough hands was clasped in both of her own and that after a moment it was crushed tightly against her bosom.

"Jan, my hero"—

He struggled back, almost sobbing, as he plunged out into the night again. He heard her voice crying after him, but the wild wailing of the spruce and the storm in his brain drowned her words. He had seen the glorious light of love in her eyes—her love for Dixon! And he would find him!

He went to Ledoq's now, following the top of the mountain, and reached his cabin in the late dawn. The Frenchman stared at him in amazement when he learned that he was about to set out on a search for Dixon.

"You will not find him," he said slowly in French, "but if you are determined to go I will hunt with you. It is a big chance that we will not come back."

"I don't want you to go," objected Jan. "One will do as much as two and less work to do. Come your way to find if it had begun to snow before Dixon left."

"An hour after he had gone you could not see your hand before your face," replied Ledoq, preparing his pack. "There is no doubt but that he circled out over Lac Bain. We will go that far together and then search alone."

They went back over the mountain and stopped when instinct told them that they were opposite the spruce forests of the lake. There they separated, Jan going as nearly as he could guess into the northwest, Ledoq trailing slowly and hopelessly into the south.

It was a big great battle for Jan, this struggle with the big snows for the happiness of Mellisse. What it was to Ledoq no man ever guessed or knew, for it was not until the late spring snows had gone that the people at Lac Bain found what the foxes and the wolves had left of him far to the south.

Fearlessly Jan plunged into the white world of the lake. There was neither rock nor tree to guide him, for everywhere was the heavy ghost raiment of the Indian god. Day came, only a little lighter than the night. He crossed the lake, his snowshoes staking sable deep at every step, and once each half hour he fired a single shot from his rifle. He heard shots to the south and knew that it was Ledoq, each report coming to him more faintly than the last until they had died away entirely.

Across the lake he struck the forest again, and his shouts echoed in futile inquiry in its weird depths. At noon Jan stopped and ate his lunch; then he went on, carrying his rifle always upon his right shoulder, so that the steps of his right leg would be shortened and he would travel in a circle, as he believed Dixon had done.

The storm thickened with the falling of night, and he burrowed himself a great hole in the soft snow and filled it with balsam boughs for a bed. When he awakened hours later he stood up and thrust out his head and found himself buried to the armpits. With the aid of his broad snowshoes he drew himself out until he stood knee deep in the surface.

He lifted his pack. As he swung it before him, one arm thrust through a strap, he gave a startled cry. Half of one side of the pack was eaten away! A thin trickle of flour ran through his fingers upon the snow. He pulled out a gnawed pound of bacon, a little tea—and that was all.

Frantically he ripped the rent wider in his search, and when he stood up his wild face staring into the chaos about him, he held only the bit of bacon in his hand. In it were the imprints of tiny teeth—sharp little razor edged teeth that told him what had happened. While he had slept a mink had robbed him of his food!

With one of his shoes he began digging furiously in the snow. He tore his balsam bed to pieces. Somewhere —somewhere not very far away—the little animal must have cached its plunder. The big down must be near to the frozen earth. For an hour he worked and found nothing.

Then he stopped. Over a small fire he boiled a pot of tea and broiled a slice of the bacon, which he ate with the few biscuit crumbs he found in the pack. Every particle of flour that he could find he scraped up with his knife and put into one of the deep pockets of his caribou coat. After that he set out in the direction in which he thought he would find Lac Bain.

Still he shouted for Dixon and fired an occasional shot from his rifle. By noon he should have struck the lake. Noon came and passed; the gloom of a second night fell upon him. He built himself a fire and ate two-thirds of what remained of the bacon. The handful of flour in his pocket he did not disturb.

It was still night when he broke his rest and struggled on. His first fears were gone. In place of them there filled him now a grim sort of pleasure. A second time he was battling with death for Mellisse. And this, after all, was not a very hard fight for him. When he ate the last bit of his bacon he made up his mind what he would do when the end came. In the stock of his rifle he would scratch a few last words to Mellisse. He even arranged the words in his brain—four of them—"Mellisse, I love you." He repeated them to himself as he staggered on, and that night beside the fire he built he began by carving her name.

"Tomorrow," he said softly, "I will do the rest."

He was growing very hungry, but he did not touch the flour. For six hours he slept and then drank his fill of hot tea.

"We will travel until day, Jan Thereau," he informed himself, "and then, if nothing turns up, we will build our last camp and eat the flour. It will be the last of us, for there will be no meat above this snow for days."

His snowshoes were an impediment now, and he left them behind along with one of his two blankets, which had grown to be like lead upon his shoulders. He counted his cartridges—ten of them. One of these he fired into the air.

Was that an echo he heard?

A sudden thrill shot through him. He strained his ears to catch a repetition of the sound. In a moment it came again—clearly no echo this time. The shot came from just over the mountain.

The following information has been summarized from the letter written us by Mr. A. T. Leavitt, who is to be Managing Director of United Fuel Investments, Limited:

THE COMPANY AND ITS BUSINESS—United Fuel Investments, Limited, is being incorporated under the Companies Act of the Dominion of Canada for the purpose of acquiring interests in public utility and other enterprises. It will now acquire substantially all the share capital of Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited, and over 90% of the share capital of United Gas & Fuel Company of Hamilton, Limited.

Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited, commenced in 1924 the manufacture of coke and the recovery of the by-products resulting from the coking of coal by modern methods, including gas, sulphate of ammonia, tar and motor benzol. This Company was the first in Canada to undertake the manufacture of domestic fuel to supplant foreign anthracite. It owns a modern by-product coke oven plant strategically located on a 35-acre site within the city limits.

The original installation of the Company was 25 ovens, and the demand for the Company's products—especially coke—increased so rapidly that an additional 35 ovens were installed during the past twelve months, and it is now capable of coking 1,000 tons of coal per twenty-four hours, giving an annual capacity as follows:—

Coke Produced	255,000 tons
Gas	2,500,000 M. cu. ft.
Tar	2,920,000 Imp. Gals.
Ammonium Sulphate	9,000,000 lbs.
Motor Benzol	1,000,000 gals.

United Gas & Fuel Company of Hamilton, Limited, with its predecessor company, has been successfully distributing coal, which product it is gradually supplanting. The superiority of this company's gas is due to the careful blending of the domestic and foundry coke business that it has been able to supply. The company's position market-wise is unassailable in that its location and freight advantages protect it against competition. Considering the admitted advantages of coke and the 4,000,000 tons of other fuels imported into central Canada annually, the market for the Company's product is almost unlimited.

The principal by-product of a merchant coking plant is Gas. and the Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens, Limited, is fortunate in being associated with United Gas & Fuel Company of Hamilton, Limited, for the purpose of distribution. The City of Hamilton consumes approximately 6,000,000 M. cu. ft. of gas per annum and it is estimated that there is a potential demand of 3,000,000,000 cubic feet annually. Prior to the enlargement of the plan during the past year the gas company was not able to take on any additional domestic gas consumers and had no industrial users, due to inadequate supply. The correction of this condition by the enlargement of the coke plant which has a contract with the gas company for its supply, will increase the business of both companies and allow them to operate on a more productive and efficient basis. New contracts recently signed, absorbing by the end of 1928 all the recently enlarged gas capacity, will increase the distribution of gas during 1928 by approximately 25%.

Markets for other by-products, including tar, sulphate of ammonia and motor benzol, are all well established and represent a profitable activity.

CONTROLLED COMPANIES—The companies which will presently be controlled by United Fuel Investments, Limited, have the following funded debt outstanding:—

United Gas & Fuel Company of Hamilton, Ltd.	$1,880,000 Bonds
Hamilton By-Products Coke Ovens, Ltd.	$1,690,000 Bonds
	$925,000 Notes

It is anticipated that part or all of these securities may be refinanced for the purpose of reducing interest charges.

ASSETS—It is estimated that the holdings of United Fuel Investments, Limited, have a present value of more than $10,000,000, with a potential value greatly in excess of this amount when the full benefit of the additional installation at the coke plant, completed in 1927, is realized.

EARNINGS—Combined earnings of the controlled companies available for depreciation, taxes and dividends, certified by Price, Waterhouse & Company, Chartered Accountants, were as follows:—

*Year ending December 31, 1927	548,166

Hamilton By-Product Coke Ovens Limited, in 1927, completed construction of a new battery of 35 ovens, which increased the Company's capacity by 140%. This new plant is now operating, and arrangements have been completed for the sale of the total output. Results from the increased capacity will be progressively reflected in earnings of the current year, the plant reaching its maximum productive capacity in the last quarter. It is estimated that the combined earnings of the two controlled companies available for depreciation, taxes and dividends for the year ending December 31, 1928, will amount to $1,053,025 The earnings as above set out for a full year's operation of the enlarged plant, are estimated at 1,301,525

The estimated earnings accruing to United Fuel Investments, Limited, for a full year's operation of the enlarged plant after depreciation and income tax, available for dividends on this Preferred Stock are $1,003,542

Preferred Dividend on this issue $540,000

PRICE: 100 and accrued dividend

Each ten shares of Preferred Stock will carry a bonus of three shares of common stock, fractions to be adjusted at $20 per share.

Orders may be telegraphed or telephoned at our expense.

These shares are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to allotment. Dividends on the Preferred Shares will accrue from April 1, 1928. The organization of the Corporation and the issue of these shares will be passed upon by Messrs. Blake, Lash, Anglin and Cassels, Toronto.

It is expected that interim share certificates will be ready for delivery on or about April 10, 1928.

MRS. A. McCULLOUGH CALLED IN 91st YEAR

The mantle of oldest living pioneer settler of Carman district falls to other shoulders with the passing on Thursday evening last of Mrs. Alexander McCullough, in her 91st year. Mrs. McCullough, who through practically all of her long and interesting life had been always active and very much interested in what was going on about her, became ill on July 10th, and sank slowly into her last sleep—so slowly that at different times during the two weeks preceding her death it was thought that death was but a matter of hours. She passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Morrison, with whom she had resided during the past five years. The news that she had gone brought general sorrow to the district and community, who have known her well for so many years and admired her for her cheerfulness in her advancing age and her always kindly disposition.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon, a service at St. Andrew's United Church, Carman, conducted by Rev. D. M. MacKay, preceding interment in Carman cemetery. Relatives and friends from the entire country side attended the service and accompanied the remains to the grave. More than one hundred automobiles were counted in the cortege as it moved from the church to the cemetery. In addition to the religious service at the grave, another service in accordance with the burial rites of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association was conducted, the deceased having for years been one of the most interested and best loved members of the Order at Carman.

Here Since 1872

Mrs. McCullough had been resident in this district continuously for fifty-five years. Here was the second white family to locate here when the district was first opened for settlement. The first family was that of her sister, Mrs. Samuel Kennedy, who came in 1871. Her experiences during those early years here were typical of the frontier life, with its dangers and hardships and loneliness — things which the rapid development of the country, modern ways and ease of present day transportation make it difficult for the present generation even to imagine. Only those who have been privileged to hear from such as Mrs. McCullough the stories of the early day experiences can fully appreciate the courage and indomitable spirit of the pioneers and comprehend the full measure of the work they did and the heritage they were creating.

Native of Ontario

Mrs. McCullough was born at Selby, Ont., May 4th, 1837. She was Olivia Letitia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sexsmith. In the year 1860 she married Mr. McCullough. It was twelve years later before the attraction of the new west drew them, and they followed in the path of the Kennedy family, coming by the lake and overland route by way of Duluth to Fort Garry, with their family of young children. They spent six weeks on the journey, reaching this section in June. Mr. McCullough engaged in farming and continued in that occupation until his death at the age of 76 years in 1904. Of their family of nine children, seven still survive. Three of them were born in Manitoba. There are four daughters and three sons, all resident in Carman and district. They are Mrs. E. F. Somers, Mrs. George Morrison, Mrs. Gavin McClure and Mrs. Albert Malcolmson, and Brewer J., W. S. and George McCullough. Thirty grandchildren, thirty-four great grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild also survive her.

One of the largest interests in Mrs. McCullough's life was the work of the Orange Order. She was for years a member of th Carman L.O.B.A., and she was the first person to contribute to the fund for the founding of the L.O.B.A. protestant orphanage in Winnipeg, completed a year or so ago. Until this year she had never missed attending the district celebration of the Twelfth of July. She visited the Carman summer fair on all three days this summer, greeting old friends, but she became ill several days afterwards and before the Twelfth. She had been a life-long member of the Presbyterian Church.

Profusion of Flowers

If anything were needed to bespeak the esteem in which she was held through the community at large, the beautiful floral tokens which decked the casket covering her body on Sunday did that most eloquently. Fraternal tributes came from the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of British North America, L.O.B.A.; Manitoba Grand Lodge, L.O.B.A.; Victoria Lodge, Carman, L.O.B.A.; Graysville L.O.B.A.; L.O.L. No. 1400, Carman; Manitoba Lodge No. 22, I.O.O. F.; and Carnadian Order of Foresters, Carman.

Private tokens were also seen in profusion, the senders being Ivy Wooler, Miss Milton, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ulbett, Winnipeg; J. A. Sexsmith and E. E. Taylor, Winnipeg; Herb Stewart and family, Winnipeg; Olive, Margaret and Alex. McClure; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Millar, Haywood; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Somers, Carman; Women's Institute, Carman; Mr. and Mrs. W. Humphrey; Gertrude, Gordon and Harold and Brown Wilder, Graysville; R. B. Fisher and family, Carman; Earl Skelton, Russell Thompson and Frank Provo, Carman; Leconer, Deloraine; Mr. and Mrs. Somers, Carman; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bell; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Trail; Mr. and Mrs. McIver, R.N.; Mr. and Mrs. Huston; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, The Codville Company, Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. J. Mitchell Kennedy, Rock Creek; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Call up your customers by long distance

An occasional call will make you more valuable for them to do business with you.

Do you realize that one of the large returns you can secure from the expenditure of a small sum to be laid by calling up old customers occasionally by Long Distance.

Friendliness begets friendliness. How can you or I keep away from a merchant who takes the time to show his interest in our affairs? We can't.

The newspaper editor counts on this trait in human nature, and advertising subscribers' names frequently, because he knows they will look for them in his paper.

The merchant who occasionally calls customers by Long Distance is one who can't be overlooked or forgotten.

ADVANCE MADE IN ROAD BUILDING IN CANADA

Construction and Improvement of Highways Progressed Under Canada Highways Act

As an aid to the construction of good roads throughout the Dominion, and more particularly toward the building of trunk highways and improvement centres in the various provinces, the Canada Highways Act was passed in 1919 by the Dominion Parliament. By that Act the Government appropriated $20,000,000 as subsidy to assist the various provinces in the building and improvement of highways "during the five years succeeding the passage of the Act" the purpose being to form a correlated system of highways embracing all the provinces, and connecting with important arteries of International points. The Dominion subsidy was to constitute 40 per cent of the reasonable and necessary cost of construction of the highways placed under agreement as provided by the Act and Regulations. Work, however, did not progress as rapidly as was anticipated, and at the end of the five years an appreciable amount of the money provided remained to be expended. Consequently the statute were accordingly extended until March 31, 1928, by which date the application of this Dominion subsidy will have been completed.

During the nine years that the Act has functioned great strides have been made throughout Canada in the construction and improvement of highways from coast to coast. Every province of the Dominion has benefited from the provisions of the Canada Highways Act. Of the total of 8,415 miles of highway for the construction of which the Dominion Government agreed to provide 40 per cent of the cost, 7,646 miles were completed by the end of the fiscal year, March 31, 1927. Improvement was being carried out on 672 miles and 100 miles still remained untouched. The estimated subsidizable cost of the work to that date was placed at $48,990,092, and the Dominion Government's contribution is estimated at $19,596,238.

During 1926, as in former years, road improvement was carried on along progressive lines, the development being in proportion to the importance of the highway and the character and extent of the traffic to be accommodated at the time, or within a reasonable future In the western provinces it was found that a considerable mileage, originally intended to be constructed as high standard earth roads, required to be reinforced by gravel surfacing because of increasing traffic. In the eastern provinces, although the Federal subsidy was practically all paid prior to 1926, it was also found that oiling and other dust palliatives were in great demand in consequence of the heavier traffic.

In addition to the work federally subsidized, the nine provinces have carried on extensive programs of highway construction, and in improvement, with the result that a total of 5,788 miles of road was improved during the season of 1926, at an outlay of $29,585,000, made up of federal, provincial, and municipal expenditures. The total amount spent on the improvement and maintenance of Canadian roads during 1926 was approximately $45,000,000.

To meet the insistent demands of increased traffic, well organized maintenance branches have been established in connection with each provincial highways department. The total mileage maintained by patrol or gang system during 1926 was 46,824 miles, involving an expenditure of $15,978,000. In some provinces competitive awards are made for the best maintained sections. This is a practice which is to be encouraged, as it creates interest and rivalry and is an impetus to a higher standard of maintenance.

The development of the motor car and its almost universal use has altered the attitude towards road construction. No longer is it a matter of building roads "where the people are". Roads must be built "where the people want to go", and so not only are the cities and settled part, of the Dominion connected by trunk highways but good roads are reaching out into the hinterland, to the lakeland, the forest area, and threading their way over mountain ranges. The benefits, both social and economic, to be derived from good roads are being more widely realized each year. Through motor tourist travel a new idea of Canada is being spread abroad and a more sympathetic understanding is developing as a result of inter-provincial travel.

A SPRING TONIC AN AID TO HEALTH

You Can Lay the Foundation of Good Health Now by Building Up Your Blood and Strengthening Your Nerves Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The good old fashion of taking a tonic in the Springtime, like most of the customs of our grandparents, is based upon sound common serse and good medical practice. Winter is always a trying time for those who are not in rugged health. Many men, women and children go through the winter on reserve strength they have stored up during the sunny summer months, and grow increasingly pale and languid as the spring days approach. Anemic or thin blood and nerves at this time will do much for such people, by putting color in the cheeks and banishing that tired feeling that worries thousands of people at this season of the year.

It is impossible to be energetic if your blood is thin and weak, or if your nerves are frayed or shattered. You cannot compete with others if you do not get refreshing sleep at night, or if your appetite is poor or you are losing weight. You need a tonic at this time to add to your efficiency now, as tonics do to save you from suffering later on. And in all the realm of medicine, there is no safer or better tonic than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills tone and enrich the blood which circulates through every portion of the body, strengthening jaded nerves and run-down organs, and bringing a feeling of new strength and energy to weak easily tired, despondent men, women and children.

Mrs. L. Hupman, Summerville Centre, N.B., writes:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been of the great benefit to me. A few years ago I was in a badly run down condition. I became so weak and nervous that I could scarcely go about and doing my housework left me completely used up. Everything seemed to worry me, and I was in a very discouraged condition when I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I soon found the pills helping me, and continuing their use I fully regained my health. Since then I always take a few boxes in the spring to build me up from the winter weather, and always I find the best results. I therefore cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as health builders."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EASTERN CANADA GARDENING SERVICE

Most for the Money.

For a small garden, tomatoes are perhaps the most valuable crop to grow, as, when staked, and they should be handled in no other way, they give the biggest yield for the ground occupied. Beans come next, a twenty-four foot row of these being sufficient to keep a small family busy eating for a couple of weeks. This twenty-four foot row, it should be mentioned, is planted double, that is the beans about four inches apart in the row, and two rows twelve inches apart. Corn takes up quite a bit of room, but, as one must grow it in the garden at the back door to get it at its best, it is well to consider it, even where the plot is limited. One can count on an average of three cobs to every three stalks. Carrots and beets will give a very good return in a small garden, a thirty foot row of each supplying many meals. Spinach and lettuce should be included, as both come off early, leaving the ground for tomatoes and other late or late-maturing crops. For those who like it, Swiss chard will provide a huge quantity of greens from a row twenty feet long. The inner stalks can be used like asparagus. A garden is never complete without a few onions, as these are used in such a variety of ways, and in very limited quantities. Unless one has a garden measuring over twenty-five feet each way, peas are almost out of the question, though they are never so fresh as when picked a few feet from the door.

Testing the Soil.

For those high-strung people who have been worrying about getting their garden started for the last month, the following test should be applied to the soil to see if it is ready for working: take a handful of soil and squeeze it, if it compacts into a lump in the hand, it is too wet to work, but if it crumbles when squeezed it is in just the right condition for ploughing or spading and planting. It is well to remember that many a garden, especially where composed of clay soil, has been ruined for the entire season by working too early. Wet clay will pack and bake like brick, if handled too soon.

Hurrying the New Season.

With a little nitrate of soda one can make up for a late spring. In small gardens a heaping teaspoonful is sufficient for a square yard of soil, repeating the application about every ten days or two weeks. This fertilizer should not be allowed to touch the foliage if the latter is moist, as it is apt to burn it. On this account it is better to dissolve in water and distribute or it may be broadcast by hand during or just before a rainfall or before the dew has formed on. It should not be applied until growth has started.

Washington Asparagus Best.

There is nothing easier to grow than asparagus, and this vegetable, always in demand, is never cheap. A ten-foot square will give a respectable supply for a small family and will become more productive each year. A bed may be started from roots or seed, though where a fairly good sized plot is wanted it is advisable to use seed. Washington, a rust proof strain, produces of giant size, is gaining real favor because it appears to be free of disease and is a vigorous grower. A bed may be established in three years from seed and two from roots. The seed should be soaked in warm water for 24 hours before planting, and sown in drills outside as soon as the ground can be worked. It is rather slow to germinate. The plants should be allowed to grow in the seed row for one season and the following year the strongest and straightest selected to form a permanent bed. The rest of the plants should be spaced two feet apart in rows three feet apart.

Include These Annuals.

If one must be limited to half a dozen annuals, make sure that the list includes zinnias. These are easily grown, and will do well on almost any soil. One can get them in the smaller sizes for blooming at the front of the garden, right up to the latest giant dahlia-like flowers with plants three feet high. Godetia, butterfly flower, petunias, marigolds and the phloxes, are also recommended where the choice is limited.

An Oil That Is Famous.—Though Canada has many brands of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, it is the home of that famous compound. From here its good name was spread to Central and South America, the West Indies, Australia and New Zealand. That is far afield enough to attest its excellence, for in all these countries it is on sale and in demand.

Pompous Inspector, (after the lecture)—"Now, is there anybody who has a further question to ask about the railways of Great Britain?"

Small Boy—"Yes, sir. What time does your train go?"

Requisite on the Farm.— Every farmer and stock-raiser should keep a supply of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for ills in the family, but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. As a substitute for sweet oil for horses and cattle affected by colic it far surpasses anything that can be administered.

A prisoner was being tried for assaulting a police-constable. "Now," said the magistrate, "tell us at once, without any prevarication—did you or did you not strike the constable?"

The prisoner was thoughtful for a minute, then he looked up calmly and replied: "The answer is in the infirmary."

Worms, by the irritation that they cause in the stomach and intestines, deprive infants of the nourishment required for development from food, and mal-nutrition is the result. Miller's Worm Powders destroy worms and correct the morbid conditions in the stomach and bowels that are favorable to worms, so that the nutriment of the child is assured and development in every way encouraged.

STERILIZATION OF DAIRY UTENSILS ON THE FARM

(Experimental Farms Note).

Of the various sources of contamination to which milk is subject, the dairy utensils have been definitely established as one of the most serious, capable of contributing a high percentage of the bacteria found in milk. Consequently the sterilization of cans, pails or other containers cannot be neglected if milk containing few bacteria is to be produced. Thorough cleaning is essential, but in itself is insufficient. Steps must be taken to destroy as many as possible of the bacteria still remaining, if the keeping quality of the milk is to be improved.

For sterilizing, steam under pressure, the most satisfactory agent, is seldom available. In its absence, a sufficient quantity of boiling water gives excellent results. Immediately after washing are scalded by pouring a pint of boiling water over the entire surface; cans are best treated by pouring in a quart of boiling water, replacing the lid, and rolling the can along the floor to ensure thorough scalding of the inner surface. As the temperature of the water drops over 50 degrees F. during this operation, a fresh quantity must be provided for each utensil. Unless this is done, good results cannot be hoped for.

Because of the saving in time and fuel, chemical solutions are being used in some districts to replace the scalding treatment, and where used intelligently have equal or greater sterilizing efficiency. Cans and pails are carefully rinsed with chlorine solution, the scalding treatment, or immersed for one minute in a tank containing 200 parts per million of chlorine. Having provided the utensils are well washed and the chlorine solution is up to strength. Further information on this method may be obtained from the Division of Bacteriology, Central Experimental Farm.

Following sterilization, unless used immediately, utensils should be turned upon a draining rack to dry. Except during the cold weather, an outdoor rack placed in the sun is desirable. With free circulation of air, the utensils will soon dry, checking the multiplication of the few surviving bacteria and ensuring that the benefits of the sterilizing treatments will not be lost through further development of bacteria in the moisture inside the utensils.

ARE EATING FEWER SWEETS.

Dodge the Slimness Cuts Down Demand for Rich Dainties.

Confectioners are the latest victims of women's desire for slimness.

The annual report of the sugar section of Manchester Chamber of Commerce states that changes in the habits of demand have resulted in a greatly decreased turnover among those engaged in the chocolate and confectionery branches.

Imports of refined sugar and sugar candy dropped nearly 6,000,000 cwts. last year, as compared with 1925.

There is concern at hotels and restaurants in London not only because women are passing by the sweet things, but also because they are refusing all manner of dishes which they used to delight in.

One London maitre d'hotel said.

"To-day women shake their heads at almost every dish one can mention —all are declined because of a fear that they are fattening."

"They will not eat potatoes; they will not touch soup; they shudder at cream; they despise bread; they recoil from oil in any form; they accept a morsel of meat with an air of making a concession."

A chef at the Trocadero restaurant said that most women nowadays tolerated sugar merely as a sweetening agent. He added:

"They generally shun rich pastries and sweets in which jam or chocolate or cream is used, and choose fresh fruit, as peaches and grapes, pineapple served with the juicy part of oranges, and bananas with lemon juice."

There are, however, it appears, sweets that do not fatten, and of these M. Francois Latry, chef of the Savoy restaurant, said:

"There are 50 per cent. more sweets to-day than there were ten years ago, and recently there have been created some sweets that are definitely guaranteed not to fatten in any way. Delicacies made with whites of egg are among those most favored —these and the sweets made with fresh fruit."

OLD DOCUMENTS ON POSTCARDS

Britain to Reproduce Famous Papers, Including Even Magna Charta.

Many of the most famous state documents upon which the very history of England depends will be reproduced for the public in the form of postcards.

Some of the documents are of incalculable value, and have been visible only under certain conditions at the Public Record Office in London.

Photographic and engraving experts are at work reproducing vital sections of these documents for use on the cards. It is expected that these cards will make the public more interested in the historical incidents connected with them.

The log of Nelson's flagship on the two days of the Battle of Trafalgar, a signature of Shakespeare, Sir Philip Sydney's last letter and the anonymous warning to Lord Monteagle which resulted in the discovery of the Gunpowder Plot are in the group selected. In connection with the Gunpowder Plot warning is the confession of Guy Fawkes.

Of particular interest is the historic "scrap of paper" which Germany was accused of violating when she invaded Belgium. It is the parchment page with the seals of the parties to the Treaty of April, 1839, maintaining the independence of Belgium and the signatures of their representatives.

The original draft of the log of Nelson's Victory describes simply the Battle of Trafalgar and Nelson's wound and death. Beneath the record is a list of the casualties headed by the name of the commander-in-chief. The log states that when victory was reported to Nelson "he thanked of his wound."

One card is made from the Magna Charta agreement in Latin between King John and the barons, 1215, only four copies of which now exist.

If the historical set proves popular another will be prepared.

Hintless "Canadian."

Canada is a wonderful country, but his native land surpasses it in many ways, was the opinion expressed by S. Bayliss, of Auckland, New Zealand, who recently visited Canada. He says New Zealand now offers one of the finest climates and fishing grounds of the world from the standpoint of sportsmen and professional fishermen and fishers.

Mr. Bayliss praised his country's "living wage" system, which recently was placed at $29 a week through an arbitration board of Labor and Government representatives. The scale is based on the cost of living.

He—They say the referee of the Dempsey-Tunney fight is a Salvation Army worker.

She—How's that?

He—He believes that a man may be down but never out.

Felt More Like Work After Taking Them

Says Ontario Lady After Using Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. C. Shank Suffered With Backache and Tired Feeling

South Cayuga, Ont., April 5th, (Special)—"For a long time I suffered, taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I am sure I should have had to stay in bed," writes Mrs. C. Shank, a well-known resident of this place. "I had no life in me and did not care whether I worked or not. I am always very busy, having three young children. I would get so tired and weak that I knew how to keep going. After taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I felt more like work. I have great faith in them and always keep them on hand. I can recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills for backache, I know what they have done for me."

Winter is the season of ill health. Your resistance is lowered through continual cold, chill winds, snow and rain. Unless you keep your vitality at "concert pitch" you will surely fall an easy victim to Rheumatism, Colds, Grippe or General Debility. Take Dodd's Kidney Pills and safeguard your stamina.

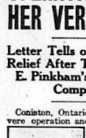
OPERATION LEFT HER VERY WEAK

Letter Tells of Wonderful Relief After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Coniston, Ontario.—"After a severe operation and a three weeks' stay in a hospital I returned home so weak that I was unable to move a chair. For four months I was almost frantic with pains and suffering until I thought there could not be any help for me. I had very severe pains in my left side and suffered agony every month. One day when I was not able to get up my mother begged me to try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of Vegetable Compound at once and I took it. I started a second bottle, and to my surprise and joy the pains in my side left me completely and I am able to do all my work without help. I am a farmer's wife, so you see I can't be idle long.—In all, I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of the Compound Tablets, two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and have also used the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. L. LAJEUNESSE, Box 103, Coniston, Ontario. c

Just Before Seeding

The Better Seed Campaign, which is being carried on in Ontario has already brought fruitful results in the widespread demand for fanning mill equipment and high grade seed. Inquiries for seed oats, barley, alfalfa, sweet clover and potatoes have been unusually numerous. Good oats sold readily at 90c. per bushel. Some factors that have an important bearing on profitable crop production are (1) the use of large, plump, well cleaned seed; (2) Formalin treatment for smut prevention; (3) early seeding. If the grain intended for seed does not measure up to a high standard there is yet time to clean it again or get some that is better. Directions for the formalin treatment may be obtained from the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Napanee. 12

DEATH OF J. F. CAIRNS

Flags hung at half-mast to-day in honor of J. F. Cairns, one of Saskatoon's first citizens, who passed away shortly before midnight, on Saturday, March 17th, a victim of heart failure. Pioneer residents, who passed away and men and women who have grown up with the city, felt with keen regret the loss of a man who gave twenty-five years outstanding service to the community, a man whose life was interwoven with the foundation and growth of Saskatoon.

Death came at the family home, 908 Spadina Crescent, after a long period of ill health. Had he lived Mr. Cairns would have celebrated his 80th birthday next Friday.

Mr. Cairns is survived by the widow and by one sister, resident here, Mrs. R. M. Campbell, 418 Tenth Street, Nutana, and another sister, Mrs. Fred Smith, of Portland, Oregon. Mrs. Hugh Cairns, his stepmother, is at present visiting in Portland, and has been communicated with.

James Frederick Cairns was born at Lawrenceville, Quebec, March 22rd, 1870. His father, Rev. Hugh Cairns, was one-time President of the Montreal Conference, who died here a few years ago. The maiden name of the late Mrs. Cairns was Annie Maria Cairns, and both parents were of Irish descent.

Beginning his education at the Knowlton Academy, Quebec, Mr. Cairns was later head boy and gold medallist of Albert College, Belleville, Ont., and was a member of the Class of '90 from Victoria University at Cobourg with high honors in classics. For nine years he was connected with the faculty of Chatham Collegiate Institute and later was editor of The Canadian Wheelman, Toronto.—The Saskatoon Daily Star.

OBITUARY.

Hugh M. Curran.

The funeral of the late Hugh M. Curran was held at his late residence, on March 21st, 1928.

Deceased had not been enjoying very good health of late, but his sudden death was very unexpected, and was a great shock to the Village of Colebrook and community.

Mr. Curran retired as usual on Sunday evening, but during the night was taken very ill, from which he did not survive, and at the break of the new day he passed to his reward.

Deceased was sixty-five years of age and was born about three miles from Colebrook.

Mr. Curran's occupation was farming, which he did very successfully. In 1919 he sold his farm and retired from active business, and moved to Colebrook, where he became a most highly respected resident, and will be greatly missed by all.

He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his sorrowing widow, one daughter, Minnie, and two brothers, David and Wellington, of Syracuse, N.Y., and one sister, Mrs. Ezra Husband, of Portland. Another brother, Jamieson, of Camden East, pre-deceased him by only one week. Also one son, Roy, who died about thirty years ago, at the age of nine years.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. McKenzie, choosing for his text the 90th Psalm. The remains were placed in Harrowsmith vault. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the whole community.

WEDDING BELLS.

Bailey—Hall.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, March 31st, at noon, at the home of the bride's aunts, the Misses Sanderson, of Napanee, by Rev. W. P. Woodger, in the presence of the immediate relatives, when Helen Ruth Hull became the bride of Harry Gibson Bailey, of Lindsay, son of Mr. William Herbert Bailey, of Madoc. The young couple were unattended. The bride looked charming in a dress of crepe Romaine, carrying a bouquet of pink roses. Her going-away suit was of navy blue with hat to match, and she wore a beautiful fox fur, the gift of the groom. The people of Napanee, generally, expressed their good wishes for the bride by many beautiful and costly presents. Mrs. Bailey will be missed from the Young People's League and Sunday School and Mission Circle and Choir of Grace United Church, where she made a real contribution by her talents and personality. These organizations, as well as the Rebekah Lodge, and the staff of the Daily Tea Company, all very generously expressed their good will and esteem by their gifts.

After the wedding ceremony the guests sat down to a dainty luncheon, at which a toast was proposed to the bride by Rev. W. P. Woodger, and happily responded to by the groom.

The happy couple left on a motor trip to the Capital City and other Eastern points. On their return they will reside in Lindsay.

in a Low Priced Car

THE most recent trend of automobile design is strikingly exemplified in the "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet. The high, narrow radiator . . . the long, low bodies . . . the unbroken sweep of the lines from front to rear . . . the stylish blending of colors in finish and upholstery . . . these distinguish Chevrolet as unmistakably new and fashionable. In power, in speed and snap, the "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet is no less modern and vigorous. Countless refinements in engine and chassis give Chevrolet a performance as dependable as it is brilliant.

The "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet, alone among low-priced cars, has truly caught the modern spirit.

The G.M.A.C. . . . General Motors' own deferred payment plan affords the most convenient and economical way of buying your Chevrolet on time.

NAPANEE BRANCH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The April meeting of the Napanee Branch of the Women's Institute was held in the Agricultural Class Room, on Tuesday, April 10th, at 2.30 p.m., with a good attendance. The Opening Ode was sung, minutes of last meeting read and approved, and the Treasurer reported a creditable balance. Because of the large membership of the local branch, and the good financial standing of the District Society, it was decided to pay three cents per member into the District Expense Fund.

The full report of the Local Council of Women is available from Mrs. Ralph Ham, for those who wish to read it. Mrs. Laughland was appointed Convenor of the League of Nations Society work, to report from time to time at the local meetings of activities of the League.

The usual splendid paper on Current Events was read by Mrs. Ella Wagar, and greatly appreciated by the audience.

The Secretary was instructed to write to the Town Council that the Society has fifty dollars to assist them in placing names on the streets, and recommends that work be commenced very soon.

Mrs. J. B. Miller, District President, gave a very interesting and inspiring talk on "Heart to Heart Talks With Busy Mothers and Home-makers", urging all to make wise use of their time and create attractive homes for young people.

This being the last meeting of the year, the following officers were elected :—

President—Mrs. Ralph Ham.
1st Vice President—Mrs. T. V. Anderson.

Secretary Treasurer — Mrs. Frank Herrington.

It was with sincere regret that Mrs. Alpine Woods, the only President of the Society since its organization, seven years ago, was allowed to retire. In well chosen words Mrs. T. V. Anderson expressed the thanks and appreciation of the entire membership for Mrs. Woods' untiring efforts and efficient leadership, and asked that the same co-operation be accorded the new President. Mrs. Ham then spoke briefly.

On motion, the Secretary Treasurer, Mrs. Frank Herrington, was voted an honorarium of ten dollars for her duties during the coming year.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, the next meeting, May 22rd, to be addressed by a speaker from the Department of Agriculture, Institutes Branch, Toronto.

DORLAND

The Easter meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Cousins, last Wednesday afternoon. The programme was in keeping with the season, and the offering generous. —The pageant on Friday evening, under the auspices of the W. M. S., was very pleasing. The costumes of Esther, her six attendants, and the twelve nations, were all pretty and in character represented. An interesting item was the presentation to Rev. Mr. Parker of a fountain pen and pencil, a token of the appreciation of his generous assistance to the W. M. S.—The Easter concert in the Parish Hall, on Saturday evening, was very pleasing, and did not attend the musicale in aid of the General Ladies' Aid, on Monday evening, because a rare treat.—The Dorland Dramatic Club attended the play, "Back to the Farm", which was presented by Sydney Talent in Selby, on Thursday evening. They will present the same play in the Parish Hall, Adolphustown, on April 20th.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loyed, of Clairmont, visited on the local circuit last week, and were present at the pageant.—The condition of the roads is quite improved.

ADOLPHUSTOWN

The W. M. S. of the U. E. L. United Church put on a very fine musical programme on the evening of Good Friday, April 6th, after the devotional exercises. Mr. and Mrs. Plant and Miss Margaret Mitchell sang a trio very beautifully, "He Died of a Broken Heart", which was followed by a talk on The Crucifixion and Resurrection by Rev. Mr. Plant. Miss Bessie Magee sang sweetly a solo, "The Old Rugged Cross". Then was presented the chief feature of the evening, the pageant, "The Spirit of Easter". There were fifteen characters and the costume representated, who had come to hear the story of Easter, as told by the Spirit of Easter, and the Angel Gabriel. There were nineteen girls taking part, and the musical parts were excellent, the Choir only assisting at the conclusion, Rev. Mr. Plant was presented with a beautiful picture as a token of appreciation from the W. M. S. of the work and interest he has shown.

STRATHCONA

The Easter meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. George Findlay, on Thursday, April 5th. A good many of the members were present, and all enjoyed very much the interesting and inspiring address of Mrs. G. I. Perry, former Vice President of Napanee Division. Mrs. Lupero read a fine Easter lesson from Mark's gospel, and a season of prayer followed. The roll call was responded to by Easter Scripture texts. Mrs. Geo. Findlay gave a reading, and Mrs. W. Wilson and Mrs. Bruce Finlay delighted the meeting with some very fine musical numbers. The Easter offering was taken, amounting to $20.00, and a Life Membership fee was handed in.

After singing "Christ the Lord is Risen To-day" the meeting closed by repeating the Mispah benediction in unison. Mrs. Findlay served refreshments, and a very pleasant social hour followed. — The Mission Circle and Junior Band gave a splendid programme in the church Good Friday evening. Rev. Mr. Anderson was chairman, and opened the meeting. The Band sang very sweetly two choruses, and gave a very fine spelling exercise, "Christ is Risen". The recitations by Mildred Uens and Bessie Baker in their family were the gems of the evening. Mrs. B. Finlay and Mr. Wm. Wilson, were much appreciated. Mrs. Anderson gave one of her fine readings, "Second Peter". The Band performing assumed to $16.65, and the Circle offering taken was $65.65. The meeting closed by singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds". The church was very prettily decorated with tulips and Easter lilies, and the large audience attested to the interest our people have in the young people.

NAPANEE POULTRY ASSOCIATION

The regular meeting of the Napanee Poultry Association was held in the Agriculture Hall, on Monday, 2nd April.

Arrangements were completed to again assist with the Poultry exhibit at the Lennox Fair, which this year will be held on the 21st, 22nd, 23rd and 24th August. An Exhibition Committee was appointed, consisting of the following members:—President, Capt. A. S. Hughson; Members, Ray Perry, Morven; Arthur Rooks, Richmond; R. G. Gilliride, Jack Hayes, and William Richardson, Napanee.

A grant of fifty dollars to the Lennox Fair from the Poultry Association for special prizes in poultry was granted. Also the committee was authorized to purchase two hundred Standard steel coops. These with those already in possession of the directors of the Fair will enable an exhibit of a thousand birds, making the poultry department one of the largest shows of its class in Ontario, if not in Canada. In order to meet this large increase the Fair Directors are building an addition of some fifty feet to the present poultry building. Besides the special grant mentioned above, friends of the Poultry Association are generously contributing also, so it is up to every person both in the town and county to do all in their power to make this exhibit a success. In the first place all can boost, (don't knock). You have as good a poultry country as there is; also you have as good birds as found anywhere; so don't hesitate to let the people know it. Write about it when you correspond with friends; bring them here Fair week to see our poultry. To the residents of Lennox and Addington bring your birds in and show them. If you fail don't win prizes this year you will at least learn where you fail, and by correcting these faults, next year you will, thanks to your experience, do better, thus making a name for your flocks. There you can get into the market for selling eggs for setting and day-old chicks. It is needless to point out that there is more money in this than selling to the dealer. The Poultry Committee makes the request for all to get behind our Fair Directors, and show we are second to none.

NAPANEE VISITED BY DEGREE TEAM

Last Thursday night was a red letter night for Oddfellows in Napanee, it being the occasion of the first official visit of the third degree team of Peterboro' Lodge No. 111, Peterboro', Ont., to Argyll Lodge No. 212.

About two years ago the crack first degree team of the Argyll Lodge No. 212 visited the Lift Lock City, and will not soon forget the wonderful reception that was tendered to them at that time.

The visitors, numbering in all about thirty, arrived in town shortly after seven o'clock and were officially welcomed by the reception committee after which they went to the Paisley House where a sumptuous dinner was served by Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick and their coterie of workers.

Degree Conferred Beautifully

The degree, which was conferred in a beautiful manner, was witnessed by approximately 125 Oddfellows, visiting brethren being present from Belleville, Odessa, Enterprise, Yarker, and Napanee Lodge No. 86. Following the Lodge session the brethren repaired to the spacious dining hall where four long tables fairly groaned with the abundance of good things provided. During the dinner hour special music was given by the Scott trio.

After ample justice had been done around the festive board to the choice meats, mashed potatoes, tasty salads, baked beans, pie, ice cream, etc., Mr. W. H. Roe, Chairman of the Committee and Toastmaster for the occasion, called the gathering to order and gave a short, appropriate address. The program was then proceeded with, the following toasts being given:

The Toast List.

"The King".

"The Visiting Degree Team"—Proposed by Mr. J. M. Simpson, and responded to by the Captain of the Degree Team.

"The Visitors"—Proposed by Mr. Wilfred S. Wilson, and responded to by brethren from Peterboro', Odessa, Yarker and Napanee Lodge No. 86.

"The Grand Lodge"—Proposed by Mr. Walker, of Rapids Lodge, Yarker, D.D.G.M. for the District, and very ably responded to by Mr. J. O. Herity, Industrial Commissioner, of Belleville, who represented the Grand Master, the latter being unable to be present.

During the course of the evening vocal solos were given by Mr. Reginald Wiseman, he receiving a very hearty encore. Mr. Don Scott gave a delightful xylophone solo, he also having to respond to an encore. One of the hits of the evening was a side-splitting dialogue, "Two Black Crows", given in negro dialect by Messrs. H. Seymour and J. McGillivray. A very profitable and enjoyable evening was brought to a close about two o'clock.

The visiting degree team received warm words of congratulation on their excellent work and they tendered the officers and members of Argyll Lodge a hearty vote of thanks in the magnificent welcome which they had received.

Keys of Town.

Prior to the official program Mayor E. J. Roy presented to the visiting degree team and to the guest speaker, Mr. Herity, very unique keys as a token of their visit to Napanee and to Argyll Lodge.

Teacher—"What do we use soap for?"

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, SANDHURST

The Easter Day service was very fittingly celebrated in St. Paul's Church, Sandhurst, on Easter morning, a large congregation attended, many taking part in the communion service. The text was taken from the 16th chapter of St. Mark 1-9 verses, dealing with the Resurrection and Ascension of Christ. The sermon based thereon was very impressive. The Rev. A. Strother dwelt on, first Morning, and its significance with death and Easter; secondly, Love, the great difference between the divine love shown by God and the human love shown by Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Solome toward the dead Christ; thirdly, the words "go and tell", showing to us the need of our Easter commission in telling our brethren about the living not dead Saviour. He also showed as a conclusion that Christ has gone before even to our joy, pain and sorrow.

The altar was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies, daffodils, and hyacinths, which were memorial flowers having been placed there by the Clergymen and members who have lost loved ones. Joyous Easter hymns added greatly to the service. The recessional hymn was sung by the Rev. A. Strother, was "Jesus lives! thy terrors now can no longer death appal us."

New Blood Needed In The Spring Time

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a Blood Improving, Health-Restoring Tonic.

Every man, woman and child needs new, rich, red blood at this time of the year. That is a scientific fact. All doctors know it. The blood grows thin and poor in the winter; there is not enough of it, and the system shows the effect. Take notice and see how many people are pale and sallow at this time of the year. They complain of being easily tired, their appetite is poor, and they are often depressed and low-spirited. That is Mother Nature urging them to improve their blood supply; but often their digestion is weakened so that they cannot turn food into blood without help. Here is where modern medical science comes to the rescue. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a direct action on the blood and enable you to get full use of the blood-making elements in your meals. You soon feel their effect on your appetite improves, your nerves are steadier, color returns to the cheeks and lips, you have more vim and energy, and can work with less fatigue.

The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all who are in what is known as a run-down condition of health is proved by the experience of Mr. John A. O'Neil, Port Hood, N.S., who says:—"It is not possible for me to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly. I had been gradually growing weaker, and found it hard to do my work. I suffered from severe headaches and pains in the back. I was nervous and easily irritated, and altogether my condition was deplorable. A friend urged me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got a half dozen boxes. I had only taken them a short time when I found them helping me, and by the time I had taken the supply I got, I was again enjoying good health. Headaches and pains had disappeared, my nerves were strengthened and I had good reason to be thankful that I had followed the advice of my friend."

Whether you are seriously ill or merely feel easily tired and out-of-sorts, you should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this spring. They are sold by medicine dealers everywhere, or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CAMDEN EAST LADIES' AID

The Ladies' Aid, of Camden East United Church held their April meeting on Tuesday, the 3rd of April, at the home of Mrs. A. P. Scott. Our President, Mrs. B. Rawlins, took the chair. Hymn 230, "There Shall be Showers of Blessing", was sung. Scripture lesson was read from Luke 16, verses 1-13. The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. The minutes were then read and approved. The Treasurer read her report, showing a neat balance on hand. There was an attendance of seventeen members and two visitors. The committee appointed to look after the quilt pieces then gave their report. The flower fund report was then given, showing a small sum for flowers during the year to three in our community. A motion was then made and carried that the same be paid. The Treasurer was then advised to pay another minor account. Mrs. A. P. Scott expressed thanks on behalf of Mr. Scott for flowers received while in the hospital, and also the kind letters.

Three suggestions made at our last meeting concerning the flower fund, were approved, and it was moved and carried that these be made our rules, and that a copy be sent to Mrs. R. Peters, Secretary-Treasurer of Flower Fund.

It was decided to buy Canadian Hymnals for the Ladies' Aid. A ten cent social on the 16th of April will be given. The proceeds will go to the Flower Fund.

Our next meeting will be held in the Ladies' room of the United Church Hall.

Votes of thanks were tendered to Mrs. Hyland, Mrs. Ann Scott and Mrs. P. Scott for their hospitality, and a hearty clap of hands testified our congratulations to both Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Scott, it being their wedding anniversary.

The meeting was closed by singing Hymn 191, and the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

Refreshments were then served.

—A Child Welfare Clinic for the pre-school child, is held in Napanee each day from 2 to 4, in the Council Chamber, under the direction of the Victorian Order of Nurses. tf

MOSCOW WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Moscow Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Amos Huffman, on Tuesday, April 4th, with the President, Mrs. A. Amey, in the chair. Twenty-seven members answered the roll call. The meeting opened by singing the Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

The Secretary's report was read and approved. A number of letters were read, thanking the Institute for flowers, which had been sent to the sick. Our summer speaker will be at the home of Mrs. George Lampkins, on May 31st. A letter was read by the Secretary from the League of Nations. Mrs. Amey asked the Rev. Mr. McKenzie to give us a talk on the League of Nations, which was very instructive.

We were very pleased to have the Rev. Mr. McKenzie with us. Mr. and Mrs. Laughland from Napanee. Mr. Laughland gave a very interesting talk on flower culture. The members are looking forward to having prettier flowers in the future. The current event paper was read by Mrs. Lyall Mihap, subject "Making the home beautiful". Mrs. Mihap receives much credit, and her papers are always highly appreciated.

All joined heartily in singing some old-time songs. The meeting closed by singing "God Save the King".

Lunch was served by the Committee in charge.

COSEY NOOK

The weather on Saturday and Sunday made us think winter was not over yet, although we have had very nice weather for some time. — Mrs. W. Weese gave a sugar party on Saturday night, in honor of her mother's birthday, which was much enjoyed by all her friends, there being about forty-seven present.—Mrs. Roy Rose was a Saturday caller on Mrs. T. Storey; also Mrs. D. Post and Mrs. Cowel and sister.—Mr. and Mrs. T. Storey spent Easter at Mr. W. Weese's. — Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Storey were visitors at T. Storey's, one day last week.—Mr. and Mrs. N. Babcock and two daughters spent Friday in the burgh.—Miss Storey, of North Bay, called on their uncle, Thos. Storey. — Mrs. A. Rose still continues very low at time of writing.—We were sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. John Aylsworth Bell.

The Extra Stamina You Need for Spring Driving

Equipping with Gum-Dipped Tires is an investment in extra safety, speed, comfort and economy. That is why thousands of motorists throughout the country use these tires.

On wet, slippery streets and highways—around sharp turns and start in and out of traffic—stopping suddenly—you can always depend on the powerful Firestone non-skid tread to hold without slip or skid.

Supporting this safety tread is the special Gum-Dipped process, built of cords dipped in a rubber solution which saturates and insulates every fibre of every cord with rubber. This counteracts the friction and heat of high speed service, and strengthens the whole structure of the tire to withstand heavy strains.

You can foresee the demand you may have to place on your tire equipment in some emergency. But you can prepare now and be sure of a fighting chance in any situation—by having the nearest Firestone Service Dealer apply new Gum-Dipped Tires all around.. He will save you money and serve you better.

ENTERPRISE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Enterprise Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Gus Fenwick, on Friday last.

Our President being absent through illness, our Second Vice President, Mrs. Geo. Fenwick, Sr., presided over the meeting, which was opened by the singing of the song, "Our Institutes". The minutes of the last meeting were read, and the business on hand attended to.

Nearly every member present gave an interesting answer to the roll call, "Irish Jokes", which caused a great deal of merriment. Instead of an Irish joke, Miss Reid gave a humorous Scotch reading, which all enjoyed very much.

Some of the members who were unable to attend the "Apron Tea", held in February, sent in the belated aprons, thus helping to swell considerably the funds received on that occasion; and three new members were received.

A paper on "Living Life to the Best of One's Advantages", by Mrs. Oliver, was read by one of the members.

The paper, which was an excellent one, was listened to with great interest. Among many interesting thoughts were the following:—"That what to one person would be an advantage, to another might be a stumbling block or curse. This would be especially true of the possession of money. Then the great advantages of living in a Christian country, such as Canada, where the sanctity of the home is upheld and education compulsory. Many long for more education, travel, or money, thinking that these would help them lead a much fuller life, but our lifework consists, mainly, of home making, and we should make the best use of what advantages we have, letting the chief lesson of life be that of contentment:

"It matters not how long we live.
How soon the sand runs in the glass;
It matters only what we give
Of service as we pass.
What happens to us cannot count—
The poignant grief, the blow that stings;
What counts is just how we surmount
And how we face such things.
We may do very little well—
And few of us will reach our quest;
But all that we attempt will tell.
If we have done our best."

After some enjoyable community singing, the meeting closed as usual.

Tells Skinny Men How to Gain Weight

Money Back If You Don't

SELBY WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION

The monthly meeting of the Selby Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in the school room of the church, on March 28th.

Mrs. M. Windover was in charge of the devotional exercises, and opened the meeting with the hymn, "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus". The Scripture lesson was taken from Ezekiel and Proverbs. God commands us to give out the light. We are our brother's keeper, the whole world is talking temperance, our opportunity is now, it may not come again in our lifetime. May God help us to uphold our National banner of Prohibition. If we believe in God we must have faith. Mrs. Grange, Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Price ken read passages of scripture corresponding with the lesson. Mrs. Dudgeon lead in prayer, and the presence of the Master seemed very near.

Our President, Mrs. Pringle, took the chair.

Minutes were read and adopted.

The Selby W. C. T. U. donated $5.00 for the Edna Farley memorial.

Moved by Mrs. Windover, and seconded by Mrs. Grange, that our open meeting be April 27th.

Mrs. B. F. Denison gave a short history of how the Budget was first formed. A cycle of pray by each member brought a very interesting and profitable meeting to a close.

"How many in your family?" asked the census taker.

"And the politics of your family?" inquired the enumerator.

"Mixed", came the short reply. "I'm a Liberal, the old man's a Tory, the kid's wet, the cow's dry, and the cat's a Populist."

Rheumatism and Pains In The Back Relieved

Says Quebec Lady After Using Dodd's Kidney Pills

Melle. Jeannette Thibault Always Keeps a Box in the House

St. Cuthbert, P.Q., April 12th, (Special)—"For 5 months I have suffered with Rheumatism. I have taken your Dodd's Kidney Pills and they have relieved me," writes Melle. J. Thibault, a resident of this place. "I took your Dodd's Kidney Pills last year for pains in the back which I was hardly able to endure, and found great relief. I assure you I am never without Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. They have become a family remedy all over the world because people have tried them and found them good. They are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They help Rheumatism, Lumbago, Lame Back and Urinary troubles. Because all of these are either kidney diseases or are caused by the kidneys failing to do their work.

Dodd's Kidney Pills can be obtained from Druggists everywhere, or The Dodds' Medicine Company, Limited, Toronto 2, Ontario.

OBITUARY

John Gordon Prout.

There passed to rest on Monday, March 5th, 1928, at his late residence, Adolphustown, John Gordon Prout, who had been failing for seven weeks, but was able to be around the house every day until Friday, when he took his bed.

The deceased was born in 1841, at Sheffield. He finished his education at the old Academy School, Napanee. He taught school for about thirty-five years at Sheffield and Erinsville with the exception of a term or so at Parrots Bay.

In the year 1886 he married Lucy Ellen Armstrong. Later he went farming, which proved successful, to his death.

The funeral took place on Thursday morning, at Napanee R. C. Church, where the Requiem Mass was sung for the repose of his soul. Two beautiful wreaths and many spiritual offerings were given. His three sons, James, Jack and William, and his three sons-in-law, J. P. McDonough, Frank X. Chilson and Frank McGuigan, were pallbearers.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow, Lucy Ellen Armstrong; five daughters, Mrs. J. P. McDonough, Bath; Mrs. Frank McGuigan, Toronto; Mrs. Frank X. Chilson, New York; Miss Vera Prout, Brooklyn, New York; Miss Beatrice Prout, Toronto, and three sons, Jim and Jack, at home, and William, of Detroit, Michigan; and one sister, Nancy, of Selby.

The remains were placed in the vault, and interment will take place in the spring in the family plot at Erinsville.

TO KEEP THE RACE PURE

Gain In Stature Used by Biologist as Basis for Argument for Simple Life.

A very practical and literal rising of Nordics is announced in a publication of the Institute for Race Biology at Upsala. In it Prof. Herman Lindberg, an expert of international authority in matters of race hygiene, has made a detailed and painstaking study of the characteristics of the Swedish race, the aim of his investigations being to provide base for legislation intended to safeguard and preserve the purity and the best qualities of the Nordics. The scope of the work and of the scientific researches of its author comprises anthropology, biology, heredity and medicine. In the course of the investigation 47,387 persons, scattered through all parts of the kingdom, were scientifically photographed, measured, weighed and questioned concerning their birth, their ancestry and their vocations.

Foremost among the conclusions reached by these investigations is that Sweden, which claims to be the oldest independent state in Europe, is inhabited by a practically homogenous race, which contains only the slightest admixture of, foreign elements and may be regarded as perhaps the purest of all representatives of the Nordic race. One of the most striking details disclosed is the fact that this Swedish race is steadily growing taller in physical stature.

It is known from records that in 1841 the average height of the twenty-one-year-old recruits called for army service was about 155 centimeters. The latest measurements show that the present height of the young men is 172.2 centimeters. Of course, the race remains blond. As to hair 72.7 per cent. are blond, 22.1 per cent. brown; 2 per cent. dark brown, and only two-tenths of one per cent. black. The eyes of 56.9 per cent. are blue or gray, and the remainder, brown. The formation of skull, face and nose remains strikingly true to the Nordic type.

Prof. Lindborg argues that all these biological and historical researches strongly testify to the strength, perseverance, intelligence, enterprise and organizing ability of the Swedish Nordics who have stood arduous tests in different parts of the world and asks for systematic and effective measure for the preservation of that race and its protection from degeneration of any kind. The fruitful causes of race degeneration which are to be guarded against comprise, according to Prof. Lindberg, the growth of large cities with the consequent depopulation of villages and decrease of the peasant class; a decreasing birth rate; immigration of undesirables; the intensification of the contrast between the rich and the poor, the pernicious use of narcotics and stimulants, the decline of morals and increase of delinquency and crime, exaggerated individualism and egoism, decline of patriotism and of interest in religion and the development of excessive luxury and mammon worship.—New York Herald Tribune.

ROGERS BATTERYLESS RADIO

NOW—You can satisfy your desire for a ROGERS!

Probably no radio has ever created a keener desire for possession than the Rogers-Batteryless. Heretofore price has been an obstacle to many, but now the new, low price-level has brought the Rogers within reach of every family.

The famous Rogers "Two-Twenty" Model, shown above with the Junior Symphony Speaker, is the standard by which all "electric" sets are judged and has proven itself by actual performance for over two years.

You can buy this complete, year 'round radio outfit now at a clear saving of $55 over the former price. Or you can buy the set alone for $225—no more than you would pay for any good battery-operated set.

Radio is no longer confined to any season—wonderful programs will be broadcasted all next summer. Why not have a "Rogers" in your home—from now on.

Empire is Superior to Other Milkers because

The EMPIRE Milks As It Should. The Empire Milking Machine has four quarters at once—just as the cow gives it down. The Longer, three-sided tip-to-udder squeeze (a patented feature) exactly duplicates the massage of a calf's tongue.

The EMPIRE Is Easy To Operate. Cups can be quickly placed on cows. Empire Milkers operate day and night up to the drop off. No harnessing to wash the operator's time.

The EMPIRE Cleans With Ease. Simple drawn cold water, then hot, through the assembled machine is all that is necessary. No disassembling. Non-Rusting Parts.

The EMPIRE Lasts Longer. Some Empires are still in service after twenty years. Patented, reinforced Empire inflations prevent overheating—a feature exclusive to Empire.

THE famous Danrobin Farm is one of 7000 prosperous Ontario farms where Empire Milking Machines go into action as regularly as the sun rises and sets. Simple to operate, dependable, easy to keep clean, low in upkeep costs and power requirements, Empire Milking Machines save time and labor. The Empire is the only machine that recreates the sucking and three-point tip-to-udder teat massage of the calf—nature's way of milking.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Matilda Taylor, formerly of Tamworth, who departed this life on April 10th, 1927.

April brings sad memories,
Of a loved one laid to rest;
She will always be remembered,
By those who loved her best.

As we loved her so we missed her,
In our memory she is near;
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Brings many a silent tear.

—Her Four Daughters.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Alex. Hart, who passed away April 13th, 1918.

We often think of days gone by,
When we were all together;
The shadow of our lives is past,
And our loved one gone forever.

To-night the stars are shining
Upon a lonely grave;
Where sleepeth there without dreaming,
One we loved but could not save,
Sleep on, dear mother, your cares are ended,
Rest in peace, your work is done;
You are gone where those who loved you,
Will meet you one by one.

Sadly missed by Daughter, Elsie.

Great Help To Young Mothers

Baby's Own Tablets Have Many Uses and Are Absolutely Harmless

To have in the house a simple, harmless remedy for the minor ills of babies and little children is a great boon to young mothers, and this is exactly why Baby's Own Tablets have been found in thousands of households. The Tablets regulate the stomach and bowels, break up colds and simple fevers, allay the irritation of cutting teeth, yet they have no drug taste and the children like them.

Concerning the Tablets Mrs. Ruthven Crommiller, Ruthven, Ont., writes:—"Kindly send me your little book on the Care of the Baby. I have two children, one four years of age and the other a year and a half. Both are in excellent health and the only medicine they have had is Baby's Own Tablets. I always keep the Tablets in the house and am happy to recommend them to other mothers."

Muresco and Alabastine, at Hooper's Drug Store.

An old negro was arrested for stealing chickens, and as he bore a rather bad reputation it was found difficult to secure counsel for him. At last a young lawyer, who had known Rastus a long time, took his case, to great joy of the old fellow. At his trial the judge asked him:

"Are you the defendant?"

The old fellow was perplexed for a moment, and then replied:

"No, sah, dat's de defendant, sah," pointing proudly to his counsel. "Dat de man wot stole de chickens."

WEDDING BELLS

Reid—Kirby

The home of the Rev. Charles V. McLean was the scene of a quiet wedding last night, when Miss Leota M. Kirby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kirby, of Mcfland Crescent, became the bride of Mr. Albert A. Reid, eldest son of Mrs. Young, of Napanee, and the late

The bride was attractively gowned in peach crepe romaine, with a black picture hat, and bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley.

After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Reid will reside in Toronto.

We endorse them from every point of view—style, quality, service. They will fill all your Spring and Summer coat requirements.

All seven styles are made from well napped Canadian Velour. All are in slenderizing, straight-line silhouettes. Each style shows a marked interpretation of the Spring-time mode. Collars are embellished with Coney furs. Inset side panels and pockets, side stitching and side cording create attractive ornamentation.

The $10.95 range is satinette lined throughout.

The $9.95 range is unlined.

Newly Arrived — Rich Colorings in Plain Fugi Silk 65c. Per Yard

Each season notes a growing demand for plain Fugi Silk. Its services are demanded for wearables of every description, for curtains and draperies. For summer uses its appeal is non-resistible.

Right now, you will find in stock, thirteen rich new colorings, considered fashionable for the summer season. The quality is exceedingly choice, firm in weave, and very silky in appearance.

The demand is bound to be keen, especially at this low price. Therefore, we urge our customers to choose their requirements immediately.

400 Yards of Canadian Gingham on Sale Saturday, April 14th Choice of a Wide Range of Patterns 15 Cents Yard

—On Saturday evening, April 7th, Mrs. Amos E. Huffman, of Moscow, with the assistance of Mrs. A. N. Benn, entertained the Adult Bible Classes of the United Church Sunday School, at the home of the former. Between thirty and forty were present, who did ample justice to the delicious luncheon, which was daintily served by the hostesses. Also enjoyed the carefully arranged programme of contests and games, as well as a solo sweetly rendered by Miss Reta Merriman, of Kingston, 12 years of age. All too soon the hour arrived for the departure of the guests, who unanimously voted their appreciation of the very pleasant evening tendered them by their teachers.

—The services of St. Mark's, Deseronto, Easter Day, the Queen of Festivals, were marked by dignity and reverence. Thirty-two made their communion at 8 o'clock, and forty-three at the midday celebration, when the music was good and reflected credit on the organist and choir. The anthem was "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead", the solo portions being taken by Mrs. Field and Mr. C. J. Knight, Jr. The Sunday School children had their service at 3 o'clock and presented their offerings in pyramid boxes. Evensong was at 7 p.m., when the Choir sang the Easter hymns with great spirit, the Rev. Herbert Pringle preached the sermon. Beautiful lilies adorned the alter. Many kind remarks were heard about the services at St. Mark's, Deseronto, on Easter Day.

BETHEL.

After the beautiful spring weather of last week Easter Sunday was ushered in with a cold and blustery day, followed by a heavy frost, but at time of writing the weather is much milder. — Varty Lake opened up on Saturday, clearing itself of its great body of ice, and, usually, soon after the ice has gone out of the lake seeding begins. The frogs have also been heard croaking in the marshes before the freeze up on Sunday night.—Among the usual holiday guests were noticed Mrs. Hurrell Huffman and children, Napanee, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Galbraith; Mrs. N. N. Sutton and daughter, Naydene, of Toronto, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson; the Misses Alma and Vivian Clark with the former's parents at Holleford; Mrs. Edith Allenbrack and Miss Laura Allenbrack with Mrs. David Saul, Camden East, to dinner, on Tuesday. —Mr. and Mrs. E. Sagar and Mr. and Mrs. Alvy Sager, of Violet, with Mr. and Mrs. Arley Clark to tea on April 1st, and Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds, of Harrowsmith, with Mr. and Mrs. Arley Clark on Easter Sunday night.—Master Clarence Martin with friends at Sydenham for the holidays. — Our school teacher, Miss Genge, with her parents at Brockville, for the holidays. —Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Jackson, Yarker, with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hamilton, for a few days.—Mrs. Harry Robinson and Mrs. Jim Hamilton spent Wednesday in Napanee.—Mr. Harry Robinson has been ill for a few days.—Mr. and Mrs. Perry Galbraith and baby, Marie, with Mrs. Galbraith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Babcock, at Holleford. — Mr. and Mrs. Percy Galbraith, Mrs. H. Huffman and Mrs. N. N. Sutton went to Napanee on Tuesday night, and attended the Napanee Eastern Star Chapter "Inspection" and banquet held that night.—Mrs. Wm. McWilliams is not so well at time of writing, but we hope to see her feeling much better as the weather gets warmer.—Miss Helen McKnight is home for the holidays.—Little Jean McKnight is much improved from her recent operation for appendicitis. — Mr. George Jackson spent Tuesday in Napanee.—Mrs. Clarence Allen spent a day recently with her mother, Mrs. Wm. McWilliams.—Mrs. N. N. Sutton spent Wednesday afternoon with her friend, Mrs. Roy Freeman, at Yarker.—Mr. and Mrs. Ira Salisbury and baby, Janice Gowdy, called at William Jackson's, Tuesday evening.—Mrs. Arley Clark and baby, Beryl, spent an afternoon recently with Mrs. Perry Allenbrack and Mrs. Edith Allenbrack.

TAMWORTH

The W. M. S. evening in the Religious Education Building, on Tuesday last, was a good success, with a very nice attendance, and an excellent programme. The pageant, "The Spirit of Easter", presented by young ladies from Enterprise, was a most creditable performance.—The Wheeler House, a familiar landmark in the village for a great many years, was totally destroyed by fire on Monday morning. The efforts of a volunteer fire fighting force prevented the spread of the flames to adjoining buildings, which for a time were in great danger. The hotel was built about 85 years ago. — Services on the Tamworth circuit will be held on Sunday, at Reidville, Marlbank, and Tamworth, morning, afternoon and evening.—Miss Helen Beckstead spent Easter with her parents, Rev. I. N. and Mrs. Beckstead, and returned to Ottawa, on Monday.—Mrs. H. V. Crich is in Kingston, at the General Hospital, where she is undergoing treatment for a few weeks.—Miss H. Reid is spending Easter week with her sister, Mrs. Pressler, near Napanee. — Mr. and Mrs. D. Rogers, Toronto, are visiting at Mrs. Rogers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Richardson. — Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Wilson, of Windsor, are visiting Mrs. Wilson's mother, Mrs. Coxall.—Miss Aletha Milligan, of Tor onto, spent the week-end at home with her mother, Mrs. N. Milligan, and sister.—Misses Caroline Lockridge, Mildred Redden and Mary Cunningham, of Peterboro' Normal, are home for the holidays.—Mr. Brown, Montreal, at his parent's, John Brown.—Mrs. Bell is very ill. We hope for her speedy recovery.—Miss Hattie Reid went to Napanee to see her sister, who is very ill. —Mr. Herb Wormwith, of Arden, at E. M. McKim's last week.—Mr. and Mrs. E. M. McKim spent last Thursday in Camden East, visiting with old friends. —Marlbank bakery caught fire from the chimney and was burnt to the ground. — Miss Mabel Carscallen is home for the Easter vacation.

SILLSVILLE

The N. C. I. pupils from this district are enjoying a well earned holiday at their various homes.—Mr. M. Sheman is improving his residence with a new roof.—Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mellow spent Saturday last in Kingston.—Mr. and Mrs. Cranston spent a day recently in Kingston.—Several from Sillsville took in the pageant at Adolphustown recently, and reported a fine entertainment.—The Musicale given in Sillsville Hall, by the Plant family, was also a treat.—A fair crowd attended the play, "Headstrong Joan", in the Town Hall, on Tuesday evening last.—The fishermen are having heavy work at present lifting well filled nets, and are also losing some nets due to weeds being tangled in them.—Miss Vera Whyte is home from Kingston General Hospital, where she was for a short time, having an operation on her throat. We all hope for a speedy recovery.—Mr. A. W. Mellow, with his daughter, Mary, and son, Leslie, took tea with his brother's family, in Kingston, on Tuesday last.—A great many men have wondered why so many ladies do not marry. The reason will be made very clear on Wednesday evening, April 18th, at Sillsville Town Hall, when Sillsville Ladies' Aid will put on their great comedy, "Twelve Old Maids".

During my recent visit to Canada with the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, my first two days' journey on the train were made so comfortable by the black attendant that I wanted to give him a good tip. So I asked him: "What is your average tip?"

"Well," he said, "my average tip, sah, is three dollahs." So I promptly gave him that amount, which he pocketed, thanking me most profoundly.

I could not help asking him why he was so delighted. His answer was: "You are the first gen'leman who has come up to my average!"

IDENTIFY BY EARS.

Cannot Be Readily Distorted by Criminals.

What ears are really for is at last being realized, thanks to the French police.

Criminals may disguise themselves with false eyebrows, cold teeth, derby hats, and distorted facial expressions, says a Science Service Bulletin. They may even desperately burn away those famous clues to identity, their fingerprints. But the astute French detective tiptoes around for a sidewise look, and there are the same old ears, boldly displaying characteristic curves, angles, sizes and proportions.

An individual's ears may not be the only pair of that particular model in existence. But their value as a clue in establishing identity is being stressed by detectives because of the complexity of ear formations, the readiness with which they can be observed and photographed and studied, and the difficulty of the individual concealing or disguising them. The fact that right and left ears of the same individual are sometimes noticeably different adds to the value of the clue.

Less Rain In Future?

During the last half-century the world's average rainfall has, according to weather records, increased about one per cent. This has been considered due to outside influences such as variation in sunlight, but an Indian weather expert has put forward a suggestion for the decrease. He suggests that the lack of rain may be due to an oil film, less than a millionth of an inch thick, spread on the surface of the ocean by ships that burn oil for fuel. Evaporation of ocean water is the chief source of rain, and this film of oil may be sufficient to retard evaporation.

To Wear Special Ring.

University of Berlin graduate students on passing their examination for doctor of divinity will hereafter be presented with a special ring.

The ring is adorned with laurel twigs and on a flat disk bears the words, in Greek, "Light—Life." On the inside are engraved the words, "Ordo Theologorum Berolinensis," and the date of granting the doctor's degree.

The ring was in use before the war, but was later abandoned for ceremonie reasons.

Pepper Shortage?

A world-wide pepper shortage is threatened. Britain consumes 9,000 tons a year, and America 1,000 tons a month. The scarcity is due to the fact that pepper plants are cultivated by negro labor for profit.

The all-round feed for all seasons

Quaker Schumacher Feed is the year-round friend of the live stock owner. A perfectly balanced carbohydrate feed, used as the sole grain ration for all live stock, or as a base for a special dairy ration.

Contains more carbohydrates—to make fat and energy—than any other feed at the same price. Grain ingredients include corn, oats, wheat and barley. To these are added oilcake meal, edible bone meal and calcium carbonate, providing needed minerals usually deficient in ordinary feeds.

All live stock relish Quaker Schumacher Feed. No waste, because they eat it clean. Low moisture content because kiln dried. Easily digested and assimilated. Sold under approved Government analysis. Write us for free advice on your feeding problems. The Quaker Oats Company, Peterborough, Ontario.

Quaker SCHUMACHER FEED

CONWAY

St. Alban's Church, Adolphustown, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday, April 3rd, at 10.30 o'clock, when Ethel Gladys Hines became the bride of Harvey Clinton Tomkins. The bride was becomingly attired in a dress of biscuit flat crepe and cream lace, with same shade and black shoes. Mr. Gardner, the Rector of the church, performed the ceremony. Miss Alda Tomkins, sister of the bride's attendant, and Mr. Harry Tomkins, brother of the groom, was the best man. A lunch was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Harry Hines. The bride wore navy crepe ensemble with a corsage bouquet of red roses. After a honeymoon trip to Toronto, the bride's attendant, and Mr. Harry Tomkins, brother of the groom, was the best man. A lunch was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Harry Hines. The bride wore navy crepe ensemble with a corsage bouquet of red roses. After a honeymoon trip to Toronto, the happy couple will reside in Conway.

Price fights should hereafter be regulated under financial news.

MAINTAINING BOUNDARY LINES OF DOMINION.

The International Boundary between Canada and the United States, including Alaska, is 5,500 miles in length, and the task of permanently maintaining this boundary in a state of effective demarcation was made one of the functions of the International Boundary Commission by a treaty signed in Washington on February 24th, 1925.

The two sections of the boundary first to receive the attention of the Commission under this treaty were the Quebec-Vermont line and the New Brunswick-Maine line between the source of the St. Croix river and the St. John river.

Both of these lines lie in thickly settled districts where roads are numerous and in good condition, where there is a great deal of traffic crossing and re-crossing the border, and where much business is carried on between the communities in the two countries. Consequently it is of great importance to the customs and immigration officials of both countries as well as to the general public, to be able to recognize easily the exact location of the boundary at any point.

These sections of the boundary were first surveyed between the years 1842 and 1845 by a joint British and United States Commission. They were resurveyed, the vistas were re-opened, and many new monuments were erected in the years 1906-1908. During the twenty years which have elapsed since that time the vistas became filled up with new growth and could be distinguished only with difficulty, while the action of floods and forests and of thoughtless or malicious persons had caused many of the monuments to deteriorate.

A small party was, therefore, engaged on each of these two lines during the past season repairing the monuments and re-opening the vistas so that no one anywhere in the vicinity of the boundary need be in doubt as to its exact location.

It is the intention of the Boundary Commissioners to have the vistas re-opened and the monuments repaired periodically on the various sections of the boundary, a certain amount of such work being done each year so that the entire boundary may be kept in that state of effective demarcation required by the treaty of 1925.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

"Take a brick home; it's fine when company comes."

Useful in Camp.—Explorers, surveyors, prospectors and hunters will find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil very useful in camp. When the feet and legs are wet and cold it is well to rub them freely with the Oil and the result will be the prevention of pains in the muscles, and should a cut, or contusion, or sprain be sustained, nothing could be better as a dressing or lotion.

"It's a left-hand drive as you will see," said the salesman, "but we can have that altered for you."

"Oh, don't trouble," said the purchaser, airily, "I've been left-handed all my life."

There is no poisonous ingredient in Holloway's Corn Remover, and it can be used without danger or injury.

The political aspirant made one more attempt to rouse enthusiasm on his audience.

"Gentlemen," he said, "we need something to carry this constituency by the biggest majority ever known. What is it?"

Asthma Brings Misery, but Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma—Remedy will replace the misery with welcome relief. Inhaled as smoke or vapor it reaches the very innermost recesses of the bronchial passages and soothes them. Restriction passes and easy breathing returns. If you knew as well how this remedy would help you as do thousands of grateful users, there would be a package in your home to-night. Try it.

During my recent visit to Canada with the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, my first two days' journey on the train were made so comfortable by the black attendant that I wanted to give him a good tip. So I asked him: "What is your average tip?"

"Well," he said, "my average tip, sah, is three dollahs." So I promptly gave him that amount, which he pocketed, thanking me most profoundly.

I could not help asking him why he was so delighted. His answer was: "You are the first gentman who has come up to my average!"

Worms feed upon the vitality of children and endanger their lives. A simple and effective remedy is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Nation-wide Fame. — There is scarcely a corner of this great Dominion where the merits of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil have not been tried and proved. It is one of the world's most efficient remedies for sore throat, lame back and many other ailments arising from inflammation. Rubbed on the skin its healing power is readily absorbed, and it can also be taken internally.

A small but alert country lad applied for work in a factory, and was sent to the manager.

"What is your name, my lad?"

"Scott, sir," replied the boy promptly.

"And your Christian name?"

"Walter, sir," equally promptly.

"A very well known name, if I may say so," said the manager.

The boy looked pleased. "Yes, sir, I've been delivering groceries round here for quite two years now," was his naive explanation.

The safeguard ice could from damage that worms cause, use Miller's Worm Powders, the medicine par excellence for children. These powders will clear the system entirely of worms, will regulate and stimulate the organs injuriously affected by the worms, and will encourage healthful operation of the digestive processes. As a vermifuge it can be relied on for its effectiveness.

Women Approaching Middle Life

Find "Fruit-a-tives" of Great Benefit

MRS. O. GODIN.

—Mrs. Orezine Godin.

This stage of life takes heavy toll of woman's health unless stomach, kidneys and bowels are in first-class condition. "Fruit-a-tives", in a natural, gentle way, keeps the whole system toned up to withstand this trying experience. Made from the intensified juices of ripe, fresh fruit and health-building tonics. 25c and 50c a box at all druggists.

MOTORING IN CANADA'S GREAT NATIONAL PARKS

Highway Mileage is Increased.—Number of Motor Tourists to Our Scenic Areas Rapidly Growing—140,000 in 1927.

The announcement that approximately 375 miles of high-class motor highways will be open for travel in the Canadian national parks this summer serves as still another reminder of the remarkable developments that have come as the result of modern invention. Last year the number of visitors who entered the mountain parks by motor totalled approximately 140,000. When it is remembered that it is only five years since the first through motor route was opened across the Central Rockies, a better idea of the rapid development of this form of travel can be obtained.

The year 1923 marks, too, another anniversary that provides an interesting measure point from which the progress of Canada may be realized. It is just seventy years this summer since Dr. (later Sir) James Hector discovered the two passes in the Rockies which were destined later to open the first doors to rail and motor travel. In the summer of 1858, a British expedition under Capt. Palliser, sent out by Her Majesty's Government to discover a possible location for a road in all British territory suitable for the passage of wagons across the Rockies, reached the Bow valley, not far from the present City of Calgary. Before them lay the mountains, a chaotic wilderness of tangled peaks thrusting an almost impenetrable barrier four hundred miles wide between the east and the west. The main route of travel, the principal route followed by the great fur companies and the few rare travellers who were willing to face the hardships of the journey, lay to the north. But this route, by way of the Athabaska pass and the Columbia river offered many difficulties. The pass itself was too difficult for horses and the river presented obstacles and dangers sufficient to make this route an impracticable one.

A few other passes were known to have been crossed by early travellers but maps and data about the character of the country were rare and hard to obtain. When Hector, therefore, undertook the exploration of the Bow valley and the passes beyond, he entered an almost uncharted wilderness. The story of his adventures of the exploration of the Vermilion pass, of the hardships, sufferings and almost death which he endured on the west slope of the Rockies, and of the final discovery by the little band of starving men of the famous Kicking Horse pass, provides one of the most thrilling chapters in Canadian history. Strangely enough the latter pass was not thought worthy of a single line of commendation in Hector's final report, while the Vermilion pass, he stated, was the most suitable, in his opinion, "of all passes in the Rockies for the location of a road". Yet it was the Kicking Horse pass which was finally chosen for the route of the Canadian Pacific railway and in a little less than twenty-eight years from the time of Hector's discovery, the first transcontinental train from the east went roaring through the mountains and the first artery was opened by which the life blood of the Dominion could flow uninterruptedly from coast to coast.

From that day, for nearly forty years the railway provided the only means of travel across the mountains. The completion of the Banff-Windermere Highway in 1923 across the very Vermilion pass discovered by Hector opened a new chapter and made a way for the open-air, open-sky mode of travel which has brought new life and enjoyment to hundreds of thousands in the last few years.

Since the completion of this first new route, many other developments have taken place. The opening of the Kicking Horse Trail provided another motor crossing of the central ranges and threw open one more national park to this form of travel. To-day a distance of less than one hundred miles remains to be covered to complete the long-talked-of project of a motor highway in all Canadian territory from the plains to the coast. These few years have seen, too, the linking up of Waterton Lakes national park with the Glacier park, Montana, by motor highway and the building of the luxurious Prince of Wales hotel in this formerly little-known reservation.

In Jasper park the new motor highway now reaches from Jasper to the eastern gateway of the park where it will probably soon meet the highway from Edmonton. In Rocky Mountains park, Banff has become the motor gateway to the passage of the Rockies. Its streets are thronged with cars from every part of the continent. To meet the needs of the increasing stream of travellers, motor campsites, bungalow camps, moderate-priced inns, and tea-houses have sprung up like magic along the highways. Even the exclusive region of Lake Louise now provides the more simple forms of accommodation and makes it possible for motorists to enjoy the wonders of this beautiful resort in an inexpensive way. Each year the highways are being improved and the more difficult stretches widened, view-points cut at the more spectacular places, trails made to neighbouring glaciers or waterfalls, more provision made in every way for the comfort and pleasure of visitors, so that to-day the "passage of the mountains" is a delightful experience, within reach of everyone who owns a car.

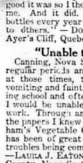
YOUNG WOMEN SUFFER MOST

These Two Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Ayer's Cliff, Quebec. — "I have been teaching for three years, and at the end of the year I always feel tired and have no appetite. I was awful sick each month, too, having pains in my back until sometimes I was obliged to stop working. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I heard many women telling how good it was so I thought it would help me. And it did. Now I take six bottles every year and recommend it to others."—DONALDA FANEUX, Ayer's Cliff, Quebec.

"Unable to Work"

Canning, Nova Scotia.—"I had irregular periods and great suffering at those times, the pains causing vomiting and fainting. I was teaching school and often for some hours I would be unable to attend to my work. Through an advertisement in the papers I knew of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has been of great benefit to me, the troubles being completely relieved."—LAURA J. EATON, Canning, King's County, Nova Scotia.

More POWER than any other Engine of its Size

McLaughlin-Buick engine develops more power than other engines because of its valve-in-head construction concentrating the full force of the explosion directly on the piston and because it necessitates a smaller cooling area. This latter feature also provides more efficient combustion and a valuable saving of fuel.

TESTS prove that the valve-in-head engine as used by McLaughlin-Buick develops more power than any other engine of its size.

Easter Day at St. Mary Magdalene.

The Easter Day services at St. Mary Magdalene's were bright and beautiful, and three large congregations, at 8 a.m., 10.30 a.m., and 7 p.m., thoroughly enjoyed them. The Choir, under the splendid management of Mr. Cyril Waite, the Organist, rendered the Choral Eucharist at 10.30 a.m. most impressively. At Evensong a beautiful Easter Anthem was sung, Miss Hilda McGreer taking the solo, in her usual sympathetic and effectual manner. An appropriate sermon was preached by the Vicar, and the Easter offering was most satisfactory.

WHEELER HOTEL IS DESTROYED

The Wheeler Hotel, Tamworth, known to every commercial traveler on the road, was totally destroyed by fire early Monday morning. Many of the occupants had barely time to leave the burning building, but no one was injured in the conflagration. The cause of the fire was given as an overheated stove.

This hotel was built in 1827 and although repaired several times the original structure was little altered. It was first class workmanship throughout being made of square timbers and a solid pine frame. All of the furnishings were lost, but the loss was fully covered by insurance. Many from the countryside about were drawn to the scene as the sky was lit for miles around from the blaze.

The Big Play.

"The Strike of the Ladies' Aid" will be given in the Town Hall, Newburgh, on Tuesday evening, April 17th, at 8 o'clock, by the ladies of the United Church. Time, 2 hours. Music between acts. Old fashioned costumes and songs. Admission 35c.; children 20c. 14bp

Three-Act Comedy Play,

"Back to the Farm", by young people of Sidney, under auspices of Grace Church Ladies' Aid, in Grace Church Sunday School Room, on Thursday, April 19th, 1928, at 8 p.m. Belleville Comedian and Singer between acts. Admission, Adults 35c., Children 20c. 15ap

Wilton Women's Institute.

The April meeting of the Wilton Women's Institute will be held on Tuesday evening, April 17th, at 7.30 o'clock, in the Grange Hall, Wilton. The Ernestown Women's Institute will provide the programme for the evening, which will include Mrs. Fred Hamm's "Trip to Japan", which will be illustrated by lantern slides. Other numbers will also be given by some of the Ernestown ladies. Everyone welcome, gentlemen included.

Bakeshop Lost.

On Saturday morning the bakeshop and barns owned by George Jordan of Maribank, were destroyed by fire. Nothing was saved, and Mr. Jordan suffered a heavy loss as he ministered for would not adequately cover. Many other buildings about the burning one caught fire, but heroic work on the part of the neighbors prevented the spread of flames. The English Church was on fire three times but brought under control each time.

REV. E. FARNSWORTH TO RETIRE

The decision of the Rev. E. Farnsworth, of Camnifton Circuit, to retire in the coming June from the active ministry at Camnifton, will be heard with regret by the people who know him. These are not confined to the charges to which he has ministered for almost seven years, but they number many from the surrounding section and people of other communions than that of the United Church. Mr. Farnsworth's sympathetic interest in the people as individuals, his high principles, his devotion to his duties which have never been light and his fairness and open-mindedness have hoobred him with a very high place in the hearts of his friends. The progress of the churches in which he has ministered is sufficient proof of the sustained interest of the members of the congregations and back of that of the ministry of the labors of their minister. Not to many men is it given to serve and rest so high in the hearts of those upon whom their ministry has been bestowed.—Belleville Daily Ontario, March 9th, 1925.

OBITUARY

Margaret L. McBride.

The sudden death of Margaret McBride occurred on Thursday, March 15th, 1928, at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Ray Bush, Napanee. She was born in Sheffield Township, on October 13th, 1851. She was in her usual health until Thursday, when she was stricken with a pain around her heart. The Doctor was summoned, but she gradually grew weaker, and the following Thursday she passed away to meet Jesus, her Redeemer. Everything that loving hands could do to save her was done, but she was not for God took her. The funeral was held at the home of her grand-daughter, on Saturday forenoon, conducted by her Pastor, Rev. T. A. Seale, assisted by Rev. E. Smith. Rev. Mr. Seale took as a text, Malachi 3rd chapter and 17th verse, "And they shall be mine saith the Lord of Hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels, and I will spare them as a man spareth his own son that serveth him." Miss E. Snyder sang her favorite hymn, "Does Jesus Care". Her main object in life was to gain Heaven. She leaves to mourn their loss a daughter, one brother, and four grandchildren, Mrs. Robt. Knowlton, Florida; Mr. Adam Mathews, Mrs. Ray Bush, Mrs. Eddie Pike, Battle Creek; Mrs. Harry Sine, Shannonville; Mrs. Ray Young, Napanee. Her husband predeceased her three years ago; also two children some years ago.

MORVEN W. M. S.

The annual Easter Tea was held on Monday evening, at the White church. The meeting opened by a short Scripture lesson, Matt. 28 5-9, given by the President. Then all repeated the watchword. Hymn 184 was sung. Responsive reading, "A Saviour Which is Christ the Lord", was led by Mrs. C. L. Sharp. Prayer by Mr. Merrick, then the roll was called, and all responded by a verse of Scripture.

A quartette, "The Crucifixion", by Mr. and Miss Babcock, Mrs. Winters and Mr. Pralick, was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Geo. Clark then gave a splendid reading. Music by Meadames Winters and Pralick. A reading, "Mrs. Morgan's Thanksoffering", by Mrs. J. F. Lake. Offering was then taken and Hymn 137 sung. The meeting closed by the Misjah benediction, after which a delicious lunch was served by the ladies.

DENBIGH

In the death of Mr. Joseph Rahm, which occurred April 1st, the community lost one of its earliest settlers and best known citizens. Some three months ago Mr. Rahm went to the General Hospital, Kingston, for a minor operation. While there it was discovered he had cancer of the stomach. When sufficiently recovered from the operation he returned to his home two miles west of the village. With the dread disease of cancer it soon became apparent he could not survive long, and after a few weeks of patient suffering, he passed to the great beyond, at the age of seventy-five. During the last twelve or fourteen years Mr. Rahm was the faithful, pleasant, and accommodating mail carrier from Denbigh to Cloyne. He was most cheerful and optimistic under all conditions, and bore his suffering to the last with great Christian fortitude. Mr. Rahm was a faithful, life-long member of the Lutheran Church. Not having a resident minister, Mr. Rahm frequently officiated as lay-reader. It was his request that Rev. P. A. Scott, of the United Church, should conduct the funeral services, as Mr. Scott had visited him during his sickness, and was a friend of long standing; however, one or two officials of the church persuaded the family to have a Lutheran minister, and Rev. Mr. Voss, of Eganville, was secured. Mr. Rahm was very highly esteemed by all and greatly beloved by his own family. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Wm., residing near his father's home, and Adolph, of Arnprior; also two daughters, Mrs. Robt. Stein, and Mrs. Leidler, of Raglan, besides four step-daughters. Interment took place in the Lutheran cemetery. Much snow still remains in the woods and certain places in the roads, notwithstanding the great thaw of last week, which caused the record of the high-water mark to be broken. In some places bridges and dams were carried away. Some say they never saw the water in lakes and rivers and creeks so high.—Owing to the great depth of snow and the lateness of the season, many report a poor spring for sugar-making.—The roads are in a terrible condition at present.—Nearly all teachers in and around Denbigh are enjoying the Easter holidays in their respective homes.—Our Sunday Mr. Chas. Both, went to Toronto a few days ago to take in the big Educational Convention, after which he was going to visit friends and relatives at Kitchener.—Mrs. (Dr.) Adams, who is spending the Easter season with her son, Joseph, wife and baby, in Peterboro', is expected home in a few days.—Miss Louise Faulk, accompanied Miss Verna Lauman, Continuation teacher, to her home at Kitchener, to spend the Easter holidays.—Miss Susie Armstrong of Plevna; Miss Emma Hughes, Verschachr; Miss Cordelia Hutchinson, Watchan, and Miss Eileen Rodgers, of Swamp Road, are enjoying the holidays at their respective homes. All are pupils at Denbigh Continuation School.—Miss Anna Barger has returned to Toronto, after attending the funeral of her step-father, the late Mr. Rahm.—Harold Clark and brother, of Toronto, are spending a few days with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Both.—Mr. Dick Glaeser and family are now settled in their new home, recently purchased from Mr. Adolph Glaeser and family have removed from their farm into the home lately owned and occupied by his father, Mr. Herman Glaeser. We welcome the Mr. Glaesers and families to Denbigh village.—Mr. John Bell and family, Matawatchan, have moved to Mr. Adolph Glaeser's farm, near the village, which Mr. Bell has rented.—Mr. Andy Armstrong and family, who have been living on a farm just west of Denbigh, for some time, have removed to a farm near Cloyne.—Miss Edna and Miss Lillie Glaeser, of Kingston, are spending the Easter season with their parents in the village.—It is understood Miss Bell, who has recently been a patient in the Hospital, Kingston, will remain home during the summer.—A meeting of the Official Board was held in the United Church recently. The reports showed the work to be in excellent condition under the efficient services of Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Scott. Notwithstanding many requests for Mr. Scott's return for the sixth year, he decided to resign. Considering the hard field to work in Mr. Scott has succeeded in accomplishing what five years ago, when he first came, seemed impossible. Rev. and Mrs. Scott are greatly esteemed, and will be greatly missed on leaving.—The Ladies' Aid, with Mrs. Scott President, met recently at the home of Mrs. J. W. Lane. There, only recently organized, the work of the Aid is moving along nicely, and the hour much enjoyed. A dainty lunch of cake, sandwiches, coffee, and tea, was served by Mrs. Lane, and a hearty vote of thanks tendered for her pains. The next meeting will be held at the parsonage.—Mr. E. G. Adams, of the Adams store, Denbigh, is still confined to his bed, and little hopes are entertained for his ultimate recovery.—Mr. A. Lockwood & Son are busily engaged getting their saw mill ready for the spring cut. Over a thousand logs are now at the mill.—Mrs. Warlick, Sr., is recovering, we are glad to say, from a severe attack of flu.—Mr. Lorne Thompson was the first man this season to step on the gas. His new Whippett seemed as anxious to go as its owner, but owing to bad roads it could not get away from the village far.

ODESSA

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society was held in the Sunday School room, on April 11th. Considering the busy season, the attendance was unusually large. The President, Mrs. Amy Snider, opened the meeting in the usual way. Mrs. A. Hagerman led in prayer. After the nineteenth Psalm was read, the Roll Call and minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. In the absence of the Recording Secretary, Mrs. H. J. Smith, the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Storms, resumed her duties. After the business was transacted, all joined in singing "Labour On", and repeating the Lord's Prayer. Among the Easter visitors were Miss Stella Graham, Toronto, with her mother, Mrs. T. C. Graham, and Miss Laura Fraser, Durham, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Fraser.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jenkins, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith, for the holiday season, returned to their home in Kingston, last Thursday.

Miss Zita Kenyon, who spent her holidays with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. King, returned to Toronto last Sunday. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Max Kenyon.

Ralph Benjamin has moved in his new home recently purchased from Mrs. Thomas Clyde, and his son Fred Benjamin, has moved in the Sidney Sproule house on Main St., recently vacated by Andrew Navet. Mrs. Clyde has moved in the Earl Silver residence.

A large number attended the Hydro Electric and Ernestown Council meeting held in the Town Hall, last Thursday night. The object is to have the Hydro extended from Westbrook to Napanee on the Highway. The propositions were left open for consideration. The Earle Council also passed a by-law, prohibiting dogs on the street unless accompanied by and led by their owners.

Considerable excitement was caused Monday morning, when a dog affected by rabies, arrived, after visiting the country and killing a goose for Maurice Lawler, about two miles from here, on the Sydenham road, and a cat about a mile on the road to Bayer's town Station. He attacked a couple of dogs owned by Charles Emmons and Ben Hagerman, and all three were disposed of. The dog was supposed to have come from Kingston.

CROYDON

The Women's Institute met in the Orange Hall, Croydon, on Wednesday, April 11th, with twelve members present and five visitors. We were much pleased to have Miss Dafoe, President, Mrs. Hutchman, of Moscow, with us. After the regular meeting the representatives of Tamworth, Moscow, Colebrooke and Yarker branches made arrangements for our District Convention, which is to be on Wednesday, June 6th, at Croydon. At the close the Croydon ladies served a dainty lunch of sandwiches, salads, cake and coffee. — Mr. Pall Mall and sister, Miss Agnes, motored over to Rochester on Wednesday of last week to visit friends.—Mrs. Will Galbraith has returned home, after a two weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Will Hyland, of Belleville.—Miss Helen Amey returned to her school, after spending the Easter holidays with her parents here.—Mrs. Chas. Hagerman has returned to take up his duties at the York school.—Mrs. Martin and daughter, Miss Martin, spent the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Kring.—The sap weather is about over, and they have topped off a pert a poor run of sap.—Mr. and Mrs. Eric Keller of Syracuse, N.Y., spent a few days here, visiting friends.—We had a heavy fall of snow on Saturday which made the roads very slippery for cars.—A few from here attended the ball at Centreville, on Monday evening.—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Close and Annie, Miss Margaret Close and Mrs. H. King spent Saturday in Napanee.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chamber,
April 16th, 1928.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor E. J. Roy presiding.

Present—Councillors Loucks, Tustin, Daly, Kimmerly, Ungar and Simpson.

Minutes of the last regular and special sessions were read and confirmed.

The Salvation Army were granted permission to hold a Tag Day on May 26th.

Councillor Daly reported that Mr. J. Thompson, the architect, would be in town on Tuesday, with the plans for the remodelling of the Town Hall, and ready to proceed with the advertising for tenders for the work.

Councillor Tustin reported that the parking signs for Dundas St. were ready for erection, and the stop signs were being painted with the street names on the back.

Councillor Loucks reported progress in reference to the matter of street lighting, and asked for further time to make a more extensive report.

Mayor E. J. Roy reported having made an extensive survey in reference to the petitions now in circulance, and found that railway men and merchants and nearly 100% of the retired citizens were against it, and employees and clubs and a few citizens were in favor.

Moved by Coun. Tustin and seconded by Coun. Kimmerly, that no action be taken. Carried.

A By-law in regard to the sale of meat in the Town of Napanee was introduced, given its several readings, and finally passed. The By-law provides that no license shall be issued for the sale of fresh meats, except from a store or shop properly equipped for handling and selling such meats, and no one can secure such a license unless he presents a certificate from the Medical Officer of Health that he has a sanitary place in which to carry on such business. The By-law practically prohibits the selling of meats on the market except by the quarter. The fee for such a license was fixed at $3.00.

Mrs. G. Switzer and Mrs. C. I. Mayhew appeared on behalf of the Victorian Order of Nurses, asking that the V.O.N. have the first privilege of putting on a public entertainment in the Town Hall when the remodelling work is finished. One reason was from the financial standpoint, and the other for publicity. Referred to the, Town Property Committee.

Dr. G. H. Cowan brought to the attention of Council about the speed cars were travelling at train times. Referred to Police Committee to report.

Moved by Coun. Simpson, seconded by Coun. Ungar, that the Department of Public Works and Highways be asked by the Town of Napanee to appoint a travelling police traffic officer whose duty it would be to travel up and down the highway, between the municipalities of Toronto and Montreal, and visit all urban centres along the highway at different times during the summer season, and enforce the Highway Traffic Act. That a copy of this motion be sent to Clerks of the other municipalities between Toronto and Montreal, requesting that similar resolutions be passed and forwarded to the Public Works and Highways Department. Carried.

On motion the Police Committee were given power to act in reference to the purchasing of two danger signs from the Ray Reflecting Sign Co., of Montreal. The signs, if purchased, will be placed on Dundas St., near the Gibbard Furniture factory.

STRATHCONA

We are glad to report that Mrs. Ed. Hanes is much improved from her recent accident.—Mr. Sidney Fox and wife are again in our midst.—Mr. Wm. Ballance has a new car.—Mrs. F. Best and Mrs. Ed. Hanes, of Ottawa, are the friends.—Mrs. W. J. Johnston and two daughters, Joy and Evelyn, spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Finlay. They returned to Toronto on Monday.—Mr. and Mrs. F. Finlay and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howlett took up Ward Wartman's, Newburgh, last Friday evening.—Mr. Clarence Baker is running a boarding house in the building formerly occupied by W. J. Finlay. —Mr. Walt Dens and family are leaving our village this week. They will be greatly missed by their many friends.—A number attended the play in New-burgh on Tuesday night. All report a good time.—Sunday School this Sunday at 3 p.m.

NEWBURGH

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Farley were in the village on Sunday, and returned to Kingston with their daughters, June and Vivian, who had spent the holidays with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Farley.

Mrs. Frink and Mr. Fred Wales, of Switzerville, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wales, on Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Linstead, of Odessa, called on friends in the village, on Tuesday.

Mr. Churchill, of Cobourg, was a Sunday caller in the village.

Miss Essie Johnstone returned to Ottawa by motor. She was accompanied by her mother, and Mrs. Perry.

Mrs. Johnstone and Mrs. Perry returned by train on Saturday.

The play put on in the Town Hall on Tuesday night of this week, entitled, "The Strike of the Ladies' Aid", brought a large crowd to see and hear this big play. From the time the curtain was drawn at the beginning of the first act till the close, it was a continuous laugh. Some people's ribs will be sore they laughed so hard and so long. How could they help it to see our usually sedate ladies all dressed up in costumes which were the common wearing apparel of fifty or sixty years ago. And the humorous situations which occurred. Each about the dramatic ability of the Ladies' Aid. The ladies have engagements to repeat the play at Enterprise and Adamston East, at near dates. Seventy-eight dollars was the financial result of the play.

Mr. Fred Clement, of Bogart, is visiting friends in Newburgh.

The district Quarterly Meeting of the Free Methodist Church will be held in Napanee, on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 26th.

Mrs. Allen, of Moscow, visited friends in the vicinity of Wesley and Newburgh during the week.

The following is an extract from a letter written by Miss Elizabeth Read, Chisamba, West Africa: "Our school concert was a happy one, and all seemed to be satisfied with the results. The weekly and monthly test gave a great impetus to diligence and real progress. We had a nice little programme of songs, recitations and prize distribution. The two first items by the wee tots were very cute. Their native teacher has sole entire charge of the teaching of these songs. They rang two of the very familiar kindergarten songs, "Good Morning" and "Sunshine," and "The Blacksmith." To hear a row of coal-black shining little faces, and to hear the songs, accompanied by the appropriate gestures, brought back memories of Glen Ross. As they finished these songs they quietly bowed their wee heads, put their hands up and in a voice only the "Lord's Prayer." It was all very sweet and made a queer lump in one's throat. This group made such a contrast to hungreds of others in heathen villages. with filth and squalor surrounding them, not knowing the tender love of the God Shepherd for his little lost lambs. It is so true here in our part of Africa that cleanliness must be next to godliness if we are to raise the living conditions of these people and diminish the infant mortality, which is just shocking."

Messrs. Wynne McDermott and Angus Harrison, of St. Michael's College, Toronto, spent the Easter Holidays at J. Ed. Harrison's.

Mrs. Metcalfe, of Centreville, visited her daughter, Mrs. Frank Gerow, during the week.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Lockwood, who has been doubly bereft. Her sister, Mrs. Saper, died a few weeks ago, and now her brother, Mr. Alvin VanLuven, of Kingston, has passed across. The funeral was held on Tuesday at his home in Kingston.

Miss Aileen Harrison returned to Napanee Collegiate on Monday, after spending the Easter holidays at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Lockwood, of Belleville, were in Kingston attending the the funeral of the late Mr. A. VanLuven, and subsequently visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lockwood, Newburgh, before returning to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gerow and son, Grant, also Mrs. Hill and son, Waldemar, visited Mrs. A. Lapum, Belleville, during last week.

The dance in the Town Hall last Wednesday night was a nice crowd. The music was furnished by a Kingston orchestra, of which Mr. Sid Fox, an old Newburgh boy, is leader.

Mildred Harrison returned on Monday to Notre Dame Convent, Kingston, after spending the Easter recess at the home of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady, with two sons, Kenneth and Carne, and Albert Rendel were motor visitors at Kingston on Sunday last.

Clarence Bowerman spent last week at Stillwater.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith, of Tweed, were callers in Newburgh on Sunday.

Mr. Frank Briscoe has left for British Columbia, after spending two months at his home here.

ODESSA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

On Wednesday afternoon, April 4th, the Odessa Women's Institute was held at Mrs. J. E. Mabee's, who so kindly loaned her lovely home for this meeting. The spacious rooms, which were very tastefully decorated with spring flowers and lovely Easter lilies, were well filled with about eighty Institute members and visitors. It being Mrs. Mabee's twenty-fifth anniversary month, she very generously invited all her friends of other nearby Institutes, whom she had lived among for twenty-five years, and Bay View, Ernestown, Violet, Wilton, and Westbrook were well represented.

The President in the chair, the meeting was opened by singing the Institute Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Roll call was answered by "Poultry and Garden Hints".

The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. Business was brief. A programme committee was appointed for next meeting. It was moved and seconded that Mrs. Roy Hartman and Mrs. W. J. Snider be auditors.

The programme which followed was well worth listening to, and too much praise cannot be given to the ones who very generously participated.

The Misses Sproule and Oates then favoured us with an instrumental duet.

Current Events were read by Mrs. Roy Hartman. We then had a vocal solo by Mrs. Crowe.

Mrs. Birrett, of Kingston, who was so kind to come out for this meeting, gave us a very interesting address on "Annuals and Perenials for the Home Border". I am sure if we followed the outline she gave us, one could not but have beautiful borders about the home. The Misses Babcock then sang us a lovely Easter duet.

Mrs. McNaughton, of Sydenham, then gave us a talk on "The Mediterranean Cruise". One could not but have an imaginary trip along with her, for she so ably described the trip from place to place. Miss Dorothy Compton then gave us a piano solo.

Mrs. Etherington, President of the Local Council of Women, was invited to give us a talk, which was very interesting, on that line of work. Mrs. Campbell also gave us a short talk on the same line of work. Mrs. Bogart, Conl. of the Girl Guides, was called on to give a talk and very generously responded. She told us of the great interest one found in Girl Guide work, also about the beautiful new camp which is being planned for. Mrs. Bogart said she considered Institute work the greatest," but next came Girl Guide work. Miss Sproule, of Westbrook, then favored us with a vocal duet.

Mrs F. Asselstine moved a hearty vote of thanks, in behalf of Odessa Institute, to all the programme helpers, our visitors from the Local Council of Women, and all the visitors and members, who came and made the meeting a success, and hoped our visiting ladies would sometime again in the near future attend one of our meetings. This was seconded by Mrs. John Amey, and loud applause from the other ladies.

Collection amounted to $8.55.

A delicious and dainty lunch was then served by the hostess, which far surpassed the Institute rules, but as Mrs. Mabee was celebrating so interesting an occasion as her silver wedding, she was not fined, but wished many more happy years of wedded bliss to come.

After lunch, a dress and apron parade took place for a prize. Mrs. J. F. Sproule, Mrs. P. Ham and Mrs. W. C. Snider very kindly consented to act as judges. They found their task very difficult for they claimed all the dresses and aprons were so pretty and neat, the only thing they regretted that there was not a prize for each. A decision was finally agreed upon, Miss L. Aylsworth winning for the house dress, and Mrs. Martin Hill for the apron, each receiving a beautiful china cake plate. I am sure the judges need not worry of not satisfying, for all were well pleased with the good work done, and enjoyed the fun of being in the parade.

This very interesting and inspiring meeting was brought to a close, and all when departing expressed to the hostess what a delightful afternoon they had spent.

Roll Call for May "Spring Greens and Salads".

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lasher wish to thank their friends for the beautiful gifts received. 16ap

New Strength For Weak Stomachs

Indigestion Disappears When the Blood is Enriched.

The most urgent need of all who suffer from any form of indigestion is a tonic to enrich the blood. Pain and distress after eating is the way the stomach shows that it is too weak to perform the work of digesting the food it takes. New strength is given to weak stomachs by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills because they purify and enrich the blood. This accounts for the speedy relief in stomach disorders that follows the use of this medicine. The value of this medicine in cases of indigestion is shown by the case of Mrs. George W. Johnson, Lequille, N.S., who says:—"I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was greatly distressed with indigestion. Always after eating I suffered from pains in the stomach and other distressing symptoms. I tried different remedies, but without getting relief. I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I readily did, and I am feeling very grateful ever since to the person who gave me the advice. The very first box helped me and before I had taken a half dozen boxes I was restored to my former good health and all traces of this distressing trouble disappeared. It is now about a year since I took the pills, and I have not been troubled with indigestion since. I have taken every occasion to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to those in need of a medicine and shall continue to do so."

A little booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat", will be sent free to anyone asking for it. You can get the pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Reading by Mrs. Geo. Black, "Mrs. Morgan's Quarter", which emphasized the spirit of giving. Hymn, "I Gave My Life for Thee". Prayer by Mrs. Histed.

May meeting will be held at the home of Miss A. Williams.

"Closing hymn was "Low in the Grave He Lay".

A very delicious lunch was served.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists Call It "Joint-Ease" Because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaking Joints Only.

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some lowpriced remedy that would bring benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments or any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease". You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It really is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

Refuge for Gorillas?

Co-operation of the French Colonial Government in the creation of a refuge for the gorillas of West Africa was urged by the New York Zoological Society at its thirty-first annual meeting.

A resolution called the establishment of the gorilla sanctuary in the Belgian Congo, where the recruits that the French Congo is being invaded by hunters to the extent that the species there is in danger of extermination. Refusal to purchase young gorillas for exhibition purposes was provided for in the resolution because the animals rarely survive in captivity.

How Brazil Got Its Name.

Brazil originally took its name from the fact that a very hard wood of reddish color grew there in great abundance. So brilliant is this wood when a log is split that the Portuguese gave it the name of brasa, which means live coal.

In speaking of this country the Portuguese often referred to it as the place of the live coal wood, and gradually the word Brazil came into general use.

Mrs. Wilson's Experience a Guide to Women Passing through the Change of Life

Hamilton, Ontario.—"I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot speak too highly of it as I was at the Change of Life and was all run-down and had no appetite. I was very weak and sick, and the pains in my back were so bad I couldhardlymove. I got very sad at times and thought I had not a friend on earth. I did not care if I lived or died. I was very nervous, too, and did not go out very much. A friend advised me to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I did. I am a farmer's wife, and always worked hard until lately, and was ill for two months. I began to feel like a new woman after the first bottle and I recommend it with great success, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about your medicines, as I cannot speak too highly of them."—Mrs. EMMA WILSON, 471 Wilson Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Rescue.

WAIST deep in the light snow, Jan began the ascent, dragging himself up by the tops of the slender saplings, stopping every few yards to half stretch himself out in the soft mass through which he was struggling, panting with exhaustion. He shouted when he gained the top of the ridge. Up through the white blur of snow on the other side there came to him faintly a shout; yet, in spite of its faintness, Jan knew that it was very near.

"Something has happened to Ledoq," he told himself, "but he surely has food, and we can live it out until the storm is over."

It was easier going down the ridge, and he went quickly in the direction from which the voice had come, until a mass of huge bowlders loomed up before him. There was a faint odor of smoke in the air, and he followed it in among the rocks, where it grew stronger.

"Ho, Ledoq!" he shouted.

A voice replied a dozen yards away. Slowly, as he advanced, he made out the dim shadow of life in the white gloom—a bit of smoke climbing weakly in the storm, the black opening of a brush shelter—and then, between the opening and the spiral of smoke, a living thing that came creeping toward him on all fours, like an animal.

He plunged toward it and the shadow staggered upward and would have fallen had it not been for the support of the deep snow. Another step, and a sharp cry fell from Jan's lips. It was not Ledoq, but Dixon, who stood there with white, starved face and staring eyes in the snow gloom!

"My God, I am starving—and dying for a drink of water!" gasped the Englishman chokingly, thrusting out his arms. "Thoreau, God be praised"—

He staggered and fell in the snow. Jan dragged him back to the shelter.

"I will have water for you—and something to eat—very soon," he said.

His voice sounded unreal. There was a mistiness before his eyes which was not caused by the storm. He suspended his two small pails over the embers, which he roused into a blaze.

Another Step and a Sharp Cry Fell From Jan's Lips. It Was Not Ledoq, but Dixon.

Both he filled with snow. Into one he emptied the handful of flour that he had carried in his pocket, into the other he put tea. Fifteen minutes later he carried them to the Englishman.

Dixon sat up, a glazed passion filling his eyes. He drank the hot tea greedily and as greedily ate the boiled flour pudding. Jan watched him hungrily until the last crumb of it was gone. He refilled the pails with snow, added more tea and then rejoined the Englishman. New life was already shining in Dixon's eyes.

"Not a moment too soon, Thoreau," he said thankfully, reaching over to grip the other's hand. "Another night and"— Suddenly he stopped. "Great Heaven! What is the matter?"

He noticed for the first time the pinched torture in his companion's face. Jan's head dropped weakly upon his breast. His hands were icy cold.

"Nothing," he murmured drowsily, "only I'm starving, too, Dixon!" He rolled over upon the balsam boughs with a restful sigh. "Let me sleep."

Dixon went to the pack. One by one in his search for food he took out the few articles that it contained. After that he drank more tea, crawled back into the balsam shelter and lay down beside Jan. It was broad day when he awoke, and he called hoarsely to his companion when he saw that the snow had ceased falling.

Jan did not stir. For a moment Dixon leaned over to listen to his breathing and then dragged himself slowly and painfully out into the day. The fire was out. A leaden blackness still filled the sky; deep, silent gloom hung in the wake of the storm.

Suddenly there came to Dixon's ears a sound. Just beyond the hanging palls a moosebird hopped out upon the snow. Slowly Dixon forced his right foot through the snow to the rear of his left and as cautiously brought his left behind his right, working himself backward step by step until he reached the shelter. Just inside was his rifle. He drew it out and sank upon his knees in the snow to aim. At the report of the rifle Jan stirred, but did not open his eyes. He made no movement when Dixon called out in shrill joy that he had killed ment. He heard, he strove to arouse himself, but something more powerful than his own will seemed pulling him down into oblivion. It seemed an eternity before he was conscious of a voice again. He felt himself lifted and opened his eyes with his head resting against the Englishman's shoulder.

"Drink this, Thoreau," he heard.

He drank and knew that it was not tea that ran down his throat.

"Whisky jack soup," he heard again "How is it?"

He became wide awake. Dixon was offering him a dozen small bits of meat on a tin plate, and he ate with out questioning. Suddenly, as they were only two or three of the smallest morsels left, he stopped.

"It was whisky jack?" he cried. "I have eaten it all?"

"You got the flour inside of me Thoreau. You've got the moose bird Isn't that fair?"

The plate dropped between them Over it their hands met in a greedy clutching grip, and in that one heart there welled words which almost burst from his lips in voice, words which rang in his brain and which were an unspoken prayer—"Mellise, I thank the great God that it is this man whom you love!" But it was to silence that he staggered to his feet and went out into the gloom.

"This may be only a lull in the storm," he said. "We must use it time. How long did you travel before you made this camp?"

"About ten hours," said Dixon. "I made due west by compass until I knew that I had passed Lac Bain and then struck north."

"Ah, you have the compass!" cried Jan, his eyes lighting up. "Mon Dixon, we are very near to the post if you camped so soon! Tell me which is north."

"That is north."

"Then we go south—south and east If you traveled ten hours, first west and then north, we are northwest of Lac Bain."

Jan spoke no more, but got his rifle from the shelter and put only the tea and two pails in his pack, leaving the remaining blanket upon the snow. His English companion followed close behind him heeding weakly under the weight of his gun.

Tediously they struggled to the top of the ridge, and as Jan stopped to look through the gray day blood-shot Dixon sank down into the snow. When the other turned toward him he grinned up feebly into his face.

"Busted," he gasped. "Don't believe I can make it through this snow, Thoreau."

There was no fear in his eyes, there was even a cheerful ring in his voice.

A sudden glow leaped into Jan's face.

"I know this ridge," he exclaimed. "It runs within a mile of Lac Bain You'd better leave your rifle behind."

Dixon made an effort to rise, and Jan helped him. They went on slowly, resting every few hundred yards, and each time that he rose from these periods of rest Dixon's face was twisted with pain.

"It's the flour and water anchored amidships," he smiled grimly. "Cramps —ugh! I wish you'd go on alone," he urged. "You could send help"—

"I promised Mellise that I would bring you back if I found you," replied Jan, his face turned away. "If the storm broke again you would be lost."

"Tell me—tell me"— he heard Dixon pant eagerly, "did she send you to hunt for me, Thoreau?"

Jan struggled hard to speak calmly.

"Not in words, M'sieur Dixon. But I know that if I get you safely back to Lac Bain she will be very happy."

Something came in Dixon's sobbing breath which Jan did not hear. A little later he stopped and built a fire over which he melted more snow and boiled tea. The drink stimulated them and they went on. A little later still and Jan hung his rifle in the crotch of a sapling.

"We will return for the guns in a day or so," he said.

Dixon leaned upon him more heavily now, and the distances they traveled between resting periods became shorter and shorter. "Three times they stopped to build fires and cook tea. It was night when they descended from the ridge to the snow covered ice of Lac Bain. It was past midnight when Jan dragged Dixon from the spruce forest into the opening at the post. There were no lights burning, and he went with his half conscious burden to the company's store. He awakened Croisset, who let them in.

"Take care of Dixon," said Jan, "and don't arouse any of the people tonight. It will be time enough to tell what has happened in the morning."

Over the store in his own room he cooked meat and coffee, and for a long time sat silent before the fire. He had brought back Dixon. In the morning Mellise would know. First she would Perry's.

Our warm spell has taken a cold, and we had quite a snow storm last week. —Housecleaning is the order of the day.—Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Simpson are the happy owners of a fine baby girl.—We were all sorry to lost a very much esteemed neighbour, Mrs. Turkington.—Our Ladies' Aid had a taffy party at the home of Mrs. R. Asselstine's. All had a good time, and $11.50 was realized. Next meeting will be held the last Thursday in the month at the home of Mrs. Robert Bird. — A light lunch will be served. All are welcome. We hope for a good attendance.

ERNESTTOWN

Our school has opened again after the Easter holidays, and our teacher, Miss E. Glenn, is back at her school duties again.—Mr. Irwin Miller, of Belleville, spent the week end with friends in our vicinity. — The social evening held in the United Church, under the Ladies' Aid, was a decided success. The church was well filled. M. Crowe favoured us with a solo, while Mrs. Clarence Thompson and Mrs. Wilfred Spring treated us to readings. The Mock Trial was enjoyed by all, and a good collection realized.—Mr. and Mrs. Milton Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. T. Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Thompson spent Friday at Mr. and Mrs. Arch Close's.—Mrs. Herb Laidley called on friends in Kingston recently.—Quite a number from here took in the sugar social at Morven last week. All report a good time. — Mr. and Mrs. Joel Kellar and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thompson, accompanied by Mrs. Eliza Wood, spent the week end visiting friends in Syracuse, N.Y. —Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wiseman visited with friends at Elginburg, on Sunday last.

Alabastine, 60c. a five-pound package, at Wallace's.

YARKER SOUTH

Housecleaning is the order of the day, and some of our busy housewives are engaged therein. — Several from here attended the popular play, "Lighthouse Nan," on Thursday evening last at Camden East, and report it the play of the season.—Miss Annie Love left on Tuesday last for Watertown.—Mr. James Reid, of Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. John Reid and children, of Glenburnie, spent Friday last with their sister, Mrs. Martha Love.—Mrs. Archie McLean spent a few days this week with her sister, Mrs. Cassen Davey. — Mr. Arthur Wilson and Gladys spent Sunday last at James Babcock's.—Mrs. Martha Love and Mrs. Harold Huff spent Thursday afternoon at the quilting held at Mrs. Sidney Bush's.—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Newman, of Wilton, spent Saturday with their cousin, John Love. — Mr. Jas. Robinson and Miss Margaret McCormick, of Switzerville, spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Harold Huff.—Cassen Davey finished drawing his lumber from Colebrook mill this week.

BICKNELL'S CORNERS

We are having real cold days and very heavy winds; also cold frosty nights, which no doubt will enable the season late for the farmers getting on the land to work.—Mr. M. Kerr has returned to his home in Toronto, after spending a few days in this vicinity.—Mrs. G. Snider, of Odessa, called on her mother's, Mrs. A. Emberly, on Friday last.—Mrs. C. 290 Yards of Irish Dress Linens on Sale Saturday
20 Colors, at $1.39 Per Yard. 36 Inches Wide.

In the Land of the Shamrock, direct from The Old Bleach Mills, have come these magnificent Colored Dress Linens. Linens beautifully woven from soft, supple, silky yarns, that are fast and fadeless in color, and at the same time absolutely unshrinkable.

Richness and beauty have been woven in every yard—their very charm makes them most desirable for modern uses. Fashion favors them for cool summer sport dresses; interior decorators employ them for window hangings; they add color and dash to table decorations; they make attractive slip covers.

This shipment came direct—all unnecessary expenses have been eliminated. We have priced them at this remarkably low sale price to ensure their speedy departure.

Choose your present and future requirements Saturday.

36 inches wide. $1.39 per yard.

On Sale Saturday, April 21st, 100 Yds. Manchester Pillow Cotton. Our Regular 50c. Quality For 39c.

We recommend this splendid heavy quality, Circular Pillow Cotton to our customers who are on the "look-out" for a real choice and serviceable quality.

It is woven from well twisted, select cotton yarns with an even finish that rivals linen in appearance. Bleached snowy white. One width only (42 inches). Very special at 39c. per yard.

Boys' Knee Pants Special, $1.25 Pair

You'll agree these new arrivals are outstanding value and just the thing for the boys' school wear. Made from mixed tweeds in Grey and Fawn colors. Sizes 5 to 10 years.

72 Tweed and "Kasha-Like" Spring Coats Come Sharply Reduced for Quick Clearance on Saturday, April 21st

28 Coats, Regular $11.95 to $17.50 Values, To Clear at $10.75

11 Coats, Regular $18.95 and $19.75 Values, To Clear at $15.75

33 Coats, Regular $20.00 to $27.50 Values, To Clear at $19.75

We have absolutely too many coats—hence we have decided to clear our decks without further delay. In the three price groups you'll find at least twelve successful, fashionable and distinctly different styles.

The coats divide their allegiance between smartly patterned tweeds and softly finished "Kasha-like" materials.

Many of the tweeds are in trimly tailored styles; others break away into novelty garments, exploiting detachable fur collars, fur cuffs, scarf collars and leather belts. The "Kasha-like" coats are immensely practical wearable for all occasions. They incorporate all of the season's most successful style tendencies. Many of them will combine with your own Spring dresses in creating ensembles.

You'll find these coats smartly ready for sports, country wear or travel. Procurable in a varied assemblage of newest Spring shades, and in a complete range of sizes. If in need of a coat, be on hand at 8.30 sharp.

Man So Nervous Gets Sore When Spoken To

"It actually irritated me to have anyone talk to me, I was so nervous. Vinol ended this and I feel wonderful now."—Wm. Fahy.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, cod liver peptone, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphates, etc., give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. Wallace's Drug Store.

The April meeting of the Women's Institute was held last Wednesday afternoon. A report of the year's work was given, and all the officers of last year re-elected for the coming year. Arrangements were made for the annual visit from the departmental speaker, who is scheduled for May 30th. Mrs. Russel Cousins very kindly offered the use of her home for that afternoon.—The weather for the past week has been most disagreeable. The continued frosts discourage all growth. There seems to be an unusual continuance of high winds.—A special meeting of the Municipal Council was held on Monday evening to consider the appointment of an officer to handle the fire equipment. Mr. Hugh Allison was appointed and has already begun disposing of stray dogs. Nearly everyone has their dog confined. It is hoped that the act will be enforced strictly, and the epidemic stamped out quickly.—We understand that the U. E. L. cheese factory will open on Monday.

COLOR PHOTOGRAPHY

Austrian Reduces Time Necessary for Exposures to Less Than Tenth of a Second.

Despite the advances made in color photography during the last few years, writes the Vienna correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, it has hitherto been impossible to produce photographs in natural colors without great patience. The difficulty of arranging exposures of different lengths of time for the different colors has taxed the ingenuity of some of the most expert photographers, but it is now claimed that it has been overcome in the latest invention of a young Viennese photographic expert, Joseph Mroz.

As the result of thirteen years' research in this branch of photography, Mr. Mroz has just patented an "instantaneous color photo camera," which, he claims, can take a color photograph in less than one-tenth of a second. By a special contrivance fitted into the camera the three exposures which are necessary take place automatically and are regulated mechanically in such a way that the right amount of light is allowed to enter for the three "partial pictures" which are taken. The camera has only one lens, no reflector or prisms and is the same size as the usual collector camera.

Instead of glass plate Mr. Mroz uses non-perforated film, about twice the width of those used in the cinema. The same arrangement as in the cinema camera is used for facing the film, which runs on rubber rollers, working absolutely automatically by simply pressing a button.

This last act brings the color filter and the indicator into action. The manipulation is then quite simple. Having first fixed the distance in the ordinary way, the handle is turned so as to regulate the necessary tension on the rollers within the camera, according to the speed required, and then the exposure, which can range from one-twentieth to one-tenth of a second, takes place.

A short turn and the camera is ready for the next exposure. The unrolling of the films takes place automatically, and the camera can be loaded or unloaded in daylight, as special little compartments have been made for the chromatic filling, one of which is enough for fifty complete exposures.a.

TOWN IN A SKYSCRAPER.

Equitable Building Accommodates Twelve Thousand People.

This fact will give some idea of the size of the skyscrapers we read about in the city of Manhattan. The Equitable Building, of thirty-seven storeys, accommodates 12,000 people every twenty-four hours, and no fewer than 127,000 people enter and leave the building every day.

There has never been a casualty since the building was rebuilt in 1915, followed the terrible fire of 1912. Sixty-three lifts carry 92,000 people up and down to the various offices daily, and these lifts travel 275,000 miles in a year.

The population of the Equitable Building equals that of Warwick, England, and is twice that of Henley-on-Thames. The building contains more than 26,000,000 cubic feet of space; 67,000 letters and parcels are received by the tenants each day, and 88,000 are sent out.

There are 4,000 windows and 10,000 doors, while scattered throughout the immense structure are no fewer than 15,000 ceiling electric lights.

Electric Light In Caucasus.

The primitive mountaineers of Swanetia, one of the wildest and most inaccessible districts of the western Caucasus, will soon be dazzled by the rays of light generated by a hydro-electrical station which will be built in that region.

The introduction of an electric lighting system often produces a sensation in a Russian peasant village, says Christian Science Monitor; but the amazement of the Swanetians will probably be all the greater because hitherto lamps and candles have been unknown in their wild country. The mountain huts of the Swanetians have hitherto been lighted only by pine torches.

The Peace River Country.

Premier Brownlee declares that in the Peace River country there were at least 12,000,000 acres of the finest wheat-growing soil, easily capable of the production of 180,000,000 bushels of wheat a year, which is not much less than the production of Alberta last year. Last year the Peace River country produced 9,000,000 bushels of wheat from 200,000 acres under cultivation, the yield area being unusually heavy.

C.P.R. Irrigation District.

The Canadian Pacific Railway irrigation district at Lethbridge, Alta., produced fields crops to a value of $2,019,376 on an area of 58,029 acres.

This Automobile Talks.

An automobile that talks is the latest boulevard sensation in Paris. Strollers admiring a chassis in the show-rooms of one of France's most popular makes were startled to hear a hollow, grating voice coming from the entrails of the machine. "Before you, you have the famous B14 1928 model," it said, and proceeded to reel off a fine line of selling talk.

The management claims that the phonographic salesman is bringing more business than any two living men, on Tuesday.—The Y. P. S. will meet at the church on Saturday evening, April 21st. Please note the change of date.

SPAIN'S WILD CAMELS.

Efforts to Round Up Herds That Have Become a Nuisance.

There have been exciting days of late in the swamps near the mouth of the Guadalquivir, down in Spain, for the wild camels have had a notice to quit—and they won't budge, says a traveller to the London Daily Mail.

That wild camels exist in Spain will come as a surprise to most people. It is just 98 years ago since the Marquis de Villafranca imported a herd from Africa for pulling carts and ploughs on his estate. They did not prove satisfactory and led to trouble as horses often bolted from fear when they met the strange-looking newcomers. Some were allowed to escape, and these were joined subsequently by deserters from a herd which were being used on farms in the Huelva region. In the marisma, or swampy marshes, which skirt the lower Guadalquivir, the animals found a freedom in which they thrived and multiplied despite the occasional forays of poachers who stalk and snipe them and then sell the flesh as venison.

A company has now bought a considerable area of these Spanish camels' desolate swamps to turn into a cotton plantation. If there is anything, however, that is worse for growing cotton than roving elephants it is roving camels. So the camels have had notice to quit.

They are paying no more attention to it than did the Cheshire cat in "Alice in Wonderland" to the quaint irascible injunction to the executioners to cut off his head.

Public opinion in high quarters is strongly opposed to their extermination which could easily be accomplished by a low-flying aeroplane carrying a machine gunner and his deadly tool. Instead, "round-ups" are being carefully planned and achieved with the object of catching the animals alive and moving them to new homes where they will not be able to do harm.

Two of the busiest men in Spain just now are the pair of Arab camel grooms from Morocco, whom the army authorities have brought over to teach the marisma captures nice manners and to explain to the Spanish keepers who have been entrusted with their subsequent care the ten thousand and one most important of the little things about camels that every camel-keeper ought to know.

TINNED STOCKINGS.

Mineral Used In Artificial Silk Gives Hosiery Glossy Appearance.

The vogue of the flesh-colored artificial silk stocking was mentioned at the annual meeting of the Associated Tin Company of Nigeria by the chairman, Hon. Lionel Holland, who said that a new and important industrial use of tin was its application in the rapidly-expanding artificial silk industry.

It may surprise many women to know that the golden shoes of some stockings is really a tin one.

A dyestuffs expert said that tin was used as a mordant (a means of fixing color) in the dyeing of artificial silk, and the high lustre which gave stocking possessed was largely due to its agency. He added:

"Some years have been largely responsible for the increasing applications of tin to new uses. It takes an important part in the manufacture of all artificial silk fingerle; it is used in the manufacture of nearly all articles of the toilet table; and it is tin that makes possible the collapsible tubes of toilet and cosmetic preparations. Tin foil wrappers are increasing every day. Mits 1928, in fact, may be regarded as a modern goddess of tin."

The people of Great Britain got through 82,756,000 dozen pairs of stockings and socks in 1921. This works out at six pairs for each member of the population, compared with four pairs in 1912.

Dressmaking a Main Industry.

To what extent the making of dainty dresses is part and parcel of the daily existence of Paris must come as a surprise to many. A committee appointed to investigate conditions in dressmaking trade has announced that one out of every ten inhabitants is actively engaged in this work. This does not include those in allied industries, but refers simply to those actually employed in dressmaking houses.

It has been remarked, also, that the past decade has witnessed a great increase in business done by the couturiers. Furthermore, the fashion once decreed for three who could afford the most expensive gowns must now be adapted and translated to suit the tastes and pockets of everyone. This means that the public as a whole is better dressed than ever before, says a correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor.

Where Newspaper Editors will Meet

The Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton has grown in popularity as the meeting place of important conventions during recent years, so it was not surprising, when the members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association considered the holding of their 1928 annual convention in Western Canada, that their choice should fall upon the Macdonald Hotel at Edmonton, as their meeting place.

The hotel in its name perpetuates the memory of Sir John A. Macdonald who headed a group of far-sighted men in the efforts to weld all the provinces of Canada into one united Dominion. It occupies a commanding site on the bank of the Saskatchewan river, and occupies also, a commanding place in the life and in the development of Edmonton, the Capital of the province of Alberta.

All that a great metropolitan hotel has to offer its guests is found beneath the pinnacled and turreted roof of the Macdonald, which is of the high standard of Canadian National Railways hotels in every particular. Its rooms are restful and full of sunlight; its broad rotunda is thronged by out-of-town people and by Edmonton citizens who make this the headquarters for many interests: its convention halls and public rooms are spacious and delightful, and its cuisine and service are of the Canadian National standard which has become so well-known and popular with people travelling through Canada.

After their convention at Edmonton, the weekly newspaper editors will travel to Jasper National Park, Canada's largest and finest game sanctuary.

WHY TORTURE THE LITTLE ONES

Mothers, do you think it fair to torture your little ones by forcing them to take ill-tasting oils when they need a laxative medicine? Don't you find that the child's dread of these medicines often do more harm than good?

Baby's Own Tablets are the modern substitute for these nauseous doses. They are the very medicine the child requires and are so pleasant to take that they are as easy to administer as a glass of water. They are the perfect remedy for all the minor ailments of little ones, being absolutely guaranteed free from injurious drugs.

Baby's Own Tablets accomplish all that easter oil and other bad-tasting remedies can do. In fact they accomplish more as they do not leave the child exhausted from its struggle against taking medicine. They relieve teething pains, banish indigestion and constipation, break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthful, refreshing sleep. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

go to the Englishman, then—then—she would come to him.

He rose and went to the rude board table in the corner of his room.

"No, Melisse must not come to me in the morning," he whispered to himself. "She must never again look upon Jan Thoreau."

He took pencil and paper and wrote. Page after page he crumpled in his hand and flung into the fire. At last, swiftly and despairingly, he ended with half a dozen lines. What he said came from his heart in French:

I have brought him back to you, my Melisse, and pray that the good God may give you happiness. I leave you the old violin, and always when you play it will tell you of the love of Jan Thoreau.

He folded the page and sealed it in one of the company's envelopes. Very quietly he went from his room down into the deserted store. Without striking a light, he found a new pack, a few articles of food and ammunition. The envelope addressed to Melisse he put where Croisset or the factor would find it in the morning. His dogs were housed in a shack behind the store, and he called out their names softly and warningly as he went among them. As stealthily as their master they trailed behind him to the edge of the forest, and close under the old spruce that guarded the grave Jan stopped and silently he stretched out his arms to the little cabin.

The dogs watched him. Kazan, the one-eyed leader, stayed from him into the dimness of the night, whining softly. A low, mourning wind swept through the spruce tops, and from Jan's throat there burst a solemn words which he had heard beside this same grave more than seventeen years before when Williams' choking voice had risen in a last prayer for the woman.

"May the great God care for Melisse!"

He turned into the trail upon which Jean de Gravois had fought the Englishman, led his dogs and sledge in a twisting path through the caribou swamp and stood at last beside the lob stick tree that leaned out over the edge of the white Barrens. With his knife he dug out the papers which he had concealed in that whisky jack hole.

It was near dawn when he recovered the rifle which he had abandoned on the mountain top. A little later it began to snow. He was glad, for it would conceal his trail.

For thirteen days he forced his dogs through the deep snows into the south. On the fourteenth they came to Le Pas, which is the edge of civilization. It was night when he came out of the forest, so that he could see the faint glow of lights beyond the Saskatchewan.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

"Yesterday you were not at the office, saying you were ill, and I met you in the street."

"Yes, I was going for the doctor."

Cheapest of all Oils.—Considering the qualities of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil it is the cheapest of all preparations offered to the public. It is to be found in every drug store in Canada from coast to coast and all country merchants keep it for sale. So, being easily procurable and extremely moderate in price, no one should be without a bottle of it.

Magnate—"Yes, I began life without shoes on my feet and now I've half a million."

Young Reporter—"Great Scot! Who cleans 'em all?"

Miller's Worm Powders work so effectively that no traces of worms can be found. The pests pass away in the stools without being perceptible. They make an entire and clean sweep of the intestines, and nothing in the shape of a worm can find lodgement there when these powders are in operation. Nothing could be more thorough or desirable than their action.

"If you drop knives and forks it means company's coming.

"And if you miss them, it means they're gone."

As a vermicide an excellent preparation is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. It has saved the lives of countless children.

A Frenchwoman and her husband gave an exhibition of fighting with feet in a London boxing ring. Most English couples think this sort of thing should be reserved for the privacy of the home.

Your Asthma, Too. The efficacy of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is not something that is merely to be hoped for; it is to be expected. It seldom fails to bring relief, and in your own individual case it will do the same. So universal has been the success of this far-famed remedy that every one afflicted with this disease owes it to himself to try it.

"How about shock absorbers?" asked the man who was buying a cheap car.

"We can put some on," said the salesman.

"No," said the purchaser. "But I'd like to have one sent to my wife in advance—she expects a limousine."

Simple and Sure.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is so simple in application that a child can understand the instructions. Used as a liniment the only direction is to rub, and when used as a dressing to apply. The directions are so plain and unmistakable that they are readily understood by young or old.

Beauty that attracts beauty

Long, low lines give grace and beauty to McLaughlin-Buick Fisher bodies, but without the slightest sacrifice of interior space or headroom. Upholstery and appointments that rival the drawing-room in luxury . . . and a handsomeness of performance no less than of appearance . . . render the 1928 McLaughlin-Buick to the discerning lady driver.

THE unfailing feminine appreciation of beauty makes McLaughlin-Buick the most popular car in its class among lady drivers.

An Oatmeal Feed!

Just what Baby Chicks should have

No wonder baby chicks thrive so heartily on Quaker Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter. The base of this remarkable feed is good pure oatmeal—just the thing for tiny, tender crops. Combined with the oatmeal are Cod Liver Oil and Cod Liver Meal, together with essential minerals and other valuable ingredients. All thoroughly and accurately mixed! All ready for feeding, just as it comes from the sack.

Chicks grow faster, stronger, and resist unfavourable weather when you give them this wholesome oatmeal-base feed.

Powerful, Penetrating Antiseptic Oil Heals Eczema and Other Skin Diseases

Must Give Results in 7 Days or Money Back

Make up your mind to-day that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

Like a lot of other people, you've probably been convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good), but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to Wallace's Drug Store or any other good druggist to-day and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

TOWNSHIP OF CAMDEN

BY-LAW NO. 593.

A By-Law respecting Dogs.

Passed April 16th, 1928.

The Municipal Council of the Corporation of the Township of Camden enacts as follows:—

1. No dogs shall be allowed to run at large in the Township of Camden, and any police officer or person appointed by the Reeve for that purpose, or in the absence of such persons, any ratepayer shall be, and is hereby authorized to seize and impound said dog and to kill said dog whether before or after impounding.

2. The owner, possessor, or harbourer of any and all dogs within the Township of Camden, shall tie up, chain, or otherwise detain, or cause to be detained, and isolated, all dogs so owned, possessed, or harboured by him, and shall not allow said dog or dogs to be at large for and during the currency of this by-law, and shall furthermore observe and keep any order that may be made from time to time respecting dogs by the Minister of Agriculture of the Dominion of Canada, or any other lawful authority.

3. Any person convicted of a breach of clause 1 of this by-law shall forfeit and pay at the discretion of the convicting magistrate, a penalty not less than Five ($5.00) Dollars, and not more than Fifty ($50.00) Dollars for the first offence, exclusive of costs, and for the second offence a penalty of not less than Fifty ($50.00) Dollars, exclusive of costs, and in default of payment of the said respective penalties and costs forthwith, the said respective penalties and costs may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattel of the offender, and in case of their being no distress found out of which such penalty and costs can be levied, the convicting magistrate may commit the offender to the common gaol of the County of Lennox and Addington, with or without hard labor, for any period not exceeding twenty-one days, unless the said penalty and costs be sooner paid.

4. This by-law shall come into force and take effect from date of its passing, and shall remain in force until the Council are satisfied the said Township is free from Rabies.

T. E. McGILL, Clerk. R. J. COUSINS, Reeve.

J. B. Weese has been appointed Enforcement Officer to enforce the above by-law.

"Pre-Salvaging" Railway Wreck.

As most people are aware, an engine-driver is a skilled engineer, and has to pass many stringent tests before he is considered expert to captain the railway ship.

One engine-driver was undergoing the oral examination, and he was being particularly impressed with the need for economy in the use of coal, oil and stores. This need had been emphasized again and again.

"Supposing, as your engine was proceeding at express speed on a single line, you saw another train approaching from the opposite direction, what action would you take?" he was asked.

The answer came: "I should immediately grab as much coal as possible from the tender, seize the oil-can, gather up a bundle of cotton-waste, and jump for my life!"

Perfect Potato Strain.

A potato that is said to be "burgless," and apparently resistant to scab and other common diseases, has been developed by A. J. Reems, of Kildeer, N.D.

Four years ago Reems found an odd hill of white-skinned potatoes in a Red Triumph planting. He fostered the strain by special cultivation, and now claims a virtually perfect potato.

The strain matures two weeks earlier than other Triumph varieties, but requires no more moisture than any of the common types of potato.

Truffles.

Truffle is a tuber dug from the ground by the French peasants; the delicious black substances which find their way into foie gras, galatines and other forms of food. The genuine gourmet is a connoisseur of truffles, and it is understood that in his opinion the finest come from Perigord—"truffe de Perigord."

Morocco, Algiers and countries farther east, also produce truffles, but they are not quite in the same class with the French ones.

First Aid for Goldfish.

The life of a goldfish was saved recently by artificial respiration similar to that used to revive human victims of drowning, asphyxiation, or electric shock.

On returning to her home one evening a woman found one of her goldfish lying on the floor, apparently dead. She held the fish under water with one hand and, grasping it with the other just behind the gills, applied intermittent relief pressure. After five minutes the fish showed signs of life, and at the end of twenty minutes it was swimming about quite normally.

Pigs In Clover.

In a district near Pretoria, pigsties made of marble and buildings cemented with pure white marble are quite common. Practically every kind of marble is found in this district, which is about forty square miles in extent.

The only reason that this valuable stone is not exploited is because of the lack of transport. The railway does not extend near the district. Stone equal to the best Parian marble could be quarried there if the problem of transport could be solved.

Five-Tongued Newspaper.

The first "Babel" newspaper has appeared in Paris. It is called "L'Arlequin," and the first issue contained articles in German, Spanish, Italian, English, and French.

Ross got the surprise of his life

He had asked Long Distance for a New York number, and planned to dictate several letters while waiting for the connection. Before he could hang up, the operator said—

"Hold the line, please!"

"Surely she can't expect me to hold this line half an hour!" he said to his stenographer.

"Half an hour? It probably won't be over two minutes. This new speedy Long Distance service is very quick."

To provide increased facilities, many new Long Distance circuits are being installed. Most of them will be in use this Spring. Here are some of the important additions:—

"Air costs nothing—lack of it means miles off the life of your tires."

MORE than half your tire troubles are caused by under-inflation. There's a correct pressure for every size tire according to its load. Two or three pounds under this will take miles off its running life.

Near enough won't do. Use a reliable gauge and be sure.

Or, call at this depot once a week and let us look over your tires. We'll watch for bruises, rim cuts and embedded flints. At least twice a season let us remove each tire and look for inside fabric breaks. It will mean extra mileage—and dollars off your tire bills.

V. O. N. TEA

On Tuesday afternoon the Victorian Order Finance Committee of Napanee gave an Easter Tea in the pleasant Sunday School Rooms of Grace Church. A number of ladies presided over tea tables, inviting their friends to come and help increase the funds and show their interest in the good work of the Victorian Nurse.

A splendid musical programme was provided by our foremost musicians, Mrs. J. E. Madden, Mrs. Cameron Wilson, Miss Mary McGrath, Miss Beatrice Beighan, Miss Lenore Black, Mr. Reginald Whoman and Mr. Waite. During the afternoon Mrs. Geo. Switzer, President of the Napanee Branch of the V.O.N., introduced Miss Lauder, who gave an interesting account of a day's work and what it usually included.

Tea was served at prettily decorated tables, with spring flowers and Easter lillies filling the room with fragrance and colors and the collections amounted to $110.00.

NAPANEE POULTRY ASSOCIATION

The last regular meeting of the Napanee Poultry Association before adjourning for the summer, was held in the Agricultural Hall, on Monday, April 16th. Reports from the various committees were received. Arrangements are under way for the completion of the prize list at the Poultry Show. Two hundred Standard Steel Coops have been purchased, and everything indicates that this year's poultry show will be the largest ever held in Lennox and Addington. Business being finished, Mr. E. F. Montgomery, Kingston, addressed the meeting on "Standards for Canadian Eggs". Mr. Montgomery, in his pleasant and entertaining way, gave his hearers the government's interpretation of the revised regulations. While the poultry men of Lennox and Addington are strong supporters of the Egg Grading Act, there are, in their opinion, many objectionable clauses that require revision. While protection is given to the consumer and cold storage man, the whole cost is at the expense of the farmer and poultry man. However, the speaker ably handled his subject, and while perhaps his sympathy is with the poultry man, he could only give the regulations as laid down.

A hearty vote of thanks was carried to Mr. Montgomery for the able and pleasant manner in which he gave his interesting and instructive address.

RURAL DEANERY OF LENNOX AND ADDINGTON

A meeting of the Ruridecanal Chapter of Lennox and Addington was held in the Parish of Deseronto, on Thursday and Friday, April 12th and 13th. At 10.30 a.m. on Thursday, there was a celebration of the Holy Communion, at which the Lord Bishop delivered a forceful sermon. At 2 p.m. the clergy and laymen of the Deanery met in the basement of St. Mark's Church, where addresses of exceptional interest were delivered by the Lord Bishop, and Mr. John Elliott, Manager of the Standard Bank, Belleville. Both speakers stressed the need of the loyal co-operation of the laymen in the work of the Church. At 8 p.m. Evensong was said in St. Mark's Church by the Reverend Rural Dean Radcliffe, and the Reverend W. G. Swayne, the lessons being read by the Reverend Thomas Leech, and the Reverend Arthur Strother. The Reverend R. J. Dumbrille delivered a masterly sermon on the work of the Ministry. The services of the day were greatly enriched by music of a very high order rendered by the organist and choir of St. Mark's Church. At 9.45 a.m. Friday there was a celebration of the Holy Communion, the celebrant being the Reverend Rural Dean Radcliffe, assisted by the Reverend W. G. Swayne and the Reverend Thomas Leech. At 10 a.m. the Reverend Arthur Strother gave a scholarly paper entitled "The Study of Prophecy". After a discussion of this paper, the meeting closed, the Reverend Rural Dean pronouncing the Benediction.

Hay Bay-Bethany W. M. S.

The April meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. A. C. Parks, with nineteen members present. After repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison, the minutes were read by the Secretary, Mrs. J. Roberson. The Ladies' Aid of Bethany kindly invited the W. M. S. to meet with them in May. Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. J. Miller. The heralds of the Watch Tower all gave late news from the mission fields. Mrs. Huffman read "Enthusiastic Co-workers with God", and Mrs. Gould "Two Easter Offerings". The meeting closed with the Aliqah benediction, after which a delicious lunch was served by three girl friends of the hostess.

Death of Dr. O. M. Myers.

Dr. Oscar M. Myers, of 24 Canfield Road, Rochester, N.Y., retired Physician, aged 63, is dead. Dr. Myers was taken ill and died in an ambulance en route to Strong Memorial Hospital. Coroner Richard A. Leonardo issued a certificate of death from natural causes. The body was removed to 510 Monroe Avenue. Dr. Myers was born in Bellefonte, Pa. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in 1888, soon after which he came to Rochester to begin his practise. In his first year he was associated with the late Dr. Charles Darrow and for a number of years had an office in Alexander Street. Dr. Myers retired from the medical profession early in the 90's to devote his time to the development of the voting machine in conjunction with his brother. Dr. Myers leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Lillian Myers; two sons, Hiram, of New York City, and Wayne V. Myers, of London, England; two sisters, Mrs. Frank Youngs, of Detroit, Mich, and Miss Mabel Myers, of Rochester, and a brother, George P. Myers, of Chicago. Funeral services took place at 2.30 o'clock, in Mount Hope chapel, Rev. Robert P. Drysdale, minister of Mount Hor Presterian Church, officiated. Interment was made in Mount Hope cemetery.—Times Union, Rochester, N.Y., Monday, March 19th, 1928.

MAPLE LEAF WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Maple Leaf Institute was held on Thursday, April 12th, at the home of Mrs. Alf. Scrimshaw. The meeting opened with the President in the chair, singing the Ode, followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer, in unison. Roll Call was responded to by "Suggestions for Next Year's Programme". These were many and varied. After the usual business, the following officers for the coming year took place. Results are as follows :—

CAMDEN EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The March meeting of Camden East Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Acton aRobinson. Fourteen members were present and one new member joined. The meeting opened in the usual way by singing of the Ode and prayer.

Roll call was answered by an "Aunt Hat" saying. The minutes were read, approved and adopted.

Considerable correspondence was read and dealt with. Among this was the letter advising the choosing of a representative to receive "League of Nations Literature". Our representative is Mrs. D. B. Amey. Next was the notice of the lecture of the "Summer Series". This lecture will take place on May 15th at Mrs. Geo. Black's. It is hoped all members will attend this meeting.

At this meeting our date of meeting was changed from the last Thursday to the first Friday in each month. This is to take effect in May.

It was decided to have the Camden East banker audit our books before the April meeting which closes the year.

Mrs. G. Black read a carefully prepared paper on "Current Events". It thoroughly covered recent events, and was enjoyed by all. Mrs. H. Robinson favoured us with an instrumental selection, which was much appreciated. Then followed a "cake" contest which tested one's ability to name cakes.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess and four members, and the meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

The April meeting will be held at Mrs. Allore's. As this is the meeting for election of officers and closing the year's work, we urge all members to attend. Roll call to be answered by payment of membership fee for next year. Remember the date, April 25th. Notice the change in day, Wednesday, not Thursday as usual.

WEDDING BELLS.

Arney—Cox.

At Marlbank, on Monday evening, April 16th, 1928, at 8 o'clock, a quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cox, when their eldest daughter, Emma Julia, became the bride of Alexander Daniel Arney, of Calgary. Rev. Mr. Oliver, Roblin, performed the marriage ceremony. The couple's were the bride's sister and brother. The bride wore a queen blue flat crepe dress trimmed with pale pink organdie and a coat, with hat and stockings and shoes to match. The bridesmaid was dressed in a rose flat crepe trimmed with white and stockings and shoes to match. After the ceremony a delightful lunch was served. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank McConnell, Roblin; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. McMahon, Marlbank, and others of Wilton and Napanee. The happy couple received many costly gifts. An enjoyable evening was spent, after which the happy couple left to take the 2.30 train en route to Calgary, where they will reside. We all join in wishing them every success and happiness in the near future. The bride will be greatly missed by parents, brothers, sisters and friends from Marlbank church and district.

MASONIC BANQUET

On Thursday evening of last week the Mt. Sinai Chapter of the R.A.M. Napanee, entertained at a dinner-dance in their rooms. The afternoon was prettily lighted with Japanese lanterns, and large tables were decorated with appropriate emblems, and candelabra held lighted candles of red and blue. A delicious dinner was perfectly served by the usual famous staff, who are always so generous of their talent for entertainment.

Mr. Cuppage, the First Principal, was called upon to introduce the Radio Quartette from Belleville, who sang most pleasingly for an hour. Mr. Leo Riggs, the well known Organist, gave two piano solos which were greatly appreciated. Each member of the quartette possessed a splendid voice, and none was permitted to escape without encoring his own solo number.

At ten o'clock Mr. Chas. Walters and his Orchestra played for dancing which lasted until after midnight.

The guests agreed that the evening was one of the most pleasant ever spent in the Masonic Hall.

ERINSVILLE

We are having very mild weather here now, and as the past two weeks had been rather rough, we appreciate it very much. Mr. and Mrs. Neville pleased to see Mr. D. J. Neville back home again, after his operation in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, for appendicitis. —Mr. W. Hopkins, Sr., and Richard Powers spent Sunday evening at Mr. Thos. Gaffney's.—Mr. Pat Burns disposed of a very valuable horse last week, and has purchased a new Ford coach.—Mr. Patrick Powers paid a business trip to Napanee on Friday last.—Quite a number from here took in the dance at Stoco on Friday evening, and all reported a good time.—Mr. Arthur Cuasiday spent Sunday evening in Erinsville. — Mr. Edward Hopkins took a truck load of live stock to Stoco on Friday evening last for Pat Burns.—We are glad to see Mr. Harpell in our midst again.—A very large number of men and teams are at work on our County roads, under the management of Mr. James McKeown.—The removal of the bodies from the R. C. vault took place on Friday last.—Mr. W. Hunt and Misses Carmel and Dorothy McGrath paid a business trip to town on Thursday last.—A young son has come to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kearns.—Mr. John Finn's team ran away last week, but no damage was done.—A few of our young sports gathered for a time at the Club on Thursday evening, and all reported a good time. MOSCOW

The cold weather of the past two weeks has prevented the farmers from getting on the land. — The farewell given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and family, who are leaving to make their home in Kingston, was very much enjoyed by the large crowd, on Friday evening. Handsome presents were given them, also to their son, Elwood, who is a member of the Orchestra. They will be missed very much.—Miss Treadgold, of Kingston, is visiting Mrs. R. Asselstine, and daughter.—Much regret was expressed at the passing away of Mr. Chown, in Kingston, he being well and favorably known here. Major and Mrs. Amey attended the funeral on Monday. — Those on the sick list, we are pleased to say, are improving.—Mr. and Mrs. C. Huffman attended the funeral of the late Mr. Cadman, Napanee, on Tuesday last.—Miss Ida Amey, of Napanee, is visiting friends here. — Mr. E. VanLuven spent Tuesday in Kingston.

VIOLET WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of Violet Women's Institute met in the home of the Secretary, Miss Mildred Hannah, and in spite of the busy season and wet roads, there was fairly good attendance of the members.

There were several items of business transacted, and plans were made for the special needle craft course, under Miss Powell, of Whitby, from April 30th to May 4th. This course is of shorter duration than the usual courses, but is especially interesting.

Two very excellent papers were given by the members along dietetic lines; the first, "Vegetables and their value in our daily menu", was given by Miss Emma McMillan. This was a carefully prepared paper, and urged us to realize the value of vegetables on the table daily.

"Eggs and their Food Value", by Mrs. Henry Smith, was a splendid paper, and our only regret that it was not heard by all the members. Mrs. Smith graciously consented to give her paper again at a later date.

"The Home Goal", a little poem, by Edgar A. Guest, was read by Mrs. K. J. Valentyne, which was well received. Mrs. William Sager favored us with a little paper, "Woman's Hands in Industry". Such an endless variety, large hands, small hands, cold hands, warm hands, practical hands, artistic hands, and in turn serve their place in this little old world of ours.

A social half hour followed, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. George Hannah, assisted by Meadames Ross Hogle and Henry Smith, Mildred Hannah and Emma McMillan.

A hearty vote of thanks, moved by Mrs. Ross Hogle, and seconded by Mrs. J. McDonald, and warmly responded to by the members, closed a very pleasant meeting.

EBENEZER W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the Ebenezer W.M.S. met April 18th, in the Parsonage, at the home of Mrs. Jas. Brown, with a large number of members and visitors. The meeting was opened by the yearly watchword exercise, with Hymn, "Christ the Lord is Risen To-day". Scripture Lesson, 53 :1-6, read by Miss Freda Kerr. Roll call, Easter lesson, St. Mark 15 and 16, 1-14, read by Mrs. Sam Smith. Easter programme was then taken. Hymn, "Man and Did My Saviour Bleed". Leaflet on "India", read by Mrs. Jas. Brown, Miss Mary Anderson and Mrs. Alfred Mason, Collection.

Devotional leaflet, "As I Have Loved", read by Miss Maysel Whiteman. Easter programme leaflet. Silent prayer for the missionaries on each continent. Hymn, "Thy Life We Crave". Prayer for Business of the meeting was then taken.

After the meeting was closed by repeating the Apostle's Creed in unison, a dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

The next meeting is to be held in the afternoon of May 16th, at the home of Mrs. Frank Kimmer.

DORLAND

The Ladies' Aid had a pleasant afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. E. Foster, last Wednesday.—A number from here attended the "Old Maids' Ball", given by the Sillsville Ladies' Aid, and reported a very amusing evening. — The Women's Institute play, "Back to the Farm", presented by the Dorland Women's Institute, on Saturday night, drew a large crowd, and judging by the keen interest displayed by the audience, thoroughly enjoyed it.—Mrs. Andrew Magee received word on Monday evening of the sudden passing of her brother, Mr. Edwin Love, of Chicago.—A serious accident occurred near the village, on Saturday, when a telephone pole broke, with Mr. A. Storey, and he fell to the ground, fracturing his leg.—Growth continues very slow. While it is a little warmer, the heavy rain on Sunday night seems to have made the ground wetter than at any time previously, and there has been no sunshine to dry up the moisture.

Rev. T. H. P. Anderson and Mr. Jas. Wilson, of Newburgh, attended the meeting of the Belleville Presbytery at Belleville, on Thursday of this week.

Continuing, Miss Elizabeth Reid's letter of last week, from West Africa : "My head teacher is a splendid Christian man, gave a very fine parting message to the school. To my great surprise he took the words right out of my mouth, that beautiful passage from Phil. 4 : 5-9. However, we followed different lines of thought, and we felt the message was doubly strengthened by the native teachers using with such depth of feeling, "Tenderly Guide Us, Thou Shepherd of Love". Mrs. Reid is very happy at home, and have equalled it, and indeed it far surpassed many trained choirs. It just brought the tears to one's eyes. We have several bass and tenor voices amongst our lads that can stir the very depths of one's being. God has certainly endowed these African brothers and sisters of mine with a wonderful gift of song. O, if you could only hear them yourself ! To close the happy little evening I played some of their favorite hymns on the gramophone. They listened to these with great awe as they recognized their own hymns sung by such artists as Louise Homer, Alma Gluck, Evan Williams, and Reginald Werrenwrath.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Asselstine and baby were at Mr. Bert Ruitan's, on Sunday.

Miss Augusta Ackerman visited Mrs. Jas. Wales, on Wednesday.

EASTERN CANADA GARDENING SERVICE

Growing Lettuce.

With lettuce forming the base of most salads, and this course now considered essential at all times, this common vegetable receives more prominence. In the old days, a short row at one side of the garden was put in early in the Spring, and, when that was all gone, or turned bitter, there was nothing more. In the modern garden there is little excuse for running out of this store of vitamines. The earliest lettuce is the leaf type. Grand Rapids is the popular variety maturing quickly, attaining large size and being crisp and tender. Next will come the first crop of head lettuce, grown from plants that have been started indoors and later transferred outside. When transplanting these, many commercial gardeners have found that growth is hastened and the shock of moving lessened by putting in a pinch of nitrate of soda with each plant. Two of the best of the head type are the Big Boston, and New York. Two or three crops of head lettuce can be taken off, if plantings are spread over several weeks in the Spring; and the crop is thinned well and hastened along with nitrate. By the 1st of July, when the weather usually turns warm, the first of the lettuce crops will begin to turn bitter or go to seed. This is where the Cos or Celery lettuce comes in. Cos is a different type from the head and leaf sorts, producing long rather narrow erect leaves that tend to fold over each other and enclose and blanch the heart. This tendency is readily increased by loosely tying up the heads with raffia or string. Many epicures believe the cos lettuces to be the finest flavored and highest quality of all the types. They stand heat better than other lettuces and are always crisp and delicate when freshly gathered. The inner leaves bleach white and the outer leaves are a light green and are tender and not strong as the outer leaves of some head lettuces are. Give the cos lettuce a rich soil and plenty of moisture if it happens to be a dry season and it will make its long slender heads with great regularity.

Care of the Lawn.

Early Spring is the best time to attend to the weeding of the lawn when dandelions and plantains, the worst pests, first get their start, and the ground is soft. If they are removed at this time, much trouble will be saved later on when weeding is a hotter and harder task. Weeding devices are now sold which yank up tap-rooted plants very handily and readily without digging the lawn up sufficiently to disfigure it. A few minutes each day getting rid of troublesome weeds will go a long way towards getting the lawn into shape. Grass will run out a great many of the weeds but plantain and dandelion patches hold their own against the best of sod. After weeding, go over it with grass seed and sprinkle it liberally where the seed colonies have been dug out, rolling the patches smooth or tamping them down firmly, if no roller is available. The new grass will soon fill up the spaces. While the ground is still soft in the Spring, the lawn should get a thorough rolling, which will ensure a velvety, level surface later on. At this time too, the grass needs a stimulant, and an application of nitrate of soda, which is one of the most quickly available fertilizers, will start those plants which have been injured by the recent cold weather along the highroad to health. Clippings of grass should be allowed to stay on the lawn, and these provide a mulch, and will not prove a disfigurement if the lawn is cut every four or five days, as it should be.

Annual Larkspurs.

The Annual Larkspur, now very much improved, will provide a wealth of cutting material and is valuable in the regular flower beds as well. These plants are not particular as to soil, and thrive in poor quarters and even in the shade, but at their best in full sun and rich loam. It is necessary to give this flower an application at time once in a while during the growing season. Give annual larkspurs at least six inches each way in the bed. If you cut the terminal spike as soon as expanded, and do not allow seed to form, the blooming season will be greatly lengthened. It should be sown where it is to bloom as it does not take readily to transplanting.

FOREST PEST CONTROL

'Set a thief to catch a thief' is the method being adopted in some instances for the protection of forests from the onslaughts made by insect pests. This is one of the great works being conducted by the Entomological Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

Some years ago the larch sawfly stripped the leaves from tamaracks and larches in Eastern Canada. This was repeated for three or four years, and eventually the larches over millions of acres and practically over the whole of Eastern Canada were almost wiped out. The sawfly has since spread to the Prairie Provinces. In 1912 the late Dr. Hewitt imported from England a parasite of the larch sawfly. Some of these have been used in Manitoba and last year the sawfly cocoons collected showed parasitism to the extent of 88 per cent. In 15 years the parasite has become thoroughly acclimatized and established.

This parasite known amongst entomologists as Mesoleuis tenthredinis Mort., is extremely active in search of its host. It moves rapidly among the branches of the larches and when discond it sees the larvae of the sawfly it darts in and deposits an egg.

Larvae and cocoons collected in Manitoba are now being sent to the east for the purpose of introducing the parasite that has been the dominant factor in checking the larch sawfly in the Prairie Provinces. The Dominion Entomologist states that the introduction of these parasites offers the chief hope of a permanent relief from this injurious pest.

The magnitude of the work of protection of our forests against the ravages of insect pests may be better understood when it is pointed out that existing forests in Canada cover approximately 1,227,000 square miles, or one-third of Canada's total land area.

Neglected Anaemia

Often Leads to the Most Serious Consequences.

In no disorder is delay or neglect more dangerous than in anaemia. Usually the first noticeable signs are pale face, cheeks, dark rims under the eyes and a feeling of weariness. Then follow headaches, backaches, palpitation and breathlessness. The only way that anaemia can be overcome is to enrich the blood, and it is because of their wonderful blood-enriching and blood-making properties that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have won such great success in the treatment of this often most stubborn disease.

Thousands of young girls who were in an anaemic condition owe their present good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. One of these, Miss Katie McEachern, Port Hood, N.S., says:—"I praise the day I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had not been feeling well for some time. I was very pale, had severe headaches, dizzy spells, and occasional fainting spells. The least exertion would leave me tired and breathless. In this condition I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I continued their use until I had taken six boxes, by which time I was again enjoying good health. I hope my experience will lead other sufferers to give this medicine a fair trial".

If you are all-ail run-down, or weak, you should begin at once to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and you will soon be well and strong. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SELBY YOUNG PEOPLE'S BRANCH.

On Saturday evening, April 7th, the Young People's Branch met at the home of Mrs. W. Wilde, where a very instructive and profitable time was spent. Although the roads and weather were unfavourable, quite a goodly number were present.

The meeting was opened by singing the Doxology, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Miss B. Windover had charge of the Devotional part. Mrs. B. F. Denison explained how the Budget was first started. Several business matters were discussed. The meeting was brought to a close by the Benediction, after which a social hour was spent, and a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Wilde.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS

TO MR. AND MRS. MATTHEW TODD AND FAMILY BEFORE THEIR REMOVAL TO NAPANEE

On Friday evening last a large number of the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Todd gathered in the Town Hall to honor them before their departure for their new home at Napanee. The evening's doings opened with dancing until the supper hour, when the following program was run-off :—

Solo—Mrs. Nial Todd, Peterboro'.
Step-dance—Mr. Wesl Gray.
Solo—Miss Anna Hawthorne.
Song—Mr. J. McIvor.
Step-dance—Mr. M. Todd.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Todd and family were then called to the platform when they were presented with a beautiful 97-piece dinner set and mantle clock, little Phyllis Lunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lunn, also presented Mrs. Todd with a beautiful bouquet. Mr. Todd made a suitable reply, on behalf of his wife and himself, thanking the donors for their kindly expressions of good-will and also for lovely gifts. They would be glad if all welcome any friends to their new home at any time. The presentation was made by Messrs. J. Rusk and J. Kellett, and the address was read by Mr. Jas. Roddy. Mrs. Nial Todd contributed another solo, entitled "Some Day I'll Wander Back Home." Dancing was then resumed, the music being supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Amos Strong, the Rusk Bros., and Mr. M. Todd and son, William. Mr. L. J. Morton was the floor manager. It was a most enjoyable evening and long to be remembered by those present.

Mr. Todd has been employed by Hydro-Electric Power Commission as lineman here for a number of years and is being transferred to Napanee. Mat will be missed in the community life of the village as he was a good citizen and well liked by the citizens generally.

The Mirror-Reporter joins in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Todd and family continued happiness and prosperity in their new home.—The Mirror-Reporter Millbrook, Ont., Thursday, April 19th, 1928.

They Gave Wonderful Relief At Once

Says Ontario Man of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. H. E. Lewis Highly Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills for All Kidney Troubles.

Rondeau, Ont., April 26th, (Special)—"I have used your Dodd's Kidney Pills to some extent and find them to be all you claim," writes Mr. Herb. E. Lewis, 73 Cathcart Ave., Rondeau, Ont. "They take away all irritations and at once give a wonderful relief. I would also recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills for any kind of kidney trouble."

The road to good health lies through the kidneys. If they are kept strong and well, all the impurities are strained out of the blood. If they are weak and out of order, the impurities stay in the blood and disease is the sure result.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a Kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys and enable them to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Healthy kidneys make a healthy body. There is no reason why anyone should continue to suffer when Dodd's Kidney Pills can be obtained from druggists everywhere, or The Dodds Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto, 2.

WEDDING BELLS.

Smith—Kirkpatrick.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Smith, of Penfield, N.Y., on Friday evening, March 16th, 1928, by the Rev. Mr. F. S. Scott, when their son, Clinton J., was united in marriage to Miss Cornelia Irene Kirkpatrick, formerly of Napanee, Ont. Miss Nellie Bowen, of Rochester, N.Y., acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Irving Ludwig, of Penfield, supported the groom. The marriage was performed in the presence of many friends and relatives of the young couple.

The bridesmaid was presented with a white gold cameo ring inset with a chip diamond. The supporter of the groom was presented with a pair of white gold cuff links. The bride looked charming in a dress of blue georgette, and carried a bouquet of carnations. The bridesmaid wore a beautiful dress of sand flat crepe and also carried a bouquet of carnations. The ceremony took place at 6 o'clock, and the wedding supper was served at seven, at which nearly forty guests were present.

The young couple were presented with many useful gifts from the following friends and relatives :—

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bachman, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Bachman and family and Mrs. Albert Bochman, of Penfield, N.Y., an electric waffle iron; Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkpatrick, Marlbank, Ont., a quilt; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert King and son, of Watertown, N.Y., a dozen silver teaspoons; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lyon, of Watertown, N.Y., linen towels; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Clark, Adams, N.Y., a bed spread; Mrs. Clarence Vance, of Napanee, a dozen stainless knives; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schutles, of East Rochester, tea towel, 2 wash cloths, pin and a half dozen earthen mixing bowls; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bowen and family, of Rochester, a fruit dish; Mr. Harold Johnson, of Ontario, N.Y., an electric toaster; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pearson and family, of Rochester, a linen table cloth; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Williams, of Rochester, an electric boudoir lamp; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Clarke, of Kingston, Ont., a pair of pillow cases; Mr. William Schutles, of Penfield, a bon bon dish in a silver holder; Mr. and Mrs. I. Vanbottle, Rochester, N.Y., a pyrex casserole; Mrs. Jacobs, of Penfield, a pickle dish; Mr. Vincent Wagner and Miss Leora Martin, an electric iron; Mrs. Alice Lustwig, of Penfield, and Mr. Earl Steinmiller, of Rochester, linen tablecloth and half dozen napkins; Mr. and Mrs. R. Schneider, of East Rochester, bedspread.

The happy couple will reside with the groom's parents in Penfield.

WOMAN COULD HARDLY WALK

Mrs. Horn Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and would not be without it now. I had a female trouble so badly I could hardly walk and I was all run-down and could hardly get around to do my housework. I would be in bed three or four days at a time. I was told by a friend to try your Vegetable Compound. I did, and by the time I took two bottles I was beginning to get around again. I took ten bottles in all, and now I am all right again and doing my own work. I have six grown-ups to work for, so I have plenty to do. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and I think it is good. But I owe my health to the Vegetable Compound, and I think if more of it was used women would be better off. I would not be without it if it cost much more." Mrs. NELLIE JAMESON, 808 East Cannon Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

Do you feel broken down, nervous and weak sometimes? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent to take at such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently, will relieve this condition. C

The Honor of the Big Snows

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD.
Author of "The Danger Trail"

Copyright, 1926, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

For a few moments, before crossing, he stopped his tired dogs and turned his face back into the grim desolation of the north, where the aurora was playing feebly in the skies and beckoning to him and telling him that the old life of centuries and centuries ago would wait for him always at the dome of the earth.

"The good God bless you and keep you and care for you ever more, my Melisse," he whispered. And he walked slowly ahead of his dogs across the river and into the other world.

* * * * * * *

There was music that night in Le Pas. A door opened and a man and a woman came out. The man was curling, and the woman was laughing at him—laughing as Jan had never heard a woman laugh before, and he held his breath as he listened to the taunting mockery in it. Kazan, the one eyed leader, snarled. The trace dogs slunk close to the leader's heels. With a low word Jan led them on.

Close down to the river, where the Saskatchewan swung in a half moon to the south and west, he found a low, squat building with a light hung over the door illuminating a bit of humor in the form of a printed legend which said that it was "King Edward's hotel." The scrub bush of the forest grew within a hundred yards of it, and in this bush Jan tied his dogs and left his sledge. It did not occur to him that now, when he had entered civilization, he had come also into the land of lock and bolt, of robbers and thieves. It was loneliness and not suspicion that sent him back to unleash Kazan and take him with him.

They entered the hotel, Kazan with suspicious caution. The door opened into a big room lighted by an oil lamp turned low. The room was empty except for a solitary figure sitting in a chair facing a wide window which looked into the north. Making no sound that he might not disturb this other occupant, Jan also seated himself before the window. Kazan laid his wolfish head across his master's knee, his one eye upon him steadily and questioningly. Never in all his years of life had Jan felt the depth of loneliness that swept upon him now as he looked into the north. He did not know that he was surrendering to hunger and exhaustion, the cumulative effects of his thirteen days' fight in the forests. It was the law, heartbreaking sob of grief that fell from his own lips that awakened him again to a consciousness of the present.

He jerked himself erect and found Kazan with his fangs gleaming. The stranger had risen. He was standing close to him, leaning down, staring at him in the dim lamplight, and as Jan lifted his own eyes he knew that in the pale, eager face of the man above him there was written a grief which might have been a reflection of his own. Something reached out to Jan and set his tired blood tingling. He knew that this man was not a forest man. He was not of his people. His face bore the stamp of the people to the south, of civilization. And yet something passed between them, leaped all barriers and made them friends before they had spoken. The stranger reached down his hand, and Jan reached up his. All of the loneliness, the clinging to hope, the starving desire of two men for companionship, passed in the long grip of their hands.

"You have just come down," said the man half questioningly. "That was your sledge out there?"

"Yes," said Jan.

The stranger sat down in the chair next to Jan.

"From the camps?" he questioned eagerly.

"What camps, m'sieur?"

"The railroad camps, where they are putting the new line through, beyond Wekusko."

"I know of no camps," said Jan simply. "I know of no railroad except this that comes to Le Pas. I came from Lac Bain, to the edge of the Barren lands."

"You have never been down before?" asked the stranger softly. Jan wondered at the light in his eyes.

"A long, long time," he said, "for a day. I have passed all of my life up there." Jan pointed to the north, and the other's eyes turned to where the polar star was fading low in the sky.

"And I have passed all of my life down there," he replied, nodding his head to the south. "A year ago I came up here for—for health and happiness." He laughed nervously. "I found them both, but I'm leaving them. I'm going back tomorrow. My name is Thornton," he added, holding out his hand again. "I come from Chicago."

"My name is Thoreau—Jan Thoreau," said Jan. "I have read of Chicago in a book and have seen pictures of it. Is it larger than the city that is called Winnipeg?"

He looked at Thornton, and Thornton turned his head a little so that the light did not shine in his face. The grip of his fingers tightened about Jan's hand.

"Yes, it is larger."

"The officers of the great company are at Winnipeg and the commissioner, are they not, m'sieur?"

"Of the Hudson's Bay company—yes."

"And if there was business to do—important business, m'sieur, would it not be best to go to the commissioner?" questioned Jan.

Thornton looked hard at the tense eagerness in Jan's face.

"There are nearer headquarters—at Prince Albert," he said.

"That is not far," exclaimed Jan, rising. "And they would do business there—important business?" He dropped his hand to Kazan's head and half turned toward the door.

"Perhaps better than the commissioner," replied Thornton. "It might depend on what your business is."

To them, as each stood for a moment in silence, there came the low wailing of a dog out in the night.

"They are calling for Kazan," said Jan quietly, as though he had not read the question in Thornton's last words. "Good night, m'sieur?"

CHAPTER XIV.
Temptation.

THE dogs were sitting upon their haunches waiting when Jan and Kazan went back to them. Over a fire Jan hung his coffee pail and a big chunk of frozen caribou meat and tossed frozen fish to the hungry dogs.

With his sickness, his deathly feeling of loneliness and heartache, there had entered into Jan now a strange sensation that was almost excitement—an eagerness to fasten the dogs in their traces, to hurry on in spite of his exhaustion to that place which Thornton had told him of—Prince Albert—and to free himself there for all time of the thing which had oppressed him since that night many years ago when he had staggered into Lac Bain to pay his violin as Cummins' wife died. He took the bundle his skin coat, and there he felt papers which he had taken from the hole in the log stick tree. They were safe. For twenty years he had guarded them. Tomorrow he would take them to the great company at Prince Albert. And after that—after he had done this thing, what would there remain in life for Jan Thoreau? Perhaps the company might take him, and he would remain in civilization. That would be best—for him. He would fight against the call of his forests as years and years ago he had fought against that call of the other world that had filled him with unrest for a time. He had killed that. If he did return to his forest he would go far to the west or far to the east. No one that had ever known him would hear again of Jan Thoreau.

Kazan had crept to his blanket, daring to encroach upon it inch by inch until his great wolf head lay upon Jan's arm. It was ten years ago that Jan had taken Kazan, a little half blind puppy that he and Melisse had chosen from a litter of half a dozen stronger brothers and sisters. Kazan was all that was left to him now. He loved the other dogs, but they were not like Kazan. He tightened his arm about the dog's head. Exhaustion and the warmth of the fire made him drowsy, and after a time he slept, with his head thrown back against the tree.

Something awoke him hours afterward. He opened his eyes and found that the fire was still burning brightly. On the far side of it beyond the dog sat Thornton. A look at the sky, where the stars were dying, and Jan knew that it was just before the gray break of dawn. He sat upright. Thornton laughed softly at him and puffed out clouds of smoke from his pipe.

"You were freezing," he said as Jan

No Medicine Like Baby's Own Tablets

For Either the Newborn Babe or the Growing Child

There is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones—whether it be for the new born babe or the growing child the Tablets always do good. They are absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs and the mother can always feel safe in using them.

Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. John Armour, R.R. 1, South Monaghan, Ont., says:—"We have three fine, healthy children, to whom, when a medicine is needed, we have given only Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the best medicine you can keep in any home where there are young children."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

stared, "and sleeping like a dead man. I waited for you back there and then hunted you up. You know, I thought"—He hesitated and knocked the ash from his pipe bowl. Then he looked frankly and squarely at Jan. "See here, old man, if you're hard up—had trouble of any sort—bad luck—got no money—won't you let me help you out?"

"Thank you, m'sieur; I have money," said Jan. "I left it there, outside with the dogs. I guess I would have been stiff with the frost if you had not come. You have been here all night?"

Thornton nodded.

"And it is morning!" exclaimed Jan, rising and looking above the spruce tops. "You are kind, m'sieur. I wish I might do as much for you."

"You can," said Thornton quietly. "Where are you going from here?"

"To the company's offices at Prince Albert. We will start within an hour."

"Will you take me with you?" Thornton asked.

"With pleasure!" cried Jan. "But it will be a hard journey, m'sieur. I must hurry, and you may not be accustomed to running behind the dogs."

Thornton rose and stretched out a hand.

"It can't be too hard for me," he said. "I wish"—

He stopped, and something in his low voice made Jan look straight into his eyes. Then he turned to his pack upon the sledge.

"I've got meat and coffee and hard biscuits," he said. "Will you have breakfast with me?"

It was early afternoon of the fourth day later when Jan and Thornton reached Prince Albert.

"We will go to the offices of the great company," said Jan. "We will lose no time."

It was Thornton now who guided him to the century old building at the west edge of the town. It was Thornton who led him into an office filled mostly with young women, who were laboring at clicking machines, and it was Thornton who presented a square bit of white card to a gray haired man at a desk, who, after reading it, rose from his chair, bowed and shook hands with him. And a few moments later a door opened, and Jan Thoreau alone passed through it, his heart quivering, his breath choking him, his hand clutching at the papers in his breast pocket.

Outside Thornton waited. An hour passed and still the door did not reopen. The man at the desk glanced curiously at Thornton. Two girls at typewriters exchanged whispered opinions as to who might be this wild looking creature from the north who was taking up an hour of the subcommissioner's time. Nearly two hours passed before Jan appeared. Thornton, still patient, rose as the door opened. His eyes first encountered the staring face of the subcommissioner. Then Jan came out. He had aged five years in two hours. There was a tired stoop to his shoulders, a strange pallor in his cheeks. To Thornton his thin face seemed to have grown thinner. With bowed head, looking neither here nor ahead of him, Jan passed on, and as the last door opened to let them out into the pale winter sun Thornton heard the sharp sobbing of his breath. His fingers gripped Jan's arm. His eyes were blazing.

"If you're getting the worst end of anything up there," he cried fiercely; "if you're in trouble, and they're taking the blood out of you, tell me, and I'll put the stamps on 'em! They'll back the devil when they back Jack Thornton, and if it needs money to show 'em, no I've got half a million to teach 'em the game!"

"Thanks, m'sieur," struggled Jan, striving to keep a lump out of his

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear parents, John and Eleanor Tyner, who departed this life: Father, April 27th, 1922, and Mother, May 11th, 1927.

Gone are the ones we loved so dear,
Silent the voices we hear no more;
'Tis sad but true, we wonder why
The best are always the first to die.
For the Saviour in his glory
Lights the streets of shining gold;
We shall meet our dearest parents,
When these pearly gates unfold.

EUROPEAN ELK DIMINISHING.

Hunters Leave Only Lesser Bucks to Become Parents.

European papers give accounts of record hunts for elk, the big forest deer which we call moose—not the Western deer called "elk" by us. These European elk continue to exist only in the forests of Sweden, Northern Russia and Siberia, and among the mountains of Poland and Transylvania, where they are preserved by Government and the great landowners. The shooting of the Swedish elk is permitted only for a short period in the autumn. Last year the elk were unusually abundant, and over 1,000 specimens were shot within the short time of a couple of weeks. Both king and commoner leave their work to go out hunting, and in some districts entire villages turn out for the occasion. The meat of the elk is a popular dish throughout the country, and its antlers are proudly displayed on the walls in hundreds of home in the elk districts. It is noticeable, however, that the antlers obtained from bucks shot nowadays are much smaller than those of a century ago—the natural result of the constant searching for and killing by sportsmen of the biggest males, tarrying the largest horns. These men have made "records," but they have diminished the general stature of the whole race by leaving only the lesser bucks to become parents.

One of the last haunts in Central Europe of the elk is the great forest which forms part of the estate of Prince Charles Radziwill in the east of Poland. The forest is now small and not more than two are shot a year.

"The elk hunting takes place at sunset and at dawn," says a Field correspondent, "when you set out into the forest in the night preceded by huntsmen to an appointed place. The animal is not so much stalked as decoyed by calling. I watched the old huntsman curiously as, just in the grey light of the dawn, he produced a horn, which looked like a megaphone, and snorted loudly through it. A snort, then a pause, a succession of snorts, and then the huntsman stamps on the ground, tears down branches of the trees and bushes, so that the crackling of wood and rustling of leaves may give an effect of one bigger to be about, the illusion that a rival is approaching."

ISLES OF FORTUNE.

Sixty Thousand Tons of Guano Are Collected From Small Islands.

Every gardener knows that guano is one of the best natural fertilizers, and thus a deposit of guano is very valuable indeed. Very few people know where such islands as Plumpuddin, Pomona, Albatross Rock, Roast Beef, Mercury, and Hollamabird are, for they are very small, and lie off a desert shore which is protected by the tremendous surge of Atlantic breakers. The only reason for finding them is the deposit left upon them by millions of gannets, penguins, and divers.

One of the smallest of the Guano Islands, which lie off the coast of West Africa, is called Ichaboe Island, and although it is only about a mile long and 700 yards wide, it is estimated that 25,000,000 birds nest upon it at one time.

These islands are rainless, and thus no fresh water is on the islets is not only "bone dry," but is never washed into the sea. The Government of South Africa preserve the birds jealously, and the islands are visited periodically for the collection of guano by scores of native "boys."

The birds arrive in flocks which darken the sun, and each bird is said to swallow at least a pound of fish a day. The average yield of guano is about 60,000 tons annually, and means a revenue to the South African Government of many thousands of pounds.

ERNESTTOWN

The wet weather has made it impossible for the farmers to get on the land. — Mrs. W. M. Hall of Morven, visited with her daughter Mrs. Wm. Amey last week. — Mr. and Mrs. Winslow Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thompson and family Sundayed with the farmers parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Thompson. — The Ladies' Aid held a very pleasant afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Chaplin on last Wednesday with a good attendance The meeting opened with the usual hymn "To the Work," and a splendid lesson being read by Mrs. Ed. Smith, taken from the 6th psalm followed by the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. The business was discussed by the members. Letters of thanks were read, received from Mrs. Rev. Ross and Mrs. Joe. Milligan for flowers sent them during their recent illness. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Abraham and Mrs. Wiseman. The collection amounted to $12.25. — Mrs. Wallace Rose visited the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Waite, Organist, rendered the Confirmation hymns and a beautiful anthem most acceptably. The church was well filled with an interested congregation.

DAN McCOWAN WHO AND WHAT?

Dan McCowan was born in Upper Strathearn, Scotland, where his early savings bought a camera to photograph the birds and animals of the woods around his home.

A naturalist by choice, he spent his early manhood studying the habits of animals and birds and photographing game in its native haunts.

His big-game photographs are in demand from all parts of the world, and his contributions to "Forest and Stream", "The Mentor", "The Nature Magazine", and many newspapers have made him widely known as a student of animal, bird, and plant life, whose researches are highly valued by scientists, and whose simple, vivid descriptions are equally pleasing to all men, women, and children.

With ten thousand negatives in his filing cabinet, with bulky notebooks crammed with data pertaining to furred and feathered creatures, with expert knowledge of the history and geography of the region, Mr. McCowan has a remarkable collection of lantern slides and films not only of birds and mammals, but also of the innumerable beauty spots of the heart of the Rockies.

Mrs. McCowan, who frequently accompanies her husband in his wilderness wanderings, has undertaken the necessary color work on these slides, and with intimate knowledge of the mountains and the flora and fauna native to the district has made excellent use of her talent.

The summer of 1926 was entirely given over to the securing of new material for use in the wider field to which he has recently been called. To be of service to those who, knowing little of natural science, are ardent lovers of birds and flowers and natural beauty is the endeavor of him who for nigh twenty years has trodden the high trails of the Rockies, has watched the eagle soaring in the blue and has marked the ways of the coney in the rough rocks of its home.

Mr. McCowan has lectured before many educational institutions, clubs, and societies. He is internationally known for his platform work, his pleasing presentation, and his fascinating stories of the life and habits of the forest folk.

Mr. McCowan is lecturing in Napanee, in Wonderland Theatre, on Friday evening, May 4th, under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society of Grace Church, and The Bureau of Commercial Economics of Washington, which is a philanthropic educational institution with alliances with over thirty-four of the governments of the world. Its work is to include the lectures and motion pictures the scenery, the industries, the natural resources and the customs of the peoples of one nation to those of another, thus promoting trade and friendship.

These travel talks are the contribution of the Bureau of Commercial Economics to building up the health and welfare of the nation. Outdoor life and recreation should be a vital part of the daily life of every man, woman, and child. The wonderful sports motion pictures that Mr. McCowan has made and the beautiful scenery he shows in his colored slides will be not only a delight, but an education to old and young. Adults 50 cents, children 25 cents. At Hooper's Drug Store. 17a

COPPER AND ZIN.

Only 100 Years' Supply of Copper in the World.

The old alchemists tried to turn tin and copper into gold. But British scientists are now thinking of going them one better, by turning gold into tin and copper.

Copper and tin deposits are rapidly running out, while the gold supply continues undiminished. In time, scientists in England say, copper and tin will become so valuable that it will pay chemists to transform gold and silver into these more useful metals.

British scientists, in interviews in the London Mail, say that there is only about 100 years' supply of copper in the world. Cables and electrical devices are using up great quantities of it. The marvelous durability of gold will make it a good substitute for copper when the time comes that gold is more plentiful than copper.

The alluvial deposits of tin in Cornwall have all been worked out and the only tin now produced there is from vein mining. Five-sixths of all the tin in the world is now mined from such alluvial deposits. England is depending on such small areas as Guiana, Bolivia and the Straits Settlements for nearly all the tin which goes into commodities industrially indispensable.

By re-arrangement of the electrons of gold, scientists say that they may some day be able to transmute gold into the baser metals, just as the alchemists tried—vainly—to transmute the baser metals into gold. Failing that, scientists are looking about for a method of extracting material from space, according to the published symposium.

"Astronomers have recently discovered that there is in certain stars a peculiar sort of matter 20,000 times as heavy as the ordinary earthly matter we know," a scientist is quoted as saying. "A piece of it the size of a golf ball, if placed on a table, would crash through the table and possibly through the floor.

"Now that we know that such matter exists in the universe we can predict that, in the future, by marshalling our electrons and setting them to work, we shall be making this heaviest known matter here on earth. Think of its power in explosive shells for the nation which first ferrets out the secret."

DINING WITH LIONS.

Workmen who participated in the construction of a 350-foot chimney at Douglas, Arizona, were entertained to dinner at the bottom of the chimney—on the inside, of course. Fifty men sat down at two circular tables, one within the circle of the other, and there was ample room for diners and waiters.

Probably the most remarkable party of this nature was that given by Bartholdi, the sculptor of the Statue of Liberty, which stands at the entrance of New York Harbor. He invited his friends to a banquet given in the leg of the statue. As the figure is 220 feet high, there was plenty of room in the knee for a dinner party of twenty. They climbed to their places at the table by means of ladders, and the dishes were hoisted by pulleys.

A dinner in a cage in which the performing lions of a famous trainer were housed was given by the master of the beasts. Many people who were invited sent polite refusals, but the trainer found enough friends who had sufficient faith in his powers to trust themselves with the lions. The whole troupe was not allowed to wander at large, but three or four of the biggest felines roamed about at will, and after dinner the trainer had the troupe in and put them through their tricks.

Goose as Pet.

The customers of a leading cafe in Bucharest rubbed their eyes when a man strolled in leading at the end of a blue silk ribbon a snow-white goose.

The man appeared to pay no attention to the sensation which the appearance of this novel pet caused, sat down at a table and ordered a coffee, while the bird, as if it were the most natural thing in the world for its master to take his morning coffee in its company, squatted quietly at his feet.

When he emerged with the goose at his heels many people followed the strange pair, and the excited crowd eventually grew to such large dimensions that a policeman hurried up and arrested the man, the goose following quietly to the police station.

Apparently the inspector could find nothing in the regulations to warrant a charge being laid, and a cheer went up as the man once more emerged with his goose waddling behind him.

Dog Warders.

Police dogs instead of armed guards for Swedish prisons are recommended by the Swedish Shepherd's Dog Association.

The escape of two dangerous criminals from the Langholmen prison at Stockholm gave rise to the suggestion.

The men were captured some days later, but if well-trained dogs had been on guard, the association maintains, they would never have got outside the prison walls.

Dogs have been used for this purpose with good results for some time in Finland. They are kept at night in enclosures running parallel with the prison walls, and if a criminal tries to get away the dogs are roused and bark till the guards arrive.

Washes, Carries Coal, Woman Gains 18 Pounds

"I wash, iron and carry coal and don't get tired since taking Vinol. Also, I have gained 18 pounds."—Mrs. S. Cortese.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. The very FIRST bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or adults. Tastes delicious. Wallace's Drug Store.

Nervous and Miserable Through Constipation

"Fruit-a-tives" Restores Vigorous Health

MR. D. DUPERRON.

The drowsy, fatigued condition that usually goes with constipation is a serious handicap. Overcome it. Be healthy by taking "Fruit-a-tives". Read this letter: Marville, Ont.—"The results are marvellous. That nervous, tired feeling has completely gone. 'Fruit-a-tives' has made a new man of me."

—Mr. Donald Duperron.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the intensified juices of ripe, fresh fruit, blended with stimulating tonics. It is the stoutest natural foe of constipation. Gentle, natural and positive in its action, it builds the system to function properly without the constant use of laxatives. 25c and 50c at all druggists. Try it—to-day.

Will you, too, be surprised?

"It was a delightful surprise" — writes a Toronto subscriber — "to find that I could talk to my Mother as far away as Sarnia for only 55 cts. by the Evening Rate. I'm sure few people realize how very little it costs to telephone even to points as far distant as Sarnia, by the Evening Rate, and you would do the public a service by emphasizing this point."

This is only one of many instances showing that many people do not know how low the Evening Rate on Long Distance is. Call up our Manager and ask him the Evening Rate to some point you are particularly interested in. You, too, will probably be surprised.

threat. "It's nothing like that. I don't need money. Half a million would just about buy what I've given away up there."

He clutched his hand for an instant to the empty pocket where the papers had been.

That night, leaving Thornton still at supper in the little old Windsor hotel, Jan slipped away and, with Kazan at his heels, crossed the frozen Saskatchewan to the spruce forest on the north shore. He wanted to be alone to think, to fight with himself against a desire which was almost overpowering him. Once, long ago, he had laid his soul bare to Jean de Grivois, and Jean had given him comfort. Tonight he longed to go to Thornton as he had gone to Jean and to tell him the same story and what had passed that day in the office of the subcommissioner. In his heart there had grown something for Thornton that was stronger than friendship—something that would have made him fight for him and die for him as he would have fought and died for Jean de Gravois. It was a feeling cemented by a belief that something was troubling Thornton; that he, too, was filled with a loneliness and a grief which he was trying to conceal. And yet he fought to restrain himself from confiding in his new friend. It would do no good, he knew, except by relieving him of a part of his mental burden.

A week—it might be ten days, the commissioner had told him—and it would be over. Lights were out, and people were in bed when he and Kazan returned to the hotel, but Thornton was up, sitting by himself in the gloom, as Jan had first seen him at Le Pas. Jan sat down beside him. There was an uneasy tremor in Thornton's voice when he said:

"Jan, did you ever love a woman—love her until you were ready and willing to die for her?"

The suddenness of the question wrung the truth from Jan's lips in a low, choking voice. For an instant he thought that Thornton must have guessed his secret.

"Yes, m'sieur."

Thornton leaned toward him, gripping his knees, and the misery in his face was deeper than Jan had ever seen it before.

"I love a woman—like that," he went on tensely. "A girl—not a woman, and she is one of your people, Jan—of the north, as innocent as a flower, more beautiful to me than—than all the women I have ever seen before. She is at Oxford House. I am going there to—to save myself."

"Save yourself!" cried Jan. "Does she not love you?"

"She would follow me to the end of the earth!"

"Then"—

Thornton straightened himself and wiped his pale face. Suddenly he rose to his feet and motioned for Jan to follow him. He walked swiftly out into the night and still faster after that until they passed beyond the town. From where he stopped they could look over the forests far into the pale light of the south.

"That's hell for me!" said Thornton, pointing. "It's what we call civilization—but it's mostly hell! I wish to God I could stay here—always!"

"You love her," breathed Jan. "You can stay."

"I can't," groaned Thornton. "I can't—unless"—

"What, m'sieur?"

"Unless I lose everything—but her."

Jan's fingers trembled as they sought Thornton's hand.

"And everything is—is—nothing when you give it for love and happiness," he urged. "The great God, I know"—

"Everything," cried Thornton. "Don't you understand? I said everything!" He turned almost fiercely upon his companion. "I'd give up my name—for her. I'd bury myself back there in the forests and never go out of them—for her. I'd give up my fortune, friends, lose myself forever—for her. But I can't. Good God, don't you understand?"

"I've spent ten years of worse than hell down there with a woman," went on Thornton. "It happens among us frequently, this sort of hell. I came up here to get out of it for a time. You know now. There is a woman down there who—who is my wife. She would be glad if I never returned. She is happy now when I am away, and I have been happy for a time. I know what love is. I have felt it. I have lived it. God forgive me, but I am almost tempted to go back to her."

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The business man was interviewing an applicant for a job.

"I'm sorry," said the business man, "but I'm afraid you are not qualified for the position; you don't know anything about my business."

"Don't I?" exclaimed the applicant. "Why, your typist is the girl I'm going to marry!"

It Will Relieve a Cold.—Colds are the commonest ailments of mankind, and if neglected may lead to serious conditions. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will relieve the bronchial passages of inflammation speedily and thoroughly and will strengthen them against subsequent attack. And as it eases the inflammation it will usually stop the cough because it allays the irritation in the throat. Try it and prove it.

During a heat wave a magistrate was discussing with a few club friends the question of summer drinks, and he admitted that he did not know of a good thirst quencher.

"Have you tried gin and ginger-beer?" asked one of the group.

"No; but I've tried many people who have!" was the witty response.

Certain morbid conditions must exist in the stomach and intestines to encourage worms, and they will exist as long as these morbid conditions permit them to. To be rid of them and spare the child suffering, use Miller's Worm Powders. They will correct the digestive irregularities by destroying the worms, conditions favorable to worms will disappear, and the child will have no more suffering from that cause.

Minister (to deacon) — "Then you don't think I practise what I preach, eh?"

Deacon—"No, sir. I don't. You've been preachin' on the subject of resignation for two years."

Cuts and Bruises Disappear.—When suffering from cuts, scratches, bruises, sprains, sore throat or chest and any similar ailment, use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Its healing power is well-known in every section of the community. A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil should be in every medicine chest ready for the emergencies that may always be anticipated.

In Siam lawsuits are decided by plunging the litigants into cold water. The one who stays under the longest wins the case.

Peevish, pale, restless, and sick, children owe their condition to worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will relieve them and restore health.

A loud and objectionable bore had been talking for hours about himself and his achievements.

Long Standing Asthma. Many have suffered so long from asthma and have tried so many so-called remedies they think that there is no real help for them. They should read the letters received by the manufacturers of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, from hundreds of cases once as desperate as their own. Even in long-neglected cases this famous preparation brings prompt help.

Doctor—It's delirium tremens. Why don't you set a limit for yourself?

Patient—I do, but I always get drunk before I reach it.

Motorists Marvel at this NEW-TYPE GASOLENE which combines

"ANTI-KNOCK" and "HIGH-TEST" Qualities

CITIES SERVICE OILS

ONCE - ALWAYS

Two Advancements Now Combined in a Single Gasolene

HIGH-TEST—A superior High-Test gasolene insures quick starting, rapid acceleration and complete combustion. Koolmotor gasolene develops complete combustion in your motor and gives you in fullest measure the much desired quick start and rapid acceleration. An added quality of Koolmotor gasolene is that it keeps your motor cool and smooth-running.

ANTI-KNOCK QUALITIES—Greater compression is the new tendency in motor designs. Koolmotor is a perfect gasolene for high compression motors as well as all types of motors in use today. Koolmotor gasolene will give your motor increased power, minimizing detonation, or what is commonly called "knocking." Koolmotor gasolene is a pure petroleum product tinted green so that you may always easily identify it.

NOW, thanks to a scientific achievement, you can buy a gasolene which combines two qualities which hitherto you have bought singly. You have bought "high-test" gasolene. You have bought "anti-knock" gasolene. Now, you can buy a single gasolene combining both qualities.

This new combination is at your command, and when you use it the result will amaze you. It is called Koolmotor gasolene and is the outgrowth of many years of experimenting by an organization which invests $1,000,000 each year for research.

Mere description is inadequate in comparison with the remarkable results you will obtain when you buy your first tankful of Koolmotor gasolene.

Your car suddenly attains new vitality. Your motor starts quicker than ever before. Acceleration is much faster. Then comes driving pleasure you have never known before and smooth, unlimited power. In addition, Koolmotor gasolene does not overheat your motor, a distinct improvement.

Let your next tankful of gasolene be Koolmotor. Get it at any Cities Service Station. You can identify it by its green color. It costs no more than ordinary "high-test" or "anti-knock" gasolene.

COMPARISON will convince you that no other car at any price in the fine six field equals McLaughlin-Buick in value. M21-4-28C

The G. M. A. C. Deferred Payment Plan offers many advantages to buyers of McLaughlin-Buick cars

Because of its leadership in sales in the fine six field . . . and because of its association with the vast General Motors organization, McLaughlin-Buick is able to build a better car at a lower cost. And, in accord with the McLaughlin-Buick and General Motors policy, McLaughlin-Buick turns these advantages into greater values for the motor-car buyer.

Address and Presentation

On Friday evening, April 13th, a number of friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. David Brown, Empey Hill, gathered at their home to spend a social evening prior to their removal to Napanee. During the evening Mrs. Taylor read the following address:—

To Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

With feelings of both pleasure and regret we, your many friends of this community, have met in your home tonight to spend a social evening with you before your departure to your new home; pleasure that after your many years of busy activities upon the farm, you are both spared to retire from them, and hope to see you both able to spend many pleasant and profitable years in that new home; regret because our parting severs the very many ties that only so many years of Christian labour together can establish, and these we cannot break without a degree of sadness.

We one and all realize that our church and community are meeting with a big loss, for we have always found you both ready and willing to help in all times of need and feel Mr. Brown we must mention especially your valued help as Treasurer of the Trustee Board of our Church for during those years the church of which we all feel justly proud, was erected, and we well know that you and your good wife did much to help in that good work and make possible the blessing of such a church in our midst.

But our loss will be others gain, and as you are not going far from us we shall hope to see you upon many occasions, and assure you of a hearty welcome whenever you find it convenient to be among us.

And now, ere we leave your home to-night, we wish to convey to you in some tangible way our feelings, by presenting to you this library table and candlesticks. It in no way expresses our admiration, but when you view the gift think of the givers.

It is our prayer, one and all, that health and strength, the greatest of all good gifts, may be given you both to still labour on in "Our Master's Vineyard", and that when our work here is ended, we have all so lived so that the great Pilot of our Lives may speak to us and say, "well done", and we may enter as an unbroken community into that Better Land where partings do not come, and where we may be priviledged to continue the work we have here prepared ourselves for.

Signed on behalf of your many friends.

In a few well chosen words, Mr. Brown, on behalf of his wife, thanked the friends for their kindly words and lovely gift.

A FINE EARLY TOMATO

After many years of careful selection a variety of the tomato has been developed that possesses first rate quality and ripens in the open in from 95 to 100 days. The development of this tomato began twenty-eight years ago when the variety Earliana was recognized to possess considerable merit. It was seen, however, to produce plants and fruits showing considerable variation. Mr. W. T. Macoun, the Dominion Horticulturist, taking advantage of these variations, started making selections of plants showing early maturity and heavy yield. After several generations had been grown and seed saved from early maturing desirable plants, it was found that this method of selection had so altered the type of the plants and fruit from the original Earliana that it was decided to call the segregation Alacrity. To growers particularly in northern districts, this variety has been a great boon, as it has made it possible for them to grow tomatoes almost as well as those living in more favoured localities. Further improvement is however still looked for in considerable blocks of plants grown on trial grounds. A record of performance is being kept of each plant showing the yield of ripe fruit for the first two weeks, month, and total season, besides noting the amount of rough fruit produced. This study of the performance of individual plants reveals the desirable strain to use for further selection work. In addition to this a strain test is conducted to ascertain the segregate of greatest merit by actually growing plants from the selected strain side by side with strains of other varieties.

Why Gum-Dipped Tires Cost Less "Per Mile"

The demand from car owners for Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires has given Firestone Dealers a large increase in volume that enables them to sell these tires to you at the lowest prices in the history of the industry.

The Firestone Balloon Tread, scientifically designed three years ago, and unchanged today has the wear-resisting qualities that give thousands of extra miles.

This tread must be placed on a carcass that has the qualifications to withstand terrific flexing. The Firestone carcass is made of cords dipped in a rubber solution which not only saturates and insulates every fibre of every cord, but unifies sidewalls with carcass, eliminating any possibility of separation under the extreme flexing of low-pressure tires.

The Firestone Dealer in your locality will gladly explain the Gum-Dipping process, the scientifically designed Balloon tread, and other advantages that only Gum-Dipped Tires can give. See him today.

Minstrel Show at Odessa.

The Kingston Rotary Club presented their excellent minstrel show, at Odessa, on Wednesday evening, April 18th, under the auspices of the United Church Association. The musical and comic numbers given by the "colored gentlemen", were well enjoyed by all, as well as the exhibition dancing given by six K. C. I. girls. At the close Mr. Jack Elder gave several Scottish songs which were as usual a real treat. After the concert, a meeting of the executive was held, at which it was decided to hold an annual Field Day on May 24th.

Look !

Everyone is invited to attend an open meeting of the Odessa Women's Institute, to be held in the Town Hall, Odessa, on Saturday evening, April 28th, at 8 o'clock. Mr. J. Laughland, Agricultural Representative, will be present, with lantern slides of interest to all. There will be a Mock Trial put on by the Ernestown ladies; also music. We hope to have a good attendance, as this will be the last meeting for this year. The men are invited as well as the women. Silver collection. We hope everyone will be on hand for the May meeting, as the election of officers is a very important meeting. 17a

Mrs. A. M. Young is Superintendent of General Hospital.

To fill the vacancy caused by the resignation, some weeks ago, of Miss V. Winslow, as superintendent of the City General Hospital, the Hospital Board, on Thursday night, promoted Mrs. M. A. Young to superintendent. There were many applications for the position, and the Hospital Board gave serious consideration to all applicants before making a decision. Mrs. Young came originally from Bath, Ont., and has been attached to the staff of the General Hospital here for the past eighteen months. She is well known in the nursing profession, and is very popular with the staff of the local hospital. Her nursing training was received at Oshawa General Hospital, Oshawa, Ont., and a post graduate of McGill University, where she took the teachers' and supervisors' course. Mrs. Young was a delegate to the International Congress of Nurses, held in Helsingfors, Finland, in 1925.—Moose Jaw Evening Times. Moose Jaw, Sask., April 13th, 1928.

OBITUARY

Mr. W. H. Cadman.

It was with sincere regret that the many friends of Mr. W. H. Cadman learned that he had suddenly passed away on Sunday, April 15th, at his home, Napanee. Although in his eighty-first year, and confined to his bed many months, he was a patient sufferer, and a devoted member of Trinity United Church for eighteen years. His earlier years were spent in Adolphustown, where he was born.

The late Mr. Cadman was one of the few surviving veterans of the Fenian Raid of 1866, and until very recently retained a clear recollection of events surrounding the Raid. His wife predeceased him about two years ago. Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. (Capt.) Bloomfield, Kingston; Mrs. C. F. Allison, Addiphustown; Mrs. W. G. Fretts and Mrs. T. M. Asselstine, of Napanee, having resided with the latter the past six years. The funeral, which took place Tuesday afternoon, from his late residence to Riverview cemetery, was conducted by the Rev. Harry Pawson, of Trinity United Church.

Mrs. Johanna Kidd.

Wife of the late Thomas Kidd, hotel proprietor of many years standing in Centreville, Ont., passed away at her home in Los Angeles, California, at 522 So. Fremont Ave., on December 21st, 1927. Her only surviving relative being her daughter, Mabel, (Mrs. George Deering), of the same address.

After an illness of two years which she bore up with her usual strength and fortitude, always ready with her cheery smile and kindly greeting to everyone, young and old, all loved her and miss her dear face about the home. Death came peacefully about 4.15 Wednesday afternoon, her heart just stopping as she was having a quiet sleep.

Mr. Kidd and family resided in Napanee after disposing of his hotel holdings, later on taking the family to California, where they have since resided. John McGrath, of Centreville, was a brother of Mrs. Kidd. His daughter, Mary McGrath, is your popular singer of Napanee.

May the soul of the dear departed rest in peace. She was buried in San Jose, beside her husband.

The Russian Revolution.

One of the greatest conundrums presented to modern historians is the apparent success of the Russian Revolution if its survival for so long a period can be termed a success. For some time the Historical Society has been looking for a lecturer to deal with this subject and are glad to announce that on Friday evening, May 4th, Professor McArthur, of Queen's University, will present the result of a careful study of the question. His reputation for thoroughness is sufficient guarantee that his address will be a most interesting one. No admission is charged. Bear in mind the date, May 4th. All are welcome.

SENTINEL-REVIEW WINS ITS APPEAL

The appeal of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review against Robinson, et al, proprietors of the Toronto Telegram, has been allowed with costs in a judgment rendered by the Supreme Court of Canada this morning. The judgment of the trial judge is restored and the costs are allowed both for the action before the Supreme Court and that before the Appellate Division.

Action was taken by the Woodstock Sentinel-Review against the trustees of the late John Ross Robertson, publishers of the Toronto Evening Telegram, for damages for alleged libel arising from articles published by the defendant newspaper on August 9th and August 31th, 1926, during the Dominion general election campaign. Complaint was made that the articles in the Telegram accused the plaintiff company of hypocrisy in the policy of prohibition pursued in the conduct of the newspaper.

The action was heard by Mr. Justice Logie and a jury at Woodstock, Ont., on February 28th, 1927, when the plaintiff was awarded $6,000 damages. On the defendant's appeal to the First Divisional Court, this verdict was reversed. The plaintiff company then carried the case to the Supreme Court of Canada, with the foregoing result.

PUBLIC MEETING AT CAMDEN EAST

A meeting was called on Wednesday evening, April 18th, in the Parish Hall, Camden East, re County Road.

Rev. Mr. Spencer was elected Chairman, and Mr. James Skinner, Secretary.

It was decided at this meeting to send the following petition :—

We, the undersigned ratepayers of the Townships of Camden and Ernestown, beg to draw the attention of the Reeves and Deputy Reeves of the said Townships to the deplorable condition of the Road, from the Napanee Road to the Provincial Highway at Fellows' Corner, and we request them to use their best endeavours to have the work of repairing the same commenced at the earliest possible moment, as it is now part of the County Road System by Order-in-Council of the Government, dated March 20th, 1928.

Signed by about fifty ratepayers.

Moved by R. W. Saul, seconded by Byrtle Yeomans, that we extend a very hearty vote of thanks to the Hon. W. D. Black, Speaker, for the help he has given us in connection with our County Road System, especially from the Nimmo Road south to the Provincial Highway. Carried unanimously.

Moved by D. Sexsmith, seconded by Wm. MacWilliams, that we extend to R. W. Saul, of Camden East, a hearty vote of thanks for the work he has done in getting our road back from the Township to the County Road System. This motion like the previous one was carried unanimously.

REV. R. W. SPENCER, Chairman.

JAMES SKINNER, Secretary.

Dated, Camden East, April 18th, 1928.

St. Andrew's Young People.

The Young People of St. Andrew's Church were hosts and hostesses at an entertainment given in the Sunday School Room, on Monday evening, with the members of Trinity and Morven Church Young People as guests for the evening. The President, Mr. MacKenzie, was chairman, and introduced the performers. A debate was given by the Messrs. Tom and Jim Moffat, Leslie Merritt and Miss Helen Lancaster, after which Mr. Beatty gave a summary, which proved very interesting. The musical numbers were played by Miss Catherine Henderson, Miss Lenore Black, Mr. Robt. Howitt and Mr. Bill Templeton. A sing-song and refreshments brought the evening to a successful close.

VESTRY MEETING

The annual Vestry meeting of St. Mary Magdalene's Church was held on Tuesday evening, April 24th.

The Auditors' report was given, and the financial reports of the various church organizations were read by officers of the various branches, showing a flourishing condition in the church's activities.

Officers were elected as follows :—

Vicar's Warden—Mr. George Tustin.

People's Warden—Mr. W. A. Grange.

Sidesman of the preceding year were re-elected.

Advisory Board—Messrs. H. Daly, J. G. Fennell, T. B. Wallace, W. H. Boyle, W. J. Doller, W. S. Herrington and J. Wilson.

Auditors—Messrs. C. Waite and J. G. Fennell.

Vestry Clerk—E. J. Walters.

Mr. T. B. Wallace was elected Lay-Delegate to the Synod for the next three years.

At the conclusion of the meeting light refreshments were served.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

April 30th, 1928.

Dear Editor,—The old Napanee Cavalry, in the days of the Fenian Raid the last surviving member of that troop, which was called out the 6th day of June, 1866, on Sunday, to protect the City of Kingston, to face 10,000 Fenians at Cape Vincent, ready to cross as soon as they could get boats to do so, in which they failed, and remained there a month drilling which put us into July, and the United States Government made them hand up their arms and return to their homes, as they were the remnants of the Civil War of the United States, and those in the order of Fenianism says "let us go to Canada with our weapons and take Canada".

Fred Membery, of Adolphustown Ont., is the last surviving member of that old honorable troop of the Napanee Cavalry, who has been boarding in Prince Edward County the last five months, and will be eighty-eight years old on the 6th day of August coming, and can dance the double-shuffle and turn a handspring as he did in the days of his teens. All old associates of his in Picton if you think it is not the truth, The Government should honor him with a good pension for the few miles left he is supposed to travel.

Be it also remembered that notwithstanding the American Government paid bounties to fetch home, they broke out again in 1870, and the last surviving members to face them again at Osborne's, in John Simmons, Picton; Thomas Allan, Adolphustown, and Albert Dorland, of California; and they certainly should be rewarded with a pension also, and Napanee troops remembered forever.

Address and Presentation

On Monday evening, the 30th ult., a large number of friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mooney, South Napanee, gathered at their home to spend a social evening prior to their removal to Oshawa.

After the presentation of a very handsome three-piece parlor suite, the following address was read by Mr. Allan Baldwin:

To Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mooney and Family.

We, your many friends and neighbors of this community, assemble here this night to show to you in some tangible form our feelings towards you one and all on this the eve of your departure from our midst. During the short time among us, this being the scene of your early school days, a great tie of friendship has been created, and which we all wish to remain, though your future home be far distant from us. Your ever readiness to lend a helping hand in sickness and in health has endeared you to everyone that comes in the more severe.

We ask of you to accept these gifts as a token of our good wishes to you in your future home and sincerely hope that you may be spared to enjoy them for many years to come, and while enjoying them your thoughts will wander back to May 4th, 1928, the childhood days, where you left many friends behind.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors.

ALBERT WALSH
FRANK HART.

In a few well chosen words Mr. Mooney, on behalf of his wife and family, thanked one and all for the lovely gifts, after which all joined in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

After the presentation was made, lunch was served, after which dancing was again indulged in till the wee hours, a local orchestra furnishing the music.

WEDDING BELLS.

Grass—Bell.

On Wednesday, April 25th, 1928, St. Paul's Church, Kingston, was the scene of an interesting event when Miss Georgia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bell, of Belleville, was united in marriage to Russell, third son of Mr. and Mrs. George Grass, Napanee.

Extreme simplicity marked every detail of the ceremony, which was performed by the bridegroom's godparent, a family friend of both the bride and groom.

The bride was becomingly attired in a pastle blue georgette frock with a chic hat of the same shade, and carried a corsage bouquet of butterfly and premier roses.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Mabel Bell, who wore a pretty gown of pale pink georgette, made in the same style, and with a cute hat matching. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations. Mr. Cecil Grass did honor for the groom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 22 St. Charles Street, Belleville, when about twenty-five immediate relatives and friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Grass will reside in Napanee.

The popularity of the bride was evidenced by the numerous gifts given and the many pre-nuptial presentations given in her honor.

Oderkirk—Haggarty.

The marriage took place in Napanee, on Tuesday, April 31st, 1928, of Miss Nancy J. Oderkirk, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Oderkirk, of Napanee, and Mr. William Haggarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Haggarty, of Croydon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. J. Wilson, rector of St. Andrew's United Church.

Miss May Haggarty, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Allen Haggarty supported the groom. The bride was becomingly attired in blue georgette trimmed with lace, with hat and shoes to match.

After the ceremony the happy couple motored to Harrowsmith, where at the home of Mrs. Herb Jackson, sister of the bride, they enjoyed a delicious luncheon.

THE T. EATON CO. LIMITED, TAKES OVER CANADIAN DEPARTMENT-STORES LIMITED

Rumors which have been persistent for some time are finally confirmed to-day in the announcement by The T. Eaton Co. Limited, that their offer to purchase the land, buildings, equipments and merchandise of the Canadian Department-Stores, Limited, has been accepted, and they will at an early date hereafter control that Company's chain of retail stores located in Ontario and Quebec.

When interviewed to-day, representative of the Eaton Company stated that the stores will continue under the name, "The Canadian Department-Stores, Limited", and will include substantially the same departments of merchandise. They point out that the C.D.S. will be backed by the strong purchasing power of the Eaton organization, and will carry out the well-known policies which have contributed to Eaton's development and expansion—the guarantee of goods satisfactory or money refunded—the proven economy of cash dealing—and the elimination of night shopping. The stores will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., including Saturday.

Under the Eaton regime, they states that the aim of The Canadian Department-Stores, Limited, will be to furnish its customers with the qualities of merchandise for which the Eaton organization has become noted.

Acquiring the control of the C.D.S.I. by The T. Eaton Co., Limited, will bring twenty-one more department stores within the control of the latter organization, which is already widely known as the largest retail business in the British Empire. The Canadian Department-Stores are situated at Ottawa, Hamilton, Brockville, Belleville, Picton, Napanee, Lindsay, Peterborough, Huntsville, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, Chatham, Woodstock, Stratford, Hanover, Midland, Port Arthur, Pembroke, Brantford, and St. Catharines, Ont., and Montreal, Que.

The larger establishments of The T. Eaton Co., Limited, are located in Toronto, Winnipeg, Montreal, Hamilton, Saskatoon, Regina, Moncton and Halifax, while Teco Stores operated by the Eaton organization are at Kitchener, Peterborough and Sudbury, Ont., Sherbrooke, Que., Brandon, Man., and Lethbridge, Alta. In addition there are the Mail Order establishments of The T. Eaton Co., Limited, in Toronto, Winnipeg, Moncton, Regina, and Saskatoon; and the Eaton Grocterias which have been and are being established at numerous locations in the Doofinion; and Eaton's, which are the Eaton factories, whose large production is sold entirely throughout the retail stores operated by Eatons.

OBITUARY

Mrs. William J. Armstrong.

On Good Friday morning, April 6th, just at the break of day, Nancy A. Armstrong, beloved wife of William J. Armstrong, Bay View, passed peacefully away, after a protracted illness of several months. She was a daughter of the late Solomon Amey, Ernestown, and had spent all of her life in the vicinity.

Deceased was the last of a family, the late T. Ashton Amey was a brother. She was in her sixty-ninth year. On Dec. 3rd, 1884, she married Wm. J. Armstrong, and after the long happy years spent together, the separation is unusually pathetic. Mr. Armstrong has the heartfelt sympathy of a host of friends at the loss of one whose disposition was invariably cheery and whose path was strewn with deeds of thoughtfulness and kindness for others.

In early life the deceased was converted to God and identified herself with the Methodist Church. The funeral service was held at her home on Easter Sunday, conducted by her Pastor, Rev. G. E. Ross, of the Bath United Church, and interment took place in Cataraqui cemetery. Many beautiful and beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which she was held.

"And with the morn' those angel faces smile
Which she had loved long since but lost awhile."

YARKER SOUTH

Quite a few from here were called out early Sunday morning to fight the disastrous fire in Yarker, which, owing to the large turnout of willing workers, and also the the brigade from Kingston, were able to confine the flames and only two buildings and the mill shed were burned. Yarker has had several fires, but none so bad as this one, as so many fine homes stood in such peril.—Mr. John Love spent Sunday afternoon at Casen Davey's.—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Newman and Milford, of Wilton, spent Sunday with their aunt, Mrs. Martha Love.—Mrs. Gladys Wilson at Jas. Babcock's recently.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark, of Petworth, with her brother, Lloyd Switzer, on Sunday.—Mrs. Jane Davey and Mrs. Casen Davey spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Martha Love.

BICKNELL'S CORNERS

The weather still keeps very cool, with plenty of rainy days. We sure hope to see it settled soon.—Mrs. Peters spent several days with her daughter, Mrs. A. Fraken, Selby.—Mr. James Sewell and family spent Sunday at Morven with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reid.—Quite a number attended the Mission Circle social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Simmons on Friday night, and all report a good time.—Mr. and Mrs. T. Clancy at Mr. Arthur Amey's on Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Simmons spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. J. Samson, Newburgh.

THREE OF TRAIN CREW KILLED

A huge boulder loosened from its place on a cut on the Canadian Pacific Railway at Bellingbrook, near Tichborne, rolled on the track causing fourteen freight cars to pile up, and took the lives of three men, the crew of the train, last Sunday night, at 9.45. The train, a west-bound freight, was proceeding about forty miles an hour, and when the engine struck the rock the locomotive was derailed, trapping the crew in the cab of the locomotive until it is presumed that they were killed instantly.

Engineer M. Caterine, 40, married, of Smith's Falls; Fireman Martin McKenzie, 26, unmarried, Toronto; and Brakeman, David Woods, 33, married, of Smith's Falls, were the three men who lost their lives.

A land-slide of small rocks and earth followed the loosening of the boulder and practically blocked the track, apparently the engineer applied the brakes, but it was too late, and the locomotive rolled over on its side, the boiler exploding.

Fourteen cars along with the engine were strewn along the tracks and railway men declared that it was one of the worst wrecks in the district for some time. The wreck caused a jam on the rear of the train were also thrown off.

The train was in charge of Conductor Althouse, of Smith's Falls, who was in the caboose and escapted unhurt. The rear-end brakeman, the remaining member of the crew, was also in the caboose and was unscathed.

Mrs. Ida Catherine, 95 South John Street, Belleville, is the mother of the dead engineer.

Wrecking crews from Trenton and Smith's Falls were dispatched to the scene and efforts made to locate the bodies of the other two unfortunate men. The scene of the accident is about twenty miles west of Dockrill siding, where seven people were killed in November of last year, when a C. P. R. freight crashed into a passenger train.

YARKER

The regular meeting of the Yarker Cclebrated Club Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Cyrus Edgar, on April 18th, with good response—twenty seven members and three visitors. The meeting opened in the usual way with the Ode and the Lord's Prayer, after which the business of the day was disposed of. It was decided to hold a bee to clean up the cemetery on May 19th. Arrangements were made to help a poor family and it was decided to celebrate Grandmother's Day at our next meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Boyce, on May 23rd. A special program, suitable for the day, will be given. All are cordially invited and a special invitation is given to grandmothers. Members are asked to bring any antiques or relics of earlier days to exhibit, and to give a short history of the article exhibited.

After the business meeting, two splendid readings were given, one entitled "It Would Keep a Diary", by Mrs. Harold Freeman, and the other, "Neighbours", by Mrs. McKnight. The current Events paper was interestingly read by Mrs. Earl Boyce, in her usual able manner, and much appreciated.

Lunch was served by the hostess and Lunch Committee, and a very pleasant social half-hour was enjoyed by all.

ERNESTTOWN

The weather is very unsettled just now. We are looking forward to May and Mrs. Wm. Weese, of Belleville, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Davidson.—Miss Rose Glenn and Mr. R. C. Hill took tea on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thompson.—A number of our Institute members took in the concert in Odessa, on Saturday evening last. Mr. and Mrs. Parker entertained on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vanalstine, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Denison, Misses Margaret and Betty Denison, of Napanee, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Farley and daughters, Vivian and June. The gathering was in honor of the ninth birthday of Vivian Farley.

We noticed in the daily paper on Monday of this week, the notice of the death at the Rev. Robt. McCullouch. Mr. McCullouch will be remembered by some of the older folk of the village, as Pastor of the Methodist Church here about 1896. His wife predeceased him several years ago. His daughter, Miss Bertha E. married Geo. E. Deroche, now County Judge of Hastings.

The Ladies' Aid take their play to Camden East this Friday evening.

What are we doing in Canada for our physically defective children? Excellent schools for the care and training of the blind exist in five centres and for deaf and dumb children in seven centres. Provincial or municipal assistance is provided for their maintenance and education. Provision also exists in every province, through special accommodation in Sanitoria, for the treatment of children who are suffering from, or have been exposed to tuberculosis. In the larger centres, in most of the provinces, special classes are provided at the end of the ordinary school system for the special education of children suffering from various types of physical or mental defects, which may require special lines of training for their well-considered institutional care. These auxiliary services are proving most practical, economical and constructive, that the child's special need is served precisely without taking him from the family or community.

SHARP'S CORNERS

Say, who says that Sharp's Corners is dead? Well I guess not.—Spring is quite backward here. We are having lots of rain and very cold weather for this time of year.—Mr. and Mrs. C. "It isn't what you do today that causes the blowout!"

—It is usually something you have done weeks ago.

Under-inflation—careless parking that pinches the tire walls—hitting rough bumps on high. Balloons deaden the jar. But later—a blowout!

These things can be avoided. To avoid them means dollars off the cost of running your car.

Check up tire pressures every week—We will do it for you. Keep to the exact figures for the size of load of each tire. Ease down when driving over deep ruts and sharp ridges.

Let us inspect your tires once a week. At least twice a season let us take them off the rims and look for inside injuries.

A Dominion Tire will stand a lot of abuse, but a little care will add thousands of miles to its life.

EASTERN CANADA GARDENING SERVICE

A Standard Flower.

Because they are easily grown and give an abundance and variety of bloom, zinnias should be included in every garden. These flowers may easily be secured ranging from the regular size of about fifteen inches high up to three feet. By a little judicious planting or wide spacing between plants, they will grow higher, blending with and leading up to the dahlia, which they resemble very closely in flower. In recent years mammoth sorts have been introduced with huge dahlia-like flowers growing on plants up to three feet tall. Colours range from pure white through the yellows, crimson to fiery scarlet. They thrive best in good loam and in an open position. For best results, start indoors about this time and transplant into the open ground from the third week in May to the 1st of June. Allow about ten inches between the smaller sorts and two to three feet between the giants. To make them branch, nip off the terminal bud, and, if large exhibition flowers are required, never allow more than one or two flowers to come on at the same time. When transplanting, these flowers as well as others like cosmos, nicotines, marigolds, and also the vegetables such as tomatoes and cabbages, give them a sprinkle of Semesan which also—dissolving this quick-acting fertilizer in water and applying in liquid form.

Support for Climbers.

Sweet peas and the taller vegetable sorts, pole beans, climbing roses, and other similar plants require support, and this should be provided well in advance of the time when actually needed. With the annuals, it should be put in with the seed, so that the roots will not be disturbed. For the beans and peas, where growth does not exceed three or four feet, the old fashioned brush fence is admirable. In the average back yard, however, brush is not an handy as it used to be, and with tall growing sweet peas and beans, it is usually not high enough. In this case two posts sunk at either end of the row and connected with a wire joining tops and bottoms and string lacing the wire will furnish good support. Chicken wire may also be used, but it sometimes heats up on very warm days and injures the foliage touching it. For roses a wooden trellis makes the best support. If a climber is being trained close to a wall where there is no room for a trellis, staples driven into the wall and tied loosely to the plant will do. It is not advisable, however, to train roses close to a stone, brick or concrete wall as these reflect the heat, and the bloom will be withered in a few days. If at all possible, erect your trellis about a foot away from the wall. The bloom will last longer, and the hose or sprayer may be got in behind the foliage for effective work.

Object of Cultivation.

Killing weeds is only one object of cultivation. Even more important is keeping the soil open and porous and conserving the moisture. The time to kill a weed is before it starts growing. Hoeing lightly from the start will keep the surface soil stirred and prevent the germination of weed seeds. The drier the land, the more frequent should be the cultivation. The majority of our vegetables consist of 90 per cent. water at least, and usually more than that. The quality of the vegetable, therefore, depends upon them having a sufficient supply of moisture at all times.

A Garden for the Tenant.

The man who moves regularly every Spring, usually considers that gardening is a pleasure that is denied him, but such need not be. He can have a good garden almost as beautiful in fact as the man who has been handling the same spot for twenty years. Of course, he will have to do more planning because he is forced to use annuals entirely, but he has a great variety from which to choose. Even the veranda he can provide a screen with annual hops, sweet peas, morning glories, climbing nasturtiums, or scarlet runner beans. In front of this in place of permanent shrubbery he can plant groups of tall cosmos, dahlias, or zinnias, tapering down to the smaller sorts. He will have a hundred regular annual flowers from which to choose which will give him bloom from June until frost.

ERNESTTOWN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Institute April meeting was held in the Institute rooms, and opened as usual. Some very useful answers to the roll call "Gardening Hints" were given. Letters of appreciation were read from Mrs. Henry Hogle and Mrs. Gordon Young. The Flower Committee's report showed that they were ever alert and active in their work.

It was thought advisable to have a "Home Nursing" course, about the 1st of June, and the Secretary was asked to make arrangements for same.

A thorough discussion of a school hot lunch equipment took place, and it was unanimous that we install one in Link's Mills school, and the committee of Mrs. Milton Thompson, Mrs. Herbert Laidley, and Mrs. Clarence Thompson, was asked to wait upon the trustees.

Mrs. Wilfred Spring entertained us in a most pleasing manner, by her recitation, "Getting Rid of Jim".

Mrs. Kenaal Priest, in her usual bright and happy style, gave us a splendid paper on current events.

Then followed a talk, by the President, on "Roses and Their Culture", giving a description of the roses of Italy, Switzerland, France and England; in England especially those at Kew Gardens and along the River Thames. She advised burying good sturdy, three-year-old bushes, and gave directions for planting, pruning, fertilizing, spraying, and winter protection, and said after the initial cost a rose garden was not expensive, but most satisfactory and always a joy. The following, Mrs. Hamm named as ten of her favorites, but said to a rose lover, with over eighty varieties, one hardly knew how to single them out, as of course one loved every rose. Mrs. Ed. Harriot, Mrs. John Laing, Paul Neron, Gen. Superior A. Jansen, Star of France, Frau Karl Druski, Lady Alice Stanley, Claudia Pernet, Grus an Teplitz, Ulrick Brunner.

The roll call for the May meeting is "Suggestions for next year's program", and the President asked that every member bring one, saying that it would be better to have one from each member than a dozen from one member.

Rheumatic Pains Due to Thin Blood

The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the swollen, aching joints is a little relief, and all the while the trouble is becoming more firmly rooted. It is now known that rheumatism is rooted in the blood, and so that the trouble goes on the blood becomes more thin and watery. To get rid of rheumatism, therefore, you must go to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved so beneficial when taken for this trouble. They make new, rich blood which expels the poisonous acid and the rheumatism disappears.

There are thousands of former rheumatic sufferers in Canada, now well and strong, who thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that they are now free from the aches and pains of this dreaded trouble. One of these Mrs. W. F. Tait, McKellar, Ont. who says:—"I am one of the willing ones to tell you of the great benefit I have derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After lying in bed for seven weeks suffering untold agony with inflammatory rheumatism, relief finally came through the use of this medicine. I could not move in bed only as they lifted me, and I could only sleep when opiates were given me. The medical treatment I was taking seemed of no avail. Then I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and soon I began to get relief. After taking six or eight boxes the rheumatism was banished and I had never felt better in my life. It is several years since this happened and I have had no return of the trouble since. I may add that I recommended the pills to two of my friends who were suffering with rheumatism and the pills were equally effective in both cases."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, indigestion or nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TAMPERING WITH MARKET MILK

It is no longer possible to adulterate milk with water or to remove a part of the cream without the risk of detection. Institutions that handle milk for marketing, butter making or cheese making, are constantly making tests to ascertain the purity and condition of the product. Bulletin No. 14, New Series, of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, fully explains the process of testing milk, cream and dairy by-products by means of the Babcock test and tells how adulteration, skimming and other tampering with the milk may be detected. If part of the cream is removed the milk will contain a less than usual proportion of fat. The milk will also have a higher specific gravity because fat is the lightest part of the milk. Roughly speaking, for each one per cent of fat removed by skimming, the lactometer reading of the partially skimmed milk would be increased by about one degree. The use of the lactometer is fully explained in the bulletin. As an example the bulletin cites the case of a 4 per cent milk that has a lactometer reading of 32. When one per cent of the fat or cream is removed, the lactometer reading will be increased to about 33. Further it is shown that if the lactometer reading increases one degree with each one per cent of fat removed by skimming, the per cent of solids not fat would not be affected. In actual practice it is usually found that partially skimming milk slightly increases the per cent of solids not fat. Skimming milk, therefore, reduces the per cent of fat and increases the lactometer reading while the per cent of solids not fat normal or slightly high. If, on the other hand, instead of removing some of the fat, water is added to the milk, this is also easily detected both by testing for fat and by determining the specific gravity of the product. If a sample of milk gives a lactometer reading of 32, one gallon of such milk will weigh 10.32 pounds as against 10 pounds, the weight of a gallon of water. If one gallon of this milk is mixed with a gallon of water we would have 20.32 pounds which would be the combined weight of a gallon of milk and a gallon of water. One-half of this quantity, therefore, would weigh only 10.16 pounds which would be shown as 16 on the lactometer.

If the milk in question contained 4% of fat with a lactometer reading of 32 the percentage of solids other than fat would be nine and mixing a gallon of water with a gallon of such milk would reduce the fat to 2% and the solids not fat to 8%. From this it will be seen that adding water to milk reduces the percentage of fat, lowers the lactometer reading and the percentage of solids not fat, all three being reduced in equal proportions. This bulletin, which is obtainable from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, explains not only the testing of milk for all purposes but as well the testing of butter and cheese.

WEDDING BELLS.

Cook—Cummings.

Of much interest to a wide circle of friends is the wedding of Miss Belle Cummings and Mr. Harry Edgar Cook, of Chicago. Miss Cummings has made her home here for some time with her aunt, Mrs. Mac, and Mrs. William B. Stout, and the wedding took place at the latter residence, on Lawrence Avenue, last Saturday evening. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Cummings, of Napanee, Ont., were here for the ceremony, as was also Miss Jane Cummings, her sister, of New York. The ceremony was very simple, performed by Rev. Charles H. Ritchie, in the presence of the immediate families. Sweetheart roses, white snapdragons and white tapers comprised decorations for the wedding and the supper that followed. Mr. and Mrs. Cook plan to make their future home in Toronto.—Detroit Free Press, Tuesday, April 17th.

The Honor of the Big Snows

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD.
Author of "The Danger Trail"

Copyright, on, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

He stopped at the change which had come in Jan, who stood as straight and as still as the blank spruce behind them, with only his eyes showing that there was life in him. Those eyes held Thornton's. They burned upon him through the gray gloom as he had never seen human eyes burn before. He waited, half startled, and Jan spoke. In his voice there was nothing of that which Thornton saw in his eyes.

It was low and soft, and, though it had that which rang like steel, Thornton could not have understood or feared it more.

"M'sieur, how far have you gone—with her?"

Thornton understood and advanced with his hands reaching out to Jan.

"Only as far as one might go with the purest thing on earth," he said. "I have sinned in loving her and in letting her love me, but that is all, Jan Thoreau. I swear that is all!"

"And you are going back into the south?"

"Yes, I am going back into the south."

The next day Thornton did not go. He made no sign of going on the second day. So it was with the third, the fourth and the fifth. On each of these days Jan went once, in the afternoon, to the office of the subcommissioner, and Thornton always accompanied him. At times when Jan was not looking there was a hungry light in his eyes as he followed the other's movements, and once or twice Jan caught what was left of this look when he turned unexpectedly. He knew what was in Thornton's mind, and he pitied him, grieved with him in his own heart until his own secret almost wrung itself from his lips.

The ninth day was the last day for Jan Thoreau. In a dazed sort of way he listened as the subcommissioner told him that the work was ended. They shook hands. It was dark when Jan came out from the company's offices, dark with a pale gloom through which the stars were beginning to glow —with a ghostly gloom, lightened still more in the north with the rising fires of the northern lights. Alone Jan stood for a few moments close down to the river. Across from him was the forest, silent, black, reaching to the end of the earth, and over it, like a signal light, beckoning him back to his world, the aurora sent out its shafts of red and gold. And as he listened there came to him faintly a distant wailing sound that he knew was borne to him from that world, and at the sound the hair rose along Kazan's spine, and he whined deep down in his throat. Jan's breath grew quicker, his blood warmer. Over there—across the river—his world was calling to him, and he, Jan Thoreau, was now free to go. This very night he would bury himself in the forest again and when he lay down to sleep it would be with his beloved stars above him, and the winds whispering sympathy and brotherhood to him in the spruce tops. He would go—now. He would say goodby to Thornton and go.

He found himself running, and Kazan ran beside him. He was breathless when he came to the one lighted street of the town. He hurried to the hotel and found Thornton sitting where he had left him.

"It is ended, m'sieur," he cried in a low voice. "It is over and I am going, Kazan going tonight."

Thornton rose. "Tonight," he repeated.

"Yes, tonight—now. I am going to pick up my things. Will you come?"

He went ahead of Thornton to the bare little room in which he had slept while at the hotel. He did not notice the change in Thornton until he had lighted a lamp. Thornton was looking at him doggedly. There was an unpleasant look in his face.

"And I—I, too, am going tonight," he said.

"Into the south, m'sieur?"

"No; into the north." There was a fierceness in Thornton's emphasis. He stood opposite Jan, leaning over the table on which the light was placed. "I've broken loose," he went on. "I'm not going south, back to that hell of mine. I'm never going south again, I'm dead down—dead for all time. They'll never hear of me again. They can have my fortune, everything. I'm going north. I'm going to live with you people and God and her!"

Jan sank into a chair; Thornton sat down in one across from him.

"I am going back to her," he repeated. "No one will ever know."

He could not account for the look in Jan's eyes nor for the nervous twitching of the little brown hands that reached half across the table. Thornton would never know that Jan's fingers twitched for an instant in their old mad desire to leap at a human throat.

"You will not do that," he said quietly.

"Yes, I will," replied Thornton. "I have made up my mind. Nothing can stop me but death."

"I will stop you," said Jan, rising also, "and I am not dead."

He went to Thornton and placed his two hands upon his shoulders, and in his eyes there glowed now that gentle light which had made Thornton love him as he had loved no other man on earth.

"M'sieur, I will stop you," he said again, speaking as though to a brother. "Sit down. I am going to tell you something, and when I have told you this you will take my hand, and you will say, 'Jan Thoreau, I thank the great God that something like this has happened before and that it has come to my ears in time to save the one I love.' Sit down, m'sieur."

CHAPTER XV.

Jan's Story.

"M'SIEUR," began Jan in the low voice which Thornton was beginning to understand, "I am going to tell you something which I have told to but two other human beings. It is the story of another man—a man from the mountains, like you, who came up into the country of ours years and years ago and who met a woman, as you have met this girl at Oxford House, and who loved her as you love this one and perhaps more. It is singular that the case should be so similar, m'sieur, and it is because of this that I believe our Blessed Lady gives me courage to tell it to you, for this man, like you, left a wife and two children when he came into the north. M'sieur, I pray the great God to for give him, for he left a third child—unborn."

Jan leaned upon his hand so that it shaded his face.

"It is not so much of that as of what followed that I am going to tell you, m'sieur," he went on. "It was a beautiful love on the woman's part, and it would have been a beautiful love on the man's part if it had been pure. For her he gave up everything, even his God, as you would give up everything and your God for this girl at Oxford House, M'sieur, I will speak mostly of the woman now. She was beautiful. She was one of the three most beautiful things that God ever placed in our world, and she loved this man. She married him, believed in him, was ready to die for him, to follow him to the ends of the earth, as our women will do for the men they love. God in heaven! Can you not guess what happened, m'sieur? A child was born!"

So fiercely did Jan cry out the words that Thornton jerked back as though a blow had been struck at him from out of the gloom.

"A child was born," repeated Jan, and Thornton heard his nails digging deep in, his breath escaping from him as though he had been running.

"Down in your world he would have grown up a man," he continued, speaking more calmly. "I have heard that since. But here it is different. The curse never dies. It follows, day after day, year after year. And this child, more unfortunate than the wild things, was born one of them. If the winds had whispered the secret nothing would have come near him. The Indian women would sooner have touched the plague. He would have been an outcast, despised as he grew older, pointed at and taunted, called names which are worse than those called to the lowest and meanest dogs. That is what it means to be born under that curse—up here."

He waited for Thornton to speak, but the other sat silent and motionless across the table.

"The curse worked swiftly, m'sieur. It came first—in remorse—to the man. It gnawed at his soul, ate him alive and drove him from place to place with the woman and the child. The purity and love of the woman added to his suffering, and at last he came to know that the hand of God had fallen upon his bend. 'The woman saw his grief, but did not know the reason for it. And so the curse first came to her. They went north—far north, above the Barren Lands, and the curse followed there. It gnawed at his life until—he died. That was seven years after the child was born."

The oil lamp sputtered and began to smoke, and with a quick movement Jan turned the wick down until they were left in darkness.

"M'sieur, it was then that the curse began to fall upon the woman and the child. Do you not believe that about the sins of the fathers falling upon others? It is so, it is so. It came in many small ways, and then the curse it came, suddenly—like this." Jan's voice came in a hissing whisper now. Thornton could feel his hot breath as he leaned over the table, and to the darkness Jan's eyes shone like two coals of fire. "It came like this!" panted Jan. "There was a new missioner at the post—a Christian from the south, and he was a great friend to the woman and preached God, and she believed him. The boy was very young and saw things, but did not dare contradict him. He knew afterward that the missioner loved his mother's beauty and that he tried hard to win it—and failed, for the woman until death would love only the one to whom she had given herself first. Great God, the story of another man—a man from the mountains, like you, who came up into the country of ours years and years ago and who met a woman, as you have met this girl at Oxford House, and who loved her as you love this one and perhaps more. It is singular that the case should be so similar, m'sieur, and it is because of this that I believe our Blessed Lady gives me courage to tell it to you, for this man, like you, left a wife and two children when he came into the north. M'sieur, I pray the great God to for give him, for he left a third child—unborn."

Jan leaned upon his hand so that it shaded his face.

"It is not so much of that as of what followed that I am going to tell you, m'sieur," he went on. "It was a beautiful love on the woman's part, and it would have been a beautiful love on the man's part if it had been pure. For her he gave up everything, even his God, as you would give up everything and your God for this girl at Oxford House. M'sieur, I will speak mostly of the woman now. She was beautiful. She was one of the three most beautiful things that God ever placed in our world, and she loved this man. She married him, believed in him, was ready to die for him, to follow him to the ends of the earth, as our women will do for the men they love. God in heaven! Can you not guess what happened, m'sieur? A child was born!"

So fiercely did Jan cry out the words that Thornton jerked back as though a blow had been struck at him from out of the gloom.

"A child was born," repeated Jan, and Thornton heard his nails digging deep in, his breath escaping from him as though he had been running.

"Down in your world he would have grown up a man," he continued, speaking more calmly. "I have heard that since. But here it is different. The curse never dies. It follows, day after day, year after year. And this child, more unfortunate than the wild things, was born one of them. If the winds had whispered the secret nothing would have come near him. The Indian women would sooner have touched the plague. He would have been an outcast, despised as he grew older, pointed at and taunted, called names which are worse than those called to the lowest and meanest dogs. That is what it means to be born under that curse—up here."

He waited for Thornton to speak, but the other sat silent and motionless across the table.

"The curse worked swiftly, m'sieur. It came first—in remorse—to the man. It gnawed at his soul, ate him alive and drove him from place to place with the woman and the child. The purity and love of the woman added to his suffering, and at last he came to know that the hand of God had fallen upon his bend. 'The woman saw his grief, but did not know the reason for it. And so the curse first came to her. They went north—far north, above the Barren Lands, and the curse followed there. It gnawed at his life until—he died. That was seven years after the child was born."

The oil lamp sputtered and began to smoke, and with a quick movement Jan turned the wick down until they were left in darkness.

"M'sieur, it was then that the curse began to fall upon the woman and the child. Do you not believe that about the sins of the fathers falling upon others? It is so, it is so. It came in many small ways, and then the curse it came, suddenly—like this." Jan's voice came in a hissing whisper now. Thornton could feel his hot breath as he leaned over the table, and to the darkness Jan's eyes shone like two coals of fire. "It came like this!" panted Jan. "There was a new missioner at the post—a Christian from the south, and he was a great friend to the woman and preached God, and she believed him. The boy was very young and saw things, but did not dare contradict him. He knew afterward that the missioner loved his mother's beauty and that he tried hard to win it—and failed, for the woman until death would love only the one to whom she had given herself first. Mistakes Mothers Make In Care of Little Ones

Many mothers give their children solid foods at too early an age and say proudly that their babies "eat everything that grown up people do." Such a course is almost certain to bring on indigestion and lay the foundation of much ill-health for the little one.

Other mothers administer harsh, nauseating purgatives which in reality irritate and injure the delicate stomach and bowels and at the same time cause the children to dread all medicine.

Absolutely no meat should be given to a child until it reaches the age of 18 months, and then only if approved by the doctor. For medicine, all strong, disagreeable oils and powders should be abandoned and Baby's Own Tablets given instead.

Baby's Own Tablets are especially made for little ones. They are pleasant to take and can be given with absolute safety to even the new-born babe. They quickly banish constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers and make the cutting of teeth easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"I've broken loose," he went on, "I'm not going south, back to that hell of mine."

"You will not do that," he said quietly.

"Yes, I will," replied Thornton. "I have made up my mind. Nothing can stop me but death."

"I will stop you," said Jan, rising also, "and I am not dead."

He went to Thornton and placed his two hands upon his shoulders, and in his eyes there glowed now that gentle light which had made Thornton love him as he had loved no other man on earth.

"M'sieur, I will stop you," he said again, speaking as though to a brother. "Sit down. I am going to tell you something, and when I have told you this you will take my hand, and you will say, 'Jan Thoreau, I thank the great God that something like this has happened before and that it has come to my ears in time to save the one I love.' Sit down, m'sieur."

CHAPTER XV.

Jan's Story.

"M'SIEUR," began Jan in the low voice which Thornton was beginning to understand, "I am going to tell you something which I have told to but two other human beings. It is

JOINT-EASE FOR Stiff, Swollen Joints

RHEUMATIC OR OTHERWISE

Says : "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints and usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease sonks right in, through skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at Wallace's Drug Store, and druggists everywhere, for 90 cents a tube.

She Gained Weight With McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets

You remember of course — not so long ago she was a regular scare-crow —skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.

Just look at her now—if ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—and in the course of half the girls in town.

It's nothing to get excited about — all she did was to take on weight — filled out the hollows in face, neck and chest—any skinny, weak, run, down woman can do the same and gain a clean, clear complexion at the same time.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets or 2 one dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

Ask Wallace's Drug Store, or any good druggist.

It happened then—one night when every soul was about the big fires at the cantlon camp—that no one near the lonely little cabin where the boy and his mother lived. The boy was at the fesst, but he ran home with a bit of dripping meat as a gift for his mother, and he heard her cries and ran in, to be struck down by the m'sieuner. It happened then—and even the boy knew and followed the man, shrieking that he had killed his mother." There was a terrible calmness now in Jan's voice. "M'sieur, it was true. She wasted away like a flower after that night. She died and left the boy alone with the curse. And that boy, m'sieur, was Jan Thoreau. The woman was his mother."

There was silence now, a dead, pulseless quiet, broken after a moment by a movement. It was Thornton, groping across the table. Jan felt his hands touch his arm. They groped farther in the darkness, until Jan Thoreau's hands were clasped tightly in Thornton's.

"And that—is all?" he questioned hoarsely.

"No, it is but the beginning," said Jan softly. "The curse has followed me, m'sieur, until I am the unhappiest man in the world. Today I have done all that is to be done. When my father died he left papers which my mother was to give to me when I had attained my majority. When she died they came to me. She knew nothing of that which was in them, and I am glad, for it was a confession that I have told to you, m'sieur, and from his grave my father prayed to me to make what restitution I could. When he came into the north for good he brought with him most of his fortune, which was large, m'sieur, and placed it where no one could find it—in the stock of the great company. A half of it, he said, should be mine. The other half he asked me to return to his children and to his real wife if she were living. I have done more than that, m'sieur, I have given up all, for none of it is mine. A half will go to the two children whom he deserted. The other half will go to the child that was unborn. The mother—is—dead."

After a time Thornton said:

"There is more, Jan?"

"Yes, there is more, m'sieur," said Jan. "So much more that if I were to tell it to you it would not be hard for you to understand why Jan Thoreau is the unhappiest man in the world. I have told you that this is but the beginning. I have not told you of how the curse has followed me and robbed me of all that is greatest in life—how it has haunted me day and night, m'sieur, like a black spirit, destroying my hopes, turning me at last into an outcast, without people, without friends, without—that—which you, too, will give up in this girl at Oxford House. You will, am I right? You will not go back to her. You will go south and some day the great God will reward you."

He heard Thornton rising in the dark.

"Shall I write a light, m'sieur?"

No," said Thornton, close to him. In the gloom their hands met. There was a change in the other's voice now, something of a prie, of triumph, of a glory just achieved. "Jan," he said softly, "I thank you for bringing me here to live with a God like yours. You have taught me more than ever been preached into me, and the great, glorious world of yours is send ing me back a better man than having come into it. I am going—south. Some day I will return, and I will be one of this world and one of your people. I will come, and I will bring to you—then, if I could send this word to her, ask her forgiveness, tell her what I have almost been and that I will have been—faith—I could go easier down into that other world."

"You can," said Jan. "I will take this word for you, m'sieur, and I will take more, for I will tell her what it has been the kind fate for Jan Thoreau to find in the heart of M'sieur Thornton. She is one of my people, and she will forgive, and love you more for me than you have done. For this, m'sieur, is what the Cree god has given to his people as the honor of the great snows. She will still love you, and if there is a way she will burn in her breast too. M'sieur"—

Something like a sob broke through Thornton's throat as he moved back through the darkness.

"And you—I will find you again?"

"Yes, I will know where you from Oxford House. I will leave word—with her," said Jan.

"Goodby," said Thornton huskily.

Jan listened until his footsteps had died away, and for a long time after that he sat with his head buried in his arms upon the little table. And Jan, whining softly, seemed to know that in the darkened room had come to pass the thing which broke at last

ROD AND GUN

Another interesting article on the practical planting of trout fry by John Gall of Toronto, is one of the features of the May issue of Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News which is just published. Besides this there is the usual full complement of fishing and hunting articles and stories by popular authors of the magazine and in the regular departments on angling, guns and ammunition, outdoor talk and kennel.

Bunnycastle Dale, well-known outdoor writer, contributed an interesting article on where to fish in the maritimes this year. The approach of the fishing season also occasions the appearance of much interesting material in G. P. Sladen's department. The conservation campaign of the magazine is supplemented this month by a worthy article on fish and game conditions in Alberta by C. A. Hayden, of Calgary. The Canadian Silver Fox News section also contains several practical articles.

QUADRUPLETS HEALTHY

TAKING CARE OF BABIES NO EASY MATTER.

Are Well-Behaved and Good-Natured Children — Tiniest Mites at Birth Are Now Tallest and Most Wiry—Three Girls and One Boy.

"Coming five" are the quadruplet children of Mr. and Mrs. William Mahaney, of St. John, N.B., who passed their fourth birthday on Christmas Day last year, all healthy, happy and normal in every way, writes C. W. Gilchrist, in the Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star. When the four children first saw the light of day on December 25, 1922, experts in the rearing of children predicted that no great time would elapse before the mother would lose her four babies. History of quadruplets throughout the world, they argued, revealed that only one set of them had lived to be more than six months of age and no quartette had ever been known to be unseparated by death after one year of life.

It was considered out of the question that two of the children, at any rate, would live to be six months' old. These were Edith May and Edna Louise. The former was the tiniest of the four, weighing only four pounds and thirteen ounces. Edna Louise was the second smallest, tipping the scales at five pounds and nine ounces. Lydia Christine was the heaviest of the quartette, weighing eight pounds and eight ounces. And John Douglas, the only representative of the sterner sex, weighed eight pounds and three ounces.

On their fourth birthday the two tiniest mites at birth were the tallest and most wiry. The one that was the heaviest and made greatest gain in weight, was by far the shortest although probably more sturdy built. Never sick or ailing an hour, most marvellously well-behaved and good-natured children, taken individually they are the least possible care of any small folk, so their mother declares, and on the visitor would judge, but taken collectively, even four very good young folk of just over four years old each, are more than a handful.

In the four years since they came into this world the physical status of the babies has changed remarkably. The tallest is Edna Louise, who measures three feet and three inches in height. These two bear the closest resemblance to each other in coloring and in features. They have dark golden hair and eyes of soft brown and are slender and very alert.

John Douglas measures exactly three feet. His great dark brown eyes and hair of a darker shade than his sisters, would set him apart instantly as a distinctive member of the strong, quite bouncy, boy being the only boy. But even more distinctive among the four is Christine, who can only claim 2 ft. 9 inches in height, whose hair is fairer than that of the other three and who is the only one of the four with blue eyes. She is a pensive little maiden, rather shy and keeps to herself more than do any others of the quartette.

When they gave their exclusive interview, the quadruplets were at play and gathered happily around a small table in the little room off the family dining-room. The little maids in both bedroom and playroom for the foursome and at their play they are joined by two sisters, Belle, who is fifteen months their junior, and Mary, who is two and a half years older and whose little nose was put sadly out of joint when the four arrived more than four years ago.

At that time Mary was the petted baby of the family, now, however, she is the very seriously responsible little mother for the five younger members of the family. Mary is a fragile, delicate child but a very capable manager and, with her for a leader, the quadruplets and their younger sister play happily by the hour.

John, it must be admitted, is the most difficult to please. He is the only boy of the group and is apt to go off in a corner and play at something more interesting to him than tea parties. It is also sadly acknowledged that John is the tell-tale of the group.

Taking care of four babies all of one age has never been an easy matter Mrs. Mahaney can say most emphatically. But, just now the quadruplets are the least trouble they have ever been. Their daily routine is well ordered and they have been well accustomed to follow routine. They have each a separate bed and they are good sized beds too, with the exception of Christine's—a cot still serves her needs.

C.P.R. Extension.

Extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway into the northland of Saskatchewan is forecasted by President Beatty. The work will be a continuation of the branch line which runs north from Wadena and ends at Nipawin, almost due east of Prince Albert, and will constitute a line joining the latter city with Nipawin.

ANNOUNCEMENT

In taking over The Canadian Department-Stores Limited, with its twenty-one branches, of which the store here is an important unit, The T. Eaton Co. Limited has much pleasure in announcing that thereby it hopes to extend to the residents of Napanee and surrounding country the numerous advantages in value, service and reliable quality which the magnitude of the Eaton retail organization makes possible.

With the limited floor area at our disposal, however, in several respects we would be unable to measure up to the typical Eaton store with its large scale operations. In merchandise, for example, the assortment and range must necessarily be less extensive than expected of an Eaton store.

Conducted as a Canadian Department-Store (by which name this business will continue to be known) we propose to offer an interesting assortment of up-to-date reliable merchandise at attractive prices.

Backed by the strong purchasing power of the Eaton organization, and its skilful buying—with the same well-known guarantee, "Goods satisfactory or money refunded"—and with prices which reflect the proven economy of cash dealing—we invite inspection of our goods, and to all we offer our best services.

In accordance with Eaton practice, there will be no night shopping in The Canadian Department-Stores. The hours will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, including Saturday, on which day the store will close at 6 p.m. hereafter.

Further announcements of interest to patrons of this store will be made in the regular store advertisements. See later advertisements for additional details.

Friday and Saturday Bargains

TERMS CASH—ONE PRICE—GOODS SATISFACTORY OR MONEY REFUNDED
Delivery Free on Orders of $5.00 or over. On lesser amounts a charge of 10c. per delivery call is required.

C. D. S. Prices

Prices at the C.D.S. ought to be low for several reasons. First, under new ownership our unequalled buying facilities enable us to purchase at bottom prices. Second, our cash dealing avoids the extra work and losses attending the credit system. Third, our arrangements in regard to delivery, and other low operating expenses permit marking our merchandise at close margins.

No Night Shopping

Means that the store closes at 6 p.m. on Saturdays as well as on other days. Friday Bargain Day has been inaugurated to relieve the pressure on Saturday, and to give you an added incentive to shop on Friday.

This is a demonstration bargain that should not be missed by any man in this vicinity. Suits were manufactured to sell for considerably more money. Obtainable in an attractive assortment of patterns and colorings. Sizes 34 to 46.

Men's Regular $2.95, $3.95, $5.00 Felt Hats To Clear at $1.95 Each

In this lot are hats moulded from fine fur felt and fine French wool. Hats representing the newer blocks and smartest Spring colors.

In Taking Over

The C. D. S. the new owners naturally find themselves confronted with the problems of re-arranging and re-pricing merchandise, installing new methods, and the numerous details of re-organization, so that the transition to the new regime will necessarily be gradual. But there will be a steady daily procession of values which will warrant you in visiting the store early and often, for as a result of each day's work in revising the stock there will be special offerings of discontinued or clearing lines at prices which will afford big savings. As fast as these groups are created they will be placed on bargain counters, often before they are advertised, so at any time of the day from now on you may find surprising values awaiting you.

WILFRED S. WILSON
COAL AND WOOD

TOO USEFUL TO BURN

Of the 578,000,000 tons of bituminous mined annually in the United States, 90 per cent. is burned for heat, light and power, without recovering any of its precious by-products. The other ten per cent. is converted into gas and coke.

At the present rate of progress, however, we may expect to see the ratio reversed before many years, writes A. C. Fieldner, chief chemist of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, in Popular Science Monthly. Comparatively little coal will be shoveled into the fire. It will be deemed too valuable as raw stuff for the manufacturers of vital necessaries of life, as well as a source of more efficient fuels. Even now the list of everyday things derived from coal runs into the hundreds, including dyes, fertilizers, explosives, like TNT, medicines, drugs, solvents and preservatives.

It took about a lifetime to build up Germany's great coal tar dye industry, based on by-products of coke manufacture. But, thanks to modern research laboratories, it required only a few years for Germany to develop the commercial manufacture of wood alcohol from water-gas—a product of coal and water—to the point where it rang the death knell of the great wood distillation industry.

And American chemists, in another two years, developed a process of their own which is now operating at Belle, West Virginia, in the heart of the bituminous field. Plans are afoot today to enlarge this plant to supply the entire American yearly demand of 10,000,000 gallons.

Moreover, this new process is combined with another process for making ammonia, an important ingredient of fertilizers. Both processes involve subjecting coal gas to pressure of 15,000 pounds to the square inch and pumping it through steel tubes containing catalysts.

A catalyst is a substance which induces or hastens chemical actions of others. The catalysts make the coal gases form methanol (wood alcohol) and ammonia.

Several years ago chemists discovered that carbolic acid and formaldehyde mixed and heated under pressure form a solid material—now called bakelite, used for pipe stems, radio dials and panels, distributor boxes for automobiles, insulation, fountain pen barrels and so forth. Bakelite and similar products have largely displaced hard rubber. Commercial manufacture of "cheaper" wood alcohol from coal will lower the production cost of bakelite because formaldehyde is made from wood alcohol. Bakelite will then be thoroughly a coal product and so even floor tiles may be made from coal!

Like a brick mason, the chemist re-arranges the elements—carbon, hydrogen and oxygen—over which coal is composed, to build what he will that is composed largely of any or all of these elements—theoretically, even rubber.

Fatal to Small Crustaceans.

Ultra-violet light has the power to kill as well as cure, according to experiments reported by Prof. A. Brooker Klugh of Queen's University, in showing that the short length ultra-violet radiations of the sun are deadly to the minute crustacea that furnish food for the fish of commerce.

For many years biologists have puzzled over the question why these tiny relatives of crabs and lobsters remained at a depth of 30 feet or more under the sea during the day and came to the surface only by night. A long series of experiments conducted at the Atlantic Biological Station, St. Andrew's, N.B., during the past summer has demonstrated that this particular form of food for the fishes is really fatally affected by ultra-violet light. Consequently they keep down at a considerable depth below the surface of the sea while the light from the sun is intense, Prof. Klugh declared.

Owns Five Hundred Pipes.

Some women think a man a nuisance because he has half-a-dozen pipes lying about the house. What would they say to Mr. E. P. Church, a Londoner, who has made a hobby of collecting pipes and owns more than five hundred? There are pipes in every corner of Mr. Church's house—clay pipes, brown with age, silver pipes, wooden pipes, iron pipes, pipes covered with precious stones. He has Eskimo pipes, bushmen's pipes from the African Jungle, and a magnificent carved pipe from China.

Wood Buffalo Are Thriving.

The wood buffalo in their natural habitat in Wood Buffalo Park, near Fort Smith, N.W.T., continue to thrive and multiply. The buffalo is the southern range within Alberta are interbreeding with those of the plains shipped during successive seasons since 1925 from Wainwright Park, Alberta.

First Officer (returning from dining out)—"Didn't you hear Lady Dash ask you if you cared for Meredith? And you said you preferred Chianti!"

Second Officer—"So I do."

First Officer—"Why you ass! You ought to be in a nursery. Botticelli is not a wine—it's a sort of cheese!"

PULLMAN CARS.

Travelling Public Makes Liberal Use of All the Appurtenances.

The extravagance of railway travellers in the use of hand towels is registered in the housekeeping books of sleepers and parlor cars. It takes more than 9,000,000 pieces of linen to keep the 8,500 cars equipped, and almost half of these are hand towels. Every year almost 2,000,000 new ones must be purchased to replace those that wear out or "disappear from service."

Keeping up the Pullman lines supply is a considerable task. The twelve-section drawing-room car on a typical one night's run carries 200 hand towels, 160 sheets, 120 pillow slips and four porter's coats.

Four hundred linen carriers and checkers are employed to distribute and receive back the supplies. Every day 1,000,000 pieces are put into the wash. Two of the company's laundries wash an average of thirty tons of linen a day. When it comes from the ironing machines it is inspected, and pieces bearing stains are put aside for treatment.

There are eighteen sewing rooms, where a force of 100 seamstresses may repair as many as 300,00 damaged pieces a month.

The good parts of damaged sheets reappear as pillow slips and the good parts of damaged pillow slips as cooks' caps. Old headrests and tidies become dishtowels and worn tablecloths are cut up into napkins. If a porter's condemned coat has good sleeves they may be used on other coats or may be converted into bags; the backs of the coats become dishtowels.

CLOSED TO WOMEN.

Judicial Chambers of Law Courts In London Employ Men Only.

Women are taking up positions in almost every sphere of life hitherto monopolized by men, but there is one place in the heart of London where no woman is ever allowed.

This place is the judicial chambers in the law courts. The work is done by former soldiers and during the general clean-up preparatory to reopening of the courts, one of them told an enquirer "no woman is ever allowed to clean out a judge's room, or his library or his court. Not likely."

Before the war, the thousands of rooms, and four and a half miles of corridors were kept clean by men only. During the war period a certain number of women were taken on, but these have been reduced to about twenty, and the rest of the work is divided between ninety male workers or ushers as they are called.

Even during the war period, women were not allowed to enter the sacred precincts of a judge's room, and the flowers in the vases, the curtains and other little domestic details were all done by the band of male ushers.

COSTS BRITAIN NOTHING.

Offset to the Cost of the League of Nations.

Sir Arthur Haworth gave some striking figures about the relatively trifling cost of the League of Nations to Great Britain in the course of an address in Manchester recently. The annual British contribution, he said, apart from what was paid by the Dominions, was "about £100,000." In 1918 the country spent a similar sum in armaments "every 18 minutes."

The yearly upkeep of a single battle cruiser would pay the British contribution to the League more than four times over, and Geneva actually cost the country less than one regiment of infantry. The League's success in putting Austria on its feet again, he added, had had the result that £2,040,000 owing to Great Britain, which until then had not been worth a snap of one's fingers, became a security the interest of which more than paid our total contribution to the League in perpetuity, so that our membership of the League actually cost us nothing."

"Summer Land."

Talk of newly discovered semi-tropical land in Northern British Columbia, which was said to be kept warm through the eruption of hot springs, was largely fiction according to Mr. K. P. McCusker. Speaking of a recent survey he conducted in the northern stretches of the Pacific Coast Province, Mr. McCusker said he had found luxuriant meadows and prairie land and large stretches of open country, which he termed "summer land." It could not be classed as semi-tropical, however. The country abounded in game, goats, sheep, caribou and grizzly bear. Grass grew to such a height that it was clear no heavy snow fell during the winter.

More British Notables.

Britain's "Who's Who" for 1928 contains 24,000 biographies, 2,000 more than in the 1927 edition.

The volume, described by the publishers as "132 cubic inches of facts," is actually one-quarter inch thinner than last year's owing to a considerable reduction in the guage of the paper.

The Honor of the Big Snows

That night Jan Thoreau passed for the last time her into the shelter of his forests, and all that night he travelled, and with each mile that he left behind him something larger and bolder grew in his breast until he cracked his whip in the old way and shouted to the dogs in the old way, and the blood in him sang to the wild spirit of the wilderness. Once more he was home. To him the forest had always been home.

And from above him the stars looked down like a billion tiny fires kindled by loving hands to light his way —the stars that had given him music, peace, since he could remember and that had taught him more of the silent power of God than the lips of man could ever tell. From this time forth Jan Thoreau knew that these things would be his life, his god. He had loved the forest—now he worshiped it. In its vast silence he still possessed Melisse.

Nearly a month passed before he reached Orford House and found the sweet faced girl whom Thornton loved. He did as Thornton had asked and went on—into the north and east. He had no mission now except to roam in his forests. He went down the Hayes, getting his few supplies at Indian camps and stopped at last, with the beginning of spring, far up on the Cutaway. Here he built himself a camp and lived for a time, setting dead falls for bear. Then he struck north again and still east, keeping always away from Lac Bain. When the first chill winds of the bay brought warning of winter down to him he was filled for a time with a longing to strike north and west, to go once more back to his Barren Lands. But, instead, he went south, and so it came to pass that a year after he had left Lac Bain he built himself a cabin deep in the forest of God's river, fifty miles from Orford House, and trapped once more for the company. He had not forgotten his promise to Thornton, and at Oxford House left word where he could be found if the man from civilization should return.

In late midwinter Jan returned to Oxford House with his furs. It was on the night of the day that he came into the post that he heard a Frenchman who had come down from the north speak of Lac Bain. Now Jan fired the chance in Jan's face as he hung back in the shadows of the company's store. A little later he followed the Frenchman outside and overtook him where there were no others near to overhear.

"M'sieur, you spoke of Lac Bain," he said in French. "You have been there?"

"Yes," replied the other, "I was there for a week waiting for the first sledge snow."

"It is my old home," said Jan, trying to keep his voice natural. "I have wondered if there are changes. You saw Cummins, the factor?"

"Yes, he was there."

"And—and Jean de Gravois, the chief man?"

"He was away."

"The factor had a daughter, Melisse"—

"She left Lac Bain a long time ago, m'sieur," said the trapper. "M'sieur Cummins told me that he had not seen her in a long time. I believe it was almost a year."

Jan went to the company's store. He took his pack to the sledge and dogs in the edge of the spruce, and Kazan leaped to greet him at the end of his babiche. That night as Jan traveled through the forest he did not notice the stars or the friendly shadows.

"A year," he repeated to himself again and again, and once when Kazan rubbed against his leg and looked up into his face he said: "Ah, Kazan, our Melisse went away with the Hudson Bay Company. May the great God give them happiness!"

The forest claimed him more than ever after this. He did not go back to Oxford House in the spring, but sold his furs to a passing halfbreed and wandered through all of that spring and summer in the country to the west. It was January when he returned to his cabin, when the snows were deepest, and three days later he set out to outfit at the Hudson's bay post on God's lake instead of at Orford House. It was while they were crossing a part of the lake that Kazan leaped aside for an instant in his traces and snapped at something in the snow.

Jan saw the movement, but gave no attention to it until a little later when Kazan stopped and fell upon his belly, biting at the harness and whining in pain. The thought of Kazan's sudden snap at the snow came to him then like a knife thrust, and with a low cry of horror and fear he fell upon his knees beside the dog. Kazan whimpered, and his bushy tail swept the snow as Jan lifted his great wolfish head between his two hands. No other sound came from Jan's lips now, and slowly he drew the dog up to him until he held him in his arms as he might have held a child. Kazan stilled the whimpering sounds in his throat. His one eye rested on his master's face, faithful, watching for some sign, for some language there, even as the burning fires of a strange torture gnawed at his life, and in that eye Jan saw the deepening reddish film which he had seen a hundred times before in the eyes of foxes and wolves killed by poison bait.

A moan of anguish burst from Jan's lips, and he held his face close down against Kazan's head and sobbed now like a child, while Kazan rubbed his bot muzzle against his cheek and his muscles hardened in a last desire to give battle to whatever was giving his master grief. It was a long time before Jan lifted his face from the shaggy head, and when he did he knew that the last of all love, of all companionship, of all that bound him to flesh and blood in his lonely world, was gone. Kazan was dead.

From the sledge he took a blanket and wrapped Kazan in it and carried him a hundred yards back from the trail. With bowed head he came behind his four dogs into God's House. Half an hour later he turned back into the wilderness with his supplies. It was dark when he returned to where he had left Kazan. He placed him upon the sledge, and the four huskies whined as they dragged on their burden, from which the smell of death came to them. They stopped in the deep forests beyond the lake, and Jan built a fire.

This night, as on all nights in his lonely life, Jan drew Kazan close to him, and he shivered as the other dogs slunk back from him suspiciously at the fire and the spruce tops broke the stillness of the forest. He looked at the crackling flames, at the fitful shadows which they set dancing and grimacing about him, and it seemed to him now that they were no longer friends, but were taunting him—gloating in Kazan's death and telling him that he was alone, alone, alone. He let the fire die down, still at it into life only when the cold stiffened him, and when at last he fell into an unquiet slumber it was still to hear the spruce tops whispering to him that Kazan was dead and that in dying he had broken the last fragile link between Jan Thoreau and Melisse.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Music Again.

JAN went on at dawn, with Kazan wrapped in his blanket on the sledge. He planned to reach his cabin that night, and the next day he would bury his old comrade. It was dark when he came to the narrow plain that lay between him and the river. The sky was brilliant with stars when he slowly climbed the big barren ridge at the foot of which was his home. At the summit he stopped and seated himself on the edge of a rock, with nothing but a thousand miles of space between him and the pale glow of the northern lights. At his feet lay the forest, black and silent, and he looked down to where he knew his cabin was waiting for him, black and silent too.

For the first time it came upon him that this was home—that the forest and the silence and the little cabin below under the spruce tops below held a deeper meaning for him than a few hours before, when Kazan was a living, loving thing at his side. Kazan was dead. Down there he would bury him. And he had loved Kazan. He knew now as he clutched his hands to the aching throat, that he would have fought for Kazan—given up his life, for him—as he would for a brother. And his brother's eyes had blinded Jan's eyes, and he covered his face with his hands, and sobbed as he had sobbed years before, when in the southern wilderness word came to him that Melisse was dying.

"Melisse—Melisse"— he groaned her name aloud, and stared through the hot film in his eyes away into the north, sobbing to her, calling to her in his grief, and looking through that thousand miles of starlit space as though from out of it her sweet face would come to him once more. And as he called there seemed to come to him from out of that space a sound, so sweet and low and tender that his heart stood still, and he stood up straight and stretched his arms up to Heaven, for Jan Thoreau knew that it was the sound of a violin that came to him from out of the north—that Melisse, an infinity away, and heard his call, his prayer, and was praying for him and Kazani.

And suddenly as he listened his arms fell to his sides, and there shot into his eyes all of the concentrated light of the stars, for the music came nearer and nearer and still nearer to him, until he caught Kazan in his arms and ran with him down the side of the mountain. It died now in the forest, then rose again, softer and more distant it seemed to him, luring him on into the forest gloom. For a few moments consciousness of all else but that sound remained with him only in a dazed, half real way, and as John Cummins had called upon the angels at Lac Bain many years ago when he was, and gone out into the night to meet this wonderful music, so Jan Thoreau's soul cried to them now as he clutched his dead dog, Kazan, to him and stumbled on. Then suddenly he came upon the cabin, and in the cabin there was a light!

Gently he laid Kazan down upon the snow, and for a full minute he stood and listened and heard, lower and sweeter still, the gentle music of the violin. Some one was in his cabin—living hands were playing! After all, it was not the spirit of Melisse that had come to him in the hour of his deepest grief, and a sob rose in his throat. He went on, step by step, and at the door he stopped again, wondering if he was mad. If the spirits of the forest were taunting him still, if—if—

One step more—

The great God, he heard it now—the low, sweet music of the old Cree love song, played in the old, old way, with all of its old sadness, its whispering joy, its weeping song of life, of death, of love! With a great cry he flung open the door and leaped in, with his arms reaching out, his eyes blinded for a moment by the sudden light—and with a cry as piercing as his own something ran through that light to meet him—Melisse, the old, glorious Melisse, crushing her arms about his neck, sobbing his name, pleading with him in her old, sweet voice to kiss her, kiss her, kiss her—while Jan Thoreau for the first time in his life felt sweeping over him a resistless weakness, and in this vision he knew that Jean de Gravois came to him, too, and held him in his arms and that as the light faded away from about him he still heard Melisse calling to him, felt her arms about him, her face crushed to his own. And as the deep gloom enveloped him more densely and he felt himself slipping down through it he whispered to the faces which he could no longer see:

"Kazan—died—tonight"—

For a long time Jan Yought to throw off the darkness, and when he succeeded and opened his eyes again, he knew that it was Melisse who was sitting beside him, and that it was Melisse who flung her arms about him when he awoke from his strange sleep and held his wild head pressed against her bosom—Melisse, with her glorious hair flowing about her as he had loved it in their old days, and with the old love shining in her eyes, only more glorious now, as he heard her voice.

"Jan—Jan—we have been hunting for you—so long," she cried softly. "We have been searching—ever since you left Lac Bain. Jan, dear Jan, I loved you so, and you almost broke my heart. Dear, dear Jan," she sobbed, stroking his face now, "I know why you ran away—I know, and I love you so that —that I will die if—you go away again."

"You know!" breathed Jan. He was in his cot and raised himself, clasping her beautiful face between his two hands, staring at her with the old horror in his eyes. "You know—and you come—to me?"

"I love you," said Melisse. She slipped up to him and laid her face upon his breast, and, with her fingers distracted in his long hair, she leaned over to him and kissed him. "I love you!"

Jan's arms closed about her, and he bored his face so that it was smothered in her hair, and he felt against his the joyous tremble of her bosom.

"I love you," she whispered again. And under her cloud of hair their lips

"I love you!"

met, and she whispered again, with her sweet breath still upon his lips, "I love you."

Outside Jean de Gravois was dancing up and down in the starlit edge of the forest, and Iowaka was looking at him.

"And now what do you think of your Jean de Gravois?" cried Jean for the hundredth time at least. "Now what do you think of him, my beautiful one?" And he caught Iowaka's head in his arms for the hundredth time, too, and kissed her until she pushed him away. "Was it not right for me to break my oath to the fiendish Virgin and tell Melisse why Jan Thoreau had gone mad? Was it not right, I say? And did not Melisse do as I told that fool of a Jan that she would do? And didn't she hate the Englishman all of the time? Eh? Can you not speak my raven haired angel?"

He hugged Iowaka again in his arms, and this time he did not let her go, but turned her face so that the starlight fell upon it.

"And now what if Jan Thoreau still feels that the curse is upon him?" he asked softly. "Ha, ha, we have fixed that—you, my sweet Iowaka, and your husband, Jean de Gravois! I have it here in my pocket—the letter signed by the superintendent at Prince Albert, to whom I told Jan's story when I followed his trail down there—the letter which says that the other woman died before the man who was to be Jan Thoreau's father married the woman who was to be his mother. And now do you understand why I did not tell Melisse of this letter? It was to prove to that fool of a Jan Thoreau that she loved him whatever he was. Now what do you think of Jean de Gravois, you daughter of a princess, you—you"—

"Wife of the greatest man in the world," laughed Iowaka softly. "Come, my foolish Jean, we cannot stand out forever. I am growing cold, and besides, do you not suppose that Jan would like to see me?"

"Foolish, foolish, foolish," murmured Jean as they walked hand in hand through the starlight. "She, my Iowaka, my beloved, says that I am foolish, and after this! What can a man do to make himself great in the eyes of his wife?"

Quebec Man Restored to Health By Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. Joseph Roy Suffered With His Kidneys for More Than a Year.

Waterville, Que., May 3rd. (Special) —"Having met a friend who had obtained great relief by taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I decided to try them," writes Mr. Joseph Roy, a well-known resident of this place. "I took a few boxes and they have done me much good. I strongly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have saved my life and restored my former health."

Availing oneself of the best information, and using the most practical system of relief in the world today, is the one in which the sufferer associates for the maximum of his disease, and then chooses the most certain means of healing: this has been known for the past thirty years as the Dodd's Kidney Pill treatment. All that is claimed for Dodd's Kidney Pills is that they are a kidney remedy. They have been successfully used as a treatment for rheumatism, Backache and Urinary troubles for over a third of a century.

OBITUARY

Donald Sagriff.

On Thursday, April 19th, 1928, the Angel of Death visited the home of Patrick Maurice Sagriff, Enterprise, and wafted to his heavenly abode, the pure soul of Donald, second oldest child, age five years.

Donald had apparently been in the best of health until the Saturday previous to his death, when he was taken ill, and on the advice of his physician, was removed as hurriedly as possible to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, but everything was done that medical skill could devise, as well as the tender administrations of loving parents and bereaved parents, who stood by the darling's bedside and prayed, "Not my will but Thine be done."

The funeral took place on April 21st, attended by a large cortege of the family residence, to the Church of the Annunciation, Cloyne. The hymn, "The Maas of the Angels" was sung by Rev. Father Farrell.

The little white coffin was borne to the grave by six of Donald's little mates, namely Gerald Donoghue, Jim Finn, Gervase Finn, Glen Dolan, Jim Fisher and Leon Dillon.

He leaves to mourn his loss his heartbroken parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Sagriff, and three young brothers, Charles, Laverne and Vincent. Our hearts go out in deepest sympathy to those left behind, especially to the bereaved parents, who stood by the darling's bedside and prayed, "Not my will but Thine be done."

This Great Healing Oil Must Banish Eczema and Skin Troubles

Make up your mind to-day that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment; or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to Wallace's Drug Store or any other good druggist to-day and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

The very first application will give relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by starting faithfully to give a short while your skin trouble will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to do all at once, but one bottle will show you beyond all doubt that you have at last discovered a way to restore your skin to health.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain, leave a greasy residue and that must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

CAMDEN EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

On April 26th the Camden East Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Alloo. There were twenty-five present—Mrs. Huffman and district officers, and three visitors from other parts of the community who were desirous of becoming members for the coming year. After the singing of the meet-ing—Ode, Prayer and minutes—the Secretary gave her report on the work of the Institute. The financial statement showing the standing of the Institute included showed a balance on hand, to the amount of $126.23.

Hearty vote of thanks were extended to the Secretary and other officers; Mr. Front, who so kindly audited our books; the players who, by their play, "Down in Dubbs", greatly increased our funds, and all who in any way helped the Institute.

Then followed roll call, which was answered by each paying her fees for the new year. Thus a group of nineteen members were ready to proceed with the election of officers for the new year. This election resulted as follows:—

President—Mrs. A. Salsbury.
1st Vice President—Mrs. A. Robinson.
2nd Vice President—Mrs. M. Love.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. A. Allore.
Assistant Secretary and Press Reporter—Mrs. G. Smedley.
Directors—Mrs. E. Hamilton, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. H. Robinson, Mrs. B. Amey and Mrs. H. Huff.
Pianist—Mrs. H. Robinson.
Flower Committee—Mrs. G. Boulton, and others to be added later.
District Representative—Mrs. Geo. Black.
District Annual Representatives — Mrs. Salsbury, Mrs. Black, Mrs. B. Amey and Mrs. J. Yeomans.

Mrs. Shibley gave an excellent paper on "Duty and Service".

After the meeting was closed by singing the National Anthem, a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and four other members.

The next meeting is to be held in the evening of May 4th, at the home of Mrs. G. Smedley. Roll call for the meeting to be answered by "Suggestions for the Year's Programme".

In the Parish Hall, on Monday evening, May 7th, Mr. Laughland, Agricultural Representative, of Napanee, will give an illustrated lecture on the growing of alfalfa.

BIG FIRE AT YARKER

The entire Village of Yarker, about fourteen miles north of Napanee, was menaced by fire at an early hour on Sunday, when the old Benjamin plant, used as a box factory, and the administration building, were totally destroyed. Considerable damage was done to other buildings in the vicinity. Only the presence of members of the Kingston and Napanee fire departments, with some of their equipment, saved the village from what looked like certain destruction. As it is, the damage, which was early estimated at about $65,000.00, may be closer to $100,000 when final checking up is completed.

The fire was discovered by members of the crew of a freight train, which was passing through Yarker about four o'clock Sunday morning. They immediately started a continual whistling, but the villagers were not aroused, and the crew had to hastily leave their train and sound the alarm.

The village bucket brigade did gallant work, but their efforts were not nearly sufficient and hurry calls were sent to Kingston and Napanee. Fire Chief James Armstrong, of the Kingston brigade, along with several members of the department, and the big pumper, were rushed to the scene and played three lines of hose for more than five hours. The residence of Mr. Freeman, a short distance away, caught fire, but was soon under control, while a frame dwelling across the street was badly scorched. As soon as the main fire was under control, fire broke out in the power-house, across the river, but it was quickly extinguished.

The factory which was destroyed was formerly an axle and spring factory, and latterly had been used as a box factory. Employees were working in it up to ten o'clock on Saturday.

Brock Leonard, son of the station agent at Yarker, was seriously injured when a part of the wall fell on him. He was rushed to the Kingston General Hospital, where his condition was still serious Sunday evening.

Residents of the village were profuse in their thanks to the Kingston and Napanee departments, expressing themselves as certain the entire village would have been wiped out had it not been for them.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Now, Jimmy, suppose you were to hand Willie a plate with a large and a small piece of cake on it, wouldn't you tell him to take the larger piece?"

"No!"

"Why not?"

"Because it wouldn't be necessary."

The Oil for the Athlete.—In rubbing down, the athlete will find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil an excellent article. It renders the muscles and sinews pliable, takes the soreness out of them and strengthens them for strains that may be put upon them. It stands pre-eminent for this purpose, and athletes who for years, have been using it, can testify to its value as a lubricant.

"Why so downcast, Brewster? You look like a tired business man."

"'Tis worse than you suspect; I am a fired business man."

Miller's Worm Powders will not only expel worms from the system, but will induce healthful conditions of the system under which worms can no longer thrive. Worms keep a child in a continual state of restlessness and pain, and there can be no comfort for the little one until the cause of suffering be removed, which can be easily done by the use of these powders, which are very effective.

"On any grounds within a mile of this farm."

Always Ready and Reliable.—Practically all pains arising from inflammation can be removed with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Simply rub it on the sore spot and it is quickly absorbed by the skin. Its healing power is conveyed to the inflamed tissue which is quickly soothed. This fine old remedy is also a specific for all manner of cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. Keep a bottle handy always.

"Oh! hight," came the scornful rejoinder, "keep yer apples. But just to make yer wild, I'll tell yer, there's a bandy-legged bloke in front of this hole."

A GERMAN COLONY

Located on Farm Twenty Miles North of Winnipeg—A Community Effort.

A settlement movement of more than ordinary interest which took place in 1927, in which the Canada Colonization Association had a hand, was the establishment of the Schneider Colony of German settlers in Manitoba. A group of German agriculturists with an objective of individual farm ownership and independence is furnishing a novel illustration of co-operative effort in pioneering. Looking to ultimate farm management and operation as individuals they are working to this end in a community as the most effective means of meeting the problems of the first years of settlement.

The colony was born of the planning and enterprise of Dr. Fritz Schneider and actually established and fostered by him. Actuated by a desire to aid his fellow-countrymen in the agricultural depression of the post-war period, Dr. Schneider conceived the idea of forming such a colony, and after making a close study of conditions in many countries decided upon Western Canada as best suited to the German emigrant, having regard to its climate, agricultural opportunity, and social conditions. He then returned to Germany to gather together his colony.

In March, 1927, he was back in Manitoba with thirty families, comprising nearly one hundred persons, from the Black Forest area and other districts of Germany, all agriculturist, all keenly desirous of securing lands of their own or expanding their farm activities beyond what had been possible in the homeland. To achieve this most rapidly and soundly with their limited financial resources the enterprise was to be launched by community effort. That more rapid initial progress might be made they pooled their capital, amounting to $40,000, and their effort, says Agricultural and Industrial Progress in Canada.

The farm the colony occupied contained 3,124 acres, and though it had been partially cultivated, years of neglect left it in such a shape as to present the new settlers with many problems.

In the first year of operation, farmers have lived together in the community house they erected or temporary cottages and took their meals in a community dining hall. They held horses and machinery in common and worked together under one management as on a large agricultural estate. All expenses came out of the common till and all revenues went back into the common fund. Purchasing has been done by the management, and by reason of the quantity buying of groceries, agricultural implements, etc., the community has been able to secure substantial reductions and make large savings. Seeding has also been carried out on the same plan, and while necessarily limited in extent, promises to work out with equal efficiency.

Of paramount value in this manner of settlement have been the increased educational, social and religious facilities. The intensive settlement lends itself to much more satisfactory schooling and the establishment of winter classes for the mastery of the English language, in which the new settlers have exhibited themselves as most anxious to attain perfection. The greater amenities of social intercourse are obvious as are also those for the practice of religion under one minister.

THE DOLPHIN.

Are Under Protection of Australian Government.

If you happen to find yourself on the coast of New South Wales, you mustn't kill the killers, says Answers. These strange sea beasts, which are the fiercest members of the delphin family, are under Government protection.

They have won their "safe conduct" as the result of the activities of three of them, who have attached themselves to a whaling station at Twofold bay. Whenever they sight a whale, they drive it towards the shore—worrying and biting it if it tries to get away—until it reaches shallower water and falls into the hands of another enemy—man.

Then, for services rendered, the dolphins receive their share of the tongue of the whale, the only part of it they care for. That eaten, they are off again to look for another victim.

It is a strange partnership, but one that is very satisfactory to all concerned, and the dolphins have certainly earned their immunity from human attacks.

This is not the first time, however, that dolphins have enjoyed Government protection. Peloria Jack, most famous of the family, who used to "pilot" vessels through Preneh Pass, between Wellington and Nelson, New Zealand, had a similar safe conduct.

The Three "R's."

In reading, writing, and arithmetic, Scottish schoolchildren surpass their English and American rivals, judging by recent tests, says Answers. These proved that a Scottish boy aged ten can spell as well as a London boy of twelve.

Why Firestone Tires Give You Most Miles Per Dollar

The greatest enemy to tire life is not the harsh grind of city streets or rough roads but heat which is created inside the tire by internal friction. Heat not only weakens the fabric, but also softens the rubber causing blowouts and tire failures.

The exclusive Firestone Gum-Dipping process prevents internal heat. Every fibre of every cord is insulated and impregnated with rubber, which prevents internal friction and at the same time binds the cords together by a stronger union of rubber, thus giving greater strength and flexibility to the tire.

Take advantage of the Gum-Dipping process to lower your tire costs this year. Your local Firestone Dealer not only supplies you with these better tires that cost no more, but also gives the better service that enables you to benefit from every extra mile built in at the factory.

"BAKES SPLENDIDLY"
"With a Perfection you don't have to worry around and get used to build a fire. Simply touch a match to it and you have a hot fire at once. You can have a fairly hot or medium heat, and if you are beleaguered, an intense heat if ever hot is fast and yet."—Mrs. T. B., Gilesburg, Ont.

YOUR Perfection Range is instantly on the job for quick, clean cooking! Each burner has a patented wick stop which positively does not allow the wick to flare or the flame to rise above a set point.

Have you seen the beautiful new Perfection models? Modern...quick...convenient. Finer than you ever dreamed an oil range could be. Perfection prices run from $8.75 to $212.50.

Historical Society Lecture To-night (Friday).

Russia still holds the centre of interest by those who follow world affairs. The greatest experiment in the history of political organization is taking place in our own day. The facts are hard to arrive at, and only those who have time for study and access to the various records can get any concrete idea of the situation. Prof. McArthur, of Queen's, has followed this experiment with his usual great care, and will lecture to the people of Napanee in the Historical Hall, to-night (Friday), at 8 o'clock. Admission free.

The Russian Revolution.

One of the greatest conundrums presented to modern historians is the apparent success of the Russian Revolution if its survival for so long a period can be termed a success. For some time the Historical Society has been looking for a lecturer to deal with this subject, and are glad to announce that this (Friday) evening, May 4th, Professor McArthur, of Queen's University, will present the result of a careful study of the question. His reputation for thoroughness is a sufficient guarantee that his address will be a most interesting one. No admission is charged. Bear in mind the date, May 4th. All are welcome.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

The reports of the Easter Examinations at the Collegiate Institute will be handed to the pupils on Friday, May 4th. Irene Shibley Cowan's Success.

Last Friday evening, April 27th, at Knox Church, Toronto, the Graduation Exercises of the Toronto Bible College were held. Among those receiving diplomas was the name of Miss Irene Cowan, granddaughter of Geo. W. Shibley, Napanee, and the late Mrs. Shibley. Miss Cowan also received a Certificate of Music from Mr. Ernest Shildrick, Musical Instructor of the Bible College, which qualifies Miss Cowan to lead in Gospel Singing. She passed with 1 honors. Miss Cowan is a member of Knox Church, Toronto; she is also a member of the "Writers' Craft Club", of Toronto, and of the "United Empire Loyalist Association" of Toronto. Miss Cowan expects to spend some time this summer with her grandfather, in Napanee.

BASEBALL

The Paisley House was the scene of enthusiasm last Thursday night, when it was filled to overflowing with representatives of the various teams and fans of the County, for the annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington Baseball League. President Henderson, of Odessa, occupied the chair, and judging by the keen interest displayed by the delegates on the several motions before the chair, this should be the best year in the League's history.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows :—

Past President — Mr. Henderson, Odessa.

President—W. H. Roe, Napanee.

Vice President—Frank Gallagher, Adolphustown.

Secretary Treasurer—Ruthmire Pybus, Napanee.

The Manager and Secretary of each Club will form the Executive. President Roe has called an Executive meeting for May 10th, 1928, at 8 o'clock, when the following clubs are expected to enter :—Napanee, Odessa, Adolphustown, Newburgh, Strathcona, Yarker, Tamworth, and Enterprise.

LOSES MEMORY. FOUND WANDERING

A man who apparently has been the victim of an assault, was found wandering about the streets here late Monday afternoon, and was taken in charge by Chief of Police Barret.

The young man cannot remember what his name is or where his home is located. He told the Chief of Police that the last he remembered was that he was driving toward St. John, N.B., in an automobile and, stopped and picked up a couple of men on the road to give them a ride. All the time that has intervened since then and the present he has a blank to him.

He is a tall young man, about 6 feet 1 inch in height and twenty-eight years of age. He has brown hair and blue eyes. When found in Napanee he was dressed in old blue overalls and a smock. There was no money on his person or anything by which he could be identified. The police searched his body for scars or bruises, but did not find any indication that he had recently been assaulted.

Chief Barrett has wired to St. John and hopes to get information there that will satisfactorily clear up the mystery.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Hattie Gross Toomey.

Mrs. Hattie Gross Toomey, wife of William J. Toomey, of 173 Riverside Drive, died yesterday at their residence after a long illness. Her maiden name was Hattie Gross. She was a descendant of Thomas Gross, who came from England to Maine in 1637, and whose son, Hincks, settled on land on Cape Cod, which now known as Truro, where Mrs. Toomey was born. Her father, the late Dr. Orin R. Gross, practiced medicine in this city. On her mother's side Mrs. Toomey was directly descended from Nicholas Snow, of the Mayflower. Her first husband, the late Joseph A. Coughlin, was Secretary of the Horton Ice Cream Company.

Mrs. Toomey was a founder of the American Criterion Society, Vice President of the Eclectic Club, a member of the National Society of New England Women, the Little Mothers' Aid Association and the Ebell Club of Los Angeles. The Rev. Dr. Bellinger of St. Agnes's Protestant Episcopal Church in West Ninety-second Street will conduct funeral services at the residence, at 2 p.m. Sunday.—The New York Times, Friday, April 27th, 1928.

DR. FLORENCE MURRAY AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

On Friday evening, April 27th, a large and enthusiastic audience greeted Dr. Florence Murray, of Korea, when she addressed a mass meeting in St. Andrew's Church. All the missionary auxiliaries of the town and twenty from the surrounding community had been invited, and those who attended were greatly touched by the address.

The devotions were taken by Mrs. MacGregor and Mrs. Gilbride, and an appropriate solo was sung by Mrs. Valkman.

Dr. Murray, a charming young woman, of Cape Breton, home on her first furlough, is addressing meetings to tell people of the needs of the Hamheung Girls' High School. The building must come up to the requirements of the Japanese government, and will cost $22,500. Nine years ago the main building was condemned, and for six years the government has demanded a new building, until now it must be built or abandoned. This one High School serves a population of 2,000,000. The Koreans won't trust their daughters to the Japanese government schools, so that it is really necessary to continue this mission school. This amount must be raised by individual subscriptions, as the estimates were compiled before the Dominion Board realized the urgent need. All who wish to contribute may do so through the officers of any of the auxiliaries.

BETHEL

In the early hours of Sunday morning last our neighbours were aroused from their slumbers by the telephone calls from Yarker for help to fight fire which had broken out in Fred Garrison's basket factory, formerly known as the Benjamin wheel factory. The building was completely destroyed, along with the stone building known as Ewart's store, and but for the timely assistance of the Kingston and Napanee fire brigades, many other residents would have fallen a prey to the flames. The many friends of Brock Leonard, who was badly hurt, being buried with a fallen wall during the fire, hope for a speedy recovery.—The Oddfellows of Yarker attended Divine services at Colebrook, on Sunday last, at 2.30 p.m. Rev. Mr. Merrick, of Bay of Quinte Circuit, delivered a very impressive address. — We are pleased to report that Mrs. Wm. McWilliams is much improved. Miss Ida Salisbury has returned to her home in Enterprise, while Miss Norma Hicks, of Colebrook, has taken her place in the home of Mrs. Wm. McWilliams, for a few weeks.—The many friends of Mr. Edmund McKnight and family sympathize with them in their recent bereavement in the loss of his father, which took place so suddenly at Sydenham, on Sunday, April 22nd. The Ladies' Aid of Colebrook will meet at the home of Mrs. Levi Salisbury, this Wednesday night.—Mr. and Mrs. Russel Gilligan spent Sunday last with the former's parents, Mr. Justus Gilligan.—Mr. and Mrs. Clark Ham and Mr. and Mrs. J. Gilligan attended service at Yarker on Sunday evening last.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson called on Mr. and Mrs. Edmund McKnight, on Sunday evening.—Mr. and Robt. Galbraith is in Napanee for a few days.—Mrs. Edith Alkenbrack has returned home.—Miss Myrtle Card and Mrs. Robt. Asselstine, of Moscow, were callers in our neighbourhood on Tuesday evening.

WEDDING BELLS.

Cook—Cummings.

Of much interest to a wide circle of friends is the wedding of Miss Belle Cummings and Mr. Percival Edgar Cook, of Chicago. Miss Cummings has made her home here for some time with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Stout, and the wedding took place at the Stout residence, on Lawrence Avenue, last Saturday evening. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Cummings, of Napanee, Ont., were here for the ceremony, as was also Miss Jane Cummings, her sister, of New York. The ceremony was very simple, performed by Rev. Charles B. Allen in the presence of the immediate families. Pink sweet peas, roses, white snapdragons and white lilacs comprised the decorations for the wedding and the supper that followed. Mr. and Mrs. Cook plan to make their future home in Toronto.—Detroit Free Press, Tuesday, April 17th.

OBITUARY

The death took place on Wednesday morning, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Fralick, Napanee, of an old and highly esteemed resident of Napanee, in the person of Mrs. Sarah Kerr, at the age of 76 years. The deceased had been ill for about eight months, and owing to her advanced age, the disease made rapid inroads on her health. For many years she was a resident of Yarker, and for the past thirteen years has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Morley Card, of Napanee. She was a member of the Methodist Church. Her husband, deceased her over fifteen years ago. She will be greatly missed, as she was loved by everyone, and was a kind and loving mother. There are left to mourn the loss of a dear one, two sons and five daughters, Thomas A. Kerr, near Harrowsmith, and Will Kerr, near Yarker; Mrs. Will Chapman, of Bath; Mrs. Cyrus Reed, of Colebrook; Mrs. Elmer McRory, of Sydenham; Mrs. Albert Alton, of Sydenham; and Mrs. Morley Card, of Napanee, with whom she lived. There was a private funeral held at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Will Chapman, Rev. A. J. Wilson, of St. Andrew's Church, being in charge, and also Rev. Mr. Plant, of Conway. Interment was made at Moscow cemetery.

Y. P. S. OF CONWAY AND SILLSVILLE

The ninth meeting of the Young People's Society was held at the home of Robt. Merritt, Sillsville, on Friday evening, April 27th, 1928, with the President presiding.

After the opening exercises, which consisted of two hymns, the Lord's Prayer, and a chapter from Hurlburt's story of the Bible, the usual business was attended to.

An excellent programme was provided, being made up of three interesting topics. The story of Joe, Cobourg, the originator of the Red Cross, was read by Borden Young. Leonard Mellow gave a reading on "The Evolution of Music", while Mrs. Merritt read "The Preservation of America's Birds".

At the conclusion of the meeting a tasty lunch was served, and the last meeting of the year ended.

REV. R. C. TAIT INVITED TO CAMPBELLFORD

On Monday evening a meeting of the Official Board of St. John's United Church was held to consider the matter of giving a call to a minister to succeed Rev. Ernest Harston, who has received a call to Oshawa. The Official Board and the congregation unanimously adopted the report of the committee to try and call Rev. R. C. Tait, of Unity, Saskatchewan. Mr. Tait has been receiving a call, subject to the action of the Official Board and Committees of the church.

Rev. Mr. Tait was a minister in two of the largest churches in Halifax, N.S., and at Morven, in the Bay of Quinte, previous to receiving his academic training at Mount Allison University, New Brunswick. —Campbellford Herald.

NEWBURGH

Mrs. Zacharis Milligan, a much respected resident of the village, passed away a her home on Sunday morning. She will be sadly missed both at her home where she was an ideal home maker, in the United Church where she took a keen interest in all its activities; in the community where she was loved by all. Especially did she love the young people and the children. She was a woman whose virtues one would do well to emulate. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson officiating. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot of Newburgh cemetery.

Miss Conway will speak in the Free Methodist Mission Hall on Wednesday evening, May 16th, of her work in India, where she has labored for a number of years.

Mr. W. Brokenshire, of the Whig-Standard, was a business caller in Newburgh on Monday.

Mr. W. G. Paul and Dr. A. B. Babcock, Toronto, were week end guests of Mrs. S. Shorey.

Mr. Sam Hunter and Mrs. Wager are in Hamilton this week in attendance at the funeral of Mrs. Wagerr daughter-in-law, the late Mrs. Fred Cummins.

Mrs. Garrett and her two children, Mr. Toronto, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Denison, last week.

Mr. Charles Detlor, of Oshawa, Sundayed at home.

Mr. Frank Vanluven, of Kingston, visited at Wesley and Newburgh during the week.

Mr. Stanley Embury is quite ill at time of writing. We all hope for a speedy recovery.

Our sympathies are extended to our esteemed townsman, Mr. E. Dennison, whose brother died the first of the week, following an illness from which he suffered for some time.

Sunday, May 13th, will be observed all over our Dominion as Mother's Day, and a call will go out to "Honour Mother by going to Sunday School and Church". The events of recent years have placed a new and enlarged emphasis upon the tremendous importance of religious education of childhood and youth. We have been forced to realize that what in our civilization can stand only as it rests upon strong moral and religious foundations. Only as christian home, character and christian living our secular education must be supplemented by religious education. We may well rejoice that perhaps never in its history has the church given itself with more earnestness and purpose to this task than it is doing at the present time. Mothers now how bring your boys and girls to Sunday School and church this Sunday. Wear a flower and make your homes christian homes in honour of your Mother.

Mr. Clarence Milligan, of New York, was in attendance at the funeral of his stepmother, on Wednesday.

Mrs. G. R. Perry, Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson and Miss H. M. Paul, with Mrs. Jas. Wilson and Mrs. Geo. Finley, of Strathcona, are attending the Branch meeting of the W. M. S. in Centre Church.

A MOSQUITO CONTROL CAMPAIGN

Communities that suffer from infestations of the mosquito at the opening of the summer months may largely overcome the difficulty by carrying out a general campaign of control. The entomological Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa has been working on this problem for several years and has taken an active part in campaigns that have brought relief from the pest which for many years appeared in troublesome numbers. In a new circular on the subject, Number 62 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, it is recommended that public-spirited individuals who wish to control a local mosquito pest, should form a committee and endeavour to arouse public interest in the project through the press, by lectures, and in other ways. This appears to be necessary in order to secure the co-operation of the public and the needed financial assistance. The next step is to locate the mosquito breeding areas which generally consist of temporary or semi permanent pools of stagnant water. Pools that are suspected should be examined carefully by passing a strainer through the water collecting the larvae, which when present are easily visible when placed in a white vessel containing water. Having discovered the breeding places the next step is to apply oil to the pools. This naturally spreads itself in a fine film over the entire surface destroying the larvae. Details in regular; which is obtainable from the Publications Branch of the Department, gives explicit instructions for doing this work.

ONION ACREAGE OUTLOOK FOR 1928

A survey of the main crop onion acreage in the commercial producing districts of British Columbia and Ontario indicates that the growers intend to plant 10% less acreage than in 1927.

Intended Plantings in 1928 compared with acreage grown in 1927 :—

	1928 Acres	1927 Acres
British Columbia	911	1233
Ontario	1618	1580
Total	2529	2813

Last year the production amounted to 23,000 tons in the two Provinces, or approximate yield of 8 tons per acre. Figuring on this basis and normal growing conditions throughout the forthcoming season, a yield of 20,000 tons can be expected. In the Okanagan and Main Line producing districts in B. C. there is a decrease of 26% reported in the acreage this year as compared with 1927. The principal decrease comes from the Kelowna section, where the plantings are expected to be 50% less, or 800 acres against 1000 acres in 1927. Reports from Ontario show the acreage in the Leamington-Chatham Districts to indicate an approximate increase of 2% over last year. The acreage and kinds of onions intended to be planted in the producing sections are as follows :

	Yellows	Reds	Sets	Silverskins
Leamington Marshes	564	140	57	9
Erieau Marsh	343	152	19	10
Jeannette Creek	212	29	9
Dover Marsh	61	12	4
Total	1180	333	88	17

Bermuda Onions.

In addition to the main crop onions, there are approximately 41 acres of Bermuda onions planted, with 33 acres in B.C. and 6 acres in Ontario. This is an innovation in early onion production in this country by importing the seedling plants from the Southern States. These plants are immediately set out in the field and with favourable growing conditions should be ready for shipment by July 1st. Last year, 18 acres were planted out in an experimental way at Kelowna, B.C., and proved quite successful. The onions cured well, producing 8 tons per acre, and commenced to move to market the last of June. Ontario growers are experimenting along the same lines this year and have planted 2 acres in the Niagara District, 1 acre at Simcoe, and 3 acres in the Leamington Section.

MOSCOW

The regular meeting of the Moscow Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. E. Evans, on Thursday, May 3rd. The meeting opened by singing the Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Minutes were read and approved.

Mrs. W. A. Reid gave a very interesting talk on her trip to Florida last winter, and showed several views of important places.

A very splendid current event paper was read by Mrs. Amos Huffman, and prepared by Charlie Darling. Mr. Darling's papers are highly appreciated by all. The financial statement was read by the secretary and showed a fair balance on hand.

Mrs. Lampkins extends a very cordial invitation to the ladies of the Institute, also anyone who would care to hear our summer speaker, which is to be held at her home on May 21st.

After the regular routine of business, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year :—

President—Mrs. Cecil King.
1st Vice President—Mrs. Cline.
2nd Vice President—Mrs. Ross Bell.
Secretary and Treasurer—Mrs. Lyall Millsap.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Morley Huffman.
Press Reporter—Mrs. John Bell.
Pianist—Miss E. Potter.
Flower and Flower Committee—Mrs. W. Benn, Mrs. Lampkins, Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. Cline.
Program Committee — Mrs. W. Shangraw, Mrs. Morley Huffman, Mrs. W. A. Reid and Mrs. Amos Huffman.

A motion was carried unanimously, that our former President, Mrs. J. A. Amey, be made Honorary President in recognition of her faithfulness and devotion in the Institute work. The meeting closed by singing" God Save the King", after which dainty refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Amey.

New Brunswick Lady is Thankful She Took Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. A. P. Ashfield Suffered With Weak Kidneys

Nashwaaksis, N.B., March 10th. (Special)—"Every time I got a cold it settled on my Kidneys," writes Mrs. A. P. Ashfield, a well-known resident of this place. "I had such a pain in my back I could not sleep or work and thought the pain was there to stay. A kind friend of mine told me about Dodd's Kidney Pills. I had only taken two boxes when I got relief. I take them quite often now and thank Dodd's Kidney Pills for my health."

Availing oneself of the best information, the broadest and most practical system of relief in the world to-day, is the one in which the sufferer acquaints himself the nature of his disease and then chooses the most certain means of healing; this has been known for the past thirty years as the Dodd's Kidney Pill treatment.

EASTERN CANADA GARDENING SERVICE

Window Boxes and Hanging Pots

It is time to start thinking of window boxes and hanging baskets which can be started now, and should be placed outside about the end of May. This is a form of gardening which is within the reach of all, as those people whose backyard is entirely taken up with the garage or a dog kennel, have at least a window sill from which to support one of these concentrated flower beds. One must remember that the window box produces about six times the amount of growth for the same area as the normal garden, for this account, rich soil, plenty of fertilizer, and daily watering are essential. Do not place outside or uncover before all danger of frost is over, as tender pot plants used will freeze very easily. Window boxes should be as long as the window sill, about eight inches wide at the top, six at the bottom and at least seven inches deep. These are inside measurements. The corners must be strongly reinforced with iron straps and the box well supported, as when full it weighs about 150 lbs. Have holes and a layer of broken crockery or cinders in the bottom to provide drainage. If soil rotted manure is available, put in a layer of this next, and then fill up with fine garden soil. Select stocky plants and before putting them in the box remove all buds and bloom and this will stem growing quickly, dissolve a scant handful of nitrate of soda in a pail of water, can, and sprinkle this over the box, if the latter is around four feet long. If shorter, less fertilizer should be used. After this, work into the soil with another can or two of water. Three or four more applications of fertilizer at ten day intervals are advised, and watering should take place every day, as the evaporation from window boxes is far above normal. Along the front of the box put in trailing Nasturtiums, German Ivy or trailing Lobelia and similar plants, while farther back, Petunias, Geraniums, Alyssum, Dwarf Lobelia, Ageratums, Begonias, Ferns, and other types especially suitable should go in.

Transplanting

Tomatoes, Cabbage, Head Lettuce, Cosmos, Zinnias, and many other flowers should be transplanted at least once before being placed in their permanent position in the garden. When done carefully, this strengthens the root growth and makes a stronger, stockier plant. When plants are taken from the original flat in which the seed is grown and set directly out in the garden, they are inclined to be spindly and tender. Just after setting out in the garden sprinkle a little nitrate of soda around—dissolving this quick-acting fertilizer in water, one ounce to the gallon for each four square yards and applying at intervals of two weeks is the best way—and your plants will shoot ahead.

Good Seed Important.

Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the importance of good seed. With flowers particularly, one is often inclined to save the seed of some especially choice specimen without realizing that the flowers reproduce themselves exactly from the seed unless certain very elaborate precautions are taken. A row of several different coloured Sweet Peas, for instance, will be hopelessly mixed in a single season. The seed from a brilliant red variety may produce nothing but insipid pink or coloured flowers when raised in the ordinary way. In the farms of the large seed houses and in reliable merchants. There are other reasons also for adopting such a course. Most flowers when they start going to seed deteriorate very rapidly and succeeding blooms are few and small. To keep a garden at its best all faded flowers should be removed before there is a trace of seed pods.

Rich, Red Blood A Real Nerve Tonic

The Source of All Nervousness is Weak, Watery Blood.

Many people, both men and women, find themselves run down through overwork or anxieties. Such sufferers find themselves tired, low-spirited and depressed. Their nerves seem to be worn out and they suffer from headaches and other nerve pains. All this comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only way to get relief is a good supply of rich red blood. Therefore to relieve nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills enrich the blood, which quiets the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. Miss Irene Denne, R.R. No. 1, Waubaushene, tells what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for her as follows :—"I suffered for a long time with my nerves and a generally run-down condition. I grew so weak that I had to lie in bed a part of every day. I could not do any work and was taking medicine all the time, trying one medicine after another. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have reason to be thankful that I acted on this advice, as this was the first medicine that gave me any relief, and in a comparatively short time restored me to the blessing of good health. When I think of the marvellous good these pills did me, I can most highly recommend them to all weak, nervous people."

If you are at all run-down or weak, you should begin at once to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will soon be well and strong. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CAMDEN EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of Camden East Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. G. Smedley, on Friday evening, May 4th. Thirteen members and three visitors were present, and two new members joined.

After the usual opening of the meeting, the roll call was answered by "Suggestions for our Year's Programme". These should prove very useful to the programme committee, and help to make this year's work more interesting, educative and effective.

Since this was the first meeting of the new year and followed the election of officers meeting so closely, there was not much business. Correspondence was read by the Secretary, and dealt with by the meeting. Among this was a letter of thanks from representatives of the Library Board. We are pleased to know they appreciate our donation. Practically all the other business was in connection with our programme planning, the lecture to be given on Monday evening by Mr. Laughland, and the Camden East meeting of the Summer series.

During the social hour a contest, music and lunch were enjoyed. Then the meeting closed in the usual way.

The next meeting will be at the home of the President, Mrs. A. Salisbury, on June 1st.

For the benefit of those who may not know what the Summer Series is, let us say that it is a series of open meetings to be addressed by a speaker provided by the Department of Agriculture. The meeting of this series to be held in Camden East will be at the home of Mrs. Geo. Black, at 2 o'clock, May 16th. The speaker is to be Miss E. Mc. Gee, of Chesterville, Ont. Her subjects will be : "Woman—Her Place and Her Power", and "The Institute as an Educator and Community Builder". All women and girls (over fourteen) will be welcome and are cordially invited to attend the meeting, for which there is no charge. Remember, government service is for the whole people not Institute members only.

INSUL-BOARD

(INSULATING BOARD)

A Board that shuts out cold. Stops heat. Deadens sound. An extraordinary building and insulating Board designed to make home interiors more comfortable, more restful and more healthful the whole year through. An All-Canadian Board, made in Canada from the products of Canada's Forests.

INSUL-BOARD meets the need for a stouter and more rugged material for wall and ceiling insulation. Its greater structural strength has been proven under critical tests by Canada's leading engineers. It makes the walls more rigid, more enduring, more capable of resisting severe strain and stress.

INSUL-BOARD insulates completely, producing a sure and lasting shield against winter's cold and summer's heat, sealing the home interior tight against all atmospheric discomfort.

DOMINION SURVEYORS' REPORT.

Less Than One-Quarter of Canada Adequately Mapped.

Affica months spent in the uninhabited or sparsely settled sections of Canada, the Dominion land surveyors met at Ottawa recently to compare notes, exchange experiences, and to lay before the Government the results of their summer's work.

The tremendous area in Canada which still remains practically unexplored and unknown was emphasized by Mr. R. W. Cantley, of Edmonton, the president of the Association of Dominion Land Surveyors. "No surveyor has ever set foot on the greater part of Canada," he said, "and less than one-quarter of our wonderful country has ever been adequately mapped or can be until the surveys are made."

In no country, said Mr. Cantley, could a widespread movement of expansion proceed far beyond the mapped area of that country. While the wall maps of Canada appear to give the position of every important river and lake right up to the Arctic Ocean, he reminded his hearers that even in these basic particulars the information from which these maps are drawn, as relating to the greater part of Canada, is derived from scattered explorations, fur-traders' reports, Indian legend, and the like.

The Government survey branches, he said, are just now besieged by insistent demands for surveys in all parts of Canada to such an extent that it is impossible to cope with them as fully or as promptly as desirable. Miners who have prospected up to the limits of existing maps are eagerly looking for maps of new fields; millionaire industrial corporations are seeking survey information in regard to hydro-electric power site, timber limits and routes of transportation; three profitable years of farming in quick succession have caused a fresh surge of settlement in the Northwest, which will absorb much of the land already surveyed, and the tourist world is clamoring for maps of Canada's mountain regions.

For years it has been used for boils, ulcers, abscesses and open sores that discharge, and with the most perfect success. Wallace's Drug Store will be glad to supply you.

STRANGE PYGMY RACE

Head-Hunting Cannibals Worship the "Little Men" as Gods—Expeditions Fail to Reach There.

Papua, in the strange land of New Guinea, is still a land of mysterious things and mysterious people. In their hidden mountain fastnesses, Alex. Macdonald, F.R.G.S., the writer and explorer, in an article in Answers, says, live a race of pygmy people, so far seen but once by European eyes—when some prospectors on the trail of osmiridium among the Snow Mountains found their village, Wambarima, hidden on the banks of a tributary stream of the Sepik river.

Mr. Macdonald and his party recently struck inland from Port Moresby, the capital of Papua.

The object of the daring venture is to film the pygmies in their own natural surroundings, and to bring home photographs, at least, of the inscriptions on their wonderful "history stones"—huge slabs of engraved rock which, the priests say, tell how the pygmies are the descendants of bird-men, who peopled the earth when it was young.

During the last two years several attempts have been made to rediscover the strange people first seen by the prospectors, but so well guarded are they by surrounding tribes of head-hunting cannibals, who worship the "little men" as gods, that all efforts by Americans and others to reach pygmyland have failed.

Indeed, without a complete knowledge of the "tapoo" (sacred) laws of these natives and their permission, nothing short of an armed force could penetrate the cordon. But the law of British India does not allow forceful penetration of New Guinea, and the tribes of the interior have a way of dealing with those who come into their domains, insulting their divinities, and breaking their sacred laws, that ensures they will not come a second time.

They have grown to like the peaceful prospector, however. He has taken the trouble to make himself acquainted with the many "tapoos," and takes great care not to offend by breaking any, and he respects the native gods. In fact, some prospectors have become so friendly with the fiercest tribes that they can move freely and safely anywhere in their countries.

It is such men who compose the bulk of Macdonald's party, and at least two of them have already fraternized with the pygmies. Therefore, the expedition has every chance of getting through the forests and over the unknown ranges to the Snow Mountains.

Wambarima is a village consisting chiefly of "tapoo" houses containing the great dead, relics of pygmy ancestors, and the sacred "stones of history." There are also a few ceremonial erections built of bamboo, with mat walls of wonderful workmanship.

The population—about 500—live mostly in the trees, and seldom touch the ground when travelling. The men are, almost uniformly, three feet in height—round-headed, animated, and covered with dark grey hair, but intellectual in comparison with the tall savages who dwell round them. They wear rings in their noses, sharpen their teeth, use blow-pipes, and have extremely powerful voices.

They have no physical fear, believing that death opens the way to a land of greater adventure beyond the mountains, and the priests practice almost ceaseless form of witchcraft, by the aid of which they are believed to cast spells over the neighboring ferocious savages when they show signs of rebelling against their little lordly masters. The "devil magic" of the pygmies is dreaded far beyond their own borders.

Around Wambarima are vast deposits of gold and osmiridium, and great reefs of copper and other ores; but the pygmies make no use of them. The latest expedition may bring back news—as well as a film—that will startle the world and cause another sensational New Guinea rush.

Pushing Work Upon Irrigation Dams.

Although more than 12,000,000 pesos (about $6,000,000) has been spent already by the Mexican administration on its extensive program of irrigation projects, and other expenses are still to be curtailed, this work is to be pushed rapidly until the close of the President's tenure of office, it has been learned from the Secretary of Agriculture and Improvement.

Many works, already well advanced, are being rushed to completion as rapidly as the restricted economic condition of the Government permits, and it is hoped to have them finished by the end of the year. Official figures show that irrigation projects, watering formerly barren territory totalling 750,000 acres, have been completed by the Calles regime. Approximately 450,000 acres have been irrigated within the last year.

A REMARKABLE MEMORY

Sir John Ross Writes Without Notes of Murder That Occurred Sixty Years Ago.

Sir John Ross, the last Lord Chancellor of Ireland, has never kept a diary, and the brisk and entertaining reminiscences in his book "Pilgrim Scrip," says the Cincinnati Enquirer, are drawn entirely from the depths of a retentive and remarkably alert memory. How keen his remembrance of matters can be seen from the chapter dealing with the Newton-Stewart murder, which took place more than fifty-six years ago. Sir John has every point at his finger-tips, long as the interval is since these things happened. It was the murder and robbery of a bank clerk at his desk; and the ingenuity of one of the witnesses, a retired commander of the royal navy, brought the crime home to the most improbable of all people concerned, the very police inspector engaged upon the case. The narrative is admirably terse and vivid, and quite as exciting as any detective tale in modern fiction.

But Sir John's most characteristic mood is that of the narrator of humorous stories, and his pages simply bubble over with good tales, capitally told. Every newspaper reporter will sympathize with the unlucky Irish journalist who was reporting Baron Dowse in the Divisional Court. The baron remarked that a resident magistrate was no more able to state a case than he was to write a Greek ode. The reporter had never heard of a Greek ode, and he got the remark into his paper in the form of an assertion that a resident magistrate could not ride a Greek goat! Irish wit, as all the world knows, has a delightful freshness. Mr. McLaughlin, Q.C., was the source of many such pleasantries. It was he who described a notorious drunkard as "a man whose whole life had been one spirited protest against the errors and extravagance of total abstinence," while on another occasion when a tedious witness under cross-examination explained that he could not cross to a certain spot, because there was a yawning chasm before him, Mr. McLaughlin demanded, "Had it begun to yawn before you appeared?" Father Healy, again, had a pretty wit, with a verbal twist to it.

When discussing the case of Jonah and the whale, he declared, "I have seen to-day a greater miracle. I saw Dr. M. (a very fat Dublin physician) coming out of a fly." Again, when the proprietor of an oyster bar informed him that his daughter had gone to Milan to have her voice trained for opera, Father Healy interposed: "I see. You mean to make an oyster Patti of her."

The Irish Bar is full of stories. A witness in an assault case was asked if the defendant's attitude was threatening. "My lord," said he, "such was the violence of his demeanor that a lady, who was with me, was obliged to advance and kick him twice in the stomach." Dublin policemen were famous for their humor. "Where will I find a Blackrock tram?" asked a flurried old lady of a constable on point duty. "In the small of your back, madam, if you don't get off the line," was the reply. Another policeman, describing how an old horse pulled up, said, "When he got to the gate he stopped unanimously"; while another, when contrasting the traffic on the road beside the Liffey outside Dublin in old days and the present time, averred, "I've seen the time when there were more dead horses on that road than there are living ones now." But an end must be made of quotation, tempting as it may be to dive into Sir John Ross' lucky-bag of wit and wisdom.

Took Soda 20 Years For Gas—Stops Now

Fires In Great Britain.

Fire costs Great Britain about £6,550,000 a year. This is revealed by an estimate published the other day, which shows £6,105,000 as the damage done by fire in Great Britain and Ireland during 1927. This is a lower figure than that for 1926, when the cost of fires was £7,204,000.

Baby's Own Tablets The Home Doctor

Baby's Own Tablets meet all the need that exists in every home where there are young children. They are a laxative, but do not gripe. They are soothing, but do not contain one particle of opiate or other ingredient that can in any way do the slightest harm to the most delicate child.

Baby's Own Tablets reduce fever, relieve colic, banish constipation and indigestion, check diarrhoea, sweeten the stomach and allay the irritation that accompanies the cutting of teeth. They quiet the nerves and promote health-giving sleep and repose. In fact they are as good as a doctor in the house, and once a mother has used them on her little ones she will use nothing else. Thousands of mothers bear testimony as to this. Among them is Mrs. Hurst, Pine Falls, Man., who says:—"I was told to try Baby's Own Tablets by a friend who had used them for all her little ones and said she could not do without them. After using them for my baby boy I quite agree with her and certainly think they are the finest medicine in the world for little ones."

Firestone Tread is Scientifically Designed

When Firestone engineers were developing the Balloon Tire they found it necessary to design a tread different from any other that required by High Pressure Tires.

The Firestone tread was not designed with large, massive projections for appearance or to make plausible sales argument. On the contrary, the projections of the cross-and-square tread are small and the side-strips narrow, permitting the tread to yield to irregularities and cling to the road, giving the greatest non-skid protection. This tough, pliable tread has the wear-resisting qualities that give thousands of extra miles of service and save you money.

Your nearest Firestone Dealer will gladly supply you with tires and give you the better service that goes with these better tires.

Dame of Sark Orders Inhabitants to Pay Taxes In Wheat.

Reverting to a law and custom of the days of Queen Elizabeth, which long has been in abeyance, Mrs. Dudley Beaumont, the Dame of Sark, one of the Channel Islands, has issued an edict that the inhabitants must pay their tithes in wheat or other grain instead of in cash.

Sark ranks as "an entirely independent feudal state within the Empire," being one of the numerous anomalous legacies of the Duchy of Normandy to the English crown, and what its Dame says is likely to go, in spite of the protests of the islanders.

Her exercise of her feudal rights, however, is not purely arbitrary. Agriculture in Sark has reached a low ebb due to English residents occupying cultivable land and letting it run to waste. The Dame's edict aims at making the island more self-supporting. With the object of reawakening interest in agriculture she has decided to instal a milling plant on the island, which formerly fed itself.

IN MEMORIAM.

Memories of Mother, Mrs. Joseph Thompson.

Peaceful be thy sleep, dear mother,
'Tis sweet to breath thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Oft I think of you, dear mother,
And my heart is sad with pain;
Oh this world would be a heaven,
Just to hear your voice again.
You are gone, but not forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Around the grave where you are laid.

TOO USEFUL TO BURN

Of the 578,000,000 tons of bituminous mined annually in the United States, 90 per cent. is burned for heat, light and power, without recovering any of its precious by-products. The other ten per cent. is converted into gas and coke.

At the present rate of progress, however, we may expect to see the ratio reversed before many years, writes A. C. Fieldner, chief chemist of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, in Popular Science Monthly. Comparatively little coal will be shovelled into the fire. It will be deemed too valuable as raw stuff for the manufacturers of vital necessaries of life, as well as a source of more efficient fuels. Even now the list of everyday things derived from coal runs into the hundreds, including dyes, fertilizers, explosives, like TNT, medicines, drugs, solvents and preservatives.

It took about a lifetime to build up Germany's great coal tar dye industry, based on by-products of coke manufacture. But, thanks to modern research laboratories, it required only a few years for Germany to develop the commercial manufacture of wood alcohol from water-gas—a product of coal and water—to the point where it rang the death knell of the great wood distillation industry.

And American chemists, in another two years, developed a process of their own which is now operating at Belle, West Virginia, in the heart of the bituminous field. Plans are being made to enlarge this plant to supply the entire American yearly demand of 10,000,000 gallons!

Moreover, this new process is combined with another process for making ammonia, an important ingredient of fertilizers. Both processes involve subjecting coal gas to pressure of 15,000 pounds to the square inch and pumping it through steel tubes containing catalysts.

A catalyst is a substance which induces or hastens chemical actions of others. The catalysts make the coal gases form methanol (wood alcohol) and ammonia.

Several years ago chemists discovered that carbolic acid and formaldehyde mixed and heated under pressure form a solid material—now called bakelite. Used for pipe stems, radio dials and panels, distributor boxes of automobiles, insulation, fountain pen barrels and so forth, bakelite and similar products have largely displaced hard rubber. Commercial manufacture of "cheaper" wood alcohol from coal will lower the production cost of bakelite because formaldehyde is made from wood alcohol. Bakelite will then be thoroughly a coal product and so even floor tiles may be made from coal!

Like a brick mason, the chemist re-arranges the elements—carbon, hydrogen and oxygen—of which coal is composed, to build what he will that is composed largely of any or all of these elements—theoretically, even rubber.

Fatal to Small Crustaceans.

Ultra-violet light has the power to kill as well as cure, according to experiments reported by Prof. A. Hooker Klugh of Queen's University, in showing that the short length ultra-violet radiations of the sun are deadly to the minute crustacea that furnish food for the fish of commerce.

For many years biologists have puzzled over the question why these tiny relatives of crabs and lobsters remained at a depth of 99 feet or more under the sea during the day and came to the surface only by night. A long series of experiments conducted at the Atlantic Biological Station, St. Andrew's, N.B., during the past summer has demonstrated that this particular form of food for the fishes is really fatally affected by ultra-violet light. Consequently they keep down at a considerable depth below the surface of the sea while the light from the sun is intense, Prof. Klugh declared.

Owns Five Hundred Pipes.

Some women think a man a nuisance because he has half-a-dozen pipes lying about the house. What would they say to Mr. E. F. Church, a Londoner, who has made a hobby of collecting pipes and owns more than five hundred? There are pipes in every corner of Mr. Church's house—clay pipes, brown with age, silver pipes, wooden pipes, iron pipes, pipes covered with precious stones. He has Eskimo pipes, bushmen's pipes from the African jungle, and a magnificent carved pipe from China.

HAY BAY-BETHANY W. M. S.

The May meeting of the W. M. S. was held in Bethany Church, with an unusually large attendance of members and visitors.

The meeting opened by singing the Doxology, followed by prayer by Rev. Mr. Merriam. The minutes of the April meeting were read and approved. The Treasurer gave a report and several paid their fees; also one new member.

The Heralds of the Watch Tower responded with very interesting articles on India by Mrs. Huffman, and Africa by Mrs. Leonard Parks. The papers on "Stewardship of Life", were read by Mrs. A. C. Parks, Mrs. Frank Parks and Mrs. Karl Sexsmith. The steward is not the owner of an estate, but the manager, and to be successful he must be keenly alive to its development.

The Christian recognizes that God is the great owner, and acknowledges God as a great benefactor and himself a steward.

"What shall we render unto God for all his benefits? How much shall we offer to Him for His budget? Stewardship says "All is His". Paul has much to say about giving, but his word to the Corinthians "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store as God has prospered him", has provided a plan of systematic proportionate giving which has been a blessing to the giver and to the Church of Christ.

Mrs. Gould, the President, entertains the June meeting at her home.

The Ladies' Aid of Bethany served a dainty lunch, which was much appreciated by all.

CANADA HOLDS LEADING PLACE IN POWER WORLD

HAS FIFTEEN GREAT ELECTRIC SYSTEMS

Study of Development of Hydro Power in 1926 Reveals Interesting Facts.

It has become the custom in recent years to rate as "great electric power systems" those public utility systems, under one financial control and management, which have a total output of 100,000,000 kilowatt-hours, or more, per annum. Such systems are usually completely interconnected and may contain several power stations.

A recent study of such systems in Canada for the calendar year 1926 shows that the Dominion now possesses 15 systems of that class and, that the total output of these 15 systems, excluding duplication, represents about 62 per cent of the total output of the public utility or central station systems of Canada. The systems referred to in order of their total output during the year 1926 are :—

1. Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario.
2. Shawinigan Water & Power Co., Quebec.
3. Montreal Light, Heat & Power Consolidated, Quebec.
4. Canadian Niagara Power Co., Ontario.
5. Laurentide Power Co., Quebec.
6. West Kootenay Power Co., British Columbia.
7. British Columbia Electric Railway Co.
8. City of Winnipeg Hydro Electric System, Manitoba.
9. Winnipeg Electric Co., Manitoba.
10. Canada Northern Power Corporation, Ontario and Quebec.
11. Dominion Power and Transmission Co., Ontario.
12. Ottawa & Hull Power & Transmission Co., Quebec.
13. Duke-Price Power Co., Quebec.
14. Kaministiquia Power Co., Ontario.
15. Southern Canada Power Co., Quebec.

The annual output of each of these systems exceeds, and in many cases is a large multiple of, a hundred million kilowatt-hours per annum, and the first four systems in the list far exceed a thousand million kilowatt hours each.

The total output for 1926, excluding duplication due to purchased power, was nearly 10,000 million kilowatt-hours, the total installed plant, was over 3,300,000 horse-power of which over 96 per cent was water-power, and the mean and factor or degree of utilization was 60 per cent.

Modern practice in power supply is increasingly towards large interconnected systems, with their advantages of efficiency, economy, and reliability, and the above is obviously a very satisfactory showing. The question naturally presents itself, how does this compare with other countries? There is only one other country in the same class in this respect and that is our immediate neighbour. The United States, with a population twelve times as great as that of Canada, has naturally a much greater number of systems of the class under consideration, but it can be shown by statistics that Canada has a large lead both as to the number of such systems in proportion to population and as to the output from such systems per head of total population.

A wealthy tourist was passing through a dilapidated village in the Balkans with a dilapidated youth for a guide, when he saw an old beggar woman sitting at a church door.

"Ivan," said the tourist, "for every copper you give that old woman, I'll give her silver."

"Right," replied the guide, and emptied his pockets. The old woman received seventeen coins, and the tourist gave her seventeen pieces of silver.

"Now, which of us is the bigger fool?" he asked.

"You," said the guide.

"No," declared the other; "you gave her all you had."

"But," said the guide, "she's my mother."

"What a fine head your boy has!" said an admiring friend.

"Yes", replied the fond father, "he's a chip of the block—just like you, my boy?"

"Yes, father; teacher said yesterday that I was a young blockhead."

19cp CHRISTIE THOMPSON,

TURKISH CUSTOM.

Startling Publication Makes Liberal Use of All the Appurtenances.

The extravagance of railway travellers in the use of hand towels is registered in the housekeeping books of sleepers and parlor cars. It takes more than 9,000,000 pieces of linen to keep the 5,600 cars equipped, and almost half of these are hand towels. Every year almost 2,000,000 new ones must be purchased to replace those that wear out or "disappear from service."

Keeping up the Pullman linen supply is a considerable task. The twelve-section drawing-room car on a typical one night's run carries 200 hand towels, 160 sheets, 120 pillow slips and four porter's coats.

Four hundred linen carriers and checkers are employed to distribute and receive back the supplies. Every day 1,000,000 pieces are put into the wash. Two of the company's laundries wash an average of thirty tons of linen a day. When it comes from the ironing machines it is inspected, and pieces bearing stains are put aside for treatment.

There are eighteen sewing rooms, where a force of 100 seamstresses may repair as many as 500,00 damaged pieces a month.

The good parts of damaged sheets reappear as pillow slips and the good parts of damaged pillow slips as cooks' caps. Old headrests and tidies become dishtowels and worn tablecloths are cut up into napkins. If a porter's condemned coat has good sleeves they may be used on other coats or may be converted into bags; the backs of the coats become dishtowels.

CLOSED TO WOMEN.

Judicial Chambers of Law Courts In London Employ Men Only.

Women are taking up positions in almost every sphere of life hitherto monopolised by men, but there is one place in the heart of London where no woman is ever allowed.

This place is the judicial chambers in the law courts. The work is done by former soldiers and during the general clean-up preparatory to reopening of the courts, one of them told an enquirer "no woman is ever allowed to clean out a judge's room or his library or his court. Not likely."

Before the war, the thousands of rooms, and four and a half miles of corridors were kept clean by men only. During the war period a certain number of women were taken on, but these have been reduced to about twenty, and the rest of the work is divided between ninety male workers or ushers as they are called.

Even during the war period, women were not allowed to enter the sacred precincts of a judge's room, and the flowers in the vases, the curtains and other little domestic details were all done by the hand of male ushers.

COSTS BRITAIN NOTHING.

Offset to the Cost of the League of Nations.

Sir Arthur Haworth gave some striking figures about the relatively trifling cost of the League of Nations to Great Britain in the course of an address in Manchester recently. The annual British contribution, he said, apart from what was paid by the Dominions, was "about £100,000." In 1913 the country spent a similar sum in armaments "every 18 minutes."

The yearly upkeep of a single battle cruiser would pay the British contribution to the League more than four times over, and Geneva actually cost the country less than one regiment of infantry. The League's success in putting Austria on its feet again, he added, had the result that £2,000,000 owing to Great Britain, which until then had not been worth a snap of one's fingers, became a security the interest on which more than paid our total contribution to the League in perpetuity, so that our membership of the League actually cost us nothing."

"Summer Land."

Talk of newly discovered semi-tropical land in Northern British Columbia, which was said to be kept warm through the eruption of hot springs, was largely fiction, according to Mr. K. P. McCusker. Speaking of a recent survey he conducted in the northern stretches of the Pacific Coast Province, Mr. McCusker said he had found luxuriant meadows and prairie land and large stretches of open country, which he termed "summer land." It could not be classed as semi-tropical, however. The country abounded in game, goats, sheep, caribou and grizzly bear. Grass grew to such a height that it was clear no heavy snow fell during the winter.

More British Notables.

Britain's "Who's Who" for 1928 contains 34,000 biographies, 2,000 more than in the 1927 edition.

The volume, described by the publishers as "133 cubic inches of facts," is actually one-quarter inch thinner than last year's owing to a considerable reduction in the gauge of the paper.

Largest Map In the World.

The largest map in the world is in San Francisco. It cost $100,000, and took eighteen months to complete. It is 200 yards long and six yards wide, and shows the whole of California in relief.

Portland Cement.

Portland cement must be so fine that more than three-fourths of it will pass through a sieve of 40,000 holes per square inch—a sieve so fine that it holds water.

Property Insurance $10,000,000,000.

The value of property insured in London against fire exceeds ten billion dollars.

Soldier-farmers Prosperous.

Nearly 25,000 returned soldiers received loans from the Government under the land settlement act, and 1,051 already have repaid in full. That these soldier-farmers are in the main prospering is indicated in the fact that 85 per cent. of them met in full the payments due the Government in 1927.

The Dollar's Reach

There was a time when a dollar would buy a whole Sunday dinner for a family—including the inevitable chicken—and perhaps leave part of the dollar still in the customer's purse.

The Sunday chicken and the dollar are no longer "on speaking terms"—for the dollar has a shorter reach.

For this reason the customer must have greater care in the expenditure of his dollar—for if it will not purchase as much as it did aforetime—it must buy the most and best obtainable.

C. D. S. cash pricing, by keeping costs to a minimum, lowers the prices to the customer—increases the volume of sales, which, in turn, opens new sources of supply at the most favorable prices.

C. D. S. cash pricing comes to mean lower prices, better values, and widest choice.

C. D. S. cash pricing gives the dollar the longest reach.

WILL CURE DEAFNESS

London Surgeon Cuts a New Passage Behind the Eardrum of the Patient—Lets In Air.

A remarkable new operation for the cure of deafness, which it is claimed has had beneficial results in the majority of cases treated, has been performed by Mr. Vincent Nesfield, ophthalmic surgeon at the Queen's Hospital for Children, Hackney, says the London Express, which goes on:

He discovered the new method in India, when an old Sikh soldier threatened to starve himself to death if Mr. Nesfield did not do something to cure his deafness. Perforce Mr. Nesfield decided to perform a difficult piece of surgery, succeeded, and sent the Sikh home with his hearing fully restored.

Mr. Nesfield since then has performed the operation more than 200 times on people of all ages.

"The improvement in the hearing of many patients who have been deaf for thirty years has been astonishing," he writes in the London Lancet, and no case has ever been worse after the operation. In many the deafness has been arrested, while in the great majority the hearing has been greatly improved."

The operation consists briefly in cutting a new passage into the cavity of the middle ear behind the ear-drum.

Mr. Nesfield describes how he first performed the operation.

"One day," he writes, "I found in the cantonment hospital of Jubbulpore a fine old Sikh of sixty-five or more lying on the operating table. He refused to move until I had operated on him, as this was his lucky day. About a month previously I had extracted both his cataracts, and he believed that the cure of his deafness was an easy matter. I had many times refused to operate, explaining that the eye was on the surface and the organ of hearing hidden at the bottom of a long narrow canal embedded in the skull. It was these discussions that finally suggested to my mind the operation.

"He was very importunate, and had indulged taken an oath of starvation unless I operated, and so I asked the doctor babu to give him chloroform, and operated on both ears. The man made an excellent recovery, and went home both seeing and hearing. This brought me such a stream of similar sufferers that I did not know how to cope with them.

"I am almost astounded myself, sometimes, at the results, said Major Neafield. "I can say that in a certain number of cases, there have been wonderful cures; some are fair; none are worse than before the operation.

"My attention was first directed to the prevalence of the disease while I was in the Indian Medical Service in 1919. I had never seen so many deaf people.

"Deafness is due to the non-entry of air into the ear, through what is known as the eustachian tube, which runs from the throat to the middle ear.

"It is impossible to get to this organ, and if one tries to remove the obstruction by blowing through the tube it only sends the substance into a "cul-de-sac." Therefore it occurred to me to make what one might call an additional tube from the external ear around to the middle ear.

"This gives the person an air inlet which goes to the middle ear. This is a delicate operation and entails a great physical effort on the surgeon.

"I use a local anaesthetic and chloroform and the operation takes about half an hour. So far as I can make out this is the only definite attempt that has been made in the history of medicine and surgery in this country to produce hearing."

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Sores Heal Quickly.—Have you a persistent sore that refuses to heal? Then, try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the dressing. It will stop sloughing, carry away the proud flesh, draw out the pus and promote a clean way for the new skin. It is a recognized healer among oils and numbers of people can certify that it healed where properly applied.

She—"He calls himself a gentleman farmer."

He—"Oh, and what does he go in for?"

She—"Wild oats, principally."

For Sprains and Bruises.—There is nothing better for sprains and contusions than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It will reduce the swelling that follows a sprain, will cool the inflamed flesh and draw the pain. It will take the ache out of a bruise by counteracting the inflammation. A trial will convince any who doubt its power.

Judge—"You say that this man robbed you—can you recognize anything of yours here?"

Plaintiff—"Yes, this handkerchief."

Judge—"But that is no proof — I have one exactly like it."

Plaintiff—"Yes, your honor; I was robbed of two."

It will penetrate to the smallest bronchial passage and bring about a healthy condition. It always relieves and its continued use often has a permanent effect. Why not get this long-famous remedy to-day and commence its use? Inhaled as smoke or vapor it is equally effective.

General—"Confound you, sir, why don't you be careful?"

Army Clerk—"What do you mean, sir?"

General—"Why, instead of addressing this letter to the Intelligence Officer, you have addressed it to the Intelligent Officer. You should know there is no such person in the Army.

Proprietor—"We have a sliding scale."

Mr. Solomon went for a tram ride one day, and had to stand up. Presently a passenger got in, and the conductor shouted:

"Will you move up a bit, please?"

"Certainly, with pleasure," said Mr. Solomon.

This happened again and again, until he reached the end of the car. Then the conductor came up for his fare.

"Vat," cried Solomon, "you want my fare? Vi. I've walked all the way."

Many people are almost crippled with corns. But it is needless suffering which can be speedily ended with Holloway's Corn Remover.

An excellent protection against worms can be got in Miller's Worm Powders. They render the stomach and intestines untenable to them. They heal the surfaces that have become inflamed by the attacks of the parasites and serve to increase the strength of the child that has been undermined by the draughts that the worms have made upon it, and the their operation is altogether healthgiving.

Flooding the Sahara.

In a recent issue we described a "Ship of the Desert," says Tit-Bits, an immense motor-car shaped like a ship with which it was hoped to make crossing deserts a pleasure.

Now it is possible that real ships—liners and battleships—may one day sail into the heart of the Sahara Desert, if the project of Dr. John Ball, director of the Egyptian Desert Survey, is found practicable. He proposes to create a vast inland sea by flooding an area many thousands of square miles in extent west of the Siwa Oasis, which he has found to be all below sea-level. This could be done by cutting a canal from the Mediterranean.

As this sea would probably cause a heavier rainfall in Western Egypt and the adjoining desert, it would make present arid wastes capable of supporting a large population.

To Keep Algerians at Home.

Keeping the home fires burning and teaching the Algerians to work around them is being developed as a settled policy by the French colonial authorities.

It is called the policy of the "spinning wheel." It is intended to keep at home the thousands of Algerians who have been drifting to France, where they worked under material and moral disadvantages, living often in miserable circumstances and being exploited and corrupted by bad leaders.

"PINKHAM'S COMPOUND IS WONDERFUL"

Read This Letter from a Grateful Woman

Vanessa, Ont.—"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is wonderful. I have had six children of which four are living and my youngest is a bonnie baby boy now eight months old who weighs 23 pounds. I have taken your medicine before each of them was born and have certainly received great benefit from it. I urge my friends to take it as I am sure they will receive the same help I did."—Mrs. MILTON McMULLEN, Vanessa, Ontario.

WILTON

On Thursday evening, May 3rd, the members of two Young People's Bible Classes of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. Stover, and spent a very pleasant evening in contests and games. They regret very much that one of their members, Miss Dorothy Nelson, is very soon to leave Wilton to make her home in Walkerville, and they took this opportunity of presenting her with a leather writing case, as a slight token of their esteem.

The presentation was made by Miss Rhoda Connors, and the following is the address read by Miss Arthurena Fulton:

Dear Dorothy,—We are met together for probably our last social evening before you leave for your new home. We shall never forget you for you have been a well-loved member of our Sunday School class, "The Pals", and you have been to us a true pal, whom we shall always remember as a willing helper in all the activities of the class, and best of all, a jolly and true friend.

We all join in wishing you success and happiness in your new home, and though we are very sorry to see you leave our group, we are the richer for having known you, and hope you will remember us when you use this little gift which your class pals present in token of their love for you.

Signed by Young People's Class.

In very well chosen words Miss Nelson thanked the class.

ENTERPRISE

The monthly meeting of the Enterprise Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Walter Fenwick, on Friday, April 27th. The coming convention at Croydon was discussed and plans made to give the help required.

Our lady speaker is to be with us on the 18th May, and arrangements were made for her entertainment at the home of Mrs. A. Jackson.

It was suggested that the Institute tender a vote of thanks to Mr. H. W. Wagar for his kindness in arranging the brass plate over the new clock in the Community Hall, for which he would accept no remuneration. This met with the approval of the members and was duly carried out.

The meeting was much enlivened by the telling and reading of cheerful stories in answer to the roll call.

A highly interesting paper was given by Mrs. (Rev.) Bunt, the subject being "Be a Sport, and Live a Life Worth While." A true sport being one who plays the game according to its rules, playing hard and fair, and using defeat, when it comes, as an incentive to greater effort. The moral standard and ideals of such a one are of the highest and best, the whole life being taken as a game, played according to rules, to which he tries to measure up. He also seeks the welfare of others instead of thinking only of his own selfish plans and pleasures, giving time talent and energy to his own community, and looking beyond that, his own country may become the best possible. The inspiration of the life of a true sport comes only from one source,—loyalty to Jesus of Nazareth.

Lunch was served, and the meeting closed as usual.

MOSCOW

The weather has moderated, and the farmers are busy on the land.—Rev. R. Merriam had the service on Sunday last, and his discourse was much enjoyed by the congregation. — Mr. Bertine, of Harrowsmith, has moved on Mr. A. Mr. Foster returned home with her on Friday.—Mrs. Johnson, a former resident, visited at Mr. H. Benn's for a few days.—Mr. Edgar Drew is putting a tin roof on his store.—Arbor Day was celebrated in the usual way, teachers and pupils enjoying an outing to the lakes. —Mr. R. Asselstine and Miss Card spent last Tuesday evening at Colebrook and Bethel.

MY MOTHER !

How shall I tell you, mother mine,
How dear you are to me;
How truly does each word of thine,
Confirm my love for thee.
I've been pondering o'er the happy years,
Your love and care the while—
Your toil, your sacrifice and tears,
Concealed beneath a smile.

Your tender love has guided me,
In paths of truth and right—
By your sweet counsel teaching me
To always do the right.
My life, my talents, all I am,
I owe to one whose love
Shall be my inspiration
From earth to Heaven above.

I would not dare to grieve thee,
The flower of my heart;
Your happiness is more to me
Than the wealth of any mart.
If I can always live my life,
Dear little "Mother o' mine";
Amid the sorrow, toil and strife
As sweet and pure as thine.

And by sweet communion at the feet
Of Christ the Crucified,
Lead me wandering ones I meet,
To His precious bleeding side;
Will not this suffice in part,
For the hours of pleading prayer,
For the child whose happy heart
Knew no sorrow nor a care.

God bless you, darling mother !
God grant you many days,
And keep you, guard you, guide you,
O'er all life's weary ways;
If ever I have caused you care,
I pray there'll be no other;
My great desire, my earnest prayer,
"God make me worthy of my mother."

A gentleman, whose suburban home abuts on to a football ground, was much annoyed one Sunday morning to hear sounds of rugby strife emanating from the field. Holding strong ideas on the subject of Sunday observance the stout citizen went on to the field and addressed the players, saying: "If you don't stop that game and go away I shall be compelled to send for the policeman." There was a moment's silence and then one of the players spoke up politely: "I hope you won't do that, Sir. He's just scored a very pretty try for us."

SAYS — NOW STIFF JOINTS MUST GO!

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.

Yes; it's true—the world progresses. All you have to do nowadays to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint is to squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy.

Then read the evening newspapers and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its "creak" while you are dreaming about the high fences you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "You'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint-Ease ! They call this wonder working substance, for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber the stiff inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean, painless prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale is immense.

Wallace's Drug Store has a big supply, of it and druggists everywhere report a big demand.

ONTARIO BOYS IN U. S.

About five hundred Canadian Americans assembled as guests of Delaware Baptist Church, Syracuse, N.Y., on Sunday night, April 22nd, for an all Canadian service.

Mr. C. S. Sprague, formerly of Picton, was chairman of the committee on arrangements, and presented the speakers.

Rev. Harry Reddick, formerly of Picton, read the Scripture lesson. Rev. John Webster, Ottawa, offered the evening prayer.

The principal speaker was Rev. C. C. Roszell, D.D., formerly of Hamilton. He delivered a marvelous address on the subject, "Canada's Gift to the U. S. A.".

After the regular service the visitors were invited to the Bible School auditorium for light refreshments.

Scripture reading, the 28th chapter of Matthew was read by Mrs. E. Price. Short readings by Mrs. B. Russell, Mrs. W. Bell, Mrs. B. Kimmerly and Mrs. W. Anderson. Hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers". Collection, $1.65. Responsive reading on "The Earth is the Lord's", a stewardship of worship. Twenty-one members were present, two new members joining. Closing hymn, "Oh Master, Let Me Walk With Thee".

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Price. It will be a sewing bee for the missionary box.

Mrs. Kimmerly served nuts and candy at the close of the meeting.

2-A CLASS HONORS BALL'S MEMORY

In memory of Gerald Ball, whose sad death last month was a keen sorrow to the young men of tht 2-A class of the Presbyterian Sunday School, the members motored to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Trotter, on Friday evening, to spend the twenty-fifth birthday anniversary of their late comrade with his parents.

The evening was spent with conversation. Mr. Trotter entertaining the class with many stories of Canadian life.

At a late hour refreshments of sandwiches, fruit and coffee were served by Mrs. Trotter, who in bidding her guests good night, expressed her appreciation of the fine spirit of the class and loyalty to the memory of her son.—Auburndale Pa. News, April 16th, 1928.

PROFESSOR MacARTHUR ON RUSSIA

FINAL MEETING OF THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

On Friday last the Historical Society was addressed by Professor MacArthur, who gave an illuminating account of the causes of present day situation in Russia. Professor MacArthur described in broad outline the three revolutions that have taken place in that country since the beginning of the present century, that of 1905, March, 1917, and November, 1917. He showed that the first two of these were purely political and attempted to gain for the serfs a measure of freedom from the oppression of Czardom, and a voice in the government of the country. He told of the calling of the Dumas and the promises of the Czar to meet the needs of the people. He recounted the reasons for their failure. The third revolution which is being watched with so much concern and interest by the rest of the world, the speaker pointed out was economic in its conception and aims, and attempted to throw overboard the system of capital and labor which dominated the political and economic life of all modern nations. Since the beginning of the century the nation had come from a dictatorship, through a democracy, and was now back into a dictatorship. The only difference was that the dictators had changed hands.

Summing it all up the lecturer maintained that the situation in Russia was most interesting to the student, and fraught with great possibilities. And as it was the greatest experiment in Government ever made, it should be carefully observed by all who are interested in the welfare of people.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles Salisbury.

The death occurred in Barton, Vt., on Thursday, May 3rd, of Isabella Holmes, wife of the late Charles Salisbury, Napanee. Deceased had been an invalid for two years prior to her death.

She leaves to mourn her loss four children, the Rev. C. C. Salisbury, Barton, Vt., with whom she resided; Mrs. Clarence Bulton, Granville, N.Y.; Mrs. J. H. Newell, Sarnia, Ont., and Mrs. J. A. Gilleland, Watford, Ont.

Rev. Mr. Salisbury accompanied the remains to Napanee, where interment was made in Riverside cemetery, Napanee. Mrs. J. H. Newell, of Sarnia, attended the funeral.

DAN McCOWAN VISITS NAPANEE

The name of Dan McCowan has become a very familiar one to people in the far Western Canada, and is now known to some folks in the East through his recent visit.

Last Friday night the people of Napanee heard him in Wonderland Theatre, under the auspices of Grace United Church Women's Missionary Society. He describes himself as "a naturalist in the Rockies", who has made a study of plant and animal life in the Rocky Mountains. In making this study, Dan McCowan has taken over ten thousand photographs, many of which have been accomplished at great risk to life and limb, and as a result of almost infinite patience and care. It was some of these wonderful pictures and their story, and the description of the scenes and birds and animals portrayed that were seen last Friday night. Mr. McCowan is a very interesting speaker, being endowed with Irish humour and turn of speech. Everybody's attention was held to the end of the lecture.

If Dan McCowan should visit Napanee again, he will be assured of a fine audience.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Harold Sweet.

A deep gloom was cast over the whole community, when the wife of Harold Sweet, nee Clara Cook, passed away, after a brief illness, in the General Hospital, Kingston.

All that medical skill and loving hands could do was of no avail, and she entered into rest at four o'clock on the afternoon of April 14th, at the early age of thirty-six years.

Deceased was a woman of sterling quality, bright and cheery in her home, a loving wife and mother, beloved by all who knew her; and while her body was racked with pain, her mind was on the higher things of life, and often her voice would raise in song and prayer.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, including a large wreath from Ontario Motor Works of Oshawa, where the deceased's brothers are employed, and many others from friends, showing the high esteem in which she was held.

The funeral service was held in Sclby United Church, conducted by her Pastor, Rev. Mr. Olliver, of Roblin. A large concourse of friends followed the remains to Camden V. cemetery, where she was laid to rest, to wait the great resurrection morn.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and two small sons; also her mother, Mrs. A. Cook, one sister, Mrs. L. Heyman, Kingston, and four brothers, Grant, of Selby; Earl, Morley, and Murray of Oshawa. Her father predeceased her several years ago.

JUNIOR WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The May meeting of the Junior Women's Institute was held in the Agricultural Class Room, on May 2nd, 1928. The President, Miss Helen Allenbrack, presided. The meeting opened by singing the Ode. The members then responded to the roll call by "Hints for House Cleaning", after which the minutes of the last meeting were read. This meeting took the place of "Mother's Day", which brought a number of the girls' mothers and visitors. Reports were given from different committees, and the girls could see that there was plenty of work to be done. Our President was appointed as delegate to the District Annual to be held in June, at Odessa. We were very much favoured by having Mrs. R. G. Gilbride with us, who indeed gave us a very interesting paper on "Our Grandmothers", in which she told us of some of her pioneer experiences, which was very interesting. Our Current Events reporter, Mrs. Jas. Haggerty, then gave a very newsy paper on what was happening in the surrounding countries. The collection was then taken, which amounted to $1.80, after which the meeting closed by singing "God Save the King".

A dainty lunch was then served by Miss Helen Allenbrack, assisted by Mrs. J. Laughland, and a social half hour was enjoyed.

ORDER OF KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

Figures of Founders Lie In London's Most Peaceful Church—Were Shamefully Persecuted.

A league of mercy whose members abstained from all luxuries and worldly pleasures and made solemn vows of chastity, poverty, and obedience, only to be tortured and despoiled by a crafty French king, is recalled by the recumbent figures of nine Knights Templar hidden away in London's most peaceful church.

It was in 1119 that two crusaders, Hugh de Payens and Geoffry of St. Omer, both comrades of Godfrey de Boullion, founded, with seven others, the Order of Knights Templar, their object being the protection from the Saracens of helpless pilgrims to holy places.

King Baldwin II. gave them housing in his palace, which was built on the site of Solomon's temple, and thus the ancient Order obtained its title. The original seal showed the temple, but this was altered to a single horse bearing two riders — a Templar and a pilgrim. Their history is a tale of blood, and never were lives more gloriously thrown away in a hopeless cause. Yet their numbers increased until there were 20,000 in the middle thirteenth century.

It was Philip the Fair, King of France, who proved their implacable enemy, striving to fill his depleted coffers with the wealth the knights were said to possess. The Grand Master and 140 knights were nuns into jail and confessions wrung from them under torture more infamous than the worst practices of the Inquisition. The persecution continued until, in 1314, the Grand Master, roasting slowly on an island in the Seine, called on King and Pope to meet him at the bar of the Almighty within a year. Both died within the appointed time.

To perpetuate the memory of the order there still remain to us the three round churches of Cambridge, Northampton, and Little Maplestead, in Essex, as well as the Temple Church in London. In an attractive booklet, "Legacy of the Nine Knights," the historic buildings of the Temple are described in detail.

From the early thirteenth century, says an article in Tit-Bits, a chain marked the City boundary, until the first stone gateway was erected in 1553. After the Great Fire, its successor was built by Wren, the heads of traitors and felons being displayed on spikes until 1776. The gate was removed in 1878, the present "griffin" marking the site, and it is here that the sovereign, entering the City, still receives the keys from the Lord Mayor.

It is when we pass within the Norman gateway of the Temple Church that we realize its old-world associations, for here the Knights of the Nine Templars sleep on.

Outside Fountain Court, it seems that Dickens is with us still, and an unpretentious stone in the churchyard takes us back to Goldsmith.

At the south end of the cloisters we still see wizened old shop that has stood 400 years. In the Middle Temple we are reminded of the fire of 1678, when water was practicable owing to severe frost, and the squirts were charged with beer.

Middle Temple Hall, built in 1572, is a treasure house of antiquities where, we are told, Shakespeare himself appeared in "Twelfth Night."

Britain's Tallest Chimney.

The highest chimney in Great Britain is to be pulled down. It is "Townsend Stalk," in Glasgow, built seventy years ago to carry off the fumes from a big chemical works.

Containing 1,300,000 bricks, and standing 488 feet high, it was the highest structure in the world except the Pyramids, the spires of Strasbourg Cathedral, and St. Stephen's, Vienna. In 1852, a chimney thirty feet higher was built in Montana, United States.

Townsend's was finished in 1857, and was opened to visitors. Despite the crinoline fashion, women made the ascent in order to enjoy the view, which included Leith, Lomond, Edinburgh, and the Ayrshire coast. Women had to tie their skirts to their ankles during the descent.

May Tan With Karri Bark.

Research is being carried out in connection with the making of extracts from the bark of the karri, and possibly other barks, for the use of tanners in Australia.

Wood distillation has already become an important factor in Australia's industry. A big and prosperous business is in operation in Perth for the distillation of sandalwood. A tanning plant has also been established in another part of the state.

Agar-Agar.

Agar-agar is the name of a gelatinous substance obtained from Ceylon moss and similar seaweeds. The name is of Malay origin. Agar-agar is used in soups and jellies, and in the artificial cultivation of bacteria. It is also used in the Orient as a glue and to render silk and paper transparent.

RECEPTION

On Wednesday afternoon, between the hours of four and six, Miss Grace Boyes was the hostess at a very pretty arranged reception for Miss Helen Wallace, whose wedding will take place early in June. Mrs. Wallace, Miss Wallace and Miss Boyes received with Mrs. Boyes, who looked charming in a charming costume of black taffeta and tulle, with a black hat faced with pastel shades. She carried an old-fashioned nose-gay of sweet peas and tulips, presented to her by her hostess, who wore a becoming frock of beige with touches of rose. Bowls of pink roses and tulips gave touches of color in the reception room.

Tea was served in the dining room, where spring blossoms of gold and mauve were used. Mauve hyacinths and daffodils were arranged about the room, and the tea table presented a pretty picture with its silver basket of mauve tulips, yellow iris, and feathery hellotrope with a golden butterfly on each tulle bow on the handle. Silver vases held mauve sweet peas, while mauve butterflies of tulle and love-me-not ribbon were fastened to the corners of the table. Cakes, bon-bons and ices were all chosen to match the color scheme. About eighty guests attended the reception.

Mrs. Boyes, Daly poured tea and Mrs. J. Geale Daly dished the ice cream. The following young ladies assisted in serving:—the Misses Dorothy Davernia, Helen Grange, Katherine Gleeson, Marjorie Gibbard, Mona Graham, and Eileen Harrison. Mrs. Jack Adams invited the guests out to the tea room, and Mrs. Ernest Smith and Mrs. Harry Steacy sang appropriate songs during the afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. J. Ernest Madden.

ODESSA

Arbor Day proved to be a delightful one, and the Public School pupils enjoyed very much the all day outing. The forenoon was spent in cleaning and beautifying their fine school grounds, and in the afternoon the teachers, Miss Leatherland and Mrs. Haggard, dispensed their classes to nearby woods to gather flowers, and have a real rest in the open.

A wedding of much interest was solemnized recently in Wyandotte, Michigan, when Miss Marion Payne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Farr, a former resident of here, and Bruce Blaine Cairns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cairns, were united. They are now making their home in Wyandotte, and we take with them every success and happiness.

The Odessa Baseball boys held a social dance in the Town Hall, on Friday night, with a fair attendance. The music was furnished by the Wagar Orchestra, Napanee.

The many friends of Mr. Albert Hartman were sorry to hear that he met with quite a serious accident while working in the saw mill. His hand caught in the saw, and it was found necessary to amputate his thumb. He was taken to the Kingston General Hospital.

Mrs. John Mancur returned Sunday from spending the past winter with her sister, Mrs. W. R. Lee, Toronto.

Mrs. James Hillier has returned from spending the past winter with her son, Frederick Hillier, Peterboro'.

Miss Hazel Hollenbeck, who has been spending a couple of weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. Sheldon Hawley, has returned to Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Lewis Snider has returned from spending a few days in Napanee.

Mrs. Charley Timmerman is visiting her brother, Samuel Winter, Yarker.

Mrs. (Dr.) H. E. Day, of Kingston, spent Wednesday with her sister, Mrs. Robert Cairns.

Mother's Day was observed in a very impressive manner in the United Church, the sloquent address being delivered by the Pastor, Rev. G. McCready, and the Choir leader, Mr. H. J. Smith, put forth every effort to have extra music and hymns suitable for the occasion.

The Marathon Gas Co. has purchased the service stations from W. R. Lake, and are building a fine brick building, with three gas tanks and all other accommodations.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Taylor, of Cobourg, and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. McGowan, Kingston, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Snider.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Donegan and daughter, Miss Muriel Hamilton, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Stork.

Mrs. James McConnell passed away last Saturday afternoon at the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, after a long and serious illness, which started from a fall last September. The funeral was held in the R. C. Church on Monday morning, and interment took place in the family plot by the side of her husband, who predeceased her about fifteen years. To mourn her loss are two daughters, Mrs. (Dr.) Syracuse, and Mrs. Chas. Dewey, Newburgh, and one son, Daniel, on the homestead. There are also seven grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Dowling, Glenburnie, and one brother, Robert Clancy, Kingston. The funeral was in charge of Rev. Father Shehew, Rev. Father Clancy, of Regiopolis College, Kingston. The pall bearers were H. J. Smith, Marcus Fraser, John Kenny, Donald Thompson, Joseph Lawlor and Bernard King.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society was held in the Sunday School room on Wednesday afternoon with eighteen members and six visitors present. The meeting was opened by the President in the usual way, followed by roll call and scripture lesson. It was moved by Mrs. J. H. Babcock and seconded by Mrs. Arthur Fraser, that Mrs. E. A. Wright and Mrs. Courtland Snider be appointed as a committee to see the Rotary Club to arrange for a supper. Mrs. H. Babcock gave a very interesting reading. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Alvin Snider. The collection amounted to $2.75.

TAMWORTH

A service attended by the Oddfellows of Tamworth will be held in the United Church on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. I. N. Mumford will preach and conduct the service. The Oddfellows will meet with the members of the lodge in connection with this service, the regular evening service being withdrawn. Refreshments at Maribank and Reidville morning and evening. The United Church is to hold anniversary services in the near future, probably June 17th next, with Rev. Mr. Parsons, of Napanee, as special preacher. An entertainment and interesting character will be held on Friday evening, commencing the anniversary day. A reception was held by the Wardens of the Anglican Church in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening for Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, lately returned from Winnipeg, following their marriage. Several speakers referred most kindly to the home-coming of the Rev. Mr. Morgan, and paid tribute to the character and capacity of the new Rector. Mr. Morgan replied in happy vein. Refreshments were tastefully served by the ladies of the Anglican congregation.—Floyd's & Co. have improved the interior of their store with a coat of paint.—See their ad. this week. Mrs. Hartle made-to-order at Floyd's for $22.00.

Phil. 4 : 19: But my God shall supply all your needs through His riches in Christ Jesus.

At the Branch meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference, W.M.S., Miss H. M. Paul and Mrs. Rev. Anderson were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dr. H. A. Nesbitt. Mr. Nesbitt is a son of a former Principal of the Newburgh High School and the doctor still takes a lively interest in the school, also inquired concerning many former friends.

We are sorry to lose Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lockwood, who, this week, are moving to their new home in Brighton. The friends of the village made up a purse and presented it to Mr. Lockwood as a member of the Board of Trustees of the United Church, and for several years the secretary of that board; also a member of the Village Council. We are sure no other place will ever be to you just as much home as Newburgh. But time works changes whether we wish them or not. Now you are about to leave the village to take up your residence in Brighton, and sorry as we are to part, we hope it will be for your best interests, and we assure you both our very best wishes go with you, and sincerely trust that you may enjoy your new home, and find success and prosperity in your business venture. As an expression of our good will and kindly regards, we ask you to accept the following and to your tended it is an inadequate expression of both our regret at your removal, and our best wishes for your welfare in the future.

From the friends of the Village of Newburgh. Signed.

MRS. CELIA J. QUAIL.
MRS. LULU WAGER.
MRS. M. VANDERVOORT.

After the presentation was made by Mrs. Quail, both Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood replied in a few words their sincere appreciation of the kindness of the friends, and desired the Rev. Mr. Anderson to express through The Beaver their thanks to the friends for their very kindly remembrance, and GRETNA AND ANDERSON W. M. S.

The W. M. S. of Gretna and Anderson met at the home of Mrs. Amos Hambly, on Thursday afternoon, May 10th. There was a good attendance and much appointment. The monthly programme entitled "The Beauty in the Lord's", was carried out, led by President, Mrs. E. Alkenbrack. Mrs. W. Joyce read an account of Dr. Florence Murray's address, which was given in St. Andrew's Church, Napanee. Two interesting missionary readings were given by Mrs. Dean and Mrs. R. L. Card. These were followed by three short readings on "The Stewardship of Life". An interesting feature of the meeting was a dramatica of twenty-five dollars by Mrs. Arch Parks, thereby making herself a life Member. The meeting closed by the few sentence prayers and the Mizpah repeated in unison. Mrs. Hambly served the ladies with a dainty lunch.

assure them that "old acquaintance" will not be forgotten.

Miss Jean King, Port Worker at Montreal, under the Strangers' Department of the W. M. S. of the United Church of Canada, writes:—"Not long ago a Polish mother died shortly after she landed in this country. A little daughter, fourteen years old, with two fat braids of hair, took care of the baby. Everyone wanted to help, and when she left for Winnipeg she had quite an escort down to the train. All the Scotch girls and many other newcomers wanted to carry the baby. Arrangements were made with the steward that the baby should be kept warm, and that the little girl be fed, as it was impossible for her to leave the baby. These are friends, none well off, and some really poor, but they two were emigrants and had a long way to go, supplied thirty dollars to send the little girl north in comfort. How one longed to follow them to the new home. Will folks be neighbourly there? Let us help the little sisters everywhere."

DENBIGH

In the death of Mr. K. G. Adams, merchant, Denbigh has lost one of its most popular and congenial citizens. Mr. Adams' illness began several months ago, and although he spent some time on two different occasions in the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, it became apparent his trouble was incurable. Notwithstanding everything was done possible for his recovery, he passed away in the hospital on Wednesday morning, May 2nd, 1928, at the age of fifty-six. Although his death was not unexpected, a deep regret was felt throughout the whole community. Mr. Adams was born in Germany and lived in Berlin until he came to Canada and settled on a farm near Denbigh at the age of twenty-six. Later on Mr. Adams married Miss Margaret Greer, and from this union one child was born, now Mrs. Lorne Thompson, who with her husband and baby are residing with Mrs. Adams. Subsequent to their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Adams removed to the village and started a store. They finally purchased the general store of Mr. Ethel Rebee, and have since conducted a successful business. For eight years and up to the time of his death he was a careful and popular member of the Municipal Council. Several times he headed the polls and was frequently urged to stand for the Reeveship but declined the honor. In politics he was a Liberal in the best sense of that term. He was highly esteemed and won a host of friends by his cheerful, jovial, and kindly disposition. He was a faithful member of the local Lutheran church, and will be greatly missed not only by his own family but by the entire community. Just previous to passing away he expressed his desires relative to the funeral services and burial to Mrs. Adams, who was at his bedside when he died, and who faithfully administered to every need all through his long period of sickness. The services were held in the United Church, and burial took place in the United Church cemetery, according to his wishes. Rev. P. A. Scott, Ph.B., officiated, preaching from the text 2 Timothy 4-7. Had Mr. Adams lived, they would have observed the 25th wedding anniversary on the 25th of June, but it was otherwise ordered. Mrs. Adams, one daughter, Mrs. Lorne Thompson, and one sister, Mrs. Paul Stein, with other relatives, are left to mourn his death. To them the deepest sympathy of all is extended.—Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Green, on May 3rd, 1928, a bright baby boy. — Mr. Jas. Slater assumed his duties as mail man from Denbigh to Cloyne, on Wednesday, in the place of Mr. Rahm, deceased.—Mr. Charley McLeod, of Napanee, was doing business with the Denbigh merchants on Thursday. — The much needed road work has begun and all concerned are very glad.

New Strength For All Weak Girls

Comes From the Rich, Red Blood Made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

There must be no guesswork in the treatment of pale, anaemic girls and children. If your daughter is languid, has a pale, sallow complexion, is short of breath after slight exertion or on going up stairs, if she has palpitation of the heart, a poor appetite, or a tendency to faint, she has anaemia — the medical name for poverty of the blood. Any delay in treatment may leave her weak and sickly for the rest of her life. When the blood is thin and watery give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, coupled with nourishing food and gentle out-of-door exercise. The new, life-giving blood which comes from a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, increases the appetite, stimulates the nerves and brings a glow of health to pale cheeks. Mrs. Robert Jackson, R.R. No. 8, Sherbrooke, Ont., praises this medicine for restoring her daughter's health. She says:—"When my daughter was nine years old she was so weak and thin that we feared we would lose her. She was very nervous, and going to school seemed too much for her. Often she would have to stay at home for days at a time. At times she would have a very high fever, and the doctor's treatment did not help her. I tried several remedies, but with no good results. One day a friend advised me to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I did so. It was not very long after she began taking the pills that I could see a change for the better. She kept on taking the pills for several months, and through them grew into a strong, healthy girl. Since then, if a tonic has been needed at any time, it has always been Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

W. Baker's, on Sunday.—A mad dog is said to be in this neighbourhood on Monday. Fortunately, no one was bothered by it.

RECORD OF PERFORMANCE FOR POULTRY

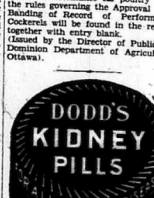
Last year 252 breeders entered 32,173 birds in the Canadian Record of Performance for Poultry. This is one of the most progressive policies of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, inaugurated in the fall of 1919 for the purpose of stimulating the production of pedigreed poultry, and providing a source of high producing females from which might be made available male birds of known breeding for the improvement of poultry flocks on Canadian farms.

Of the 32,178 birds entered 31,429 were banded by R. O. P. inspectors and commenced their year. Of these 3,242 or 10.3 per cent laid 225 eggs or more during the year, eggs averaging two ounces or better, thus securing advanced R. O. P. certificates. Of the remainder 9,044 birds or 28.6 per cent secured the R. O. P. certificate indicating they laid over 150 eggs and under 225, these averaging 2 ounces or better.

From a provincial standpoint British Columbia with the largest entry, 14,536 birds, had 32 per cent secure R. O. P. and 14.2 per cent the advanced R. O. P. certificates. It is interesting to note that the mortality at 6 per cent for this province was the lowest recorded. Ontario with an entry of 10,161 had 23 per cent quality for R. O. P. and 5.8 per cent for advanced certificates. In this province the mortality was 8.3 per cent.

Of the 11,095 falling to quality 7,080 or 22.5 per cent could not reach the minimum egg qualification of 150 eggs, and 4,015 or 12.8 per cent did not lay eggs of sufficient weight.

The eighth annual report of the Record of Performance for Pure-bred Poultry contains the names and addresses of the breeders entered, and all particulars regarding their flocks. Those interested may secure copies from the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. The Rules and Regulations governing Record of Performance for poultry and the Banding of Record of Performance Cockerels will be found in the report, together with other matter, (Issued by the Director of Publicity, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa).



TREAT YOUR SEED POTATOES

(Experimental Farms Note)

Now that the great success of the Certified Seed potato industry in 1927 is history, the country is settling down to consider seriously the problem of producing a crop in 1928 which will maintain the high standard for which Certified Seed is famous. Those whose interests centre on the stability of this industry, especially the growers upon whom the burden of responsibility rests, can expect no direct any practices known to be unprofitable in the past. Failure of our seed to meet the demands of an exceedingly critical market will ruin the industry. Seed treatment is one of the requirements which must be met. Guarantee that seed has been treated is one of the best assurances of a ready market for the crop. Certain potato diseases, while relatively insignificant to us, thrive in other districts, and do much to remove the popularity enjoyed by our seed.

There exists a mistaken idea that the bi-chloride method of treating seed potatoes fails to achieve its purpose. Investigations carried on for a period of three years at the Field Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Charlottetown, do not support this statement. However, the findings show how entirely useless the treatment is when prescribed instructions are not followed carefully. Other chemicals have been tested, and have been found to compare favourably with bi-chloride, but on account of tariff they are costly.

The bi-chloride treatment consists in soaking seed potatoes for 1½ hours in a solution composed of 4 ounces of bi-chloride of mercury in 25 gallons of water. After each lot of four bushels has been soaked, ½ ounce of bi-chloride is dissolved in 1 quart of hot water, and added to the original solution and water added to replace any loss. This is necessary to maintain the strength of the solution. In the past it has been customary to treat as many as eight lots, adding an extra ½ ounce of bi-chloride after each soak. It has been demonstrated that the solution has no killing effect on the resting form of rhizoctonia (the Sclerotia) on the seed tuber if used eight times, and, even where the necessary precautions have been observed, it is advisable to discard the solution when three lots of potatoes have been treated. Certain precautions will prevent deterioration and render seed treatment more valuable. These are as follows :—

1. Dissolve the bi-chloride in not less than one gallon of boiling hot water.
2. Wash the potatoes before treatment to remove dirt. (This is very important)
3. Have two clean casks with drain plugs at the bottom. When one soak is complete drain the solution into the second cask and clean the sediment out of the first. Use these casks alternately throughout treatment.
4. Dissolve all bi-chloride in boiling hot water.
5. When 12 to 16 bushels of potatoes have been treated make up a new solution.
6. Do not treat in bags.
7. If possible use rain water, or water known to be soft.
8. After treating put seed in a clean place to dry quickly.
9. If weather does not permit rapid drying, wash the tubers off with water immediately after treatment.

Caution.

Bi-chloride of mercury will corrode metals. Use wooden, glass, or earthenware vessels.

Treated potatoes are poisonous and must not be used for the table or be fed to stock.

Treat your seed potatoes and further protect the industry, which has been built on quality produce.

Communications addressed to the Division of Botany, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will be given prompt and careful consideration.

Ontario Blacksmith More Than Grateful

He Used Dodd's Kidney Pills For His Backache

Mr. E. Symens Strongly Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills to Those Who Suffer With Their Kidneys

South River, Ont., May 17th, 1928. (Special)—If you have taken your Dodd's Kidney Pills for quite a while," states Mr. E. Symons, a well-known resident here, who is also a blacksmith and has been troubled with backache. "I got so bad I could not work under them. I took three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am now able to do my work again. I am still taking them and always keep a box in the medicine chest. I can't say too much for what they have done for me, and am very grateful that such a good kidney medicine is so easy to obtain."

Your health, strength and vitality depend upon the condition of your blood, for it is through the blood that every part of your body is nourished and built up. To enjoy good health the blood must be kept pure.

Let Dodd's Kidney Pills do this work for you.

ANNOUNCING A REMARKABLE NEW BUILDING MATERIAL

INSUL-BOARD
(INSULATING BOARD)

A Board that shuts out cold. Stops heat. Deadens sound. An extraordinary building and insulating Board designed to make home interiors more comfortable, more restful and more healthful the whole year through. An All-Canadian Board, made in Canada from the products of Canada's Forests.

INSUL-BOARD meets the need for a stouter and more rugged material for wall and ceiling insulation. Its greater structural strength has been proven under critical tests by Canada's leading engineers. It makes the walls more rigid, more enduring, more capable of resisting severe strain and stress.

INSUL-BOARD insulates completely, producing a sure and lasting shield against winter's cold and summer's heat, sealing the home interior tight against all atmospheric discomfort.

The Bank has over 600 Offices in Canada, Newfoundland, United States, Mexico; at London, England, and at Paris, France, with Correspondents in all Countries, offering exceptional facilities in all departments of General and Foreign Banking.

The Bank of Montreal holds an interest in Barclays Bank (Dominion, Colonial and Overseas), and by reason of this association is able to offer its clients close competitive rates and complete banking service for business with the West Indies, among the important advantages offered being facilities for obtaining accurate local information.

Woman Bought It For £20 and Sold It For 4,100 Guineas.

A [illegible] originally for £20 and [illegible] years in a workroom over a stable in Avenue road, Harlesden, North Wales, was sold recently at auction in London for £4,305 on behalf of Mr. Tom Perry, an upholsterer and blind maker.

The romantic story of the picture, "Diana and Endymion," by Tintoretto, the Venetian, was related to a London Mail reporter by Mrs. Mary Perry, wife of its late owner.

About seven years ago, she said, a man from the Isle of Wight, a stranger to us, approached me with the picture. I could see it was a beautiful painting, but what impressed me most was the remarkable frame. I gave him £20 for it, but, of course, I had no idea it was worth so much money.

For eighteen months it hung in the landing of our flat here. I was rather afraid that the children would damage it in their play, and so it was sent along to my husband's workshop, where it lay for the next five years.

One day a dealer in a small way of business offered us £40 for it. I thought that if it was worth that to a man of small means it must have some value beyond anything we had expected. When a procession of dealers increased their offers until about £120 was reached, we began to think it very valuable.

So we sent it to Messrs. Robinson, Fisher & Harding, with instructions to include it in their auction. The interest shown by dealers encouraged us to believe it would bring us in £200 or more. You can judge our surprise when eager bidding took the amount to 4,100 guineas, at which figure it was bought by Mr. Frank Rabin.

The picture is of "a fair woman kneeling by the side of a sleeping figure"—Diana beside Endymion.

POACHER VS. PYTHON.

Bush-Veldt Farmer Had Awful Experience While Poaching.

There is at least one bush-veldt farmer who is not so keen on poaching as he used to be. One Friday afternoon he fancied a little venison, so he set off with a gun but no license—and disappeared.

It was not until the following Sunday afternoon that a search party discovered his legs protruding from an antbear hole, and extracted him, more dead than alive.

He had wounded a steinbok, and the animal had made a dive for the shelter of the antbear hole. The hunter followed, and, with his head and shoulders underground, just managed to grip the animal.

A frantic jerk on the buck's part, however, wedged the hunter tightly, and his struggles only shifted the loose red sand, so that he was trapped. The most he could do was to twist slightly, allowing a little light to penetrate wherein he was able to see a python coiled up within a few feet of his face.

The python attacked the strange visitor, but the hunter kept it off by throwing sand in its face, while its efforts to coil itself round him were foiled by the fact that he was tightly wedged in the opening.

For two whole days and nights the hunter and the python thus faced each other until help came in the nick of time.

BALD HEADS MORE PREVALENT.

Expert Prescribed Hand Vibration and Hot Oils.

Baldness is more prevalent among middle-aged men than ever, says Mme. Iona Perriford, who specializes on adding to the scanty hair on men's heads.

"The head should be treated as a garden," avers Mme. Perriford, "the hair being the foliage of the human body.

"The average middle-aged business man's head shocks me. The belief that a bald head in an office is a sign of good business brains is an illusion. A bald head is merely the result of poor circulation and nervous shock. Worry or illness may have stopped the circulation."

Mme. Perriford does not claim to be able to do anything with a head as bare as a billiard ball, but contends that by means of hand vibration and hot oils she can conquer bald heads which are not altogether "too far gone."

New Zealander: Wealthy.

The New Zealander, whose per capita wealth amounts to $3,371.70, is the wealthiest average citizen in the world. The Swiss is next with $2,998.20, the American third with $2,941.90, and the Rumanian fourth with $2,808.90, according to a world economic chart for 1927 compiled by Redmond & Co., investment bankers of New York.

At the other end of the scale are Soviet Russia with $216.60 per capita, Greece $395.80, and Bulgaria with $468.10. The chart, which analyzes the economic status of 49 countries under 60 headings, reveals that the cost of living in Austria, and that Russia is easily first as mother of monopolies with a revenue of $840,358,000 last year from that source.

Ninety-Seven Years Old.

"If you would live long and die happy take plenty of outdoor exercise, but don't overdo it. Keep regular hours and retire early at night; eat plain food and not too much of it —and never worry."

This is the recipe for the enjoyment of good health and long life, offered by Mr. Felix Harbie, one of the oldest residents of the Ottawa Valley, who was born in the lumbering town of Hawkesbury on the Ottawa river ninety-seven years ago and has lived there ever since.

Consumption of Beef Fell.

The per capita consumption of beef in Canada fell in 1927 while that of pork and mutton and lamb increased.

Many Mothers Recommend Them

Baby's Own Tablets Are Fine for Nervous, Sleepless Children

From Canada the fame of Baby's Own Tablets is spreading over the world. Mothers recommend them to other mothers and wherever they are tried nothing but words of praise are heard for these pleasant tasting little tablets that promptly relieve the minor ailments of young children.

"Baby's Own Tablets are one of the best remedies for children's ailments I have ever used," says Mrs. Arthur T. Allen, of Auburn, Me. "My little girl was nervous and could not sleep. I tried the Tablets and she was relieved at once. She was also troubled with constipation and nothing seemed to help her. I had used the Tablets but a short time before her bowels were regular. All mothers should keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house for they are a valuable remedy."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CANADIAN FOREST WEEK WAS MARKED SUCCESS

Hon. Charles Stewart Delivered Address in Washington and Also Broadcast Radio Message

The success of Canadian Forest Week in 1928 was more marked than in any previous year. The various committees, national and provincial, worked with enthusiasm, and appeals for public co-operation were made through the press, by public addresses, radio talks, references from the pulpits of churches, exercises in schools and in various other ways. By the concurrent proclamations of the Governor General of Canada and the President of the United States the same period, April 22-28, was observed as Forest Week on both sides of the International Boundary. This rendered possible an important feature of the campaign, namely, the exchange of speakers between the two countries. Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, Canada, addressed the American Forestry Association in Washington and, in company with Hon. Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, broadcast a message over the radio. The text of Hon. Mr. Stewart's radio address is as follows:—

"Citizens of the United States and Fellow Citizens of Canada:

"It is my honour and privilege this evening to extend the greetings of the Government of Canada to the great unseen audience which is now thinking of the problem which Forest Week brings to mind. In so doing I desire to express my appreciation of being associated with the President of the United States in broadcasting a message to residents on both sides of the International Boundary line. The fact that the President of this Nation and the Governor General of Canada have issued concurrent proclamations setting aside the period from the 22nd to the 28th of April as Forest Week, shows that the Governments of both countries realize fully the urgency of forest conservation and recognize how vital it is to the well-being of the people.

"The prosperity of every man and woman on this continent is affected by the total annual production of wealth. The wealth of North America is tremendous but so much of it comes from the forest, that, if our timberlands disappear, then there will be an appreciable shrinkage in the pay-envelope or pocket-book of every man in every community from the Mackenzie river to the Rio Grande.

"Consider what directly depends upon the maintenance of growing forests. The list includes all our great forest industries, such as lumbering, paper-making, building construction, furniture manufacturing, and their scarcely less important subsidiaries; our water-powers, daily becoming more necessary to modern life; our irrigation works; the fertility of our agricultural lands; the fur-bearing animals, fish, and game; and, not least, the great outdoor recreational movement of this generation, so necessary to the maintenance of national health.

"What has burned into my own consciousness and what I would impress upon the consciousness of all who hear me to-night is this: that forest conservation benefits in a hundred ways every person on this continent, and injures not one.

"Fire is the great enemy of the forest and ninety-five per cent of forest fire loss is caused by sheer carelessness—carelessness such as no urban or rural community would tolerate for an instant. Bands fire and the forests, badly scarred as they are, will even yet respond by adequately meeting the needs of industry; but let the fire demon rage on a few years longer and the damage will be irreparable.

"All can help in this movement, not least the lover of field sports. Without the forest to provide shelter and food the game which possibilities exist for the perpetuation of game animals. It is true that in northern Canada there are unique conditions which seem to insure the perpetuation of game there for all time; it is also true we have always been ready to share that game with our United States neighbours; but if our North American principle of free shooting is to continue the forest must be saved and the sportsman must help to do the saving.

"And how can the forest be conserved? My suggestion is: In the same manner in which the people of the United States and Canada stopped the annually recurring tragic fires of thirty or forty years ago. That is to say, by deciding that fires are too dangerous and too wasteful to be tolerated. That decision crystallized as public opinion, not only in forested regions but also in cities and country places hundreds of miles from the timberlands, and consistently supporting the movement for forest conservation will undoubtedly achieve our object. Let us unite and create such a public opinion in regard to forest fires, and I venture to predict that in five years the problem will be solved."

IN MEMORIAM.

York—In sad, but loving memory of our dear Minnie, who departed this life May 18th, 1926.

Precious dear, we long to see you,
Your dear lips we long to kiss;
We long to look into your bright eyes,
The girl we so sadly miss.
Her sweet voice now is silent,
Her dear head now is low;
How she was loved, darling Minnie,
Only God in Heaven knows.

But be patient, heart so lonely,
And dry the weeping eyes,
For the Lord will safely guard her,
Till we meet her in the skies.

Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Brother Harold, Sisters Florence and Helen.

DORLAND

The weather continues dry and seeding is progressing rapidly, although some ground is becoming hard.—Mother's Day was fittingly observed in the United Church services on Sunday. The special music was much enjoyed by a good sized congregation. — Miss Audrey Ruttan attended the Junior Institute convention held in Guelph last week. — The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bird was brightened by the advent of a baby girl on Monday. — Mrs. C. R. Allison, Miss Elsie Magee and Mr. A. C. Davis, who have been ill with la grippe, are much improved. — While the dog quarantine has not been lifted, Adolphustown has been declared free from rabies, as no dog developed the disease. — Mr. J. Mack, who has been taking treatment in Kingston hospital, has returned home. — Mr. Robert Foster, of Ottawa, arrived on Saturday to spend some time with his son, F. E. Foster.—A fair sized crowd attended the comedy, "Down East," given by Milford talent on Friday evening. — Mr. F. B. Roblin had the misfortune to lose a horse last week. The animal dropped dead in the harness.

MORVEN

The Sunday evening service was well attended, and all enjoyed the special programme in honor and reverence to mother and father. Rev. W. R. Merrick used as his text these words, "What God Expects of Mothers." — Miss Lulu Mills, Oshawa, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Mills. — Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. George Fralick, Mr. and Mrs. L. Chadwick, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lemon were among those who called upon friends in the Kingston General Hospital on Sunday.—Mr. Frank Denyes spent Sunday at the Fourth Line. — Miss Lillian Babcock returned on Saturday from a pleasant visit at Wilton. — Mr. J. Albert Bell and Miss Jean Milling, Napanee, spent Sunday in our midst. — The weather has been very favorable for the building of Mr. Ernest Gordanier's new house upon the homestead. — Mrs. J. N. Lovelace and two children, of Ivanhoe, returned to her home, after spending a week with her mother. — Congratulations are being received by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stone upon the arrival of a baby girl.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists Call It "Joint-Ease" Because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaking Joints Only.

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease". You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

THE LATE MR. BEATTIE

The late Alexander Beattie, father of L. S. Beattie, Principal of Napanee Collegiate Institute, who passed away on May 8th, at Brockville, was a man who was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, not only in his home town, but all over the province. Mr. Beattie had lived in Brockville only ten years, but his position as Superintendent of the Children's Aid, and his interest in educational and religious matters, had brought him into contact with all classes in the community. Their respect was shown in a marked way by the large number of clergy of all denominations and the business and professional men who were present at the funeral service, and by the large number of floral tributes. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Mahaffy, of St. John's United Church.

Mr. Beattie was born in Innerskip, East Zorra, Oxford County, over seventy-five years ago, the son of William Beattie and Margaret Hotson. He entered the teaching profession in 1874, and continued teaching for forty-four years; thirty-eight of these were spent in the one school at Dickson's Corners, Oxford County. In 1918 he retired and went to live in Brockville, where his son, L. S. Beattie, was teaching in the Collegiate. Shortly after he was appointed Superintendent of the Children's Aid. This position he held until the time of his death.

The body was taken from Brockville to his former home for burial. The service, took place from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Erwood Kerr, Ingersol. Among the floral tributes was one from the Napanee Collegiate, and many from former students of Mr. Beattie's, scattered far and wide.

He leaves to mourn his loss besides his wife, who will continue to reside in Brockville, four sons and one daughter; C. W. Beattie, Normal School, Calgary; R. H. Beattie, Manager Keith's Theatre, Cincinnati; L. S. Beattie, Napanee Collegiate; C. A. Beattie, Druggist, Brockville; Mrs. Erwood Kerr, Ingersol.

Presentation and Address.

The Sunday School room of Grace United Church, on Friday evening, was the scene of a pleasant social gathering, when the Choir entertained Miss Maude Green, a valued member, who is soon to take her departure to make her future home in the United States. A short time was enjoyably spent in speeches, games, etc., following which Mr. H. M. Black read an address, and Miss Lois Stalker presented Miss Green with a handsome travelling bag, purse and fountain pen. Miss Green kindly thanked the members of the Choir for these tokens and words of appreciation as expressed in the address. Following is a copy of the address:—

Napanee, May 11th, 1928.

Dear Miss Green,—We, the members of Grace United Church Choir learned with regret of your departure for your new home in the United States, and we take the opportunity at this time to express our appreciation of the faithful services rendered by you in your connection with the Choir, not only by your faithful and regular attendance, but by your willingness to assist at any time you were called.

While we are very sorry to lose you, we want you to carry to your new home the best wishes of the Choir, and we ask you to accept these gifts as a token of our regard and esteem, and trust that in years to come you may look back with many happy memories of your association with the Choir of Grace Church.

Signed on behalf of the Choir,
ETHEL C. SEYMOUR.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. William Cassidy

A deep gloom was cast over the community, when the many friends of Mrs. William Cassidy, Tamworth, learned of her demise, on April 30th.

Mrs. Cassidy had been in poor health for some months previous, but her death came as a great shock. To the last she bore her sickness with the greatest of patience and true resignation.

The late Mrs. Cassidy was born in Sheffield and has spent her life in this vicinity, where she had made a host of friends. As a girl she was very much liked, and a great favourite among young and old, above all a true friend. These qualities she carried all through her life. She was an ideal type of Christian wife and mother. She always did her duty no matter where that duty called her.

She had the great comfort and pleasure of having her dutiful and loving family with her during her illness. All that loving hands could do was done by her children for her welfare and happiness. She leaves to mourn her loss six sons and three daughters: Francis, of Enterprise; William, of Cortland, N.Y.; Arthur, of Erinsville; Leo, Vincent, and Matthew, at home; Marguerite, of Watertown, N.Y.; May, of Napanee, and Regina at home; also one sister, Mrs. V. Kouber, of Napanee. One son, Raymond, predeceased her ten years ago.

The respect in which she was held was manifested by the many spiritual offerings and the large funeral cortege.

The funeral took place from her residence to the Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, where Rev. Father O'Hanlon sang the Requiem High Mass. The remains were placed in the vault to await interment.

Powerful, Penetrating Antiseptic Oil Heals Eczema and Other Skin Diseases

Must Give Results in 7 Days or Money Back

Make up your mind to-day that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

Like a lot of other people, you're probably been convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good), but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to Wallace Drug Store or any other good druggist to-day and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil. The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

Joynson-Hicks Hankers After a New Borstal In Place of Old Prison.

A new field has been discovered for the millionaire, who wants to get rid of some of his money. He can use it to endow a prison.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the British Home Secretary, has just been pointing out the possibilities. Hospitals, museums, sports grounds are all good things he has declared, but he hankers after "a new Borstal in place of an old prison." Unfortunately, he lives in days when there is a growing demand for national economy, and apparently the Chancellor of the Exchequer says "No." So Sir William hears his appeal.

"Is there no rich man who will give me £100,000 and immortalize his name for ever?" he asks. "A Borstal takes bad raw material and converts it into good, honest humanity."

You will find the reason for this appeal if you look at the report of the Prison Commissioners, just published. It shows that fair numbers now in Borstal institutions is so large that it is increasingly difficult to maintain the personal touch which counts for so much in the training given.

During 1926, 2,461 lads under twenty-one, were sent to prison, while only 561 were committed to detention in a Borstal institution. Of those sent to prison, about one-half had not been previously convicted.

What sort of chance is there for these lads? While the Borstal "old boy" usually makes good, the lad who is sent to prison once tends to slip back in lawless ways after he is released. In a very short time the prospect of a prison sentence has no deterrant effect at all.

OUR NATIONAL WEALTH.

Has Increased by Three Billion Dollars In Three Years.

Canada's national wealth increased by $3,000,000,000 in four years, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In 1921, the estimated aggregate of the tangible wealth of the Dominion was $22,195,000,000; but in 1925 the total had increased to $25,673,174,000, or $2,770 per head of population. The computation is exclusive of undeveloped natural resources.

Ontario ranked as the richest province, with estimated aggregate wealth of $9,000,727,000. Quebec, with estimated aggregate wealth of $6,228,284,000 was second; while Saskatchewan, with a total of $2,870,314,000, came third. Alberta was fourth with aggregate wealth estimated at $2,086,688,000, British Columbia fifth with $1,983,420,000; Manitoba sixth with $1,828,819,000, Nova Scotia seventh with $789,651,000, New Brunswick eighth with $643,528,000; Prince Edward Island ninth with $138,816,000; while the Yukon was in tenth position with $21,827,000.

While Ontario led in absolute wealth; the western provinces came first in per capita wealth. Saskatchewan held first rank with a per capita wealth of $3,544. British Columbia was second with $3,539. Alberta third with $3,459 and Manitoba fourth with $2,909. Ontario was a close fifth with $2,901. Quebec sixth with $2,495, New Brunswick seventh with $1,596, Prince Edward Island eighth with $1,591, and Nova Scotia nineth with $1,471.

The total agricultural wealth in 1925 was $7,832,942,000, representing 30.51 per cent. of the whole.

A STRANGE HOME.

Tame Mice Are Living In an Old Brown Loaf.

Tame mice at the London Zoo are living in a home that is odibe.

It is not as in the fairy story, made of cake, with chocolate tiles, toffee doors, and mint-drop windows —but just an old brown loaf.

Nor was it brought by fairies. The keeper coming upon that loaf, very stale, in his store, cut a small hole in the crust at the bottom of the loaf, and handed it over to the mice.

They did the rest for themselves. It is now converted into a very presentable dwelling which they prefer to their sleeping box.

They have made a back and a front entrance, but in their enthusiasm they went a little too far and ate away the whole of the "floor."

Still, the "walls" and the "roof" stand, and should you suddenly approach the cage they will all skip "indoors."

Cinemas Big Business Figures.

The biggest British circuit of cinema theatres numbers 125. The biggest recorded dividend paid by a British cinema company in 1926 was 400 per cent.

It is said that the British public pays annually something like £30,000,000 for admission to the picture theatres, and of this sum £3,000,000 has to be refunded to the State for entertainment tax. There are approximately 14,000,000 cinema-goers, and their attendances number 20,000,000 per week.

The biggest cinema, in course of erection at Brixton, will seat over 6,000. The smallest cinema in the world is at Neuz les Mines, near Arras, and seats barely 100.

St. Lawrence Paper Mills Company

Limited

$19,000,000

6% Cumulative Preferred Stock

190,000 Shares of Common Stock

Common Stock Subscription Warrants

Offered in Units represented by partly paid Allotment Certificates. Each unit comprises one share of 6% Preferred Stock (par value $100), one-half paid; one share of Common Stock without par value, fully paid; and a Common Stock subscription warrant entitling the holder, after payment of the balance of the Allotment Certificate price, to subscribe, on or before April 15, 1935, for one-half share of Common Stock at the rate of $40 a share.

A simultaneous issue of these securities is being made in the United States, Great Britain and on the Continent.

The Preferred Stock is to be preferred over the Common Shares as to cumulative cash dividends at the rate of 6% per annum and as to assets in the event of voluntary liquidation to the extent of $105 a share and accrued dividends; and in the event of involuntary liquidation to the extent of $100 a share and accrued dividends. Dividends are to be payable April 15, July 15, October 15 and January 15, cumulative from April 15, 1928, at par at any branch of the Bank of Montreal in Canada. The said shares are redeemable as a whole or in part at any time on thirty days' notice at $105 a share and accrued dividends. If four or more quarterly dividends, consecutive or not, on the preferred stock shall be in arrears, then until all such arrears have been paid and the current quarterly dividend declared, the preferred stockholders are entitled as a class to elect one less than a majority of the directors, and to have one vote for each fully paid share in respect of all other matters.

The certificates for the fully-paid Preferred Stock and Common Stock and the warrants represented by the Allotment Certificates are to be delivered to the respective holders of the Allotment Certificates on surrender thereof, upon payment of the balance of the Allotment Certificate price or in any event not later than December 31, 1929.

Allotment Certificates and preferred stock, when delivered, transferable in New York City, Boston, Montreal and Toronto. Common Stock transferable in New York City, Montreal and Toronto. Dividends on Allotment Certificates and Preferred Stock registered in New York City or Boston payable in United States currency at par of exchange.

The Company has agreed to make application as due and payable on the first call, if made, $19,000,000.

The Company has agreed to make application as due and payable on the first call, if made, $19,000,000.

CAPITALIZATION—The capitalization of St. Lawrence Paper Mills Company Limited upon completion of the present financing will be as follows:—

	Authorized	Outstanding
6% Cumulative Preferred Stock ($100 par value)	$19,000,000	$9,500,000*
Common Stock (no par value)	1,000,000 shares	500,000 shares

*$9,500,000 to be fully paid and outstanding immediately; after October 15, 1928, $14,250,000 will be fully paid and outstanding; and after the final call, if made, $19,000,000.

Of the 500,000 shares of Common Stock authorized but unissued, 95,000 shares are reserved against the Allotment Certificate subscription warrants and 105,000 shares are reserved against other subscription warrants identical in form.

The following information has been summarized by Mr. Ernest Rossiter, President, St. Lawrence Paper Mills Company Limited from his letter dated May 9, 1928, and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

THE COMPANY—St. Lawrence Paper Mills Company Limited has been organized under the laws of the Dominion of Canada and has acquired the entire business and assets and has assumed all of the liabilities, except funded debt which is being retired, of St. Lawrence Paper Mills Limited; the latter company having been successfully engaged in the manufacture and sale of newsprint since June, 1923.

The plant, located at Three Rivers, Que., consists of a four-machine balanced newsprint paper mill of 300 tons daily rated capacity (recently increased from 150 tons), advantageously situated with respect to pulpwood resources, power, water supply, labour and transportation both by water and rail.

The entire output of the mill for 1928 has been sold under contract to 41 publishers located throughout the United States and Canada, and a contract has recently been entered into for the sale of 45,000 tons of newsprint a year for ten years beginning in 1929. In order to handle this business the company proposes to install two additional newsprint machines with a combined rated capacity of 150 tons, increasing the capacity to 450 tons a day, or about 135,000 tons a year.

The Company believes that sales will justify a further increase of capacity before 1930, and in that event it proposes to install two additional newsprint machines, thus further increasing the capacity to 600 tons a day or 180,000 tons a year.

The Company's present pulpwood resources as estimated by Mr. R. O. Sweezey, Forestry Engineer, total approximately 9,000,000 cords, which, with pulpwood contracted for, will be sufficient to last for at least 40 years operating at the full capacity of 180,000 tons a year.

MANAGEMENT—Mr. N. A. Timmins, president of the predecessor company, will be chairman of the board of the new company. Mr. Ernest Rossiter, vice-president and general manager of the old company, will be president of the new company. These gentlemen, together with the other executives who have been responsible for the success of the old company, will continue in the management of the new. Mr. N. A. Timmins and Mr. Ernest Rossiter who own substantial amounts of the Preferred and Common Stocks of the predecessor company, have invested in the Common Stock of the new Company an amount in excess of the cash distributable upon their shares in the predecessor Company.

CALLS ON ALLOTMENT CERTIFICATES—The Allotment Certificates upon issue will be partly paid. The balance of $50 in respect of each unit is payable in two installments, $25 on October 15, 1928, and $25, plus accrued dividend, on call by the directors on sixty days' notice not earlier than April 1, 1929, and not later than December 31, 1929.

On payment of the last installment of $25 per unit, or if the said last installment shall not have been called on or before December 31, 1929, the fully paid Preferred Shares (being three-quarters of one preferred share per unit, in case the last installment shall not have been called), all the Common Shares, fully paid, and all the Common Stock subscription warrants represented by each unit will be distributed by The Royal Trust Company, the Depositary thereof, to the respective holders of the Allotment Certificates, in accordance with their rights thereunder.

Arrangements will be made for the adjustment of fractional shares.

Dividends on the fully paid Preferred Shares deposited as aforesaid will be paid to the holders of the Allotment Certificates.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE—The proceeds of the first payment in respect of the Allotment Certificates, the proceeds of 180,000 Common Shares purchased by certain officers of the company above referred to and the proceeds of 130,000 Common Shares which have been offered for subscription, are to be used by the Company for the acquisition of the business and undertaking of the predecessor Company, to provide funds for development of timber resources and for other corporate purposes. The installment of $25 per unit payable on October 15, 1928, will be used by the Company to pay for the installation of two additional newsprint machines. The last installment of $25 per unit in respect of Allotment Certificates, will be called only in case the Company has determined to install the second two additional newsprint machines, to increase the capacity to 180,000 tons per year.

EARNINGS—Net earnings of St. Lawrence Paper Mills Limited (predecessor company) after provision for all taxes have been as follows:—

	Before Depreciation	After Depreciation
For the year ended June 30, 1927	$1,025,388	$610,425
For the year ended June 30, 1928 (Nine months actual and three months estimated)	1,210,000	750,000
Annual dividend on $9,500,000 new preference shares to be immediately outstanding	570,000

The recent increase in the predecessor company's capacity from 150 tons per day to 300 tons was not fully reflected in the earnings until the first three months of 1928.

Based on the sale of the Company's output at current prices for newsprint and on operating costs as estimated by Mr. Hardy S. Ferguson, consulting engineer, the management estimates that net profits after all charges including depreciation and depletion, and after deducting all taxes, on the basis of the proposed capitalization of the new company, will be as follows:

Estimated rate (item)	Net profit available for dividends	Annual Dividend requirement on preferred stock with $14,250,000 outstanding	Annual Dividend requirement on preferred stock with $19,000,000 outstanding	Times each dividend earned
135,000 (6 machines)	$1,857,000	$855,000	$1,140,000	2.17

DIRECTORS—The following gentlemen, among others, have consented to act as Directors:—

N. A. Timmins, Pres., Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd.
W. M. Chadbourne, Chairman, Board of Directors of Abercrombie and Fitch Company
Sir Charles Gordon, G.B.E., President, Bank of Montreal

The mayor of a French town had, in accordance with the regulations, to make out a passport for a rich and highly respected lady of his acquaintance, who, in spite of a slight disfigurement was very vain of her personal appearance.

His native politeness prompted him to glance over a defect, and after a moment's reflection he wrote among the items of personal description:

Frederick the Great's father — a crusty old soldier and king—used on the occasions of Court ball to conduct his wife from the scene of splendour into an adjoining chamber where for a short time they would repose in their coffins in order to be reminded of the vanity of human existence. So far from agreeing with him, I do not believe anything is vain, from the loss of one's collar stud to the shock of an earthquake. It is our sense of proportion which is faulty. What I resent in modern life is being so often forcibly deprived of the enjoyment of quieter moments and of the power of appreciating the smaller and more subtle beauties of life. Shaken by speed, deafened by loud-speakers, blinded by sky-signs, worried by telephone calls, overwhelmed by the possible range of engagements, one may be led to imagine that this is living to the highest pitch. The constant advertisement of the vast, the colossal and all conceivable extremes serves to dislocate our standard of values. And so, perforce, we must lose sight of the little refinements and illusive details which, though less obvious, may be far more significant in the long run.—Arthur Ponsonby.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

For Burns and Scalds.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will take the fire out of a burn or scald. It should be at hand in every kitchen so that it may be available at any time. There is no application required. Just apply the oil to the burn or scald and the pain will abate and in a short time cease altogether.

Judge—"You are accused of being a receiver of stolen goods—did you know they were stolen?"

Accused—"I gave ten shillings for them—if I had known they were stolen I should not have given more than two."

Corns are caused by the pressure of tight boots, but no one need be troubled with them long when so simple a remedy as Holloway's Corn Remover is available.

She—Do you love me?
He—More than life.
She—Will you do anything for me?
He—Anything.
She—Wait here then and tell Father I've gone out with Bill. You see, Father doesn't approve of Bill.

One of the commonest complaints of infants is worms, and the most effective application for them is Mother Graves' Worm Extermigator.

Miller's Worm Powders will clear the stomach and bowels of worms, so that the child will no more be troubled by their ravages. The powders are sweet to the taste and no child will object to taking them. They are non-injurious in their composition, and while in some cases they may cause vomiting, that must not be taken as a sign that they are nauseating, but as an indication of their effective work.

Master—"Do you know what I do with apprentices who lie?"
Apprentice—"Yes, you make them into commercial travellers."

No More Asthma. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy sounds the death knell of this trying trouble. It stops the awful choking and painful breathing. It guards against night attacks and gives renewed ability to sleep and rest the whole night long. Much is claimed for this remedy, but nothing but what can be demonstrated by a trial. If you suffer from asthma try it and convince yourself of its great value.

The fire bell rang. A student leaning out of the seventeenth story window to see the fire engine, fell out. The heavy machine passed over his prostrate body.

"I'm a football player," he said, as he rose and brushed the dust from his suit with his pocket handkerchief.

For Frost Bites and Chilblains. Chilblains come from undue exposure to cold and wet and frost-bite from the icy winds of winter. In the treatment of either an excellent preparation is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, as it counteracts the inflammation and relieves the pain. The action of the oil is prompt and its application is extremely simple.

I was walking down the avenue one spring morning when I noticed that the men as they passed me by exchanged meaning glances and whispered meaningly about me. One old lady murmured something about girls going around undressed, which was lost in the general laughter.

Concealing my furious blushes I looked at my reflection in a store window, and imagine my consternation upon discovering that my shoe lace was untied!

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS

Human ingenuity appears to be boundless. But no one can tell in what direction it is going to develop. There seems, too, to be a sort of perversity about it, because it prefers to give us surprises rather than minister to our needs. There was really no demand to travel sixty miles an hour, to talk to our friends who are miles away or in mid-ocean, to have our letters printed as we murmur the answers to them, to journey through the clouds or under the sea or in the bowels of the earth, to listen to the news, to after-dinner speeches, and to European concerts as we sit by our fireside, to have our bones photographed, to see the events of yesterday accurately depicted before our eyes, or to find a voluminous account of the world's doing every morning on our breakfast table. To our grandfathers all this would have seemed extravagant and perhaps senseless fantasy. To us it is ordinary humdrum life. We think we have mastered the machine. But, of course, the machine has mastered us.

* * *

It is all very amazing and baffling to be living constantly on the borderland of the miraculous. But it seems a pity that this marvellous power of human ingenuity cannot be turned to spheres where there is a demand for it. We can tunnel a mountain, but we cannot cure a smoking chimney; we can bridge an arm of the sea, but we cannot make pipes which will not burst in a frost; we can cut open people and remove part of their intestines without hurt, but we cannot prevent a cold in the head; we can build cities and palaces, but we cannot be sure of constructing a hall where a speaker can be heard; we can kill our enemies by the thousand with gas, but we cannot save the lives of the children who die by the thousand from preventable causes; we can easily manufacture with our machines sufficient for the maintenance of almost twice our present population, but we do not know how to make it go round so that everyone has enough; we can organize processions and pageants and wars, but we entirely fail to organize the society we live in.

* * *

All these needs, however, will have to wait while our loud-speakers become louder, our journeys faster, our buildings taller, our gas stronger, our wealth greater, our Empire larger, and perhaps our nerves weaker. Whether we are all the better for the gifts of human ingenuity is another matter. At any rate we use them, or rather they use us, and I suppose some would claim that our lives are fuller. Yes, but what of? Nothing is more futile than protesting against the existence of the inevitable. But I am looking forward to the time when we shall become better adjusted to what after all is a very sudden change in our social life. Human nature can adapt itself very speedily to changed circumstances. We flatter ourselves that this is progress. But as a matter of fact, since there has been no corre-

EASTERN CANADA GARDENING SERVICE

Handling Gladiolus

It will now be safe to put in the first of the gladiolus. This popular flower will come into bloom in from fifty to ninety days, depending on variety and, hence if a long season of flowering is desired, planting of the quicker blooming sorts should be spread over a month. The Gladiolus will grow in almost any soil, but does best in a rich open loam, properly drained. Plenty of moisture and sunshine is necessary though it is best to plant in a position where the bed will be shaded a little by light tree growth during the middle of the day. The site of the gladiolus bed should be changed from season to season to avoid injury from fungus diseases. In sandy soil plant four inches deep, but only half this depth in heavy clay. When planted in clumps for decorative effect, space about eight inches apart, but where grown for cut flowers one may plant about four inches apart in rows in the vegetable garden. If the tiny bulbs which will be found clinging to the main bulbs or corms, when dug in the Fall, are to be utilized; these may be planted about an inch apart in a row like onions. They will not attain full size in a year or two. Dig the soil to a good depth, plant the bulbs, and cultivate frequently until the plants make this impossible. When the gladiolus spikes begin to appear, sprinkle nitrate of soda at the rate of about half an ounce per square yard around them every two or three weeks. In very hot weather water well at night or early morning, but late in the day during cold spells.

Dahlia Culture

The best time to plant dahlias in most of Eastern Canada is from the last week in May until the middle of June. The most suitable soil is sandy, well drained, deeply tilled and generously fertilized loam. If the soil is heavy clay, loosen up by digging in well rotted humus, or even a little coal ashes. Dahlias will grow to a height of three to six feet, and on this account it is necessary to space them about the same distance apart. The tubers should be placed on their sides with the buds pointing upwards in holes six inches deep. Close to this drive a stout stake to which the main stem of the plant is tied loosely at intervals of about one foot. Nip off all but one or two side shoots and at least two-thirds of the buds where large flowers are desired. Order bulbs early, as the choicest varieties are soon cleaned out.

Prolonging Vegetable Season

A continuous supply of vegetables can be secured if the earlier sorts such as Carrots, Beets, Onions, Lettuce, and Spinach are planted at intervals of a week or ten days until the end of June. One must cultivate frequently, thin out well, and fertilize heavily with some quickly available material like nitrate of soda every ten days, if the plants are to be kept going and the resulting crop made tender. Where possible, soak well with water every three or four days, if the weather is very dry. It is well to remember that one thorough soaking a week is worth a dozen daily sprinklers. After watering, get out the hoe or scuffler and loosen up the top growth so that moisture may be preserved. Follow the early crops of Spinach, Lettuce, Radish, and Onions, with later maturing sorts such as Tomatoes, Beets, Carrots, Beans, and Corn. These can be interplanted with the early vegetables, and will not need full room until the first named are taken out and consumed.

Handling Tomatoes

The main planting of tomatoes may be risked now in most sections of Eastern Canada. This plant prefers warm open soil and must be grown quickly. Where ever possible, it should be staked to encourage early fruiting. Nip off all side branches and train main stem to a central stake about five feet high. Tie loosely at intervals of a foot with soft twine or raffia. When the stem reaches the top of the stake, pinch off to hurry ripening of the later formed fruit. When staked, tomatoes may be grown about two feet apart in rows three feet apart.

Sowing Annuals

Sowing Annual Flower Seeds in the open ground the second or third week in May has proved very successful. Spaces might be marked out by pressing a pull-bottom in the soil. Sow the seed in the space marked, and dust lightly with good soil. Asters, Tagetes, Phlox Drummondi, Petunias, Zinnias, Candytuft, Snapdragons, etc., will all make a brilliant show during the summer if seed is sown in this manner.

IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

Cup-Like Depressions the Result of Youngsters Playing Marbles.

In the North Cloister of Westminster Abbey near the Prior's seat is the first bay, are several round holes, hollowed at more or less regular intervals in a stone bench which at one time greatly puzzled antiquaries.

It was only when traces of similar holes were found in the adjacent West Walk, where the old monks had their "Novices School," that the riddle was solved. At this school not only novices but also little boys from the neighborhood were taught by a brother called the Master of the Novices and the records showed that a favorite marble game with the youthful scholars was "nine holes."

The mysterious cup-like depressions were probably the result of generations of youngsters playing at marbles.

"Fingers Only" Club.

At Bloxwich, Walsall, England, there is a club the members of which are not allowed to use knives and forks. They must eat with their fingers. This club, for men only, is known as "The Finger Club," and the use of a knife entails a penalty of drinks all round.

A supper is held every month and the menu usually consists of such things as sausages, jellies, pickled onions, and bread and cheese. Many local professional men and tradesmen are members.

A levy for some local charity is laid upon members at each supper. Jellies and pickled onions are said to constitute the chief penalty for new members.

Man So Nervous Feels His Stomach Jump

"I got so nervous my stomach felt like it was jumping. Vinol entirely relieved the trouble. I feel better than in years."—J. C. Duke.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, cod liver peptone, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphates, etc., give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. Wallace's Drug Store.

Change in Managers at Bridgeburg Dominion Store
The many friends of Wilfred Cline who has been very popular as manager of the Bridgeburg Branch of the Dominion Stores, will be glad to hear that he has received an appointment to the customs branch of the Department of National Revenue and entered upon his duties on the first of May. Mr. Cline has many friends through his contact with the public in the retail grocery trade. He is succeeded by Mr. D. R. Cowan, who has been promoted from another branch. Mr. Cline was born in the Township of Richmond, and attended the N.C.I. Afterwards he went to the Ontario Business College and graduated with honors.

Representative of the Pope in Canada to Visit Napanee.
On Wednesday morning, May 23rd, the congregation of St. Patrick's Church will be singularly blessed with the presence of His Excellency the Most Reverend Andrew Cassulo, D.D., Apostolic Delegate to Canada and Newfoundland. He will leave Kingston by motor at 9 o'clock Standard time, making Napanee his first stop. Although the visit of this distinguished prelate is not expected to be of long duration, yet the faithful of the Parish are making careful preparation to tender him a cordial welcome, and to appreciate the precious moments of his brief visit. After blessing the people, the representative of His Holiness will continue his tour, touching Deseronto, Marysville and Belleville.

G. J. S. Loynes Promoted.
The many friends of G. J. S. Loynes in this city will learn with pleasure, tinged with regret, of his transfer to Edmonton to be manager of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada in that city. The promotion was announced this week by W. B. Penny, Superintendent of Agencies for Canada, who spoke highly of the work accomplished by Mr. Loynes in the northern section of Saskatchewan for his company. Mr. Penny said that in the four years during which Mr. Loynes has been manager in Saskatoon, the organization he has built up has more than trebled the business being done at the time Mr. Loynes was appointed. The local branches of the Kiwanis Club and the Underwriters' Association will lose a tireless worker and ardent supporter. A. J. Irving, at present the company's manager at Brandon has been appointed to succeed Mr. Loynes.—The Saskatoon Daily Star, Tuesday, May 8th, 1928.

NAPANEE BOY DROWNED
Master Clarence Kelly, aged six years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kelly, South Napanee, was drowned at Antwerp, N.Y., on Tuesday morning, May 8th, when the cart which he was riding plunged off a 25-foot wooden bridge which spans Indian River in front of the Leary home, at whose residence he was visiting.

The child had gone to get the mail for his aunt, Mrs. Leary, who was standing in front of the house which is situated just opposite Idle Wild camp on the Copley tract.

The boy was coasting over the bridge on his little cart, when suddenly he lost control. The cart containing the boy darted off the side of the bridge which has no protecting rails and dropped into twelve feet of water.

The aunt was an eye witness of the tragedy. She rushed to the river, which is swift at this point, and waded in almost to her shoulders in an heroic and frantic effort to save the boy from drowning. She was unsuccessful in the attempt, however. There were no other persons in the vicinity at the time, the boy's uncle, Mr. Leary, being in the sugar bush.

Mrs. Leary could not quite reach the boy. Finding her efforts to reach with no success, Mrs. Leary walked out of the river and summoned neighbors. Several minutes later after the body was combed in the vicinity, the body of the boy was found, thirty rods below the bridge. His cart was also recovered.

The child had been visiting at the Leary residence for the past two months, his mother being in the Kingston General Hospital for treatment. The boy's father was at once notified of the tragedy and he immediately left for Antwerp.

The funeral service was held there on Wednesday, the remains being brought to Napanee and placed in the Riverview vault. Interment took place yesterday.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the grief-stricken parents in the sad circumstances which bereft them of their only boy. In addition to the parents two sisters survive the loss of an only brother.

Leaves for Napanee.
The Brockville Recorder-Times of Monday has the following :—"Douglas Mayhew, for the past eighteen months a member of the K. A. MacAskill store staff, has severed his connection there and left on Saturday for Napanee, where he will enter the jewellery and watch business for himself. Since coming to Brockville Mr. Mayhew has made many friends who regret his departure. He was an active member of the Brockville Rowing Club and an enthusiastic oarsman. His many acquaintances join in wishing him every future success. Mr. Mayhew has purchased the jewellery business of Mr. Melville Taylor.

Cadet Inspection.
Ideal weather prevailed on Wednesday afternoon for the annual inspection of the Napanee Collegiate Cadet Corps, Inspecting Officer being Major Dupre, of Kingston. The Cadet Corps consists of one company of three platoons, the company commander being D. Conway, with Edmund Way second in command. No. 1 platoon was in charge of Leslie Merritt; No. 2 platoon, Walter Exley, and No. 3 platoon, Gordon Gibson. Lieut. Ernest Gibbard was in charge of the Color Party, and Sergeants Asselstine, L. Baird, and W. Smith were in charge of the platoons. Over ninety members of the Cadet Corps were on parade and many warm words of praise were given by Major Dupre, he voicing the opinion that of the many corps which he had inspected none excelled the Napanee Collegiate Cadet Corps. No. 3 Platoon had the honor of being declared the best in the company.

ROTARY CONVENTION.
The following attended the District Conference of Rotatory International, at the City of Binghampton, N.Y., on Tuesday, May 8, namely, W. S. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, C. A. Walters, A. S. Kimmerly, A. L. Dafoe, J. B. Allison, W. A. Grange, Cyril Waite, Jack Grange and Charlie Walters. The 28th Rotary District comprises the Province of Ontario, from Lennox and Addington easterly, the Province of Quebec, and the north middle section of the State of New York, twelve clubs being in Canada and the remaining forty-five clubs in New York State. It thus happens that the annual District Conferences of the 28th Rotary District, take on an International character. The Binghampton Club were the hosts for the occasion, and are to be congratulated on the courtesies given their guests. The Conference itself was a great success. The main speakers were the Pres., Leslie Ferguson, of Montreal; Frank Mullholland, of Toledo, Ohio, and Leonard Skeggs, of Youngstawn, Ohio. The Napanee delegation unanimously agreed that they had never attended a convention of any kind that was better organized, where the purposes of the Conference were better carried out, or where they had a more hospitable reception.

ST. ANDREW'S W. M. S.
On Friday afternoon, May 11th, the W. M. S. of St. Andrew's Church met in the church. The missionary watchword and creed of the W. M. S. were given in unison, followed by prayers for the work in Korea.

The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Metcalf, after which Mrs. MacGregor led in prayer. A former member, Mrs. Richardson, of Belleville, was welcomed.

Envelopes were distributed for the special offering for the Girls' High School in Hamheung, Korea, the need of which was recently laid us, by Miss Florence Murray. Contributions will be received by Mrs. Howitt.

Mrs. McLaughlan sang that beautiful hymn, "In the Garden", which was greatly appreciated. Mrs. J. M. Thomson gave a most interesting review of Chapter II. of "Christ of the Indian Road", which deals with the motive and end of Christian Missions. Rev. Stanley Jones, the author, says he would not turn over his hand to Westernize the East, but he would give his life to christianize it. He thinks the best way to make India free economically, socially and politically, is to give her Christ as the spirit of Christ is the supreme necessity of life everywhere, East or West.

Mrs. Laughland and Mrs. Corkill, who had just returned from the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch meetings in Deseronto, brought reports of inspiration and enthusiasm.

Mrs. McMurrin closed the meeting with prayer, after which tea was served by Mesdames Templeton, MacKenzie and Metcalf.

"East Lynne"
The well known and popular play, "East Lynne", will be given in Lonsdale Hall, on Tuesday, May 22nd, 1928, by Shannonville Dramatic Club, accompanied by Mr. Smith, of Belleville. Admission, adults 35c., children 25c. 20a

Palmetto Pavilion, Beaver Lake.
For the grand opening, a special programme has been arranged by Stevens' Blue Jacken Orchestra, to give the dancing public a real evening of pleasure, on Wednesday evening, May 30th. Admission, 95c. (tax extra). 20ap C. O'NEILL, Manager.

HAMILTON CARDINALS TO PLAY LOCAL GIRLS
BIG GAME VICTORIA DAY

The Hamilton Cardinals Softball Team, which will be seen here in action on the 24th of May next, is one of the strongest aggregations ever assembled. A Hamilton sports writer says, "Cardinals last year, with not as fast or strong a team, defeated Supremes and Patricias of Toronto, and will go much farther than that this year." As the Supremes of Toronto held for years the International Senior Championship, it is seen that a team which can beat them must be rated with the best.

On the roster we note such famous players as Edith Hulls, a veteran of seven years experience, and considered the best first baseman in the game; Agnes Kress, who broke into senior company only last year, but who immediately made good at third base; Elsie Greenwood, the enlongated second base player who is justly famous for one-handed catches; Eileen Quinnet, the midget shortstop and pitcher, who wins nearly every game; Nan England, who is credited with the longest home run ever hit in the girls' game, and who plays in left field; Lil Langley, the catcher who never has a base stolen on her; Elsie Botten, considered one of the most finished centre fielders playing the game; Evelyn Almas, an outfielder of many years experience; Ora Semmons, an outfielder and catcher who is well known as a pinch hitter who can hit; Reva Cheriton, the star pitcher, who is on the executive of the Ontario Women's Softball Association, and the Women's Athletic Federation of Canada; Ruth Linkert, catcher; Claire Frawley, pitcher; Peggy Hall, outfielder; Anna Quinnet, outfielder; and Eva Davies, infielder. How is that for a high class organization?

Our girls are going to considerable expense to get this team here, and it is up to the fans of Napanee to respond with their patronage. The girls will be around with tickets to sell in a few days. It is understood that a dance will be held after the game as well. As the Cardinals are playing in Belleville in the morning and in Kingston later in the day, it would be a little too much to ask them to start for home as soon as the game is over, and it will be necessary to have a few of the fans assist the Leafs by entertaining a few of the girls over night. Will anyone who has room to spare get in touch with Miss O'Neill, at Robinson's, or Miss Grass.

MIGHTY OAKS FROM ACORNS GROW

About five years ago, when all the world was engrossed in the discussion of "facts, protocols, limitations, and reparations," conceived to limit and guide international relations with respect to war, a lawyer in Pennsylvania had an idea.

Why wars at all? Why do not the nations agree not to resort to war for any cause? This New Yorker, without political pull or influence, wrote his idea for a paper which published it. The idea was read by several influential Americans, among whom were two clergymen who were newspaper men. They wrote it up. Lawyers put it in legal form, preachers talked about it, editors commented on it, and lecturers lectured about it.

That was only five years ago. The idea was finally put in the form of a definite proposal by Foreign Secretary Kellog to the nations of Europe. At first France demurred, but when Germany accepted the proposal, and when England looked favorably on it, France reconsidered her judgment, and now Briand speaking for France, and Chamberlain speaking for England, Stresseman for Germany, and Mackenzie King for Canada, all signed their willingness to accept the invitation of Senator Kellog to a conference for the purpose of drawing up a treaty to outlaw war from the comity of nations.

What that really means we have scarcely realized as yet. If it is successful as it promises to be and the great nations of the world finally renounce war altogether, it will be the greatest triumph of all time. It will then take its place in the limbo of outworn futilities along with slavery and duelling.

The United States, one hopes, will then possess no valid reason for remaining outside the League of Nations, and will at once take her place beside the other fifty-five nations at Geneva, working for the peace, harmony and good will of the world, and so fulfil the ideal of their great Woodrow Wilson.

NAPANEE LAWYERS IN NEW ROLE

TEACH THEOLOGY TO KINGSTON COURT.

Father and son as opposing counsel in a Division Court case, probably provided Judge Lavell at Kingston, with a novelty, while he described as "quite novel" when they turned before him as to what limits might be ascribed to the responsibility of Providence.

Captain Sudds, of Simcoe Island, was sued for the loss of a wharf at Bath, Mr. Hazelton, for damage done when the captain tied his sloop to the wharf, without the owner's consent, during a December gale. The gale was so strong that the sloop carried away, and, being strongly tied, carried the wharf timbers away with it.

Mr. Herrington, on behalf of the son, W. H. Herrington, on behalf of the captain.

"It wasn't an act of God to tie up improperly to small timbers," replied the father. W. S. Herrington, K.C., counsel for the plaintiff. Mr. Herrington senior agreed that the gale was unprecedented, but refused to say Providence blamed for what he termed faulty tying up to the wharf.

The court, however, held that the defendant had a partial claim in the fact that the gale had increased in force during the night, and signified his intention of reducing damages accordingly.

YARKER-COLEBROOK WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting (Grandmother's Day) of the Yarker-Colebrook Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Boyce on May 23rd, with 25 members present and several visitors. The chair was occupied by the President. Mrs. Norman Boyce. The meeting opened in the usual manner and the usual business was dealt with. Letters of thanks were read from the sick who had been remembered with fruit and flowers, and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the Red Cross Aid for the use of the League Hall. The election of officers resulted in the following being elected for 1928-29:

President—Mrs. Norman Boyce.

Vice-President—Mrs. Geo. Lee.

Secretary—Mrs. A. Cowell.

Treasurer—Mrs. F. Snyder.

Auditors—Mrs. R. Jackson, Mrs. C. Amey.

Program Committee—Mrs. S. Freeman, Mrs. C. Amey, Mrs. E. Warner, Mrs. A. Martin.

Directors—Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. Jackson.

Press Reporter—Mrs. McGregor.

District Director—Mrs. Earl Boyce.

Delegates to District Annual — Mrs. Lee, Mrs. A. Cowdy, Mrs. S. Winter, Mrs. S. Freeman.

Flower Committee — Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Thomas Keyes, Mrs. McFarlane.

Pianist—Mrs. Donald Martin.

A letter was read from the department, offering literature on the proper care and handling of eggs. It was decided to send for this.

A program was given consisting of community singing, readings by Mrs. Frank Martin and Mrs. Chas. Amey, and a duet by Doris and Ralph Boyce, which was very well done.

The roll call was answered by "What My Grandmother Said", which brought forth some interesting reminiscences, and the prized antiques brought by the members were admired by all present. These formed an interesting collection, and the owners explained the uses of some things which are a novelty to us nowadays.

A pleasant feature of the meeting was the presentation of a pretty bouquet of pansies to each grandmother by the President, Mrs. Boyce.

All were reminded of the District Annual to be held at Croydon on June 6th, and invited to bring their antiques to a collection there that day.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which lunch was served by the committee and hostess, and all enjoyed the social half-hour.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S. Freeman on June 20th, when the question of a fire fighting apparatus will be discussed.

SOME FLOWERING BULBS

With the approach of the blooming season for such bulbs as tulips, narcissi, and hyacinth, the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa has issued a timely bulletin entitled "Some Flowering Bulbs". The bulletin is from the pen of Mr. E. M. Straight, the Superintendent of the Experimental Station for Vancouver Island, who has been making a detailed study of bulb production in Canada. Pacific Coast nurserymen have taken up the growing of bulbs that we have been in the habit of importing in very large quantities, particularly from Holland, each year. Before pronouncing on the value of the Canadian grown bulbs as compared with European stock, practically all of the Experimental Farms and Stations were supplied with stocks derived from the home and foreign fields. Each Station was asked to grow the bulbs and compare them for size, yield, vigour, quality of bloom, and such other points as would bring out the merits of the Canadian bulb. The replies at the end of a year's experience have shown Canadian grown bulbs to equal in all respects the imported stock, and in most cases superior to it. Expressed in percentage terms many of the reports show Canadian bulbs to have been from 25 to 100 per cent stronger and better than the European bulbs. The bulletin gives the history of the different kinds classified, describes their propagation, gives advice on the culture, and describes large numbers of varieties. The bulletin, which is No. 95, and is obtainable from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, contains a section on the common bulb diseases by Mr. F. C. Drayton, Plant Pathologist at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. (Issued by the Director of Publicity, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.)

McCoy's Puts Weight On Weak Skinny Men

Hollows in cheeks—hollows in the sides of neck, — flatness in chest — why don't you do something to make yourself look like a real man?

McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets puts on weight where weight is needed —not only that but they build up your general health and you grow stronger, more energetic and get plenty of ambition.

One woman gained 15 pounds in six weeks.

McCoy takes all the risk — Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets or 2 one dollar boxes, any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

Ask Wallace's Drug Store, or any good druggist.

VIOLET WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The second annual meeting of the Violet Women's Institute was held at the home of our President, Mrs. E. A. Wright, with twenty ladies in attendance. The roll call was answered by paying the membership fee.

Mrs. Hamm, of Ernestown, was asked to take the chair for the election of officers.

Miss Powell, our instructor for the needlework course, was present and assisted very kindly as scrutineer.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year :—

President—Mrs. E. Wright.

1st Vice President—Mrs. John Kellar.

2nd Vice President—Mrs. Wm. Sager.

Secretary and Treasurer—Miss Mildred Hannah.

District Director—Mrs. McDonald.

1st District Representative—Mrs. H. Smith.

2nd District Representative—Mrs. R. Hogle.

3rd District Representative — Mrs. R. Rose.

School Committee for No. 17—Mrs. Wright and Mrs. R. Rose.

School Committee for No. 18—Mrs. Kellar, Mrs. H. Smith.

Auditors for 1928—Mr. Baldwin and whoever he might appoint as second auditor.

Mrs. MacMorine was asked to give a paper on current events for each monthly meeting.

Mrs. Stewart Martin then rendered a very pleasing piano solo, followed by a very interesting talk by Miss Powell on the conditions of the Ontario.

Mrs. W. C. Snider gave a very helpful paper on "What Constitutes a Home?". She emphasized the fact of co-operation for all homemakers.

Mrs. R. Rose and Miss A. Kellar favored us with a duet, which is much enjoyed.

Mrs. MacDonald gave us a splendid paper on "Help Us to Grow".

The meeting was brought to a close and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by the Lunch Committee.

Mrs. Herbert Robertson very kindly invited us to her home for the June meeting.

Same Symptoms In Many Cases

An Anaemic Condition Easily Recognized — Calls For a Blood Builder.

In most cases of anaemia the symptoms are almost the same. The sufferer grows pale and is easily tired after the least exertion. The appetite is fickle and the patient loses in weight. Sometimes there are headaches, often inability to sleep well. As the blood becomes thinner the symptoms become more pronounced and often there are fainting spells. All this shows that the blood is thin and watery, and at the very first symptom of this condition the patient should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the most reliable blood-builder and nerve tonic known. The sole mission of this medicine is to enrich the blood, and when that is done all the distressing symptoms disappear. Among those who have reason to praise this medicine is Mrs. M. E. Patterson, Shanklin, N.B., who says:—"About four years ago I became very much run down, I could not eat, sleep nor rest, and I grew so nervous that the smallest things would annoy me. Eventually I grew so weak that I did not have strength to move about without help. I was just a miserable wreck, and became very much discouraged as I had tried many medicines which failed to help me. In this wretched state a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so and before long found they were helping me. Gladly I continued taking the pills until I fully regained my health and strength and have since continued in the best of health. Later my daughter became anaemic and six boxes of the pills restored her to health, strength and color. Naturally I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a blessing to weak, run-down people."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FORMER NAPANEE BOY HONORED

Dr. R. F. Ruttan, Noted Chemist, Presented With Painting

The Montreal Gazette of Friday, May 18th, carries a three column account of a reception given to Dr. Ruttan, of McGill University. Dr. Ruttan is the son of Dr. Ruttan, of Napanee, whose office and home was in the building now occupied by The Beaver. He went to Toronto for his Arts work and thence to McGill for Medicine, graduating in 1884.

With an academic career in mind he went to Germany in 1885. At that time Germany was the scientific centre of the world, and during the year he spent there under A. W. Hoffman, Dr. Ruttan was in the closest touch with developments in his own field. He had already lectured at McGill under Dr. Girdell, and in 1884 was head of the Department of Medicine, so it was natural that he should return to McGill when his year in Germany was ended.

When he returned to McGill, chemistry was not taught in a separate department but was looked after in each faculty. The need for centralization was apparent and Dr. Ruttan was soon appointed director of a newly-constituted Department of Chemistry and placed in charge of this work in all faculties. The present chemical building was erected in 1890 and shortly afterwards Dr. Ruttan was installed with a staff which, compared with the staff he heads at the present time, was very small indeed. It consisted of one professor and two assistant lecturers; to-day there are six full professors, three assistant professors and ten demonstrators. There is need for further assistance but the university has looked to the future and has made provision for further expansion as the need arises.

The department of Chemistry in McGill, under the leadership of Dr. Ruttan, has developed until now it is one of the most efficient in Canada and has been responsible for making McGill known all over America.

After forty-four years' service Dr. Ruttan severs his connection as head of the department. To commemorate the event a large gathering of the staff of the University met at a complimentary banquet, with Mr. Justice Greenshields presiding, and Prof. Leacock as toast-master.

At the close of the banquet Prof. Leacock, on behalf of his colleagues, presented Dr. Ruttan with a well-executed painting of himself done by Alphonse Jongers. The painting is to hang in the halls of the Arts, Medical Science and Chemistry Buildings, for a short time alternately, and will then be at the disposal of Dr. Ruttan.

He was an elder of his kirk in a small Scottish town, and had consulted a specialist about his health. Told that he had a floating kidney he was much disturbed, for the complaint had all the terror of mystery.

He went to the minister of his church with a request that the prayers of the congregation might be offered.

"I don't know," said the minister. "I'm afraid that at the mention of a floating kidney the congregation might laugh."

"I see nothing to laugh at," replied the sufferer. "It was only last Sabbath that you prayed for loose livers."

DASH HOPES OF GETTING A RAISE

Members of Parliament Will Have To Do Without Extra $2000.

A definite stop to the movement for an increase of $2,000 in the sessional indemnity of members of the House of Commons has come, with a plain intimation from members of the cabinet that such a proposal will not be entertained by the Government this session. Up until a few days ago, members were sanguine over the prospects for a larger indemnity, especially in view of the fact that about 85 per cent of them on both sides of the House had affixed their signature to the petition.

They had hoped to get this action concurrently with what action will be taken before prorogation on the report of the special committee dealing with the question of higher salaries for judges. That report was submitted to the House Friday afternoon by its chairman, Joseph T. Thorson, and it calls for an increase of $2,000 per annum to County Court judges, $2,000 more for Superior Court judges, and $3,000 per annum increase for judges of the Supreme Courts. This report will provoke a heated debate in the House, as members on both sides are ready to oppose the adoption of the report, and it is reported another reason will be the dashing of the hopes of a large majority of the members in regard to the sessional indemnity.

NEW BEAN VARIETIES NOW AVAILABLE FOR TEST

(Experimental Farms Note)

The Cereal Division, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, announces that it now has available for co-operative testing by farmers a collection of four new promising varieties of field beans. The varieties are as follows :

Navy, Ottawa 711—A small white pea bean selected from a commercial bean of the same type. Usually a very heavy yielder.

Large White, Ottawa 713—A large white bean coming from a natural cross found at Ottawa. Plants are rather short in growth and somewhat early in ripening. Yield is usually quite good.

Beauty, Ottawa 712—A pure line selection from a natural cross found at Ottawa. Bean rather small. Essentially white with pale greenish markings. The plant is short in growth, ripens very early and usually gives a very fair yield.

Norwegian, Ottawa 710—A pure line collection from a newly received many years ago from Norway. Bean yellowish brown and elongated in form. Ripens extremely early, and is very productive.

Each will be three pounds of seed of each of the above varieties, making a total of twelve pounds. This collection will be sent post paid to any one residing in Canada at a small charge sufficient to defray a part of the cost.

Each applicant will be required to submit a report at the end of the season, on the yields and general quality of the resulting crop obtained from each variety, said report to be forwarded to the above Division not later than December 31st, 1928.

It is hoped, by means of these tests, to obtain information which will indicate more accurately than otherwise would be possible, the variety which seems best adapted to the different districts.

For full particulars apply Cereal Division, Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

She Suffered With a Sore and Tired Back

Quebec Lady is Thankful She Tried Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. M. McDonald Was Completely Relieved After Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills

New Carlisle, P.Q., May 23rd, 1928. (Special)—Mrs. M. McDonald, a well-known resident here, is always ready to recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to those who suffer from pains in the back or Kidney trouble.

"I had a sore and tired back and could hardly straighten myself up," Mrs. McDonald states. "I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took five boxes and I have no more tired back. Many thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

One of the earliest symptoms of kidney trouble is pain in the back. It is itself in the cage of a great deal of suffering. But Kidney trouble, unless given prompt attention, frequently develops into more serious forms such as Rheumatism, Lumbago, Dropsy and Urinary Trouble. To be assured of good health at all times the Kidneys must be kept in good working order. At the first sign of trouble use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE

In this Conference there are 244 Pastoral Charges, with 638 preaching places in them.

Members of Session total 2,024, two more than reported a year ago. Stewards or Managers number 2,921, four more than last year. Other members of official boards show a decrease of 46 and are reported as numbering 2,145.

There are according to the reports 239 more families under the care of The United Church of Canada in this Conference this year than last. The net membership of the United Church in the Bay of Quinte Conference stands at 67,366, 15 less than reported a year ago.

There are 545 Sunday Schools—9 less than last year, with a total enrolment of 932 less than last year.

There has been an increase in salaries of ministers at the rate of $48,000 per year for the whole conference.

The Conference contributed $205,517 for the Maintenance and Extension Fund for nine months or at the rate of $274,000 for a twelve months' period —an increase over last year's rate of almost $31,000.

For all purposes the grand total givings of congregations within this Conference amount to $1,064,108 for the nine months ending December 31st, an increase at the rate of $165,000 for the year.

Since the consummation of Union in 1925 mortgages have been paid off United Church property in this Conference to the amount of $51,000.

ANNOUNCING A REMARKABLE NEW BUILDING MATERIAL

INSUL-BOARD

(INSULATING BOARD)

A Board that shuts out cold. Stops heat. Deadens sound. An extraordinary building and insulating Board designed to make home interiors more comfortable, more restful and more healthful the whole year through. An All-Canadian Board, made in Canada from the products of Canada's Forests.

INSUL-BOARD meets the need for a stouter and more rugged material for wall and ceiling insulation. Its greater structural strength has been proven under critical tests by Canada's leading engineers. It makes the walls more rigid, more enduring, more capable of resisting severe strain and stress.

INSUL-BOARD insulates completely, producing a sure and lasting shield against winter's cold and summer's heat, sealing the home interior tight against all atmospheric discomfort.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. G. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great booster for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effects he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing :

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

25 cents per box—at all dealers.

Churches and Sunday Schools have been repaired or re-decorated at a cost during the year of $76,000.

Manses or parsonages have been bought or built at a cost of over $25,000, and repairs to parsonages already in use account for $24,415 additional outlay.

More than $4,700 have been spent in furnishings for manses and upwards of $4,650 for organs and pianos.

New Churches and Sunday Schools have been erected since Union in many parts of the Conference as of which may be mentioned—

Sharbot Lake, Minden, Port Hope, Greenwood and Oshawa Missions for new churches; Beachburg has erected the church.

Bridge Street, Belleville, has a community hall, and Cartwright and Orono in Britain have new sheds.

The Women's Missionary Society has 337 auxiliaries in this Conference with a membership of 12,826, and contributed last year almost $69,800.

This Conference meets in Napanee Falls, on May 30th.

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND."

Author Was Inspired After Lecturing to Boys—Circumstantial Story.

The original manuscript of one of the most famous and best-loved books in the world is to be sold at Sotheby's. It is entitled "Alice's Adventures Under Ground," but it is known in every nursery as "Alice in Wonderland."

The manuscript is being sold by Mrs. Alice P. Hargreaves, the original Alice of the book.

One July afternoon she and two small friends were taken on the river by Mr. Charles Dodgson, an Oxford don, famous as a mathematical expert. When he was tired of rowing he took them ashore, and there, under a hayrick, he told them a story.

Most people, in similar circumstances, rely on memory, but the mathematician called in imagination. His story was a great success — so much so that he gave it more permanent form in the manuscript now being sold, and published it as a book.

But if Mr. Dodgson—or Lewis Carroll, for it is by his pen-name that he is remembered—was a good story-teller, he was also a good listener. According to legend, he got the germ of the "Alice in Wonderland" idea by acting as audience to a small boy.

This youngster had to explain an absence of some hours' duration. He did so by telling a circumstantial story of how he met a white rabbit and was taken down its hole. Lewis Carroll was apparently keenly interested in his tale.

Today Carroll has a successor in A. A. Milne. As is well known, his children's books were inspired by his son, Christopher Robin, and were originally written for him.

That other modern favorite, "Dr. Dolittle," was also originally intended simply for the amusement of the author's children. But it was a fortunate day for countless nurseries when the manuscripts which had delighted one family so much came into the hands of a publisher.

RUN WHITEWASH SPECIAL.

Train on English Railway Marks Spots That Need Repair.

Travelling on the main lines of the Great Western Railway is a mysterious train which figures in no timetable and never stops at stations to pick up passengers.

Its coaches contain not more than a dozen people, and it passes only now and then between stations.

The train is known to officials as the "Whitewash Special." Its duty is to test the permanent way, and for this runs are made from Paddington to such places as Plymouth and Newport, the engine drawing passenger rolling stock of various kinds fitted with different bogies.

Over each bogie stands an observer, and when he feels the slightest jolt he releases a spot of whitewash on to the track. Various colored washes are used—red, green, white, blue, and yellow—so that it is known which bogie was most affected and the spot that needs attention.

On the return journey stops are made to examine the line where wash has been dropped, and technical experts take measurements and notes for future repairs which will ensure smoother running.

PRINCE IS CALLED DAVID.

Lady Radnor Believes Britons Descended From David of Psalms.

The Prince of Wales is called "David" by his relatives, and never "Eddie." There will be some interest in the Dowager Lady Radnor's claim, in her newly-published book of reminiscences, that it was she who suggested this name.

Lady Radnor says she believes that Britons are descended from the ten lost tribes, and the Royal Family from King David of the Psalms. She sent a message to the Queen—then Duchess of York—asking that if a son was born to her he should be called David. The Duchess liked the name, but "wondered what reason she could give" for calling her son by it.

Lady Radnor then suggested that it could be included among the other names of the four patron saints of these islands. That, she writes, is how the Prince of Wales came by the name of David."

Five Hundred Miles Per Hour.

Everyday airplane speeds approaching 500 miles an hour are forecast by Capt. L. M. Woolson, aeronautical research engineer of the Packard Motor Company, speaking to the Boston section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and other engineering and aviation societies.

Much larger planes with far more powerful, water-cooled engines that can be placed inside the airplane and need not rely on the outside wind for cooling, and that can thus be repaired en route, are the standard toward which transcontinental aviation should work, said Capt. Woolson. Inside motors will permit heating of the wings, thus preventing the formation of ice upon them, he asserted.

Our China Trade.

Canada's trade with China has grown more rapidly than with any other country, not even excepting Germany, in the post-war period. This is indicated in figures of Chinese maritime customs. The report of the calendar year 1926, issued by the Chinese Government, shows that importations of Canadian produce increased by more than 400 per cent. over the previous year, from $3,742,720 to $15,849,619.

London's Smallest School.

London's smallest elementary school is a tiny class-room near Praed Street, where the children whose homes are canal barges receive instruction whenever they are in the district.

When I get home at 2 a.m.,
To find my wife waits up in wrath,
And, in a torrent naught can stem,
Pours all her hot reproaches forth,
One blessed thing I dwell upon—
Thank God, I'm not King Solomon.

Will had a girl.

His uncle advised him to drop her. his mother wept and told him she had hoped he would marry a different type, his men friends warned him against the girl, his girl friends rather sneered at her; indeed, everyone wanted him to drop her.

But he did not.

Because the girl herself acted as if it would not bother her in the least if he did drop her.

Works Hard, Dances, Gains 3 Lbs. a Week

"I work hard, dance and have gained 3 pounds a week since taking Vinol. My nervousness is almost all gone."—Mrs. F. Lang.

Heals Eczema In 7 Days or Less

Here is a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will do more towards helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin diseases than anything you've ever used.

Not only does this great healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but boils, abcesses and ulcers that are discharging are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases its action is little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other irritating and unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible. Wallace's Drug Store can supply you at any time.

REALLY LONG JOBS.

Took Fifty Years to Grow a Blue Dahlia.

For centuries gardeners have been trying to get a black tulip, but that seems as impossible as the production of a blue rose. The greatest triumph of the flower lover in this direction is the exhibition of a blue dahlia the cultivation of which has taken fifty-three years of patient work. Dahlias showing traces of mauve or blue were picked out and hybridized, and from the progeny of these fresh plants were selected until, after more than half a century, the blue dahlia or a very near approach to it was produced.

Another long job is just approaching completion — the new English Dictionary, begun by the late Sir James Murray in the year which saw the beginning of the search for the blue dahlia.

The scholars responsible for this work had to read all available English books printed before 1660, as well as a vast number of volumes published since that date. Five million quotations were collected by Dr. Murray. The one word "put" has fifty-two columns of references in the dictionary, while the word "point" occupies twenty-one columns. The dictionary is in ten volumes containing 15,000 pages, in which are defined the meanings of over 400,000 words.

Nothing requires more patience to complete than a piece of fine needlework, and few more beautiful articles of this kind exist than the altar cloth at the church of the Oxford Mission in Poplar, England. For ten years the woman worker who presented the cloth, and her daughter, were engaged in embroidering it. At the end of that time the wonderful figure of Christ in the centre was almost complete. Only the hair remained to be filled in. Then the daughter died, and her mother used her child's hair to complete the wonderful embroidery.

OBITUARY

Michael McKeown

There passed to rest on Monday, April 30th, 1928, at his late residence, Hawley, Michael McKeown, a well known and most highly respected citizen. For the past six years he had not been enjoying the best of health, but nevertheless continued his usual activities until Sunday, the 1st day of April, when he took his bed.

The deceased was of a bright and cheerful disposition and beloved by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. In religion he was a Roman Catholic, and a member of the Society of the Sacred Heart. He leaves his widow, two sons and two daughters, all of whom were present when he passed away; two brothers, Joseph, of Sydenham, and Edward, of Coguille, Oregon; and three sisters, Mrs. John Boyle, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. James O'Ray, Napanee, and Mrs. Al. DeCaux, South Omaha, Nebraska, also survive.

The unusual number of Spiritual offerings which rested on the casket were silent tributes of heartfelt sympathy from the many friends of the bereaved ones.

The funeral was held on Wednesday morning to the R. C. Church, Napanee, where a requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Father Terrion, for the repose of the soul.

The pallbearers were Messrs. F. Call, W. Wood, G. Creighton, W. Rutan, A. Murphy and C. Hinch.

The remains were interred in the family plot in the R. C. cemetery. May his soul rest in peace.

PAY FOR PRISONERS

General Hughes, the Warden of Kingston Penitentiary, has made a proposal that, if adopted, should lead to a great change in the lot of prisoners in our jails and convict prisons, as well as assuring help to the dependent families of inmates of prisons, undergoing punishment. This good and sensible proposal is that prisoners should be paid for their work and the money so earned should go to the support of prisoners families or to themselves to help them get started upon their release from liberty.

There is much to be said for the suggested plan. For one thing, it would serve to prevent men losing all their self-respect, as so often happens to the prison inmate. The very thought that a man's wife and children are deprived of his support tends to lessen the prisoner's respect for himself and causes him to lose heart and hope. For another thing, a prisoner would find a greater joy in working for wages than when performing the almost endless, and nearly always useless, tasks given him to do under present conditions. To know that the work he does has some value placed upon it, instead of being merely a time-killer, given to keep him occupied, must help a man to feel he is still something of a man.

The whole theory of punishment by imprisonment is due for re-examination. Punishment if it be solely vindictive and punitive is useless for the purpose for which designed. Unless punishment aims at reforming men, rebuilding character, and aiding men to desire to become good citizens once more it serves no useful purpose. It is at once un-Christian and uncivilised; barbaric beyond measure. Offenders against the law who are paying the penalty for their disrespect of law and order are often so treated in prison as to make an embittered enemy of society and determined upon revenge. They become dehumanized frequently, and the treatment they receive at the hands of society makes them its enemies. This is not true in every case, but in far too many.

Let all prisoners be treated with kindness, wisdom, and practical philanthropy, without in any way coddling them. Help them to go forth from jail determined to be better and do better, give them a helping hand after they have served their time, allowing no stigma of imprisonment to attach to them, and most so-called criminals can be redeemed. General Hughes' proposal not only reflects credit upon himself but will bring satisfaction and pleasure to all people who have "Kindness in another's trouble, courage in their own". Let the government act in this matter without delay.

Indignant Householder (holding up a dead cat): Here, constable, look what I found in my garden. What are you going to do about it?

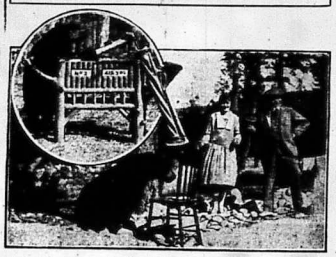
When Bruin Makes Friends



Visitors to Jasper National Park, which is Canada's largest and finest national playground, situated in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, have a splendid opportunity of studying the habits of wild animals. For Jasper National Park is a game sanctuary in the finest sense of the word, and guns and hunting dogs are forbidden within its boundaries. It is of interest to observe the manner in which the animals recognize this. Though it is only comparatively few years since this great sanctuary was set aside, the shy deer and mountain sheep are no longer shy, the black and brown bears have become daily visitors, to village and to hotel grounds, and the animal population of the park is increasing by leaps and bounds.

However, it is Bruin who demonstrates perhaps most forcibly, how the animals have come to regard man as their friend instead of as their enemy. Now it is a daily event to have one or more bears visit the Lodge grounds in search of the titbits which they know tourists love to feed to them. Nor is it unusual for a golfer playing over the magnificent scenic course which has been laid out in the Athabasca Valley, to meet a bear at the turn of the fairway, or to find a shy deer viewing him with interest as he gets down to line up his putt on one or another of the greens.

A short time ago, it was estimated that the mountain sheep population of this 5,300 square mile national park was over 10,000, with an equal number of deer, while the bears are numbered in thousands and are seen at almost any turn of the road. And when once a bear cub has developed a taste for sugar, he is a confirmed visitor to the Lodge grounds.—Canadian National Railways photograph

PHILIPPI TO BE REDEEMED.

Historic Area Has Associations of St. Paul and Caesar.

The Plain of Philippi, which knew St. Paul and where, after the assassination of Julius Caesar, the Roman republican forces met their fate with the imperialists, is the latest but not newest in which it is planned to rout marshes and streams and substitute agriculture and health.

Philippi is one of the numerous plains near the mouths of rivers on the northern shores of the Aegean Sea, where careless Turkish agriculture permitted rich soil to become waterlogged and marshy.

Since Greece received several million refugee inhabitants as a result of the great trek of Greeks from Turkish territory, the National Geographic Society says, plans have been formulated to salvage those marshy areas of Macedonia by drainage. The valley of the Barda, near Salonika, was the area first attacked by the engineers. The Plain of Philippi lies fifty miles to the east of Salonika in the valley of the little river, Angista. Ten miles south is the seashore with its port of Kavala.

Over the plain, on a rocky hill, are the ruins of the City of Philippi, named for Philip II. of Macedon. It was to convert in Philippi, after his trial and imprisonment there, that St. Paul wrote his Epistle to the Philippians.

In connection with the project for draining the Plain of Philippi, the Greek Government also will drain the territory slightly to the west in the Struma river valley. Close to the sea this valley is occupied by Lake Achinos, the small remnant of a once great lake. About it are marshy regions. Further up the valley the entire basin is intensively cultivated, constituting some of the best agricultural land in Greece. When the Philippi and Struma projects are completed Lake Achinos and its marshes will have disappeared.

INCOMES IN UNITED STATES.

Forty-Seven Per Cent of Incomes Between $2,000 to $5,000.

There are just as many families in the United States with annual incomes of $5,000 to $10,000 as there are with incomes of less than $1,000, Winslow Russell, vice-president of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company, stated recently.

The largest group, 47 per cent of the 26,500,000 families making up our population, enjoy incomes of $2,000 to $5,000, the speaker declared. We are told by an eminent authority connected with the American Association of Advertising Agencies that about 314,000 families, or 1½ per cent., have incomes exceeding $10,000 a year; 1,750,000, 6.6 per cent., have incomes between $5,000 and $10,000; 12,425,000, or 47 per cent., have incomes between $2,000 and $5,000; 10,300,000, or 38 per cent., get from $1,000 to $2,000 annually, and 1,750,000, or 6.6 per cent., have incomes of less than $1,000.

DEATHS.

McGREER—At Riverside, Richmond, on Friday, May 18th, 1928, Sarah Esther Thompson, beloved wife of Charles McGreer, in her 64th year. Deeply regretted.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Grace Morrison who died May 25th, 1927.

We sadly think on her sudden day by day,
We cannot in patience grieve;
To see her slowly pine away,
And could not give relief.

In secret we waited day by day,
And watched our suffer there.
Slowly but surely pass away,
From pain he scarce could bear.

Ever remembered by Wife and Family. 21ap

MILLIONAIRE'S HOBBY

Col. Leonard of St. Catharines, Ont., Believes in Tightening Bonds of Empire.

Hobby? Rather say that in tightening the bonds of sentiment that hold together the Empire's component parts Reuben W. Leonard, philanthropist, Northwest Rebellion veteran, arch-imperialist and Tory of the oldest school, has found his life work, says a writer in the Toronto Star Weekly.

And only a few days ago came news that a new link had been added to the imperialistic chain that this man is forging. The Leonard Foundation Association was formed. Back in 1916 Col. and Mrs. Leonard established the Leonard Foundation in several Canadian educational institutions. Its purpose is to help outstanding students to gain an education. Scholarships are given to students who, in addition to conforming to certain stipulated conditions, give promise of making some distinctive contribution to the Empire.

Now the students who have been and are being helped by this foundation have banded together in an association to further the ideals of the founder. A picked corps of imperialists that has so far cost Col. Leonard around half a million dollars.

He it was who, with Mrs. Leonard, in November, 1922, presented the historic No. 10 St. James square to the British Institute for the study of international affairs. His object once again was to help make the Empire more conscious of itself, of the contacts of its parts, and of its contacts with outside countries, for, as he expresses it: "To serve the Empire truly is to serve mankind." Not only did he present Chatham House; he endowed it, and all that cost him around another half million. But there seems to be no end to the wealth which he derived from the Conlaton silver mines of Cobalt, and which he now spends with altruism and modesty.

A few of his gifts total staggering sums. He offered a quarter-million towards a Joint Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. building for St. Catharines, where he also gave $100,000 to build a nurses' home. He quietly handed over $200,000 to Ridley College. It is probably safe to say that most of his gifts have never been heard of by the general public.

PREFERS GREEK AND LATIN.

Modern Fiction Is Not Attractive to Baldwin.

Prime Minister Baldwin's favorite books are the Greek and Latin Classics, and he is probably one of the very few men in England who carry out any pretensions to great scholarship, can deliberately read Homer, Virgil, Ovid and Homer for pleasure, Neither at Harrow nor Trinity College, Cambridge, was Mr. Baldwin a great reader in the sense in which the expression is understood at a university. It was after he left Cambridge and entered his father's business that he began as a recreation in the evening to read the Greek and Latin Classics more attentively than he had ever done at Cambridge. In those days he was engaged all day in his father's offices and his evenings were his only time for reading.

Modern romantic fiction does not greatly interest the premier, though if he takes up a novel by chance and it interests him quickly, he will probably finish it. If he is slow to find the time; but if a book of the kind fails to attract him very quickly he soon puts it down and is unlikely to look at it again.

A City of Beavers.

Beavers have built a city of houses, dams, ponds and canals covering twenty acres in the ice jam of Nisqually creek, in Mt. Rainier National Park.

—On Wednesday, May 23rd, there passed away two clergymen, who were well known in religious circles in and around Napanee, Rev. Malcolm MacGillivary, of Kingston, who for thirty years was the minister of Chalmers Church there, and Rev. H. Gracey, who had been minister of the Presbyterian Church in Gananoque for thirty-seven years. Both of these men have preached often in Napanee, and made many friends by their scholarship and kindly manner. Dr. MacGillivary was 83 years of age and Dr. Gracey 91. Both enjoyed remarkably good health until quite recently.

—A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Parsonage, Bellville, on May 15th, by Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, when Hazel Iona, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Collins, became the bride of Ervine Isaac Hill, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hill, of Belleville. The bride looked lovely in powder blue georgette. Miss Gladys Collins, sister of the bride, acted as Bridespaid, wearing sand flat crepe. Archie Hill, brother of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the home of the bride's parents, where about twenty friends of the bride and groom sat down to well-filled tables. After spending a social evening the bride and groom returned to Belleville, where they will reside.

MAPLE LEAF WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The annual meeting of the Maple Leaf Institute was held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Cummings, on May 10th, with twenty-four ladies and a number of gentlemen in attendance. This being the first meeting of the year, our President, Mrs. J. W. Cummings, presided for roll call, which was responded to by paying membership fees, after which the usual order of business was followed. Address by President; minutes read and confirmed; reports from various committees and business transacted.

A special meeting was arranged, at which Miss E. McGee, Government Delegate, will give an address. We were then favored with a beautiful duet by Rev. W. R. and Mrs. Merrick, after which Mr. Merrick gave a very interesting address, choosing for his subject, "The Key to Success". Mrs. C. Day then gave a splendid paper on "Victoria Day", after which several new members were enrolled, and collection taken. Meeting closed by singing "God Save the King", followed by a bountiful lunch served by the Committee in charge.

SUCCESSFUL SAFETY CONVENTION

BY R. B. MORLEY,
General Manager, Industrial Accident Prevention Associations.

When Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, told the eleven hundred and twelve executives at the Safety Convention of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association of Ontario, in Hamilton on May 4 and 5, that "Employers should keep in mind the fact that by assuring employees of good working conditions, they benefit themselves. They should make provision against the time when workers will no longer be able to help themselves," he was touching on a most important phase of safety work.

"Men do work with fewer accidents when they are able to keep their minds on the job and off outside worries."

The retiring chairman of the associations, W. S. Campbell, Canadian General Electric Co., Toronto, traced the history of organized safety work in industry in Ontario from February, 1915. The report of the general manager in outlining the large amount of work done by the office and field force of the organization touched on the higher side of safety work by saying: "We have learned that the care of machines pays big dividends and we are commencing to apply the value of this experience to men. Machines are one side of the productive processes, men are the other. Some have said that a man's hours of work are a minus quantity in the happiness of life and hours of idleness the plus quantities—but we are learning that it is good business to have employees reasonably satisfied with their daily work. Anything done to improve working conditions is worth while and must improve accident experience."

No convention of men interested in accident prevention would be complete without an address from W. A. Sinclair, K.C., chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, to indicate that the associations are doing good work. This year Mr. Sinclair discussed compensation and rehabilitation, dealing at length with the work done by his board in getting injured workers into suitable employment.

An international touch to the proceedings was given when S. Horace Disston, of Philadelphia, told of the development of the circular saw and its relation to safety, while A. L. Kasma, of Kenosha, Wis., spoke on guarding punch press operations.

At the annual general meeting W. C. Coulter, of Coulter Copper & Brass Co., Toronto, was elected chairman, while A. E. Adam, Canadian Cottons, and C. H. O. Pook, Canadian Westinghouse Co., both of Hamilton, became vice-chairmen for the ensuing year. At the session over which he presided Mr. Coulter promised that every effort would be made by him and his associates to maintain the high standard set by his predecessors in office.

Other speakers at the two-day sessions were: A. C. Tagge, president, Canada Cement Co., Montreal; Dr. J. G. Cunningham, director, Division of Industrial Hygiene; L. W. Gill, principal, Hamilton Technical School; Hon. Leeming Carr, M.P.P., Hamilton; Henry Bernstein, Swift Canadian Co., Toronto, and F. M. Morton, International Harvester Co., Hamilton.

A safety play, staged under the direction of G. A. Knechenmeister, was very well done and the Safety Exhibit was itself an education in industrial accident prevention.

The session occupied two full days, the delegates registered not only being from every industrial community in Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick on the Canadian side, but from New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Michigan on the American side.

All records for attendance at safety conventions in Canada were shattered and a new impetus given the safety crusade of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations.

ERNESTTOWN

The much needed rain over the week end was appreciated by all.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight and family, of Shannonville, visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thompson. — The programme committee of the Institute held a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Andrew Miller, on Tuesday of last week.—Mr. and Mrs. Manson Smith and Mr. and Mrs. E. Small, of Oshawa, took tea on Sunday evening at Joel Kellar's.—Miss E. Glenn spent Saturday in town.—The May meeting of the Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Weese, on Wednesday, May 16th. Thirty-five members and visitors were present. The meeting opened by the usual Ode, followed by prayer in unison. Mrs. A. J. Smith read a chapter from the 101st Psalm. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Our annual lawn social came up for discussion. It was decided to hold it on July 4th, on Mr. Claude Thompson's lawn. During the afternoon David Weese gave a reading about "Mothers", which was enjoyed by all. $1.05 was added to our flower fund making the collection for the afternoon $13.15. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Weese, assisted by Mrs. Milton Thompson and Mrs. Irwin Lemmon.—Mr. and Mrs. Wmnie Thompson took tea with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mott, on Sunday last.—Mr. and Mrs. Willie Amey Sundayed with her parents, Mr. Wm. Hall, Morven.—Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Baker, of Shannonville, called on his father, Mr. John Baker, recently.

—The estate of the late Mrs. (Dr.) Charles Edwin Wilson, Toronto, will ultimately go to the Prince Edward County Hospital at Picton for the endowment of a ward to be called the "Richard Hadden Ward", in memory of her father. The estate is probated at $21,000 and is in charge of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation. In the meantime, the income goes to the husband of deceased and on his demise to a sister, Mrs. Lily Bell Philips, and a nephew, Richard Hadden. When they pass away the hospital inherits the estate.

Famous Hidden Qualities of Kroehler Made Furniture

Guaranteed Spring Steel Understructure
Seat-supporting springs are large wide coils of Premier quality, high tempered steel. They rest upon and are interlocked with a strong, yet flexible, spring steel understructure. This is sturdy quality construction—vastly superior to ordinary web construction because it is positively permanent and will not sag or tear loose from the frame.

Spring Edges
Double-stuffed and closely stitched. Heavy sheeting over springs.

Hardwood Frames
Thoroughly seasoned, kiln-dried, strongly braced, glued, doweled and corner blocked.

Cushions
Luxuriously comfortable, spring-filled loose cushions, padded with clean, white felted cotton. Retain their shape and never become unsightly.

Filling Materials

Forced To Sleep In Chair—Gas So Bad

"Nights I sat up in a chair, I had such stomach gas. I took Adlerika and nothing I eat hurts me now. I sleep fine."—Mrs. Glenn Butler.

Even the FIRST spoonful of Adlerika relieves gas on the stomach and removes astonishing amounts of old waste matter from the system. Makes you enjoy your meals and sleep better. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. Wallace's Drug Store.

WOODSIDE—WESTBROOK

(For last week).

We are having ideal spring weather here now. The farmers are all busy on the land.—The funeral of the late Rebecca Gates was held on Friday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Burd. Her bright disposition won for her many friends who regret her passing. Mrs. Gates was eighty-two years of age, and had been a resident of this place nearly all her life. On Friday last Mrs. Gates was brought 112 miles in an ambulance, from Watertown, N.Y., via Brockville. Her death was caused from heart trouble and gangrene. Mrs. Gates is survived by four daughters, Mrs. D. McDonald, Mountain Grove; Mrs. Ralston, North Bay; Mrs. Baldick, of Watertown, N.Y.; Mrs. S. Burt, of Westbrooke, and two sons, Earl Gates, of Watertown, N.Y., and James Gates, Westbrooke. — Mr. Caddott's many friends are sorry to hear that his condition is not improving very rapidly.—Mr. and Mrs. Ross Revell are rejoicing over another boy.—Mrs. Gillies, of Hamilton, is with her mother, Mrs. D. Roblin, who had the misfortune to sprain her ankle, but is recovering, although slowly. — Mr. and Mrs. Norman Frizzell and baby, Joyce-lyn, left last Friday to live at Moscow. —Corleen Lockwood's many friends are glad she has recovered nicely from a severe attack of flu.

If Noah had debated as long as Congress over flood protection, this terrestrial sphere would now be inhabited exclusively by fishes.

R. O. P. COPYRIGHTED

The Department of Agriculture announces that the term "R.O.P.", the popular title for the policy of the Record of Performance for Poultry, has been copyrighted by the Dominion Live Stock Branch, from which office the policy is administered. The purpose of copyrighting is to prevent the fraudulent use of the term in advertising. The widespread popularity and demand for Record of Performance poultry have made the move necessary for the protection of farmers and poultrymen desiring to secure R.O.P. stock.

Many commercial hatcheries are using R.O.P. males to head the flocks from which they secure eggs, and while the Department is encouraging this practice, it also intends to insure that genuine R.O.P. stock is so used and advertised.

Definitions are at present being drafted defining the various classes of R.O.P. stock—females, males, chicks, pens, etc. These will be made public when adopted, and will be the official definitions under the discretionary power granted the Dominion Live Stock Branch through the copyright. (Issued by the Director of Publicity, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa).

The percentage of accidents due to drivers asleep at the wheel" greatly increased last year. Motors are now fool-proof, but the fool must be awake.

Give Confidence To Young Mothers

By Always Keeping Baby's Own Tablets in the Home

A simple and safe remedy for the common ills of babyhood and childhood should be kept in every home where there is either a baby or a young child. Often it is necessary to give the little ones something to break up a cold, allay fever, relieve sour stomach and banish the constipability that accompanies the cutting of teeth.

Experienced mothers always keep Baby's Own Tablets in the home as a safeguard against the troubles that make their little ones so suddenly ill, and the young mother can feel reasonably safe with a box of these Tablets at hand and ready for emergencies.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative that acts without gripping and they are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates or other harmful drugs. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

JUST imagine an oven in which you can cook four pies at one time over a single burner! All will be done in record time merely cooking, evenly browned. "Live heat" does it! And only Perfection ovens employ this principle.

Every drop of oil is changed into clean, intense heat in the long chimneys. No smoke, no soot, no odor. The patented wick stop will not permit the wick to flare or the flame to rise above a set point.

See the new Perfection at your dealer's. Prices range from $8.35 to $212.50. For complete information write General Steel Wares, Limited, Toronto, Ontario. 202

A tourist once happened to meet the rural "oldest inhabitant" of a village. In the course of conversation he asked the ancient how old he was.

"I be just a hundred," was the reply.

"Well, I doubt if you'll see another hundred years," said the tourist, trying to make conversation.

"I don't know so much about that, master," was the hopeful response. "I be stronger now than when I started on my first hundred."

SOCIAL EVENTS

Last Saturday evening was the occasion of a Bridge, given by Mr. Beverley Thompson, at his home on Bridge Street, in honor of Miss Helen Wallace and Mr. Reginald Batten. The guests were ushered in by a gay little bride and groom, and the guest of honor received with Mr. Thompson. The decorations were all in shades of mauve, a favorite color of the bride-elect, and cut flowers were placed about drawing-rooms. After Bridge, a delicious supper was served.

Bridge-Luncheon
On Friday of last week, Mrs. Franklin VanLuven entertained at a Bridge-Luncheon in honor of Miss Helen Wallace. Mrs. T. B. Wallace and Mrs. Wallace received with Mrs. VanLuven.

A special table was arranged for the guest of honor and her hostess in the dining-room, while the other guests were placed at small tables in the living-room. The decorations were all of mauve and yellow, tulips being used in profusion; while the place cards, tables, and prizes were all in the same pretty color combination. After a delicious luncheon, a pleasant afternoon was spent in playing Bridge, at the conclusion of which, in addition to the usual prizes, a beautiful gold cup and saucer tied with mauve and yellow tinsue and ribbon, was presented to the bride-to-be.

OBITUARY.

Robert Perry.
Robert Perry, one of the best known and respected residents of North Fredericksburgh, passed away suddenly on Thursday, May 17th, at his home on the Town Line, near Morven, aged 81 years and 11 months. He was taken ill only a week before with bronchitis, which developed into Bronchial Pneumonia, and was too much for him at his advanced age.

Deceased was born in Belleville in 1846, and at 7 years of age moved with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Perry, to his late home, where he has resided for the past seventy-five years.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Merrick, at the Brick Church, Morven, on Sunday afternoon last, and was the largest held in that church for many years. Interment took place in the family plot at the White Church cemetery.

Deceased was a devoted husband, a loving father, and a good neighbor. Besides his sorrowing widow, he leaves to mourn his loss four sons, W. B., at Toronto; W. D., at Deseronto; H. E., and F. B., at Winnipeg; three daughters, Mrs. M. A. Rombough, at Minetto, N.Y.; Mrs. Charlie Rombough, Adolphustown; Mrs. D. B. Manson, Winnipeg, and three sisters, Mrs. Addie Fraser, Morven; Mrs. Charlotte Pretts, Toronto, and Mrs. Catherine Johnson, Newberg, Oregon.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles McGreer.
The people of this community were greatly shocked to learn of the passing away of Mrs. Charles McGreer, of Riverside, on Friday last, May 18th. She was ill for a month, but it was hoped that recovery for her might be possible.

Mrs. McGreer was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson, from whom she inherited a strong and noble character. She was unfailing in her kindness and sympathy towards others, and especially towards those who were in trouble or sickness, and she will be remembered as one who made life happier for everyone with whom she came in contact. Her great delight was in her home, where guests always found most gracious hospitality.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, May 21st, at 2.30 o'clock, in the Church of St. Mary Magdalene. The service was conducted by the Rev. R. J. Dumville, Vicar of Napanee, who was assisted by the Venerable Archdeacon Coleman, of Kingston, a former Vicar of the Parish, the Rev. Canon Creegan, of Gananoque, and the Rev. J. B. Creegan, of Bancroft.

The pall bearers were four sons, Arthur, Harold, Victor, and Roy, and two of her nephews, Eric McGreer, of Belleville, and D'Arcy McGreer, of Ottawa. There were many beautiful flowers which expressed the affection and sympathy of relatives and friends.

Mrs. McGreer leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Charles, four sons and two daughters, Mrs. B. F. Hawley, Napanee, and Miss Hilda, at home. Her youngest son, William Raymond, was killed in action at Amiens, August 11th, 1918. There are seven grandchildren.

Presentation and Address.
The Friendly Bible Class of Grace Church Sunday School met at the home of their teacher, Mrs. McLaughlin, John Street, on Thursday evening, May 17th, the President, Miss Hall, in the chair. The meeting opened in the usual way, by singing our class hymn and prayer. After the transaction of business, an address was read to Miss Green, who is about to make her home in Ogdensburg, N.Y.

Dear Miss Green,—It is with deep regret we learn that you are about to leave us. You have been a faithful member of our class, none more faithful. Always so willing to help out in any way, we shall miss you very much. You will be making new friends in your new home, but do not forget the tried and true, such as each member of this class. Kindly accept this small token of our appreciation and good will. Miss Green was presented with a book of poems.

Signed on behalf of the class,
VIOLET HALL, Pres.
IDA UNGAR, Secty.

The remainder of the evening was spent in contests, after which a delicious luncheon was served by our hostesses, Mrs. McLaughlin.

NAPANEE BRANCH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

REPORT OF 1927-28.

The Napanee Branch of the Women's Institute has held ten regular meetings during the past year. One hundred and seventy-seven members have been enrolled, with an average attendance of 71.5. Seven lectures have been given, covering a variety of subjects. They are as follows :—

"Relation of Branch, District and Federated Women's Institutes", by Mrs. C. Field Robertson.

"Canadian Women of Note", by Miss Helen Grange.

"Flowers", by Mr. Laughland.

"A Heart to Heart Talk With Busy Mothers and Home-makers", by Mrs. J. B. Miller.

Miss Lauder, V.O.N., gave an interesting address on her work.

"House Decoration", by Miss McMannus.

"Health", by Miss McMillan.

Four Demonstration lectures were given as follows :—

"Canning Vegetables and Fruits", by Miss Preston.

"Varieties of Cookies from one recipe", by Mrs. E. J. Corkill.

"Hooking Rugs", by Mrs. R. Meyers.

"Salads and Salad Dressing", by Mrs. T. V. Anderson.

"Crepe Paper Novelties", by Miss M. Hawley.

At the annual Convention was held at Kingston this last year, many of our members were able to enjoy the sessions. Mrs. Jas. Douglas was our delegate, and brought back a splendid report. Mrs. Ralph Ham has been our delegate to the Local Council of Women in Kingston for the past five months, and has brought to us some interesting news of work being undertaken.

The Mother and Daughter Banquet was held on January 28th, when two hundred and thirty mothers and daughters sat down to a sumptuous banquet. Lady Foster of Ottawa, addressed the audience, her subject being the League of Nations.

No courses were held by the Institute this year, but some of the members attended the four-weeks' course held by the Department of Agriculture which was indeed very instructive.

For this year's community work we have laid aside fifty dollars to be used in assisting the Council to name the streets of our town.

The Superintendent of Current Events; Mrs. Ella Wagar, has kept the Institute posted on doings from every part of the world. She is to be congratulated on her excellent work, as is also our Flower; Superintendent, Mrs. Ralph Ham, as twenty-five of our members have been remembered with flowers during illness.

The officers for this year are :—
President—Mrs. Ralph Ham.
1st Vice President—Mrs. T. V. Anderson.
Rec. Secty. Treas.—Mrs. Frank Herrington.
District Director—Mrs. J. Laughland.
Executive Director—Mrs. Laughland and Mrs. Orchard.
Directors—Mrs. Switzer, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Leggett, Mrs. Corkill, Mrs. Judson, Miss E. Herrington.
Flower Superintendent — Mrs. F. Marsh.
Superintendent Current Events — Mrs. E. Wagar.

New Kind of Spectacles
1,000 Pairs to be Given Free
Toronto, Ont.—A new, true-vision spectacle has been created. Its popularity is now sweeping the country. These spectacles will enable almost anyone to read the very smallest print, thread the finest needle and see far or near. They are guaranteed unbreakable, cannot tarnish, and are a vast improvement over all other makes.
The manufacturers, True-Fit Optical Co., 29-33 Melinda St., Dept. R.A., 150, Toronto, Ont., are offering to give a thousand pairs free to those who will help introduce them. Write them today. They will also explain how you can get the agency and without experience or money make $200 to $500 per month.

Cut many sections of a Gum-Dipped Tire showing one cord untwisted into 15 strands. Every fibre of every strand is insulated with rubber.

Why Gum-Dipping Increases Tire Life
A tire in use is being constantly bent backwards and forwards by road action. Such movement generates friction and heat that has a deteriorating effect unless the tire is built to withstand it.
In the carcass of a Gum-Dipped tire there is less friction to generate heat because Gum-Dipping is the coating of new live rubber around each separate cord that keeps it from rubbing against the cords that lie next to it. It stays cooler and therefore lasts longer.
Your local Firestone Dealer will gladly advise you on your tire problems. See him today.

A tourist once happened to meet the oldest inhabitant" of a village. In the course of conversation he asked the ancient how old he was. "If he just a hundred," was the reply.

"Well, I doubt if you'll see another hundred years," said the tourist, trying to make conversation.

"I don't know so much about that, master," was the hopeful response. "I be stronger now than when I started on my first hundred."

SOCIAL EVENTS

Last Saturday evening was the occasion of a Bridge, given by Mr. Beverley Thompson, at his home on Bridge Street, in honor of Miss Helen Wallace and Mr. Reginald Batten. The guests were ushered in by a gay little bride and groom, and the guests of honor received with Mr. Thompson. The decorations were all in shades of mauve, a favorite color of the bride-elect, and cut flowers were placed about drawing-rooms. After Bridge, a delicious supper was served.

Bridge-Luncheon

On Friday of last week, Mrs. Franklin VanLuven entertained at a Bridge-Luncheon in honor of Miss Helen Wallace. Mrs. T. B. Wallace and Mrs. Wallace received with Mrs. VanLuven.

A special table was arranged for the guest of honor and her hostess in the dining-room, while the other guests were placed at small tables in the living-room. The decorations were all of mauve and yellow, tulips being used in profusion; while the place cards, tables, and prizes were all in the same pretty color combination. After a delicious luncheon, a pleasant afternoon was spent in playing Bridge, at the conclusion of which, in addition to the usual prizes, a beautiful gold cup and saucer tied with mauve and yellow tissue and ribbon, was presented to the bride-to-be.

OBITUARY.

Robert Perry.

Robert Perry, one of the best known and respected residents of North Fredericksburgh, passed away suddenly on Thursday, May 17th, at his home on the Town Line, near Morven, aged 81 years and 11 months. He was taken ill only a week before with bronchitis, which developed into Bronchial Pneumonia, and was too much for him at his advanced age.

Deceased was born in Belleville in 1846, and at 7 years of age moved with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Perry, to his late home, where he has resided for the past seventy-five years.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Merrick, at the Brick Church, Morven, on Sunday afternoon last, and was the largest held in that church for many years. Interment took place in the family plot at the White Church cemetery.

Deceased was a devoted husband, a loving father, and a good neighbor. Besides his sorrowing widow, he leaves to mourn his loss four sons, W. B., at Toronto; W. D., at Deseronto; H. E. and F. R., at Winnipeg; three daughters, Mrs. M. A. Rombough, at Minetto, N.Y.; Mrs. Charlie Rombough, Adolphustown; Mrs. D. B. Manion, Winnipeg, and three sisters, Mrs. Addie Fraser, Morven; Mrs. Charlotte Pretts, Toronto, and Mrs. Catherine Johnson, Newberg, Oregon.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles McGreer.

The people of this community were greatly shocked to learn of the passing away of Mrs. Charles McGreer, of Riverside, on Friday last, May 18th. She was ill for a month, but it was hoped that recovery for her might be possible.

Mrs. McGreer was the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson, from which she inherited a strong and noble character. She was unfailing in her kindness and sympathy towards others, and especially towards those who were in trouble or sickness, and she will be remembered as one who made life happier for everyone with whom she came in contact. Her great delight was in her home, where guests always found most gracious hospitality.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, May 21st, at 2.30 o'clock, in the Church of St. Mary Magdalene. The service was conducted by the Rev. R. J. Dunbrelle, Vicar of Napanee, who was assisted by the Venerable Archdeacon Coleman, of Kingston, a former Vicar of the Parish, the Rev. Canon Creegan, of Gananoque, and the Rev. J. B. Creegan, of Bancroft.

The pall bearers were her four sons, Arthur, Harold, Victor, and Roy, and two of her nephews, Eric McGreer, of Belleville, and D'Arcy McGreer, of Ottawa. There were many beautiful flowers which expressed the affection and sympathy of relatives and friends.

Mrs. McGreer leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Charles, four sons and two daughters, Mrs. B. F. Hawley, of Napanee, and Miss Hilda, at home. Her youngest son, William Raymond, was killed in action at Amiens, on August 11th, 1918. There are seven grandchildren.

Presentation and Address.

The Friendly Bible Class of Grace Church Sunday School met at the home of their teacher, Mrs. McLaughlin, John Street, on Thursday evening, May 17th, the President, Miss Hall, in the chair. The meeting opened in the usual way, by singing our class hymn and prayer. After the transaction of business, an address was read to Miss Green, who is about to make her home in Ogdensburg, N.Y.

Dear Miss Green,—It is with deep regret we learn that you are about to leave us. You have been a faithful member of our class, none more faithful. Always so willing to help out in any way, we shall miss you very much. You will be making new friends in your new home, but do not forget the tried and true, such as each member of this class. Kindly accept this small token of our appreciation and good will. Miss Green was presented with a book of poems.

Signed on behalf of the class.
VIOLET HALL, Pres.
IDA UNGAR, Secty.

The remainder of the evening was spent in contests, after which a delicious luncheon was served by our hostess, Mrs. McLaughlin.

NAPANEE BRANCH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

REPORT OF 1927-28.

The Napanee Branch of the Women's Institute has held ten regular meetings during the past year. One hundred and seventy-seven members have been enrolled, with an average attendance of 71.5. Seven lectures have been given, covering a variety of subjects. They are as follows :—

"Relation of Branch, District and Federated Women's Institutes", by Mrs. C. Field Robertson.

"Canadian Women of Note", by Miss Helen Grange.

"Flowers", by Mr. Laughland.

"A Heart to Heart Talk With Busy Mothers and Home-makers", by Mrs. J. B. Miller.

Miss Lauder, V.O.N., gave an interesting address on her work.

"House Decoration", by Miss McMannus.

"Health", by Miss McMillan.

Four Demonstration lectures were given as follows :—

"Canning Vegetables and Fruits", by Miss Preston.

"Hooking Rugs", by Mrs. R. Meyers.

"Salads and Salad Dressing", by Mrs. T. V. Anderson.

"Crepe Paper Novelties", by Miss M. Hawley.

The annual Convention was held at Kingston this last year, many of our members were able to enjoy the sessions. Mrs. Jas. Douglas was our delegate, and brought back a splendid report. Mrs. Ralph Ham has been our delegate to the Local Council of Women in Kingston for the past five months, and has brought to us some interesting news of work being undertaken.

The Mother and Daughter Banquet was held on January 28th, when two hundred and thirty mothers and daughters sat down to a sumptuous banquet. Lady Foster of Ottawa, addressed the audience, her subject being the League of Nations.

No courses were held by the Institute this year, but some of the members attended the four-weeks' course held by the Department of Agriculture which was indeed very instructive.

For this year's community work we have laid aside fifty dollars to be used in assisting the Council to name the streets of our town.

The Superintendent of Current Events, Mrs. Ella Wagar, has kept the Institute posted on doings from every part of the world. She is to be congratulated on her excellent work, as is also our Flower Superintendent, Mrs. Ralph Ham, as several vases of our members have been remembered with flowers during illness.

The officers for the year are :—
President—Mrs. Ralph Ham.
1st Vice President—Mrs. T. V. Anderson.
Rec. Secty. Treas.—Mrs. Frank Herrington.
District Directer—Mrs. J. Laughland.
Executive Director—Mrs. Laughland and Mrs. Graham.
Directors—Mrs. Switzer, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Lorne Mrs. Corkill, Mrs. Judson, Miss E. Herrington.
Flower Superintendent — Mrs. F. Marsh.
Superintendent Current Events — Mrs. E. Wagar.
Press Reporter—Mrs. A. MacGregor.

New Kind of Spectacles

1,000 Pairs to be Given Free

Toronto, Ont.—A new, true-vision spectacle has been created. Its popularity is now sweeping the country. These spectacles will enable almost anyone to read the very smallest print, thread the finest needle and see far or near. They are guaranteed unbreakable, cannot tarnish, and are a vast improvement over all other makes.

The manufacturers, True-Fit Optical Co., 29-33 Melinda St., Dept. R.A. 150, Toronto, Ont., are offering to give a thousand pairs free to those who will help introduce them. Write them today. They will also explain how you can get the agency and without experience or money make $200 to $500 per month.

Why Gum-Dipping Increases Tire Life

A tire in use is being constantly bent backward and forwards by road action. Such movement generates friction and heat that has a deteriorating effect unless the tire is built to withstand it.

In the carcass of a Gum-Dipped tire there is less friction to generate heat because Gum-Dipping puts a coating of new live rubber around each separate cord that keeps it from rubbing against the cords that lie next to it. It stays cooler and therefore lasts longer.

Your local Firestone Dealer will gladly advise you on your tire problems. See him today.

INTEREST IS KEEN IN GARDEN CONTESTS

School Children Learn Value of Care-ful Methods of Growing and Fertilizing.

"Bigger yields of better vegetables" would make a snappy slogan for the school children Home Garden Contests conducted in this county by the representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Gardening is a job that appeals to children, because they like to watch things grow and delight in tender care; and when it is their own garden, and they are competing with the gardens of their schoolmates, interest is naturally keen. These contests have been a particularly successful means of getting farm boys and girls interested in improved methods of crop production—the value of good seed, of tested varieties, of careful methods of cultivation and weed control, and of maintaining soil fertility. The gardens are judged by the county representative and exhibits of garden produce are shown at the school fairs.

The problem of soil fertility is an important one, and this year the Chinguacousy Agricultural Society has again a co-operating with the Department of Agriculture in the Home Garden Contests. Starting some years ago in a few counties, the Bureau offered a share of the prize money and special prizes for the best essays on the use of nitrate in the garden. Last year 36 contests were provided with nitrate and special prize-money. This plan proved so successful that this year over fifty contests are taking advantage of it. Ten-pound bags of nitrate of soda are provided free to the boys and girls in the contests, through the county representative. In addition two handsome silver cups are being offered for the two best essays in the Province.

Soil fertility is the foundation of a permanent agriculture. The older lands have long realized this, and artificial fertilizers have been used for this purpose for so many years that no one questions their value in the regular farm program. In Canada the early settlers were fortunate in having virgin land to till, and the maintenance of soil fertility did not become a serious problem until later years. It is an important one on many farms to-day, and while fertilizers are now being used in increasingly large quantities and with profit to intelligence each year, there is still a wide field for improving knowledge of their use.

Odessa 10, Adolphustown 7

The second game in the Lennox and Addington Baseball League took place at Adolphustown on Tuesday afternoon when Odessa defeated the home team by a score of 10-7. Pete Heath, Odessa's left hander, went the whole route, allowing ten hits and hitting Bill Prout. Indifferent fielding by Adolphustown was the main reason for the home team losing, the boys contributing about a dozen errors. The outstanding batters for Adolphustown were Haxby Pollard and Ed Gallagher. Following is the score:

SPORTS AT ODESSA ON VICTORIA DAY

Never in the history of Victoria Day has there been such a successful celebration at Odessa as Thursday's program, which was staged under the auspices of the Odessa United Church Association. A big parade of motor cars, bicycles and comic and clever costumes at 12.30 p.m., started the ball rolling. From then on, it was one round of fun and gayety, including a baseball game between Odessa and Napanee in the opening of the County League; track and field sports, and events, baby shows, and a tug of war between the Townships of Kingston and Ernestown. The gala day was concluded in the evening with a concert in the Town Hall, presented by the Quid Nunc Dramatic Club of Sydenham. People attended the celebration from the whole surrounding district, and there was a tremendous crowd for the sports and various events. The Odessa Band assisted in the programme.

At the concert in the evening a cup was presented to the Ernestown Township tug of war team, who defeated Kingston Township men, and another cup was presented to George D. McQuade, as the best minister of the United Church, Rev. G. C. R. McQuade, for the best athlete. The boy made more points than any other competitor.

One of the features of the day's proceedings was the official opening of the baseball league. Old baseball celebrities were presented and the game was opened with "Champ" Smith as pitcher, Reeve Miller, of Ernesttown as catcher, ex-Reeve Peters as batter, and J. C. Parrott as the referee. The game was very good for the first of the season, and some good batting was shown. Napanee won by the score 6 to 1, in a game which was even closer than the score would indicate.

The parade was a credit to any place ten times the size of Odessa, with its display of clowns, the amusing and unusually clever costumes of all styles and periods, the cars led off the parade, which started from the United Church and continued to the baseball park. Next were the decorated bicycles of every sort and description, and the costumed paraders then followed.

The concert was under the auspices of the Women's Institute of Sydenham, the players acquitting themselves splendidly before a big crowd. Following are those who took part and the parts they played in the comedy :—"Peg O' My Heart"; "Jerry"; Hubert Tyrrell; "Alicia Chichester", S. Storms; "Montgomery Hawker", G. Lindsay; "Christian Brent", L. Fowler; "Jarvis", E. Foxton; "Mrs. Chichester", Mrs. J. Garvin; "Ethel Chichester", Mrs. H. M. Tyrrell; "Bennett" Mrs. S. Snider; "Pye", Miss V. Wartman.

EMPIRE DAY AT VARS

The Empire Day celebration at Vars Public School, of which Mrs. A. J. Allenbrack is Principal, was held in front of a concert from 3 to 4 p.m., on Wednesday, May 23rd.

The programme consisted of Empire Day readings patriotic songs, salutation of the flag, pageant, Canadian Poets, as well as the religious exercises conducted by Dr. Watt Smith, delegate to the Ontario Educational Association, Toronto, last Easter. By request Dr. Smith gave the report of the proceedings there. Then followed a hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" and the National Anthem.

After the close of the concert the visitors were invited to see the Manual Training Bench recently installed. This is thought to be the first rural school to be so equipped. Unavoidable circumstances delayed the arrival for that day of a merry-whirl portable seesaw for the playground.

BELLEVILLE

Mr. Douglas Anderson was home recently, previous to taking a position in the Government Park at Queenston.— Mr. J. W. On the evening of Sunday, May 27th, the people of the United Church in Newburgh had a most delightful time in hearing an address by Miss Evelyn Mitchell, one of the Field Secretaries sent out by the W. M. S. She spoke of the needs of each field as presented by individual missionaries as they meet the Board, especially for a new building for settlement work in Japan and a new school for girls in Korea. Then as she took us over the work in Canada the need of the settlers in lonely settlements was forcibly portrayed that the people lived before us and the stark failure, gratitude expressed for visits to these outlying districts and how the women would walk miles through the sands and mud to meet a friend who would bring a message of cheer to their lonely and monotonous lives. The women of the older settled parts of our country have a great opportunity to send comfort and blessing to these hardy pioneers, who are doing to-day what our fathers did in days gone by. It is part of Miss Mitchell's work to visit them, and then to bring to us a knowledge of their difficulties and their courage.

The Auxiliary of the W. M. S. of the United Church, Newburgh, will meet at the home of Mrs. Dunwoody, on Wednesday, June 6th, at 2.30 p.m. All the women of the congregation are invited.

INTEREST IS KEEN IN GARDEN CONTESTS

School Children Learn Value of Careful Methods of Growing and Fertilizing.

"Bigger yields of better vegetables" would make a snappy slogan for the school children Home Garden Contests conducted in this province by the representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Gardening is a subject appeals to children, because they like to watch things grow and develop under their care; and when it is their own garden, and in competition with the gardens of their schoolmates, interest is naturally keen. These contests have been a particularly successful means of getting farm boys and girls interested in improved methods of crop production—the value of good seed, of tested varieties, of careful methods of cultivation and weed control, and of maintaining soil fertility. The gardens are judged by the county representative and exhibits of garden produce are shown at the school fairs. The problem of soil fertility is an important one, and this year the Chief Division Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau has made contributions to the Department of Agriculture in the Home Garden Contests. Starting some years ago in a few counties, the plan has offered a share of the prize money and special prizes for the best essays on the use of nitrate in the garden. Last year 36 contests were provided with nitrate and special prize-money. This plan proved so successful that this year over fifty contests are taking advantage of it. Ten-pound bags of nitrate of soda are provided free to the boys and girls in the contests, through the county representatives. In addition, two handsome silver cups are being offered for the two best essays in the Province.

Soil fertility is the foundation of a permanent agriculture. The older lands have long realized this, and artificial fertilizers have been used for this purpose for so many years that no one questions their value in the regular farm program. In Canada the early settlers were fortunate in having virgin land to till, and the maintenance of soil fertility did not become a serious problem until later years. It is an urgent problem on many farms to-day, and wise fertilizers are now being used in increasingly large quantities, and with greater intelligence each year, there is still a wide field for improving knowledge of their use.

DORLAND

The weather continues showery and growth is very rapid.—The Ladies' Aid met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. J. B. Allison, on Friday last. Mr. Allison, who celebrated his seventy-fourth birthday on that day, is a most genial host. — The regular meeting of the Quarterly Official Board and General Quarterly Aid and Circuit was held at the U. E. L. church on Monday evening. The following items were all represented with the exception of Hayburn, but there being no return Friday's, and nothing necessary to call a special meeting. BASEBALL

Napanee 6, Odessa 1

The local ball team opened the season of the Lennox and Addington Baseball League very auspiciously at Odessa on May 24th, when they defeated the home team in a well played game by a score of 6-1. The main features of the game were the battery work of Bentley and Cairns, and the brainy hitting of Bentley, Loucks and Davern.

Odessa 10, Adolphustown 7

The second game in the Lennox and Addington Baseball League took place at Adolphustown on Tuesday afternoon when Odessa defeated the home team by a score of 10-7. Pete Heath, Odessa's left hander, went the whole route, allowing ten hits and hitting two batters. Ed Gallagher pitched good ball for Adolphustown until his arm became sore and he was relieved by Bill Frost. Indifferent fielding by Adolphustown was the main reason for the home team losing, the boys contributing about a dozen errors. The outstanding batters for Adolphustown were Hardy Pollard and Ed Gallagher.

WILTON

The death occurred on May 24th, of a well known and highly respected citizen, in the person of Mr. Henry Hutchins. The large number of people who gathered to pay their last respects to the departed tended to show the high esteem in which he was held. The funeral service was held in the Standard Church, on Saturday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Henderson officiating. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved wife and two sons, Mark as well and Orra, who are left to mourn the loss of a kind father and loving husband.—Service was held in the main auditorium of the United Church on Sunday evening, the re-decorating having been completed.—Mrs. Sperry Shibley has returned home, after visiting her granddaughter, Mrs. Roy Hartman, Odessa.—Mr. and Mrs. J. North, Westport, Ont., visited the latter's mother, Mrs. McNeill, Sr., on Sunday last.—Mrs. J. E. Miller gave a miscellaneous shower on Saturday, May 26th, in honor of the bride-to-be, Miss Ethel Babcock.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baker, Moscow, were callers at Guy Simmons', recently.—Mr. and Mrs. Den Thompson, Miss Laughlin, and Mrs. Bowman, of Odessa, attended the funeral of the late Henry Hutchins, on Saturday, and visited at the latter's daughter's, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Simmons.—Mr. Freemont Mills, Kingston, at his father's.—Mrs. Ross Marshall, Kingston, at W. B. Storms', on Sunday.—The 'Young Ladies' Bible Class of the United Church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Chas. Stover, on Tuesday evening, in honor of Miss Ethel Babcock, a bride of next week.—Rev. W. S. Moffatt left on Sunday evening for Brantford, Ont.—Mr. and Mrs. Archie Simmons at Mr. Stanley McNeill's, on Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. Bell, Jackson Spent Tuesday and Wednesday at Denbigh, and attended the funeral of their sister-in-law.

SPORTS AT ODESSA ON VICTORIA DAY

Never in the history of Victoria Day has there been such a successful celebration at Odessa as Thursday's program, which was staged under the auspices of the Odessa United Church Association. A big parade of motor cars, bicycles and comic and clever costumes at 12.30 p.m., started the ball rolling. From then on, it was one round of fun and games, including a baseball game between Odessa and Napanee in the opening of the County League; track and field sports and events, baby shows, and a tug of war between the Townships of Kingston and Ernestown. The gala day was concluded in the evening with a concert in the Town Hall, presented by the Quid Nunc Dramatic Club of Sydenham. People attended the celebration from the whole surrounding district, and there was a tremendous crowd for the sports and various events. The Odessa Band assisted in the programme.

At the concert in the evening a cup was presented to the Ernestown Township tug of war team, who defeated Kingston Township men, and another cup was presented to George D. McQuigan, son of the manager of the United Church, Rev. G. C. R. McQuigan, for the best athlete. The boy made more points than any other competitor.

One of the features of the days' proceedings was the official opening of the baseball league. Old baseball celebrities were presented and the game was opened with "Champ" Smith as pitcher, Reeve Miller, of Ernestown as catcher, ex-Reeve Peters as batter, and J. C. Parrott as the referee. The game was very good for the first of the season, and some good material was shown. Napanee won by the score 6 to 1, in a game which was even closer than the score would indicate.

The parade was a credit to any place ten times the size of Odessa, with its gaily decorated floats, automobiles and unusually clever costumes of all styles and periods. The cars led off the parade, which started from the United Church and continued to the baseball park. Many were the decorated bicycles of every sort and description, and the costumed paraders then followed. The comic costumes under the auspices of the Women's Institute of Sydenham, the players acquitting themselves creditably before a big crowd. Following are those who took part in the parade, they played in the comedy :—"Peg O' My Heart' ; "Jerry"—Mrs. M. Tyrrell; "Alaric Chichester", S. Odessa's left hander, went the whole Odessa's left hander, went the whole Mrs. Stanley Harkness; "Lindsay; "Christian Brent", L. Fowler; "Jarvis", P. Foxton; "Mrs. Chichester", Mrs. A. Garvin; "Ethel Chichester", Mrs. H. M. Tyrrell; "Bennett" Mrs. S. Snider; "Pep", Miss V. Wartman.

EMPIRE DAY AT VARS

The Empire Day celebration at Vars Public School, of which Mrs. A. J. Allenbrack is Principal, took the form of a concert from 3 to 4 p.m., on Wednesday, May 23rd.

The programme consisted of Empire Day readings patriotic songs, salutation of the flag, pageant, Canadian Poets, as well as the religious exercises conducted by Watt Smith, delegate to the Ontario Educational Association, Toronto, last Easter. By request of the boys and girls, he also read the proceedings there. Then followed a hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" and the National Anthem.

After the close of the concert the visitors were invited to see the Manual Training Bench recently installed. This is thought to be the first rural school to be so equipped. Unavoidable circumstances delayed the arrival for that day of a merry-whirl portable sewsaw for the playground.

Mrs. Douglas Anderson was home recently, previous to taking a position in the Government Park at Queenston.

Mr. J. W. Courtney has superintended the enrolling and sending away of about three score names in "the Just Kid's Safety Club". There are a great many sporting the Button which is the badge of the Club. This movement has in a very few weeks gathered in 10,218. Many cities and towns are giving the Club their civic sanction and aid.

Mrs. Earl Craig visited her mother, Mrs. Wales, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vanalstine, of Fredericksburgh, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wales, on Sunday.

The regular Quarterly services will be held in the Mission Hall over this week end, beginning on Friday evening.

We are sorry to hear of the death in Leamington, of Mrs. W. H. Eakins, formerly an old resident of Newburgh. Mrs. Eakins leaves besides her husband, four children, Mrs. W. E. Clarke, of Leamington; Mrs. W. L. Simpson, of Detroit; Mr. C. B. Eakins, Banister, Mich., and Edith, at home. Also three brothers, Mr. J. G. Davidson, Port Hope; Mr. R. A. Brisco, Galt; Mr. F. A. Brisco, Vancouver, and one sister, Miss Alma Brisco, Newburgh. Much sympathy is extended to the family.

Mr. W. G. Paul and two daughters and Mrs. Scriver spent a few days with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Hopper and Mr. and Mrs. Snarr, of Toronto, were motor visitors through this locality and during the week called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wales and Mr. and Mrs. J. McCormick, Shannonville.—Mr. and Mrs. Hopper once resided in Newburgh.

Mrs. William Mulholland has returned to his home, after having been a patient at the hospital, Kingston, for many weeks.

The stork left a pair of twins, boy and girl, with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carter on Monday.

On the evening of Sunday, May 27th, the people of the United Church in Newburgh had a great privilege in hearing an address by Miss Evelyn Mitchell, one of the Field Secretaries sent out by the W. M. S. She spoke of the needs of work in Japan and a new school building for girls in Korea. Then as she took us over the fields in Canada the need of the settlers in lonely settlements was so vividly portrayed that the people lived before us. She told of the gratitude expressed for visits to these outlying districts, and how the women would walk miles through rain and mud to meet a friend who would bring a message of cheer and their lonely and monotonous lives. The women of the older settled parts of our country have a great opportunity to add comfort and blessing to these hardy pioneers, who are doing to-day what our fathers did in days gone by. It is part of Miss Mitchell's work to visit them, and then to bring to us a knowledge of their difficulties and their courage.

The Auxiliary of the W. M. S. of the United Church, Newburgh, will meet at the home of Mrs. Dunwoody, on Wednesday, June 6th, at 2.30 p.m. All the women of the congregation are invited.

ODESSA

Mr. Dennis Boyce, of Belleville, has been spending the past two weeks the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Boyce.

Miss Beatie Montgomery, Buffalo, is visiting her grandfather, Mr. Frederick Caton.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Hagerman and two sons, of Rochester, are guests of the former's mother, Mrs. A. Hagerman.

Mrs. James Burns, Erinsville, spent a few days with her father, Mr. Joseph Lawler, Sr.

Mrs. John Fowler and son, Leo, of Sydenham, and Mrs. Scanlon, Westport, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. King, last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell, of Bath, spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sharpe, at the Dominion, and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Walker, of Watertown, are spending a few days with them.

The celebration on May 24th proved a great success, financially and otherwise. The gate receipts amounted to over one hundred and sixty dollars, and the different booths were well patronized. The ball game, baseball and all other amusements were very fine, and all taking part put forth every effort to do their best. Handsome prizes were well worth trying for. The Dramatic Club, assisted by Wilton Orchestra, staged "Peg O' My Heart", in a very creditable manner, and the talented actors were well worthy of the praise given them. The proceeds were for the United Church, and handsome sum was realized.

Probably one hundred relatives and friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Kenny last Friday night and presented them with numerous valuable and useful gifts. Quite a sum of money was also with the useful gifts, fifty dollars being received from the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kenny. A very delightful evening was spent, which ended in tripping the light fantastic until the small morning hours. Delicious refreshments were served by the ladies, and all wished the bride and groom many years of success and happiness.

The work of grading Centre Street was started last Thursday.

Neglected Anaemia

Often Leads to the Most Serious Consequences

In no disorder is delay or neglect more dangerous than in anaemia. Usually the first noticeable signs are pale lips and cheeks, dark rims under the eyes and a feeling of weariness. Then follow headaches, backaches, palpitation and breathlessness. The only way that anaemia can be overcome is to enrich the blood, and it is because of their wonderful blood-enriching and blood-making properties that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have won such great success in the treatment of this often most stubborn disease.

Thousands of young girls who were in an anaemic condition owe their present good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. One of these, Miss Katie McEachern, Port Hood, N.S., says:—"I praise the day I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had not been feeling well for some time. I was very pale, had severe headaches, dizzy spells, and occasional fainting spells. The least exertion would leave me tired and breathless, and this condition I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I continued their use until I had taken six boxes, by which time I was again enjoying good health. I hope my experience will lead other sufferers to give this medicine a fair trial".

If you are at all run-down, or weak, you should begin at once to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and if you will be well by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOOK FOR INCREASE IN ACREAGE OF CORN

With the borer apparently under control in Southwestern Ontario and silage crops assuming more importance in all parts of the Dominion there is decidedly more interest in corn this year. In many parts of Essex and Kent Counties in Ontario where the corn acreage was cut in half as a result of attacks by the borer in the past few years, a hundred per cent increase in acreage is expected this season. In other parts of the country, too, expansion is looked for, particularly where clover being grown for silage purposes has been winter killed.

"In Southwestern Ontario farmers have been unable to find a substitute for corn as hog feed," states L. D. Hankinson, of the Dominion Seed Branch, "and finding that they were very successful in controlling the corn borer last season they are going to grow more corn this year. They seem to think, that with care, the present acreage can be greatly extended. I find that in other parts of the country also there is more interest in this crop than for some years past. While it requires more labor in handling for silage, it is a good thing to clean up the land, and can be planted to replace killed out clover. Some people, in fact, grow corn stage in feeding to that made from clover."

From the bulk of the seed being used this year, according to Mr. Hankinson, has been imported from Nebraska, where there is no corn borer. Such seed the government laboratories has been found to germinate very well, and should be well adapted to this country, being hardy and quick maturing. This is a very important point this year, as in Southwestern Ontario, L. B. Birch-ers and other corn experts, are advising the farmers to sow early maturing corn. This can be planted from a week to a fortnight later than usual, and will mature the period when the borer is most active, and yet grow fast enough to mature before frost. Corn of the Yellow Flint type is probably the best in this connection, but this being somewhat scarce, farmers may not be able to get it and in this case would be advised to secure White Cap Yellow Dent, Golden Glow or Wisconsin No. 7 which are among the earliest of the Dents.

Some fear has been expressed by farmers in the ensilage corn sections that the regulations laid down by the government where the borer has been found would prove impracticable. With the borer infestation has been heavier than ever where else in Canada, however, there would be no trouble about complying with them where corn is not a staple crop. After all the corn borer regulation all call for nothing more than what is considered good farming practise anyway. After the crop is taken off, the field must be thoroughly cleaned up before the first of June of the following year, and thorough cleaning up simply means good plowing and clean feeding about the barn yard. Moreover, where corn is grown for ensilage there is little danger and little fear with the borer, as the crop is put in the silo before the stalks have been seriously weakened, as a rule, and during the crop the bulk of the borers are destroyed, while those living in the stubble escaping. Plowing the stubble under in the fall or early spring will account for most of these anyway.

Throughout most of the country a May 24th has been considered about the usual time to start corn planting, but in recent years earlier than this has been the rule. In view of the borer menace, however, and the fact that corn is a warm weather plant and makes most of its growth in July and August, a week or two later than the old date might be considered. Of course in this regard it is even more important than usual to use only good seed tested and of an early maturing variety.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

The first batch of replies from municipal assessors has been received at the office of Mr. J. A. Ellis, director of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs, with regard to the number of persons likely to be eligible for old age pensions. It remains to be seen how widely the request for the Government of this information will be carried out by those whose services are enlisted, but evidently a fair amount of information will be available in good time for the Government to study it before next session.

The survey now going on has been undertaken as a preliminary to legislation which has been forecasted as what definitely for next year. Circular letters of different types have been sent out, each of which will cover the conditions laid down by the Dominion Old Age Pensions Act. The mayor or reeve of each municipality is requested to have the assessor make a report, and there is a reminder that under the Ontario Parents Maintenance Act, a son or daughter having sufficient means is bound to provide for a dependent parent, the Act not relieving them from such obligation, and therefore such cases should not be included in the list. It is suggested that where there is a social service department or charity office, the officials be asked to give what information they can to the assessor.

The general survey does not include persons over 70 who are inmates of a house of refuge or other charitable institutions, and consequently a special letter is sent to superintendents of such. No pension would be given to any inmate, but it is considered that there are probably a number in such institutions who with assistance of the pension would be able and desirous to leave and arrange for their support once privately. An estimate is asked for of the inmates.

A third type of letter goes to school inspectors in unorganized districts, Premier Ferguson, as Minister of Education, having authorized a request that they furnish the names and addresses of assessors in each school section. Then there is a form to be sent the assessors when names and addresses are available, asking them for a list of pension eligibles, or. If assessment has already been completed, the number of such as accurately as possible.

JUNE ROD AND GUN

Taking the form of a special Ontario Tourist Number, the June issue of Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News, which is just out, is of special interest, not only to all residents of that Province, but also the rest of the Dominion, and those of the United States with whom Canada is becoming a popular vacation ground. A personal message of welcome from the Premier of Ontario to tourists as the leading article offers every encouragement to visit Canada and enjoy the delights the country offers.

The contents include a notable aggregation of articles on hunting and fishing with two very good ones. One by S. H. Howard deals with sport in the Mattawa district, while a very good article by Arthur Leggatt describes fishing in the Pickerel River district. The regular departments and Canadian Silver Fox News contain the usual list of entertaining and instructive material.

A SUPERCHARGING ENGINE.

Englishman's Invention Something Out of the Ordinary.

A new air-cooled supercharged two-stroke motor car engine has been invented by an Englishman named Adams, says the Christian Science Monitor. Those three adjectives—air-cooled, supercharged, two-stroke—are sufficient to stamp this engine as something out of the ordinary. There are no air-cooled engines in the British design for motor cars, and only one well-known one in America; supercharging has been little used except for racing engines, and the two-stroke engine has found little favor except for a few motor-cycle engines.

The supercharging and air-cooling are combined in a blower of novel design. Unlike most air-cooled engines, Mr. Adams houses his cylinders under a cowl, a high-speed fan being used to create a strong air current past their fins. This also warms the air which is on its way to do its supercharging work.

Now comes the explanation as to how gear changing is largely obviated with this engine. If the car is driven direct up the hill until more power is necessary it can be obtained by pressing the accelerator pedal until a stronger sprint is actuated which withdraws the clutch, and disconnects the blower from the crankshaft. Thus the engine is no longer called upon to drive the blower and a disagreeable takes on the work of helping the engine. This dynamometer, which is placed just outside the blower, is connected to the outer end of the blower shaft. The faster it is speeded up by the electrical drive and the accelerator pedal is pressed fully down, which brings the dynamo into action, starts the blower and also delivers a supercharged mixture to the cylinders. When the pedal is released the spinning blower gives sufficient revolutions to the engine to start it.

Another novel point in this engine is the use of a turbine wheel to utilize the waste power coming from the exhaust ports and also to act as a silencer. As Mr. Adams pointed out with the engine running at 2,000 revolutions per minute there would be no fewer than 2,000 explosions per second or 12,000 per minute. He had found that there was no appreciable increase of back pressure from the use of this turbine. Connecting rods are of duralumin and are drilled to dissipate heat, while the cylinder blocks are of steel-lined aluminum.

PRAISE BRINE PROCESS.

Fish So Prepared, It Is Stated, Compete With the Unfrozen.

Halibut frozen in brine when caught and then put into ordinary cold storage are declared by London fish merchants to have proved markedly superior to those frozen in the ordinary way. In fact, it is considered amply proved that fish frozen in brine retain the qualities they had when caught, and when thawed out months later can compete successfully on the street with fish which has not been frozen.

The system would undoubtedly come more quickly into use were it not for the high initial cost, which at present involves the use of a parent ship fitted with the brine tanks to take the catches from the trawlers during the three or four months that they remain on the fishing grounds. One firm in Britain, the pioneer of the system, is said to have invested as much as £200,000 in it. A Hull firm which deals only in halibut sends its fleet of thirty or forty motor vessels and one storage ship to Greenland waters.

An Indian University.

A scheme is on foot to build an Indian university at Durban, South Africa. It is likely to involve an expenditure of $100,000, a large proportion of which sum has already been collected. At present an application is being considered by the Government for a grant of five or six acres in Centenary road on which to build the university.

On his return to Durban, Srinivasa Sastri, who originated the scheme, will meet the Indian community and discuss the matter. The object is to provide an establishment to give higher training for Indian teachers and, to raise the standard of education among the Indian community generally.

World's Smallest Baby.

A baby girl weighing three-quarters of a pound has been born at Caerphilly, Glamorgan. The normal weight is about seven pounds, and the child is believed to represent a world's record. The champion feather-weight baby of the past was a certain "Alfie," born in Tooting, who weighed only one pound at birth, and had not reached the average weight for his age when he passed his fourth birthday.

AMONG DESERT ARABS

There Is Something Fine and Strong In the Free and Adventurous Life of the Bedouin Lords.

What, in manner of man is the Bedouin, who has been brought into prominence by the tense situation on the Mesopotamian frontiers? Most of us know little of the wild life these desert people lead.

The Arab's idea of amusement differs entirely from that of the European, and he is dependent on his own resources. His favorite game is the firing of his rifle in the air, to the accompaniment of wild charges on horseback, amid clouds of dust and sand. He is childlike in his means of expressing himself; noise and wild movement give him that exhilaration dear to his heart.

Another game is "Ghazu" (the raid). He gathers a number of his people and proceeds swiftly in the direction of the tribe he intends to raid. The general procedure is to annihilate the blood brothers, and rush at dawn upon the unsuspecting tribe before they are awake. The raiders charge in among the tents, yelling, shouting, and firing their rifles—then quickly round up the camels and flocks of their victims.

Usually very few lives are lost, and those who are killed or wounded are the unfortunates who get in the way of odd bullets. Women are seldom molested, except by the Druses.

The raiders move off as quickly as they appeared, taking their booty with them. The ravaged tribe appeals to their friends, who give them camels, tents, and other sundries, until they are able to set up home again. Schemes of retaliation are considered, but until one night they ride out to take their revenge and get back their possessions with any additional goods they can collect.

No desert Arab would think of travelling without his coffee-pot; it is to him what the pipe is to the Englishman. Coffee-making is a great ceremony. The moment the Arab halts, he puts up his tent, lights a fire, and grinds his coffee beans with his pestle and mortar. He then invites his relations, friends, and chance visitors to partake of his coffee—to the accompaniment of all the latest desert news.

The joy of sitting around a raised scrub fire on a cold, starlit night is to be experienced by the European to be realized. The conversation flashes backwards and forwards as a ball in play, until, one by one, the party take their blankets and roll themselves up in them. The still forms lie around the smouldering fire until the sunspring in the East proclaims the advent of the new day.

Among the Arabs the art of poetry and the singing of war-like songs is a feature of their life. They will travel many miles reciting poetry—first one will take up the recitation, then another; the subject never being allowed to flag, verse following verse interminably.

To those who enter deeply into the life of this interesting race, these voices raised in song or verse, in the stillness of the desert, stir the blood as one watches their dark flashing eyes.

There is something fine and strong in the free and adventurous life the Bedouin leads, and many a more civilized man in travelling daily in the occupation would sigh for such joy once he had intimately experienced them.

DRAMA OF THE ANTARTIC

Frenchman Sacrificed Himself That Others Might Live.

Everyone remembers the heroic sacrifice made by Oates, Capt. Scott's companion. Another drama, somewhat similar, has just been described by the survivors of a French whaler that was wrecked off Kerguelen Island, in the Antarctic.

Jacques Legalloudec and two companions set out in the ship's disabled whaler in a small dory to find food. Their tiny craft was wrecked in a blizzard, but they were able to scramble ashore, and set out in the blizzard over an unexplored mountain and a glacier to find a whaling station.

Although half frozen, the three men struggled on, until Legalloudec collapsed. His companions carried him for some time, until Legalloudec said, suddenly, "I am better now and can walk. You go ahead. I'll choose my own path."

At first his companions refused but Legalloudec persisted, saying he knew a short cut. They left him and he struggled on as long as they were in sight. He then lay down, giving up his life so that his companions, unhampered, might reach a station, which they did several days later.

Fighting for Baby's Health

Is the Constant Care of Every Young Mother

The young mother has a constant care in looking after the welfare of her little ones. Childhood ailments come on so sudden—sometimes without a minute's warning—the mother may have a very sick baby on her hands before help can be obtained. That is why she has a remedy in the house which she can safely give the baby for any of the many minor ailments of babyhood and childhood.

Such a remedy is found in Baby's Own Tablets. Thousands of mothers throughout the country always keep a box of the Tablets on hand and they proclaim them to be without an equal for sweetening baby's stomach; regulating his bowels, and thus driving out indigestion and indigestion, colds and simple fevers, and making the dreaded teething period easy.

Baby's Own Tablets are an absolutely safe remedy. They are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any other narcotic drug which are so harmful to the future welfare of the baby. Mothers, if you value the life of your little ones give him Baby's Own Tablets when he is ill, or, better still, give him an occasional dose of the Tablets to ward off illness. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or will be sent to any address, post paid, at 25 cents a box by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

LAST OF THEIR RACE.

Animals That Are Fast Becoming Extinct.

The last passenger pigeon in the world died just long ago of old age in the New York Zoological Gardens. It was the sole survivor of a race which, only fifty years ago, was so numerous that their flights darkened the sky and broke down the branches of forest trees by their weight.

The American buffalo — or, rather, bison—nearly shared the same fate. That it has survived is due to the Canadian Government, which preserved a few in Waterton Park Reservation, where they have multiplied so wonderfully that now there are eight thousand of them.

An even finer beast, the European buffalo, lived in South Russian forests up to the war, but now not one is left in that country. Happily a few live in captivity in the Duke of Bedford's park at Woburn, and elsewhere, so the stock may be preserved.

The elephant seal of Guadeloupe is found on that island and nowhere else. There are very few left, and if steps are not taken to preserve them the species will be lost to the world.

The lovely sea otter of Alaska has been so hunted for its fur that it is almost extinct. It is the only saltwater otter, and a beautiful playful creature whose fur is the most wonderful in the world. But there is very little hope of its being saved.

In the Galapagos Islands, off the northwest coast of South America, are found the giant tortoises, the longest lived of all known animals. These strange, sluggish reptiles are survivors from a long-past age, but owing to the fact that dogs have run wild on the islands, and now devour the eggs and the young of these monsters, they are fast disappearing. The curious Heerman gull of the Pacific Coast is being exterminated by egg robbers, and the great walrus of the North Pacific is being destroyed by hunters.

JAPANESE SHIP LINE.

On Completion of Program Will Have 134 Vessels.

Development which recently brought Nippon Yusen Kaisha to third place among the great shipping services of world commerce will continue at a rapid pace, according to Noboru Ohtani, managing director of the line.

"Nippon Yusen Kaisha is now building three fast and luxurious 16,-600-ton motor vessels for its Orient-San Francisco service," Mr. Ohtani said. "In addition, three new vessels of 10,000 gross tons are on the designing boards for our Orient-Seattle service, and another will be built to balance our present fleet of four ships in the Orient-California-South American west coast service.

"We are also negotiating with the builders for two motorships of 12,000 gross tons for the Japan-Europe service, which now has eleven steamers making fortnightly sailings between Yokohama and London.

"Our renewal and building program from January, 1928, of 12 new vessels, aggregates well over $40,-000,000 in cost, undoubtedly the most extensive building program of an individual shipping company.

"With the completion of this program, N.Y.K. will have a fleet of 154 vessels with a tonnage of 844,000 gross tons. These vessels will be in operation over twenty trade routes, serving eighty ports in twenty countries, crossing all oceans and touching all continents."

ANIMAL LEGENDS.

Porcupine Cannot Shoot Quills Nor Cats See In the Dark.

A legend still believed by many people is that the porcupine is able to shoot its quills. The animal is incapable of such a feat, though, if attacked, its quills will pierce the flesh of the attacker and stay there.

Most of us have the idea that a cat can see in the dark. But while a cat can see in light so dim that man is practically blind, no eyes are of any use where there is no light.

Another popular delusion is that earwigs are fond of creeping into people's ears. This insect's real name should, however, be earwing instead of earwig, and it is so called because its wings are similar in shape to the human ear.

The lion's fine appearance and awe-inspiring roar have given him the title of King of Beasts. Actually he is neither so large nor so strong as the tiger, and is, on the whole, rather a mean-spirited animal. Lion-tamers assert that the lion is far more easily handled than any of the other big cats, and big-game hunters will tell you that the leopard is a more dangerous animal than either lion or tiger.

Stone Age Men Ate Snails!

That prehistoric man in North Africa depended chiefly on snails for food is proved by huge mounds of snail shells excavated by members of a recent expedition. One shell mound was 300 feet long and 8 feet high.

Occasionally bones of animals and human skeletons were found among the snail-shells and kitchen ashes of the dump-piles. The excavators also unearthed flint arrow points and scrapers and hammer stones thrown away by Stone Age men thousands of years ago.

The most common of the bone implements found in shell mounds were small bone tools with fine delicate points, believed to have been used as picks and forks to remove snails from their shells.

Fishing With Kite.

One of the queerest methods of fishing is that practised by James W. Jump, a millionaire sportsman.

When he goes fishing at Catalina Island, California, he takes his kite with him. A flying fish bait that skims the water in life-like manner is suspended from the kite by a long line. When swordfish rise and seize it, another line feels them in.

She (late for appointment)—"I'm awfully sorry. I didn't know the time; I can't wear a watch because I always break them."

He (sarcastically)—"Well, you might at least carry a calendar."

STRAWBERRY CROP PROSPECTS, 1928

Commercial strawberry beds have wintered satisfactorily generally throughout Canada, except possibly in Ontario and Quebec where from 5% to 10% winter injury is reported in some sections. In British Columbia the strawberry weevil has done considerable injury to the plants on the Island, but owing to increased acreage, it is expected that last year's production will be maintained or slightly larger. A cold, backward spring has prevailed in all the Provinces, and it is expected that this condition will also slightly affect the yield as well as make the crop about 10 days late. The commercial production is estimated to be approximately the same as last year, which was placed at 10,946,200 quarts. The strawberry production by Provinces for 1928 is estimated in quarts as follows, with 1927 figures in brackets: British Columbia, 5,000,000, (4,941,700); Ontario, 2,300,000, (2,644,000); Quebec, 2,000,000, (1,910,500); New Brunswick, 1,000,000, (1,000,000); Nova Scotia, 450,000, (450,000).

In British Columbia it is estimated that there will be a slight increase over last year in the carload shipments. The number of cars expected to move during the coming season, as compared with 1927, (figures in brackets), is as follows: Vancouver Island, 50, (49); Lower Mainland, 15, (14); Salmon Arm, 3, (3); Creston, 20, (18). With the increased acreage on the Island it is quite possible that there will be more than 50 cars, providing the weevil injury is not too severe. The L. C. L. movement is expected to commence towards the end of May, and carlot shipments to start on the Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island about June 4th. Salmon Arm and Creston will be a little later. About 50% of the total commercial production is either shipped direct to the canners or jam manufacturers, or frozen (cold pack) for later shipments.

The bulk of the Ontario crop is trucked to the local markets, while a few cars are shipped to points outside of the Province. This year's movement is expected to commence during the last week in June, while the peak will be about from July 8th to 12th, unless exceptionally warm weather is experienced to cause picking operations to commence earlier. The principal commercial districts are Clarkson, Burlington, Niagara District and Waterford. A fair proportion of the crop will be handled by the canners.

Judging from the present appearance of the strawberry beds in the Province of Quebec, it is expected that the yield will be approximately the same as last year or perhaps slightly larger owing to the increased acreage in the Island of Orleans where there is every indication for increased production. At the present time the season is approximately two weeks later than 1927 and somewhat later than in average years, but the result in the commercial movement will not probably commence until the second week in July.

In the Maritime Provinces the strawberry plantations have come through the winter in fairly good condition, although some winter injury is reported. The crop, which usually does not move until about July 20th, is expected to equal last year's yield.

One of the most delightful parties arranged in honor of the bride-elect, Miss Helen Wallace, was the bridge-luncheon given by Mrs. J. G. Daly. Covers were laid for twelve around a table, in the centre of which tiny dolls reproduced the whole bridal party in miniature. During the luncheon the bride was presented with a collection of recipes in a pretty gingham-bound book, made by Mrs. Hall. The guest prize given at the close of the bridge game was a handsome tufted bedspread, while the young daughter of the house had sent for the guest of honour a very Parisian little feather duster, with a clever and original little verse accompanying it. Miss Wallace wore a dainty flowered crepe smocked in several colors, and a small violet hat. The hostess wore flowered georgette.

The Reverend Edward Hammel Costigan, of Toronto, was ordained into Holy Orders at the Church of St. Mary, Navan, near Ottawa, on Monday, May 28th, by the Right Rev. The Lord Bishop of Ottawa. The young clergyman was a former Napanee boy and had graduated at the Anglican Institute, and from there went to Trinity College, Toronto. He is the son of the late Edward Costigan, L.S.T., who was for some years rector of St. Mark's, Deseronto, and after that, of St. John's, Portland St., Toronto, until his death in 1910. He is also a grandson of the late H. M. Deroche, M.A., K.C., of Napanee. The Bishop of Ottawa has been pleased to appoint Mr. Costigan curate of St. John's Church, Smith's Falls.

Miss Marion Carscallen entertained at a charmingly arranged bridge of four tables, on Tuesday evening, May 22nd, in honor of Miss Helen Wallace, whose marriage takes place early in June.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mrs. Milton Hughes, who departed this life June 6th, 1925.

Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A voice we sigh that knew no guile.
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do;
No thought of self, but of the other;
We know He said, "Well done, dear mother".

OLD ENGLISH SOCIAL LIFE.

Most Interesting Changes Are In Amusements.

One of the most interesting views of gathering an idea of old English social life is from the parish registers, which present a rich storehouse of curious and interesting information.

The number of old parish customs which still survive and link us with the vanishing past are few in number.

Curious items relating to witchcraft and strange superstitions, plagues, parish scandals, births, baptisms, marriages, and deaths are found in these registers, in which any items of interest appear to have been jotted down according to the fancy of those in whose charge they were. The cucking or ducking stool is frequently mentioned as a punishment for evil-doers, and the parish stocks and whipping-post are often mentioned in the early entries. In many instances these records tell us of "virginall make-rs"—a virginal being a kind of spinet—of carriers, comfit-makers, barber - surgeons, water - bearers, wood-mongers, saltpetre-men, and many others, whose trades are things of the past, but whose names picture a very different England from that we live in to-day, says an English newspaper.

In pastimes and amusements we find the most interesting changes too; the days of mummers and mayoles are over, but the old-fashioned "mop" still survives in a few places, notably in Stratford-on-Avon, which holds such carnival once a year with a whole ox and sheep roasting in its old streets.

The very picturesque and thoroughly English old village green is growing less and less frequent. The hospitable old inn with its splendid, smoke-begrimed kitchen and capacious chimney nook is swept away to make room for the modern gin palace. The days of the smock frock and the Brosley clay are over. The village squire dashes about on an offensive-smelling motor-car instead of ambling across his acres on the old gray mare; the village re-echoes with the harsh howl of the motor-horn instead of the jovial riot of the hunting and the coaching horn.

GIANT TREES OF INDIA.

Are to Be Found Near Tiny Hamlet of Kheuskurranpur.

Some of the mightiest trees in India are to be found near the tiny hamlet of Kheuskurranpur, in the United Provinces.

In a shaded valley stand two especially enormous trees. Their respective tunks, three feet above the ground, says a writer in the Times of India, measure respectively 47 feet 4 inches and 40 feet 2 inches, and are of a queer quadrilateral shape, going straight up some twelve feet, before they ramify into great branches, each branch as massive as a thick tree.

They stand as stark naked, in the winter, as do English trees, but they are bright green and glossy, and agrow in thick bunches, each on a long fine stalk. They are pentaphyllous, and beautifully symmetrical, the centre leaflet being about four inches long, and two inches wide across the middle.

The seedpod, which dangles like a large mango from a stalk along with each bunch of leaves, has a hard wooden case, covered with green plush, containing cotton wool as well as seeds. The seeds are taken from the pods, hollowed out and used by the villagers for snuff boxes!

The trees are called Gujerati Imli (the tamarind of Gujarat) although neither leaf nor seedpot resemble the tamarind at all, but are reminiscent of the leaf and seedpot of the Semal.

First World's Grain Congress.

The first world's grain congress scheduled for Regina in 1932, will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the arrival of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the birth of prairie agriculture, outside of a comparatively small earlier settlement in Manitoba, in outlining the plans for, and the summoning of the congress, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Federal Minister of Agriculture, announced: "The proposal to hold a world's grain congress in Canada has been quietly discussed and canvassed by a few enthusiasts in the west for the past two or three years. In the meantime, the pronounced success of the world's poultry congress, has stimulated and crystallized the proposal for a congress into possibility and visibility."

"Travelling Schools."

The Ontario Government has signed contracts with the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways for the supplying of two additional cars to be used as "travelling schools" in the outlying districts of the province. The cars will be equipped in Winnipeg and both will run out of Fort William, operating between that city and Superior Junction. At present two cars are in operation, both in Northern Ontario. Not only children of trappers and railway workers, etc., receive instruction in these travelling schools but night classes are arranged for adults.

Beautifying Ottawa.

To make Ottawa second in beauty to none of the capitals of the world is planned in a measure which proposes the expenditure of $200,000 annually for thirty years, with an immediate outlay of $3,000,000. One of the principal features of the improvement scheme, is the formation of a large central park.

Ancient Curfew.

One of the bells still in use in Hadsham parish church, Sussex, England, dates back to 1198. It is said that the curfew has been rung at this church every night for over 700 years.

Leprosy In British Empire.

There are 416,530 victims of leprosy in the British Empire.

Dividends From Mines.

Over $300,000,000 has been paid out by Canadian mines in dividends and bonuses up to the end of 1926.

Man's Hair.

The frequent showers are making everything grow very rapidly, and the farmers are all smiles. — Mrs. John Love spent a couple of days last week the guest of her father, Mr. Chester Brown, Napanee.—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Huff and children and Mrs. Martha Love took tea on Sunday evening at John Holcomb's, Camden East. — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Morrison, of Brockville, called on Sunday afternoon at Casen Davey's.—Mr. and Mrs. John Love spent Sunday afternoon at Adolphustown, with friends.—Mrs. Archie Card and two children, of Yarker, called on Tuesday afternoon at Mr. Harold Huff's.—Mr. Ira Davison, of Wilton, called on Casen Davey, on Monday.—Mr. and Mrs. Sam Switzer and family spent Sunday near Stoco, with relatives. — Mrs. Arthur Wilson and two daughters called Tuesday on Mrs. Jas. Babcock.

TAMWORTH

Owing to the absence of the Pastor at Conference, the only service to be held Sunday in the United Church will be the morning Sunday School session.—Miss Evelyn Mitchell, of Toronto, Field Secretary of the United Church W. M. S., who was the guest of Mrs. Beckstead while here, left on Wednesday for Ottawa. Miss Mitchell gave a very interesting and helpful address here Monday evening, and another in the Methodist church Tuesday evening. Miss Mitchell touched on the W. M. S. work in the foreign fields, and in Canada. She gave touching incidents showing the need of, and value of, the work from her own observations from visiting the outpost fields in Western Canada and Northern Ontario, through to the Maritime provinces.—Mrs. Dave Rogers, of Toronto, left for home on Sunday, after spending a few days with her father, Mr. G. H. Richardson.

5 of the reasons why McLAUGHLIN-BUICK will serve you Better and save you More!

NOT only does today's McLaughlin-Buick excel in smart, low, dashing lines—in vivid new color harmonies—in luxurious upholsteries and appointments—but it sweeps far ahead of its field in those vital engineering factors which mean greater comfort—greater performance—greater economy—and greater value.

In Most Cars—the springs have to serve a double function—to drive the car and to cushion the load.

In McLaughlin-Buick—the springs have only one function—to cushion the load—and naturally are designed to provide much finer riding qualities.

In Most Cars—water, mud and dust can work their way into moving parts causing excessive wear, engine stalling and other troubles.

In McLaughlin-Buick—the Sealed Chassis and Triple-Sealed Engine absolutely prevent these troubles. All vital parts are enclosed in dirt-proof, dust-proof, water-tight housings.

In Most Cars—vibration is merely dampened by means of additional bearings or other inadequate devices.

In McLaughlin-Buick—the scientifically designed Valve-in-Head Engine, counterbalanced crankshaft and finely balanced units throughout result in performance vibrationless beyond belief.

In Most Cars—quality is often sacrificed for price, or prices advanced to permit fine quality.

In McLaughlin-Buick—tremendous demand makes possible both high quality and moderate price—and therefore unrivaled value.

In Most Cars—the dealer's delivered price, including the delivery or handling charge, is the buyer — is not rigidly fixed by the factory behind the car.

In McLaughlin-Buick—the lowest possible delivered price, including the delivery or handling charge is definitely established by the McLaughlin-Buick factory. Thus McLaughlin-Buick quality is provided to McLaughlin-Buick owners everywhere at lowest cost.

It Pays to Buy McLaughlin-Buick!

HOME OF KING ARTHUR

Proposal to Secure Church Cliff in Cornwall Because of Its Historic Association—A Beauty Spot.

There is a great movement going on in Britain for the preservation of all its places of natural beauty or of historic interest. If a local authority wants to run a road through the lake district or widen an old one its scheme is subject to an amount of criticism from artists, antiquaries, and the like, such as was never heard of a hundred years ago. If an attempt is made to build modern buildings near the venerable relic of Stonehenge, there is an immediate outcry and funds are subscribed to purchase land and free it from all unsightly encumberance. In this manner beautiful cliffs are being preserved to the public, beautiful commons and lakes, castle ruins and old houses. In fact, anything that makes for delight to the eye in the old English countryside.

It has now been proposed that Church Cliff, Tintagel, North Cornwall, shall be purchased for the public and handed over to the keeping of the National Trust. There is no more romantic spot in the west of England. It is in the very heart of the country of King Arthur, that hero who, whether he be a myth or a real figure, lives in the hearts of Englishmen, and it is associated also with Tennyson, one of the greatest of English poets.

The strong walls that sheltered the king and his knights are little more than crumbling ruins, but his memory broods over the place to this day. Tennyson was a frequent visitor to Tintagel, both while he was contemplating the Arthurian Cycle and when he had completed it. He came there in 1848, clambering over and meditating in the castle ruins, and visiting the cave where the baby king is supposed to have landed. As an old man he came again and, as his son says, regarded the whole place with a kind of first-love feeling.

One of the places visited by Tennyson was the very cliff—Church Cliff—which it is now proposed shall be public property. It stands within easy distance of the Church of St. Marcellana, hence its name, a venerable structure containing Saxon arches, a Norman font, and specimens of the three varieties of Gothic architecture. In the nave is a brass for Johanna Foon, who lived in the middle of the fourteenth century, and in the south transept an incised slab with the counterpunk head of an effigy of the time of Edward I.

Legend and history commingle in inextricable confusion at Tintagel, and natural beauty is over it all. A sum of £1,500 has been mentioned as sufficient to place this characteristic bit of Cornish scenery in the hands of the National Trust and therefore in the keeping of the public forever. It is not a penny a head for the thousands who have found delight in this corner of King Arthur's country.—Christian Science Monitor.

CANADIAN IS PRESIDENT.

Dr. Lionel Stevenson Heads California Writers' Club.

Canadian authors are coming well to the fore in California. Dr. Lionel Stevenson, formerly of Vancouver, was recently elected president of the California Writers' Club, and at the first dinner over which he presided the two guests of honor were also Canadians—Mrs. H. Glynn Ward, author of "The Glamor of British Columbia," and Mrs. Grace James Morgan, formerly of Chatham, Ont., whose new novel, "Salvage All," has its scenes laid around Victoria and Vancouver Island.

Although Dr. Stevenson has two books to his credit, "Appreciation of Canadian Literature" and a volume of poetry, literature is merely a side line with him. He is lecturer in English at the University of Berkeley, California.

Though he is now twenty-seven, Dr. Stevenson is amazingly youthful in appearance. His slim physique and somewhat shy manner contrasts oddly with that of his brother professors at Berkeley, most of whom are built on generous lines.

New Markets for Our Products.

New markets for Canadian products are developing in South America and there are many indications that the Department of Trade and Commerce will open new trade commissioners' offices in some of the republics. The importance of Spanish is being emphasized for the first time in the preliminary training of young men for the commercial intelligence service.

Canada has already commissioners at Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires and there is a feeling that offices will also be opened up in Chile, Venezuela, Uruguay or Columbia.

This fresh interest in South American markets is due to some extent to the recent tour of F. C. T. O'Hara, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Dipping Into the Future.

Dipping into the future of Canada, Dean R. W. Brock, of the faculty of applied science, University of British Columbia, before the Canadian Club, foresaw a population in the Dominion of 200,000,000 and a stupendous growth in industry and trade never before seen in the history of the world.

Dean Brock based his assumption on analysis of existing conditions in Europe, in relation to temperature, rainfall, coal, resources and elevation. From those ratios could be established the potential population and Canada's could be estimated conservatively as above. This took no heed of the vast northern empire.

Our Fish Trade.

The new trade arrangement between Canada and Spain and Portugal will be of direct benefit to fishermen in the Maritime Provinces, according to those in the business there, the new tariff terms placing them on an equality, as exporters, with the fisherfolk of Newfoundland.

The Maritime Provinces can also find a good market in South and West Africa for their manufactured and natural products, according to Mr. D. J. S. Tyrer, who recently returned from there. A vast trade, he claimed, could be worked up in salt fish.

SOFTBALL

Before a good crowd of enthusiastic softball fans the touring Hamilton Cardinals defeated the Napanee Leafs in the Armouries on Thursday night, the score being 26-20. This was the first game of the season for the local girls, and two of the best players on the team were unable to play. The visiting team had plenty of ball on Thursday, playing in Belleville, where they were defeated by two runs, then going to Kingston where they defeated the Treasures and Supremes of that city, and the final game here. In the first three innings it looked like an overwhelming defeat for the local team, who first of all, had but little practice, and secondly, on account of nervousness. In the last six innings they played as good ball as the visitors, their batting and fielding being exceptional.

The Cardinals have three good players at the first and second base and catching department, while their diminutive pitcher had splendid control. For Napanee Marion Grass at first was the outstanding player on the team, she fielding her position faultlessly and making a number of difficult catches. At the conclusion of the game a social hour was spent in dancing.

MORVEN

The sad word was received on Sunday of the passing away of Mr. Percy Daniels, Ottawa. Deceased was well known here and was a general favorite among the young and old. Sympathy is expressed for the bereaved wife and daughter.—Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, of Ottawa, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Hamm.—Mrs. J. F. Lake visited Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Sharp recently.—Miss Bessie Hardwood, Oshawa, visited her parents on Sunday.—Mrs. S. P. Bell, of Switzerville, spent Friday with Mrs. Sarah Fraser.—Rev. Mr. Merrick is attending Conference this week at Smith's Falls.—Mrs. Charlotte Fretts, Toronto, spent the past week with her sister Mrs. Addie Fraser.—The service will be held in the White Church on Sunday evening in the interests of the W. THE NAPANEE CREED

I believe in Napanee and its possibilities; and I shall do my part to make it a better place in which to live.

I believe in good government for Napanee, and I shall assume my share of the civic responsibility that rests on the shoulders of all our citizens.

I believe in supporting local enterprises that make for community development, and shall contribute my moral support and energy to any worthy cause championed by them.

I believe in patronizing home merchants, for they are greatly responsible for our having good schools and churches, better roads and promotion of the general welfare of this community.

I believe in making Napanee clean and attractive, for a healthy atmosphere is an inducement to honest and right thinking citizens.

I believe in boosting my home town at every possible opportunity; that thinking, talking and acting progress is the quickest and surest way to bring permanent prosperity to Napanee--the best town in America--because it is MY HOME.

This is Our Creed. Make it YOURS!

THE PRICKED BALLOON

By J. D. Beresford.

I still never forget a story of Rann Kennedy's that was told to me many years ago. Whether or not it has ever appeared in print I cannot say. It was related to a friend as a personal experience, and the friend passed it on to me. We agreed, he and I, that it was one of those stories that have a permanent influence on the mind.

It tells of a lonely neglected little boy who lived in a tiny balloon, and occupied the time passed in this lovely, coloured globe contemplating that treasure of happiness which, all on a sudden, was to be shifted, in an ecstasy of possession, into the further glory of display. He went on this day, as indeed he did almost every day, to sit in the sun at the door of his home, sewing. The younger boys with a careworn glance that would remind to observe him, but the elder woman, suddenly and leaning forward, stabbed the balloon with her needle.

Possibly the poignancy of that story lies largely due to the fact that it is told in a small child. Who, one wonders, would be so wicked as to kill so much innocence? Yet you may have similar if less dramatic instances of such cruelty, or selfishness perhaps as it may be, mere thoughtlessness every day in Kensington Gardens, when a small boy's delight in running or skipping is repressed by some well-meaning, exasperated slap, and once we are all children — I know a man once who promised me as a writer, when he was young, grow it up when he was a little over ten, went into business and made a good fortune. In the early years he suffered the usual symptoms of what we call temperament. He was easily exhilarated, easily depressed; the elements of what he believed to be inspiration, others of despair; and the delightful average was one of ready response to the beauties of the world.

He married when he was twenty-five a pretty dark little woman some two or four years younger than himself. It seemed to be a good match, she certainly attractive, and she had a strong vein of practical good sense that would, we said, balance the more unstable temperament of her friend. She was careful and economical, while the latter was careless about money matters, and inclined to be overgenerous. The inference was that where there they would strike the golden mean. But after he gave up writing as a profession he became to all appearances a hard, rather grasping business man. His wife, however, after she ran his house splendidly, had spent no money for herself, but had spent no money for herself, but had spent no money for herself, but

"Easy Money"
The Community Players of Napanee under the direction of Katharine Powell, will present their new 3-act comedy, "Easy Money", in the Community Hall, Enterprise, on Thursday evening, June 7th. An up-to-date play, beautifully costumed, with an interesting plot, interspersed with catchy musical numbers. Two new players, Mr. Berne Napolis and Mr. Reg. Wiseman, add very much to the success of the production. There will be a dance after the play. 22a

BIRTHDAY PICNIC
A very pleasant event took place on Victoria Day, when Master Patsy Culhane, carrying a flag, led a parade of about twenty little girls and boys, ranges of seven and twelve, to the woods of Mr. Miro McCabe, South Napanee, to gather flowers, in honor of the eighth birthdays of Miss Phyllis Denison and Miss Olga Culhane.
Some very pretty little birthday gifts were received with a great deal of pleasure by all.
At twelve o'clock noon a picnic lunch was served by Mrs. Pat Culhane and Mrs. O. S. Davis.
After lunch games of all kinds were enjoyed, Mrs. Arthur Sexsmith, Mount Pleasant, and Mrs. Harold Denison awarding the prizes to the winners.
Mr. O. S. Davis and Mr. Pat Culhane lead the ball game, and about four o'clock the company left for home feeling they had all enjoyed a fine birthday picnic.

OBITUARY
Mr. Peter Abrams.
The death took place Monday morning, May 28th, 1928, of an old resident of Napanee, in the person of Mr. Peter Abrams, in his 7th year.
The deceased suffered a severe stroke about ten days ago, and since then his condition grew steadily worse. Owing to his advanced age and the severity of the illness, little hope was held out for his recovery. The late Mr. Abrams was born in Napanee and had been a resident here during these many years. For a number of years he was in the employ of Kimmerly's grocery store, and for the past few years had been sexton of St. Andrew's Church, and caretaker of the Standard Bank.
He was a life long Conservative and a faithful member of the Orange Lodge. Surviving are his aged widow, one son, Frank, and two daughters, Mrs. R. Scott, Napanee, and Mrs. Kellar, of Arden. An aged brother, Wesley, of Deseronto, also survives.
The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon from his late residence, to Grace United Church, of which he was the sexton for a number of years before assuming a similar duty in St. Andrew's Church.

CELEBRATES HIS EIGHTY-NINTH BIRTHDAY
John B. Allison, a retired farmer, who lives at Adolphustown, celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday on Friday last. Many of his friends were at his home in the afternoon to congratulate him upon attaining another milestone in his life.
Mrs. T. N. Davis, of the Township of Adolphustown, who is a daughter, was present, along with her brother, Arthur, who lives on the old Allison homestead near Adolphustown. The daughter, Miss Edna Allison, is engaged in nursing work in Honolulu and, of course, was unable to attend the celebration.
Mr. Allison continues to keep in very good health in spite of his advanced age, and he was exceptionally pleased at the interest his friends took in the day's visit. He personally greeted the visitors to his home where he lives alone. As the day advanced the people expected to see him tire, but his energy remained equal to the occasion and in the evening was seemingly as fresh as ever.
Mr. Allison recalls the earlier days of Adolphustown where he has always lived, and speaks of Adolphustown as being one of the best spots in the whole country. With its romantic history, and beauty of location, Mr. Allison declares that Adolphustown will always be attractive to him. He seems, in fact, to like the place better every year.

OBITUARY
Mrs. George Shepherd
A resident of Napanee, passed peacefully away on Monday, May 28th, after a long illness, following an operation. She was beloved by all who knew her for her sterling Christian character and hospitality. She was associated with the Robinson Co. for seven years.
She leaves to mourn her loss her husband; a brother, Daniel Shea; two sisters, Mrs. Rankin and Mrs. Emery, and her husband's sister, Miss M. F. Shepherd, who nursed her during her illness here.
The funeral was held at Trinity Church, on Wednesday, at 2 p.m.

SHOWER AND LUNCHEON
A very pretty "shower" was given at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller, Wilton, on Saturday afternoon, for Miss Ethel Babcock, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Babcock, Wilton, a bride-to-be in early June. The home was lovely in pink and white blossoms, giving a pretty background for the twenty-four young girls who came to show their love and esteem to one who has become very dear in the community in which she has always lived. The gifts were presented in an oblong basket, representing a full rigged ship. Among the treasures in the ship was a minature bride. The Union Jack floated from the masts, while white satin ribbon formed the ropes. The gifts consisted of silver, linens, cut glass and pretty ornaments. A dainty buffet luncheon was served. This being also the "bride-to-be's" birthday, a wonderful cake with twenty small pink candles resting in little pink roses, burned on a small table while the guests enjoyed the lovely luncheon prepared for them. We wish the bride-to-be every happiness and success in her future home.

OBITUARY
Entered into eternal rest, on Sunday morning, May 13th, 1928, Mary S. Allenbrack, widow of the late Cornelius Allenbrack, aged 82 years. Deceased was the oldest of six children born to the late Mr. and Mrs. William Evans, of Camden, and who were United Empire Loyalists. Married to the late Cornelius Allenbrack, she came to Richmond to live and spent the remainder of her days there. In religion she was a staunch Methodist, and was a most generous giver to all the causes and welfare of her church, exceptionally helpful and kind to those in trouble and sickness. She will be greatly missed. Always of a very kind and hardy nature, and rarely ill, she spent a life of wonderful usefulness. Even in her declining years she still maintained this, and always kept young by interesting herself in everything that went on about her.
But this winter she began to fail and some weeks ago was stricken with a slight stroke, from which apparently she seemed to rally almost entirely.
Some few weeks later she had another, and passed peacefully away in Kingston General Hospital. God saw the way was growing steep, and the hills were hard to climb, so he closed the weary eyelids, and said "Peace be thine".
The funeral was held at her late residence, Mount Pleasant, on Tuesday, May 14th, at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Pawson, Napanee, conducted the service.
Deceased is survived by one granddaughter, Miss Helen Allenbrack, who is left to mourn a most devoted grandmother. Interment took place in the family plot beside her late husband and only son, Wilbert, who predeceased her some years ago.
"She has climbed the hills to the pearly gate.
Where the band of angels constantly wait;
And passed in through with staff and rod.
Forever at home in the City of God."

ERNESTOWN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE
The Ernestown Women's Institute held their regular meeting in the Institute rooms, on May 24th, with a fairly good crowd in attendance. After the singing of the Ode, the members responded to the roll call by the paying of fees. Our Secretary Treasurer, Mrs. Gordon Young, read a very accurate report of last year's work, and we all feel that our infant branch is steadily maturing and expect this year we will be in line with some of the older branches.
As this meeting was strictly a business meeting, much time was taken with the election of officers for the coming year, with the following results :—
President—Mrs. Fred Hamm.
1st Vice President—Mrs. T. G. Creighton.
2nd Vice President—Mrs. Harry Mott.
Secretary Treasurer—Mrs. Gordon Young.
District Director—Mrs. J. B. Sharpe.
District Representatives—Mrs. Leo Crowe and Mrs. A. C. Miller.
Branch Directors — Mrs. Clarence Thompson, Mrs. Irwin Sharpe, Mrs. W. Birrell, Mrs. R. J. Galt.
Current Events—Mrs. Kensal Priest, Mrs. Geo. Stevenson, Miss Muriel Miller, Miss M. Seeley.
Press Reporters—Mrs. Leo Crowe and Mrs. John Chaplin.
The Lunch, Flower and School Committees remain as last year.
We are looking forward, with much pleasure, to our June meeting, when we expect to have with us Mrs. Ralph Ham, of Napanee, President of that District. She will give us a talk on "The League of Nations".
Our President, Mrs. Fred Hamm, will give us a little talk on "How I Put My Dining-room in Summer Garb for $2.50".
Our Home Nursing and First Aid Class begins June 11th, with Miss Roberts as Instructor. The roll call will be answered by "My Favorite Song".

Address and Presentation
Camden East, Ont.,
May 24th, 1928.
Dear Mrs. Duckwell,—The ladies of the United Church are assembled here this afternoon to greet you, and wish you every success in life, and we pray that God may guard thee well by His Heavenly Grace, hoping that happiness will follow you in your future home.
We are very glad that Mr. Duckwell has secured such a lucrative position in a pleasant locality, and that you are not very far from your three children, and we hope that your future home may be as clear and cloudless as the noonday sky. The sky always hangs, it is always in one place.
We will miss your genial countenance in the church and all its activities. In the church your worth has been felt not only in a general way, but in the various departments. We all have been impressed by the genuineness and nobility of your Christian life, but especially in the Adult Bible Class, of which you were a faithful attendant and an inspiration to all.
You are going forth from our midst and your loyal friends wish to be remembered by you in the years to come, and we cannot, in justice to ourselves, allow you to slip away without giving you some evidence of our appreciation, and the pleasure of your association for a number of years.
We ask you to accept this token, and when across the boundary line, purchase some article of remembrance of your many friends in this little hamlet.
We regret very much to lose you, but our loss is your gain. Sweet memories of old friends might visit you in dreamland—but we shall meet again, when life's battle is fought and the victory is won, in the Upper Room.
As the church bells ring the hour of 10 o'clock each Sabbath morning, may it be a call to unite with us in spirit, if not in person.
We cannot express in words the pain caused by the severing of the chain which your kind deeds have, link by link, bound us together in this class.
The Adult Bible Class bids you adieu.

Dear Mrs. Duckwell,—We, the members of the Ladies' Aid, learned with regret of your departure for your new home in the United States, and we take the opportunity at this time to express our appreciation of the faithful services rendered by you for the Aid, by your willingness to assist at any time.
While we are very sorry to lose you, we want you to carry to your new home our best wishes, and we ask you to accept this gift as a token of our regard and esteem, and trust that in the years to come you may look back with many happy memories of your association with the ladies of Camden East United Church.
Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Aid.

TAMWORTH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Tamworth Branch of the Women's Institute during the year 1927-28 have well lived up to the Institute motto, "For Home and Country", by their good work during the past year.

On July 2nd, 1927, the Institute, wishing to show their loyalty as Canadian citizens, co-operated with the school and held a basket picnic, in honour of Canada's birthday. At this gathering trees were planted so that the Jubilee year might be remembered. Contributions were sent at different times during the year to "The Red Cross Society", "The Navy League", "The Institute for the Blind", "To Save the Children Fund" and to a hospital in the north.

The Institute did their bit in remembering the deceased soldiers and at the same time beautifying the town by the up-keep of the Memorial Plot.

Prizes were donated to the Public School children who had the best display of art and map work in the School Fair. At the September meeting, curtains for the school lunch room were made and were readily donated.

Since then prizes have been offered to the Public School Pupils for making the three best hemstitched towels with the letter "W. I." embroidered on them.

In October the annual Hallowe'en Party was held in the Town Hall, and to change the programme from other years a very appropriate play was arranged entitled "The Haunted Gate".

During the winter when entertainments were few, a committee of ladies took advantage of the time, and held a series of euchre parties, at which prizes were awarded. Everyone had an enjoyable time, and a good sum was realized by the Institute.

In January, instead of the usual Driving Party, the ladies staged a short play, new coveralls were bought for the firemen handling the acks, and added to the fire engine equipment.

In November and January, owing to the departure of our former President and Secretary-Treasurer, the Institute presented each with a gift and an address, expressing appreciation for their excellent service.

The last and probably greatest work of the year was the buying of a new piano for the Township Hall. This has overcome a long felt want and will be a great benefit to the community as a whole.

On May 24th, when the town was holding a celebration, the women of the Institute banded together and served hot meals in the Town Hall, the proceeds from which made a substantial payment on the piano.

The annual meeting on May 29th, brought this very successful year's work to a close.

The annual meeting of the Tamworth Women's Institute was held on Tuesday evening, May 29th, at the home of Mrs. Wheeler, at which 19 members were present.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read, and these were followed by the Secretary's report. Then followed the Treasurer's report, the Treasurer's report, report of the Social Committee and the minutes of the last meeting.

Election of officers then followed. The officers for the coming year are President—Miss Reid.

Vice President—Mrs. Wells.
2nd Vice President—Mrs. Lockridge.
Sec.-Treas.—Mrs. Hunt.
Corresponding Secretary — Miss L. Bradshaw.
District Director—Mrs. White.

OBITUARY

Alex. Macdonald.

As noted briefly in last week's Banner, Alexander Macdonald, a widely known citizen of Orangeville, passed away at his home on Parsons Street, about nine o'clock on Tuesday morning, May 29th, after ten days illness from pneumonia. The end, which was directly attributable to weakening of the heart under the strain of his illness, came very quietly and gracefully.

Alexander Macdonald was born in Camden Township, County of Addington, of Scotch parentage, on May 14th, 1857, and was therefore in his seventy-second year when overtaken by death. He spent his boyhood and received his education in his native township. When a young man he joined in the gold rush to California and followed mining on the Pacific slope for several years. Returning to Ontario he came to Dufferin County and settled on lot 30, con. 3, West Mono, where he became in time the owner of a very fine farm property. In 1879 he was married to Miss Alvina Cornell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cornell, of Shelburne. Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald gave up the cares of farm life and moved to Orangeville to enjoy a well-earned rest in their comfortable home on Parsons Street. Esteemed and beloved in their home neighborhood, they soon won the good opinion of their Orangeville neighbors, and Mr. Macdonald's demise is keenly regretted by a large circle of neighbors and friends in the town of his adoption.

While he had been a successful and progressive farmer, Mr. Macdonald did not confine his energies and activities to the vocation of agriculture. He was keenly interested in municipal and general politics, and served the Township of Mono for four years as Councillor, and for two years as Reeve. As a municipal servant he was vigorous and courageous and achieved an excellent reputation for the same and efficient manner in which he administered the affairs of his municipality. He was a staunch Conservative and the Sir John A. Macdonald school, and his voice was frequently heard from the public platform at party conventions and political gatherings. It was his proud declaration that for forty-eight years he 'had not missed an annual meeting of the Dufferin County Liberal-Conservative Association. While on the farm Mr. Macdonald identified himself actively with the fortunes of the Dufferin Central Fair, and was one of the Past Presidents of that Society. He was a Past Master of Shelburne L. O. L. No. 1221, and a Past Worshipful Preceptor as well as an honorary member of Shelburne Preceptory of the Royal Black Knights. Since coming to Orangeville he had been an active worker in Orangeville L. O. L. Preceptory and L. O. L. 2931, and his presence and counsel will be much missed in the fraternities. Mr. Macdonald was for many years a member of Knox Presbyterian Church, Shelburne, transferring his membership to St. Andrew's Church here shortly after he moved to Orangeville. He took a prominent part in Great War activities and after the war did yeoman service as a member of the Orangeville and Shelburne War Memorial Committees. Outspoken and usually decided in his own convictions, Mr. Macdonald at all ways respected the opinions of others. He was kindly and charitable in his judgments, and where unable to agree was content to "agree to disagree".

The late Mr. Macdonald is survived by his wife and a family of three sons and two daughters. The latter are: Mrs. Reuben, of San Diego, Cal.; Grace E., in the West; Adrian, on the homestead, in Mono; Mrs. Thos. Clancy, of Napanee, and Mrs. W. J. McKitrick, of Orangeville. His death is also mourned by two brothers, John, of Yarker, Ont.; James, of Camden East, Ont.; one sister, Mrs. N. Wylie, of Carson City, Nevada, and ten grandchildren.

The funeral, which was attended by a large number of Orangeville, Shelburne, and Mono friends, was held from his late residence to Shelburne cemetery on Thursday afternoon. The obsequies were under the auspices of the Black and Orange Orders, and about one hundred members of these fraternities were present in regalia. Fully fifty motors formed the funeral procession from Orangeville to Shelburne. The pall bearers, who were members of the two Orders, were Messrs. John Reburn, W. J. Creary and W. R. Campbell, of Shelburne, and J. B. Irwin, S. Hicks and S. Lackey, of Orangeville. Services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. C. G. Armour, Pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Orangeville, assisted by Rev. A. G. Donald, Pastor of Knox Church, Shelburne. The impressive service of the Black Order was read over the open grave by Sir Kt. Norman Lindsay, of Shelburne, and Sir Kt. J. B. Irwin, of Orangeville.

The floral tributes included : a pillow, the wife and family; wreath, R. B. P. No. 833, Shelburne; wreath: L. O. L. No. 2931, Orangeville; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Small, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Small, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Small, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Turner and Angus Small, Toronto; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. A. Horsley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Myers and Mr. Small and family, Shelburne; sprays, Brother Jim; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith and Gordon; Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Rutledge and Mary; Primrose L. O. B. A. No. 739; Dufferin Farmers Association; Mr. and Mrs. J. Schofield and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dolan and Alice; St. Andrew's Women's Association, Orangeville.

Among the friends from a distance were :—Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Clancy, Napanee; Mr. John Macdonald, Yarker; Mr. James Macdonald, Camden East; Mr. John Crampton, Owen Sound; Mrs. Jas. Foster, Mr. Russell Foster, Mr. and Mrs. David Foster, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lyons and Mrs. Douglas, Markdale; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Foster, Carbeton; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Small, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Small, Mr. Eddie Small, Mr. George Small and Mrs. Wilfrid Turner, Toronto. — The Banner, Orangeville, Ont.

ODESSA

The monthly meeting of the W. M. S. was held in the Sunday School room on Wednesday afternoon, with a fair attendance. In the absence of the President, Miss Asselstine, Miss Lillian Aylesworth filled the chair. The opening hymn, "Take Time to be Holy", then the Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Allen Hartman, and the programme that followed was suitable for the lesson taken from Matthew 25 :14-30. Solo, Miss Dorothy Reading, "The Earth is the Lord's". Readings by Mrs. Wm. Young, Mrs. Robert Cairns and Mrs. Bon Emmons, on the Stewardship of Life, and by Mrs. Fred Storms on the Christian Stewardship; also a talk on the same subject by Mrs. G. W. Lucas. Solo by Miss Verna Benjamin, "Entire Consecration". The closing hymn, "Oh Master, Let Me Walk With Thee", and prayer. A unique as well as a delightful social gathering was held on Good Friday afternoon in the Chinese Women's room in the Christian Institute, on University Avenue, Toronto. The event was planned by some of the Chinese women to do honor to Mrs. Treen, before her return to Canada. A Chinese tea was served, and a specially prepared cake, made to represent, symbolically the Maple Leaf, which was cut by the guest of honor. After the Chinese women told Mrs. Treen of their pleasure in receiving a fellow country woman, though from a different province, the programme was given by guest of the afternoon with a beautiful travelling case. Though Mrs. Treen could not pantomime she replied through an interpreter. Her face, even had she said nothing, conveyed to all, Chinese and Canadian, the depth of pleasure in this mark of friendship and goodwill. Such an event, although it occupied so short a time, speaks well for the future friendly relationship of different parts of old China and the bringing in of the Gospel of peace and good will to all nations. Many of our readers will remember Mrs. Treen, who spoke here last fall on behalf of the women of West China, thanking the United Church for the word of life which had been carried to them.

HEAVY TOURIST TRAVEL TO NATIONAL PARKS

Tourist travel to the national parks during last season was exceptionally heavy and the number of distinguished visitors the largest in the history of the parks. The most notable of these were, of course, Their Royal Highnesses, the Prince of Wales and Prince George, who with Premier and Mrs. Baldwin and the other members of the Royal party spent several days informally at Banff and Lake Louise resting after their strenuous tour across Canada. Earlier in the year Banff was honoured by a visit from Their Excellencies, Lord and Lady Willingdon, who spent a few days there on their first trip to the West. This autumn Their Excellencies returned for a couple of weeks' holiday in Jasper park, enjoying with their party the fishing, golf, and motoring of that superb Alpine playground.

The number of private parties, many of which travelled in special trains, was also unusually large; and included a special party of delegates to the Pan-Pacific Education Congress at Honolulu among whom were Sir Frederick Whyte, Viscount Castlereagh, Mr. Lionel Curtis, famous founder of the Round Table, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, the Hon. William Astor, son of Lord and Lady Astor, the Hon. Hugh Wyndham, Sir Arthur and Lady Currie and a number of other prominent citizens of the Empire. Other visitors were the British Editors' party of about 120, a party of delegates from the World's Poultry Congress comprising over 100, and 300 delegates to the Triennial Congress of Mining and Metallurgy. Special parties from the United States included 400 members of the Investment Bankers' Association, travelling in four special trains; the New Outlook Magazine party numbering 200; and delegates to the Convention of Real Estate Men, who toured in two special trains. Several large special parties came also from Ontario and Quebec, including one of about 150 visitors who travelled under the auspices of Laval University, Quebec.

POULTRY BREEDING

THE X-RAY, REGISTRATION AND R.O.P.

"New and improved species of chicken will in the near future", according to Dr. W. H. Dolffenbach, of the Plowger Hospital, New York, "be produced by the treatment of fertile eggs with the X-ray". He claims to have produced a definite deviation from the normal sex ratio in the chickens hatched from X-ray eggs, this result being in a greater percentage of female chicks.

This is quoted from a New York despatch without comment, but it is necessarily reminds us of Canada's great poultry breeding policies, viz., Registration and Record of Performance.

Canada is the only country admitting the hen to National Live Stock Records. This is done through the Registration policy, and consists of the making of official qualifying records under Government supervision through the medium of Egg Laying Contests conducted on the Dominion Experimental Farms.

The qualifying records under the Record of Performance policy are made on the breeders own plant, which is under constant government inspection. The policy is administered by the Dominion Live Stock Branch.

Both policies are to encourage pedigree breeding of poultry for production, and to originate a source of supply of male birds of known ancestry. The use of such males will be to one of the great factors in Canadian poultry development, increasing as it must the average flock production, and as a result increasing the revenue, and making even more profitable an already prosperous industry.

Pedigree breeding is the surest, safest, and sanest way to develop the poultry industry.

"I wash, iron and carry coal and don't get tired since taking Vinol. Also, I have gained 18 pounds." — Mrs. S. Cortese.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. The very FIRST bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or adults. Tastes delicious. Wallace's Drug Store.

ENTERPRISE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The annual meeting of the Enterprise Women's Institute for the closing up of the year's business and election of officers for the ensuing year was held in Keech's Hall, on Friday, May 25th.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved, and it was decided that the officers who had served for the past year should be reinstated, with one or two exceptions. Mrs. J. S. Reid, who had been a long time in office, and has served the Institute during that time very faithfully, wished to retire; Mrs. E. R. Wilson being elected to fill her place as Treasurer. Mrs. Wilson was also elected pianist for the coming year. For the District Convention on June 6th at Croydon, Mrs. H. W. Wagar is to be District Director; Mrs. Graham, Miss Reid and Mrs. J. Cousins, representatives; Mrs. Stanley Bell, delegate, and to report the proceedings of the Convention for the benefit of the Enterprise branch of the Women's Institute.

The Secretary was requested to write to the Council, asking that a man be paid to cut the weeds and trim the trees along the streets of the village.

A donation of $2.00 was voted to Mrs. Davey for her kindness in keeping the books of the Travelling Library, for the use of the community.

It was decided to send again for the books, and that the same donation be given to the one who keeps them in future.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Avoid the Pains Of Rheumatism

This Trouble Comes Through Weak, Watery Blood

Many people suffer rheumatic pains that could be avoided by building up the blood. Rheumatism comes with thin, watery blood, and can only be driven out of the system by enriching and purifying the blood. To make rich, red blood no medicine equals Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills actually make new blood, driving out all poisonous secretions, and creating a condition of robust health. Thousands of rheumatic sufferers can testify to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among them is Mr. Jos. A. Tully, Bobcaygeon, Ont., who says :—"As a worker in the woods for years I was exposed to all kinds of rough wintry weather. The result was that I was finally laid up with rheumatism. I could hardly stir, and was confined to bed. Medicine seemed to have little or no effect and the best encouragement the doctor gave me was that with the coming of warm weather I would be better. But instead of getting better, I grew worse. My joints were badly swollen, and my legs so stiff they would hardly support my body. At this stage I read that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended for rheumatism and decided to try them. The results were beyond my expectations. After a few weeks the swelling had disappeared, and the stiffness gradually wore away, and much sooner than I expected all traces of rheumatism had disappeared. The next winter when I went into the woods I took a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with me, and they kept me in the best of condition. My experience should give encouragement to other rheumatic sufferers."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c. a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FREE FIELD INSPECTIONS-- CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES LISTS CLOSE JUNE 15th

(Experimental Farms Note)

The Division of Botany, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will list applications for inspection, free of charge, of plots planted with Certified Seed Potatoes, with a view to certification. Application must be made, on the proper form provided, and be received for listing not later than June 15, in order to receive free inspection.

Applications received after that date cannot be guaranteed inspection. Where possible, inspection may be granted late applicants, but only on their agreeing to pay all costs incurred by the inspector in connection with his visits.

Application forms may be obtained from Mr. O. W. Lachaine, District Inspector, care of Horticultural Department, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont., and will be accepted at the same address for listing for inspection.

It is not the chief purpose of the Department of Agriculture to encourage growers to plant certified seed with a view to having their crops inspected for certification purposes, because every potato-grower has not the necessary patience and the time, or suitable location and equipment for growing certified seed. The object rather is to have growers plant the best seed available for their commercial crop, and to help to keep down to a minimum destructive plant diseases with their resultant serious effect on yields. It is desirable to obtain greater acre-yields and so to reduce the cost of production. The use of certified seed on many farms would double the yields now being obtained.

BOUNDARY TABLETS ON INTERNATIONAL BRIDGES

Bronze Markers are Placed on Peace Bridge Spanning Niagara River

The importance of having the exact position of the boundary permanently and plainly marked on international bridges between Canada and the United States has long been realized and has been emphasized within the last few years by a number of specific requests for information in this regard. Accordingly after a treaty had been signed in Washington in 1925, entrusting to the International Boundary Commission the task of maintaining the entire boundary between Canada and the United States in a state of effective demarcation, the Commissioners decided to mark the boundary on all international bridges, as well as to keep open vistas in wooded areas along the boundary, to repair existing boundary monuments, and to erect new ones where required.

The first bridge on which a boundary marker was placed was the new Peace Bridge which spans the Niagara River between Fort Erie and Buffalo. After determining the position of the boundary on the bridge with great accuracy, specially designed bronze tablets, 12 by 18 inches in size and bearing in low relief the coats of arms of the two countries and in addition appropriate inscriptions, were firmly fastened to the concrete balustrade on each side of the bridge.

WINTER AIDS RAILWAY BUILDERS.

The railway is one of the greatest agencies in the rapid and economic development of Canada's natural resources. The initiation and subsequent progress of many of the major development operations in the newer parts of the Dominion have depended largely on the provision of rail communication. Much interest is now centred on Flinflon which is situated about ninety miles north and west of the Pas, Manitoba, the nearest railway point. Ordinarily the construction of a railway of this length through sparsely timbered northern country would occupy between two and three years. So important, however, was the element of time that the Hudson Bay Mining Company, the owners of the Flinflon Mine, when the contract for construction was signed on December 1, 1927, offered a cash bonus of $250,000 of the line were completed and trains running before December 31st, 1928. The contractors, therefore, to speed up construction, entered upon the daring experiment of laying the ties and rails of a standard gauge road on the frozen ground for the first fifty miles; and, dispensing with "hoe" roads, they carried in all the materials for the building of the whole road, and all the initial equipment for the mine, before the spring thaw rendered the unballasted railway impassable.

The immensity of the task facing those in charge of the construction of this line may be better realized when the character of the country and the short space of time allowed for the completion of the line are taken into consideration. The first fifty miles of the right of way traverses a comparatively level area marked by muskeg and lightly timbered swamps, sections of which are almost impassable during the summer months. Beyond Mile 50 and to the end of the line, thirty-eight miles further on, the country is broken, consisting of rock ridges with a fair growth of timber and dotted with lakes.

With only a small amount of clearing and leveling, steel was laid on the frozen ground for the first fifty miles, enabling construction to reach the beginning of a system of lakes navigable for scows and rafts, along the shores of which runs the final stretch of this line. During the winter it was possible to operate trains from the main line near the Pas to the head of water transportation and the material required for the completion of the line and for the opening up of the mine was moved in. With the spring breakup the heavy timbers will be floated to the sites of the bridges and the machinery and other materials carried by raft and scow to the various scenes of activity.

Three gravel pits were opened up along the first section of the road, and this spring and during the early summer the work of ballasting and fitting the road will be pushed forward in both directions from each of these three points. Early in the operations camps were erected from Mile 50 to the end of the line at Flinflon - and gangs of men were started in on the work of clearing, grading, and bridging. The materials and supplies for this work were taken in from the end of the first section of the railway over the winter sleigh-road, the hauling being done by tractors and horses. Six small bridges have been completed and over the whole line there is enough material now on hand to bridge everyone busy until the track is ballasted.

The line is being built by the Manitoba Northern Railway Company under charter from the province of Manitoba. The present directors are officers of the Canadian National Railways, the Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, and a representative of the Hudson Bay Mining Company. The line will be leased on completion to the Canadian National Railways for a period of twenty years under such terms that at the end of that time the line becomes the property of the operating company.

OBITUARY.

William Wesley Asselstine

On Friday, May 25th, 1928, there passed away at his home, in the Township of Portland, William Wesley Asselstine, in his eighty-sixth year. He had been failing for a week or two, but was always able to be up and about the place. On Tuesday evening he retired to the home of his sister, Mrs. Geo. Lampkin, and after waiting for an hour or more, he was overtaken by a stroke of paralysis. He lived until Friday, although he never regained consciousness.

The late Mr. Asselstine was of U. E. Loyalist descent, and he was born and died on the farm which was given to his grandfather by the Crown.

He was the eldest of a family of nine, three of whom are still living. These are two brothers, Edward, of Canman, Man., and Coleman, of Sunnyside, Wash., and one sister, Mrs. Jocelin Lott, predeceased him by four children, three remain to mourn his passing. These are Mrs. E. A. Hammond, Minneapolis; Mrs. F. A. Grant, Sydenham, and Archie, on the homestead.

Mr. Asselstine was a man of sterling qualities—the type of man in whom all men have confidence.

On account of the affliction of deafness, he was for a number of years unable to attend public gatherings, but his interest in the affairs of the church and the state was ever keen. He was strong for truth, progressiveness and temperance, and for all things that stood for uplift in the community.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

THE APPLE INDUSTRY IN CANADA

From the very earliest times the apple has been Canada's most important commercial fruit. Its increase both as to acreage and crop returns was rapid and steady up to the beginning of this century, and to-day, after two decades of unsettlement and arrested development of the industry, it is again resuming its forward march.

Most botanists are of the opinion that the apple is not a native of North America and that the "wild" apples which the pioneer settlers in some localities, such as along the St. Lawrence, found growing amid the forest trees on their homesteads, were the descendants of trees imported still earlier. Whether the apple be indigenous or introduced, one thing is certain, namely, that in many parts of Canada it finds an ideal environment and produces fruit unexcelled by any other country in the world where apples are grown. This is proved by the fact that for many years about one-third of Canada's crop has been exported to other countries, and also by the circumstance that three times at the Imperial Fruit Show in England the McIntosh Red variety has been declared as the finest dessert apple in the British Empire.

Opinions differ as to which province belongs the honor of first growing apples—both Quebec and Nova Scotia claiming that distinction—but it is certain that for nearly three centuries apples have been growing in both provinces. In fact, it was from Quebec or Nova Scotia that the ancestor of the present McIntosh Red trees growing wild on his bush farm.

Apples are grown commercially in all the eastern provinces and on the Pacific slope, the chief commercial orchard districts being in Nova Scotia, Ontario and British Columbia. Although apples in commercial quantities have not been produced in the Prairie Provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta—considerable attention is being given to their culture, especially in Manitoba. Several promising hardy varieties have been developed at Dominion experimental farms and from propagation of these good results are anticipated.

The causes of the set-back in the past two decades, already referred to, are very complicated but the fortunate circumstance is that the way to renewed expansion has been already entered upon. One difficulty in apple growing has been that this tree is so hardy that where the orchard is subdeline to the main farming operations it is apt to be neglected in the rush of other work and, therefore, much of the fruit offered locally is not of high quality but this grade of fruit is rapidly decreasing in quantity because of greater attention to cultivation. Again, far too many kinds of apples have been grown, with the result that there are over a hundred varieties produced in commercial quantities in Canada, whereas the public never would be met by more than fifteen, and the work of selecting and grading by the packer would thereby be rendered much easier. One of the reasons for optimism lies in the fact that the present trend of the industry is towards specialization, and this has been particularly noticeable in the last few years during which orchards in bearing all over Canada have been grafted to fewer and more desirable varieties. A result of Canada's suitability for apple culture and of the additional care given of late, has been that 80 per cent of the crop is of commercial quality. This is a much higher percentage than is secured in any other country.

Apple orcharding occupies a most important place in Canadian agriculture as the following facts indicate: Over 200,000 acres are to-day devoted to the production of apples, the value of these orchards is estimated at $120,000,000, and the average crop ranges from 3,250,000 to 4,500,000 barrels. The crop contributes directly and indirectly approximately $3,000,000 to the railway earnings of Canada and makes possible or adds materially to the success of such subsidiary industries as canneries, evaporators, cider and vinegar factories, cooperages, stave mills, box factories, and factories for the manufacture of tools, implements, chemicals, and wrapping paper required in producing and marketing the fruit.

The apple brings with it important benefits in addition to those of a commercial nature. In the early days of settlement it was found that its introduction to any new locality was always followed by an improvement in the health of the inhabitants, and its keeping qualities are such that it may be used in the fresh state every month in the year. These are some of the reasons why the apple has come to be called the King of Fruits, and why also its production promises to become an even more important feature in Canadian agriculture than it has been in the past sixty years.

Women Police In Soviet.

Additional police work for young women more than 21 years old has been promised by Felix Kiakcin, one of the "militia" or police forces of the Russian Socialist Federated Republics. As the first part of his telephone connection between Paris and Havre. It only takes a railway train five hours.

Memorial to Irish Poet.

Three historical societies in Bermuda have decided to co-operate in erecting a memorial to Tom Moore, the poet, whose name is almost a household words in the leisurely, conservative isle where the poet sojourned some 123 years ago.

The sculptor whose design passed the jury of the three historical societies is Mrs. Francis Gloria Bartneet of New York City. The fountain design represents a boat-shaped of granite surmounted by the heroic bust of Moore in green bronze. At the base is a deep stone trough for the horse.

LOANS TO FARMERS

Only Men Actually Engaged or Shortly to Become Engaged In Farming May Benefit.

It is announced by the Department of Finance that the Dominion Government will shortly organize the Federal Rural Credits Board to conform with the legislation approved in 1927. This has been waiting the action of one or more of the provinces in passing enabling legislation to become effective. British Columbia was the first to take this step, being followed by Manitoba, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Alberta, so that there are five provinces to co-operate in the Federal scheme when it comes into effect this summer. Subsequently, it is anticipated, other provinces will enact legislation to take advantage of the scheme and that in its operation it will become virtually Dominion-wide.

Under the Canada Farm Loan Act of 1927, provision is made for the appointment of a Federal Board to operate the scheme, which will consist of four members, Government-appointed. This board will have power to issue and sell bonds to be known as Farm Loan Bonds, to buy the same on its own account and to retire the same on or before maturity. It will have power to make long term loans to farmers on the security of first mortgages on farm lands. The Federal Government will subscribe to the extent of five per cent. of all such loans; each province enlisting under the scheme will subscribe an additional five per cent. of its provincial loans; while each borrower under the scheme must also subscribe to the extent of five per cent. of the individual loan.

Loans will be made only to farmers on the security of first mortgages up to 50 per cent. of the board's appraised value of the land and 20 per cent. of permanent, insured improvements. The proceeds of such loans are to be devoted to the purchase of farm land; the purchase of fertilizers, seed, live stock, tools, machinery and any implements and equipment necessary for the proper operation of the farm; to erect farm buildings, clear, drain, fence or make any permanent improvement tending to increase the productive value of the land; to discharge liabilities already accumulated; or for any other purpose which in the judgment of the board may be reasonably considered as improving the value of the land for agricultural purposes.

Loans will be made only to farmers actually engaged or shortly to become engaged in the cultivation of the farm mortgaged and whose experience, ability and character are such as to warrant the belief that the farm mortgaged will be successfully cultivated. These farm loans, running thirty years, will be repayable in equal annual or semi-annual instalments of principal and interest, according to arrangement, simple interest being charged at a rate not to exceed eight per cent. The act arranges for a board of four members to supervise the operation of the scheme in each province co-operating, and arrangement is similarly made whereby such boards may make the loans directly to the farmer or through local co-operative societies or recognized colonization societies.

The new Canada Farm Loans Act is calculated to considerably stimulate the agricultural industry in those provinces taking advantage of its terms, by putting the possibility of more rapid expansion within the reach of those farmers in the first years of operation who may have little capital save industry and honesty, as well as aiding those more firmly established who have their capital tied up in land, stock and equipment, resulting in a general increase in cultivation and farm production. Rural credits are by no means new in Canada, successful operation of various schemes in different provinces having shown quite gratifying results.

Revive Six-Foot Rule.

Six feet is again the minimum height for recruits to the London police force.

The force, whose physique was for long the pride of London and of Londoners throughout the world, lost a brief period its reputation for possessing only men of a height of six feet in its ranks. Men of 5 ft. 10 in. were admitted when the supply of recruits fell off following an equalization in the rates of pay throughout the country.

Previously the city police had been paid a slightly higher rate of pay than even the Metropolitan Police. Now the supply of recruits considerably exceeds the demand.

Dr. Henry Marshall Tory, D.S.C., LL.D., F.R.S.C., president of the University of Alberta since its inception in 1908, retires from that position to accept that of President of the National Research Council of Canada, a position he has held in an honorary capacity since 1922.

No Better Medicine For Little Ones

Is What Thousands of Mothers Say of Baby's Own Tablets

A medicine for the baby or growing child—one that the mother can feel assured is absolutely safe as well as efficient—is found in Baby's Own Tablets. They Tablets are praised by thousands of mothers throughout the country. These mothers have found by actual experience that there is no other medicine for little ones to equal them. Once a mother has used them for her children she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Charles Hutt, Tancook Island, N.S., writes:—

"I have ten children, the baby being just six months old. I have used Baby's Own Tablets for them for the past 20 years and can truthfully say that I know of no better medicine for little ones. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all other mothers to do so."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or will be mailed upon receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Presentation and Address.

On Tuesday evening, May 29th, was the scene of a very pretty event, when the beautifully decorated home of Mrs. Chas. Stover was opened to her Sunday School Class, and also the members of Miss Aaselstine's class, in honor of our June bride-to-be, Miss Ethel Babcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Babcock, of Wilton. At the hour of eight o'clock the guests began to arrive, and a very uplifting evening was spent in games and amusements. At the close of this part of the evening's programme, the bride-to-be was presented with beautifully engraved silver teaspoons with her initial engraved, and the following address was read:—

Wilton, Ont.,
May 29th, 1928.

Dear Ethel,—We, the pupils of Mrs. Stover's and Miss Aaselstine's Sunday School Classes, have met to be with you another evening before you leave our group.

We sahall miss you, Ethel, from our Sunday School very much, as you have been so willing a worker in all the activities of our social life. We are proud to have been your friend, and we have ever found you a true friend to us. It is indeed a loss to us, but it will be gain to the community to which you are going.

We know that you are happy and may the happiness you will feel as a June bride, last undiminishingly through life. We wish you health and every success in your future home.

We wish to extend to you our appreciation by presenting to you this slight token of our love, and as time causes you to use them, may it bring back your memory of the kind regards of the class.

Signed by Teachers and Sunday School friends.

After the presentation the bride-to-be replied in very suitable words, thanking her friends for their lovely gift, and very touching was her fond, felt expression that she hoped she might never wander from the Bible teaching she had received from her Sunday School teacher, Mrs. Stover.

Following this a dainty lunch was served. A special feature of this part of the evening was a table presided over by Mrs. Stover, the bride-to-be placed under an arch which flowed with pink and white streamers of ribbon, with wedding bells in the centre. After partaking of the dainty refreshments, the evening was brought to a close, wishing Ethel a happy voyage through life.

HOW THE WEATHER MAN ASSISTS THE FORESTER

Study of Weather Conditions Proves Valuable Aid in Prevention of Forest Fires

Advancing civilization and settlement in a wooded country like Canada increases the forest fire hazard, but our fire fighters are ever on the alert to offset this by making use of the discoveries of science—the telephone, the radio and the aeroplane. One of the latest aids to be drawn into service is the weather forecast. The inflammability of the leaves, twigs, branches and other litter on the forest floor, in which fires start or spread, depends on the amount of moisture they contain. It has been proved that if these materials contain more than 25 per cent of their dry weight of moisture, fires will not start, but they dry out below this point, fires will start more and more readily until at 10 per cent moisture content fire will start from an unextinguished cigarette butt. The amount of moisture in these materials depends on the rainfall and on the relative humidity of the air. As everyone knows, the air always contains a certain amount of water vapour. The capacity of air to hold moisture varies with the temperature. For instance, air at a temperature of 90 degrees F. will hold exactly twice as much moisture as it will at 65 degrees F. The amount of moisture which the air contains at a given temperature compared with what it could hold at that temperature is called its relative humidity. When it contains all the moisture it will hold, its relative humidity is said to be 100 per cent. If it contains only half as much as it could, the relative humidity is said to be 50 per cent.

Forest materials absorb moisture from the air when the relative humidity is high, and in turn give off moisture to the air, or dry out, when the relative humidity is low. Fires tend to die down at night because the lower night temperature raises the relative humidity of the air to the point where the forest materials will begin to absorb moisture, and so have their inflammability reduced. In the same way, when the relative humidity is high enough during the day, the fuels, if wet, will not dry out, and, if dry, may even absorb moisture from the air and become non-inflammable. Wind, rain, and temperature all have an effect on the moisture content of forest materials, but the relative humidity of the air is the greatest single factor governing their influence.

It will be seen from the foregoing that fire weather has a very important bearing on fire protection. In common with other modern organizations charged with forest protection, the Forest Service of the Department of the Interior has been at work securing data which will best enable it to make use of these natural laws. Information is being gathered covering not only each forest and each natural division of a forest, but also the effect on the situation of topography, season of the year, and nature of forest cover and these are being related to one another and to the weather. The result is a chart no one but already there are indications of good results.

Briefly, a study of the weather forecast and the record of the weather for the preceding few days, a forest officer is able to see whether the hazard is increasing or decreasing, and what points are most vulnerable. He can thus concentrate his forces on certain areas, direct loggers to cease operations in areas of special hazard, prohibit or allow the burning of loggers' or settlers' slash, etc. At first sight it might appear that this would be comparatively small, but that is an entirely wrong view of the matter. The aim of the forest conservationist is to prevent rather than extinguish fires, and everything which assists that effort is of great value; and then the conservation forces at present available are so small in comparison with the vast estate to be protected that administrators dare not fail to seize every weapon which modern science brings within reach.

"AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHY."

Clarence Winchester Recalls Early Experiences.

Going to school is evidently becoming jollier and jollier. In some schools to-day photographs taken from airplanes are being used to make geography more interesting, according to Clarence Winchester and F. L. Wills in their new book, "Aerial Photography," to which a foreword is contributed by Sir Alan Cobham.

Mr. Winchester, who has had a varied career in flying, on the stage, and in journalism, and incidentally once received £100 for a poem, recalls how he first took photographs from a primitive airplane before the war.

"On one occasion," he writes, "I was trying to take a good aerial view of Brighton Palace Pier and had practically to hold myself secure with my feet while I hung over the side. Just as I was about to make the exposure, the pilot (Ezie Pashley, who was killed in the war) became ecstatic, banked the machine steeply, and nearly tipped me into the water a few hundred feet below! Yes, Ezie had a great sense of humor. While I clung on, he merely grinned amusedly.

"Nowadays most aerial photography is automatic, and you don't carry your slides in a shopping bag as I did then. And you don't drop them overboard on to innocent bathers!"

She—"Do you think there ever was a man who could truthfully say to his wife: 'You are the only woman I have loved'?"

He—"Only one man I can think of."

She—"Who? You dear?"

He—"Oh, no; Adam."

IMPROVED TOWERS FOR GEODETIC SURVEYING

Use of Specially Constructed Ladders a Great Aid in Reconnaissance

In all geodetic operations, extreme accuracy is the goal and the attainment of this entails the use of considerable field equipment as well as painstaking labour on the part of the survey parties engaged. Nevertheless everything is done to keep down expenditures in this highly scientific branch of survey work, and whenever possible improved devices are adopted which enable more rapid progress to be made without the sacrifice of accuracy.

One of the chief functions of the Geodetic Survey is to determine the latitude and longitude of selected points throughout the country as a basis for mapping. In order that this may be done with the greatest accuracy it is necessary that the points selected, the so-called "stations", should be intervisible. The straight lines joining the stations form a series of triangles known as the triangulation net. Modern instruments admit of the sides of the triangles making up the nets being very long. To obtain the necessary intervisibility between stations far apart, sturdy towers constructed of a strong timber framework, and sufficiently high to overtop intervening obstacles, have for many years been used in open or heavily timbered country. From the tops of such towers instrument readings are made to far distant stations.

The engineer who is engaged in primary reconnaissance frequently experiences difficulty in determining the height of a tower which is required to make certain stations of a triangulation system intervisible. It was to overcome this difficulty, which under the circumstances might result in the erection of a rigid tower too low or too high for the purpose required, that the Geodetic Survey of Canada, which is a branch of the Department of the Interior, has within recent years adapted to its needs an improved form of reconnaissance tower or "observational ladder", which for certain purposes is a great saver of both time and money.

The ladder tower is simple in construction and very economical to erect. It is composed of intermediate sections about 12 feet long but which overlap to the extent of 2 feet making the effective length 10 feet. When joined together they form two vertical ladders about two feet apart, resting on sleepers on the ground and connected to one another by pairs of cross braces at intervals of 5 feet. Four sets of guys, the first placed at about 30 feet from the ground and the others at intervals of 15 feet, hold the ladders steady. A table is fitted to the top of the ladders with room for the observer's head and shoulders in the centre and upon which instruments and maps are laid apart.

The observer climbs up the interior of the cage, formed by the ladders and cross braces, without any danger of falling backwards. On reaching the top he is well supported by the table which surrounds him during the period of observation.

In two hours two experienced men can raise one of these towers complete to a height of 80 feet if necessary, and can dismantle it in half that time. A complete set, with guys, weighs only 1,000 pounds and can be conveniently transported in a motor truck.

OBITUARY

Amos Frizzell.

Amos Frizzell, a life long resident of the County of Addington, passed away at his home, near Tamworth, on April 26th, 1928, at the age of eighty-one years.

The late Mr. Frizzell met with an accident which hastened his death. He was a highly respected and prosperous farmer, and was the last surviving member of a family of three brothers and one sister. He was born in the Township of Camden and spent the greater part of his life in the Township of Sheffield. He is survived by his widow, four sons and two married daughters.

The funeral service, which was largely attended, was held at his late residence, and interment took place in the Tamworth cemetery. Rev. Mr. Beckstead officiated at the services.

DANDY OF INSECT WORLD.

The Ant Is Very Particular About Its Toilet.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard," said wise King Solomon. He might have addressed this advice to the slovenly as well, naturalists say, for the ant is also the dandy of the insect world.

Ants spend much of their time primping. Cleanness is as much an essential of their gospel of living as industry. They have complete toilet outfits, including fine and coarse combs. Their bodies are covered with a fine hairy coat transformed with spines and bristles. Working ceaselessly in the earth, as they do, these coats become filled with dirt, a condition which apparently they cannot endure, for they brush, wash, and comb until clean again.

In this process the ant finds its tongue the most useful implement. It is lined with hairy ridges that are covered with tiny curved "bosses."

The chief comb, however, is attached to the hind legs. It has a short handle, stiff back, and is toothedged. It can be swung free, and is applied to the coat effectively.

Ants have no particular time for making their toilet. They do it when ever they feel like it, whether eating, working, or on the march. An ant will stop in the midst of work, climb to a nearby eld, and, standing on its hind legs, ply teeth, comb, and tongue. From top of head to tip of hind legs it goes, smoothing out ruffled hairs and removing the particles of dirt. Finishing with a few touches, it stretches, calmly climbs down from its pedestal, and loses itself among its fellow-workers.

The cleanliness of ants exhibited during this washing process is amazing. They climb to the tips of grass blades, hang by their claws, and turn around and around. The blade is held with the third and fourth pairs of legs, which are spread at length, while the head is cleaned with the fore legs or the abdomen combed.

Sometimes two ants will clean a fellow-workers. Clinging to the grass, a fore leg on one side of the stem and a hind leg on the other, they stretch out at full length. The ant that is being cleaned backs in a like position.

The voluntary maids will go over their subject vigorously with tongues, teeth, and combs, washing and brushing her coat until it is clean and sleek again. Ants appear to enjoy these experiences, for they will submit complaisantly to the most violent attentions of the others.

LOCOMOTIVE WHISTLES.

Prof. Foley Claims They Are In Wrong Place.

Locomotive whistles are due for some radical changes if heed is given by the railroads to the suggestions of Prof. Arthur L. Foley of the physics department at Indiana University. The whistle blows the wrong direction, according to Prof. Foley. It is intended primarily to be heard in front of the locomotive, and several further to the rear than the end of the train. By reason of the location of the whistle it is heard three times as clearly from the side as from the front. The noise ahead of the engine is cut down by blasting the whistle behind the smokestack, steam dome, and sand box.

The remedy is very simple, Prof. Foley points out that "even a mule kick has that sound can be traced, for the mule turns his ears in the ocean." All that is necessary is to place the whistle on the very front of the locomotive and place a concave reflector behind it. Then the whistle blast will be sent ahead where it will do the most good. The power of the blast can be cut down. The steam required to blow it can be curtailed and an economy effected in fuel. It is said 1,000,000 tons of coal annually are used for nothing but blowing locomotive whistles. That is why the railroads are giving consideration to the idea.

If the railroads ever apply this simple piece of good sense that Prof. Foley will be benefactor of those who live near railway tracks.—Des Moine Register.

ALL MEN ARE BROTHERS.

All Descended From a Common Ancestral Stock.

Scientific evidence that all men are brothers, and all descended from a common ancestral stock, can be found even in the human body, scientists back teeth. At the meeting of the American Philosophical Society in Philadelphia Dr. Milo Hellman of New York reported the results of his study of the facial characters in human dentition. He has examined the pattern of the lower back teeth of American and African negroes, and Asiatic mongols.

He finds the widest range of "variation," he said, "this pattern may be traced through intermediate stages to a fundamental type called the Dryopithecus pattern, which is also shared by the anthropoid apes. Certain changes are becoming apparent which tend to modify the primitive Dryopithecus pattern in both man and apes."

The Dryopithecus of which Dr. Hellman referred was a man-like ape, long since extinct, whose fossil remains have been found in northern India. The molar teeth were marked in a peculiar cross-like pattern.

The Cooling Color.

Tests made by engineers with instruments that measured heat flowing through a sunlit roof showed that a white roof for a house is as cool then as the white clothes you wear in hot weather.

Shiny aluminium paint is even better, as it reflects away the sun's hot rays. A roof coated with it transmits thirty-eight per cent. less heat inward.

This probably works both ways, as in winter some heat escaping from the house may be reflected back again, resulting in a fuel saving.

JASPER PARK IS POPULAR

The National Parks of Canada are growing in popularity, both with Canadians and with visitors from other countries, according to a report from the Canadian National Railways hotel department, based upon the number of visitors accommodated during the season of 1927 at Jasper Park Lodge, the railways' hotel which is situated in Canada's largest National Park in the heart of the Canadian Rockies. Not only are the numbers of United States citizens greater than in previous years, but the registration figures show a growing tendency on the part of Canadians themselves to take advantage of the magnificent playgrounds which have been set aside for them. Of total registrations, for periods longer than one day, numbering 6,500, approximately 2,600 registered from points in Canada, a greater registration of Canadians than in any previous year.

Of the 6,500 guests who registered at the Lodge during the 1927 season, 3,600 were from points in the United States, the state of California leading with 849 registrations. Other states largely represented were Illinois with 460; New York State, 348; Minnesota, 251; Ohio, 208; Pennsylvania 161 and Michigan 85.

Of those registering from Canada, 278 were from Quebec; 973 from Ontario; 453 from Manitoba; 395 from British Columbia; 358 from Alberta; 231 from Saskatchewan and the balance from the Maritime provinces.

There are several reasons for the growing popularity of Jasper Park Lodge, according to A. S. McLean, General Superintendent of Canadian National Hotels. The building of additional highways and trails in the park, making the distant beauty spots more accessible to visitors, the construction of chalets at such beauty spots as Medicine and Maligne Lakes and the spreading fame of Canada's finest scenic golf course, among them. At Medicine and Maligne Lakes—the latter the largest glacier in the Canadian Rockies, chalets have been built for the convenience of riding parties and trails have improved so that the journey of sixty miles through the mountains is delightful without hardship.

There is also the fact that during the past season the area of the park has been extended to 5,700 square miles so as to include the magnificent Columbia ice section, one of the finest big game districts in the Rockies and containing the largest icefield in Canada.

At the conclusion of their meeting at Edmonton this year, the members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association will visit Jasper Park Lodge and will spend a short time in this magnificent mountain playground.

We Meet or Beat any Competition in Men's Clothing

Immense factories and expensive machinery are required for the economical production of Automobiles, Farm Impliments and many other lines. This limits the number of manufacturers. This is not the case in the Clothing Industry, the equipment is comparatively inexpensive, and consequently we find a great many in the business and competition very keen.

We can buy clothing at as low a price as the biggest merchants in the country. Our long experience in the business has taught us were we can get the best values. We never charge more and very often "less" for the best clothing.

The Finest Double Woven Worsteds $29.75

THE BEARD.

How Different Nations Viewed the Wearing of the Beard.

The Egyptians held the beard to signify manhood, and kept false ones to wear on high festival days. Their male gods, too, were always provided with beards. In China the beard, in which term moustaches are included, has a peculiar office. It is worn to signify that the wearer has grandchildren. Most savage or semi-civilized people wear beards, and usually seem to take the same view as the old Israelites that the beard is honorable. With civilization comes the barber and fashion, and then the beard is either shaved off or trimmed in various ways.

The early Greeks and Romans wore beards, but after a while these were shaved, and the word "bearded" was used to mean a savage or foreigner, for to a Greek or Roman a foreigner was a savage as a matter of course. Our word barbarous meant originally bearded, before they ceased to wear beards, however, the Romans were so careful of their chin coverings as the ancient Jews. Rome was once captured by the Goths, and all the inhabitants, except the very old men, left the city. These old men sat in the open air in stately silence, watching with mournful dignity the victorious warriors as they rushed pellmell through the deserted streets. The rude conquerors were surprised enough to see the old men with their long white beards, and one of them respectfully put out his hand to touch the silvery hair. This was too great an insult for the old Roman to put up with, and therefore he lifted his staff and knocked the soldier down. The old man were thereupon killed.

Beard fashion in France has usually been regulated by the king or emperor, and the birth of a fashion is well shown in the case of the fighting king, Francis the First. He was a good-looking fellow, and took little pride in the fact. At first he wore no beard, but he was so fond of fighting that he would mingle in battle, and consequently he was occasionally wounded. One wound was across his chin, and was by no means a beauty spot. He let his beard grow to cover the scar, and, as imitation is the sincerest flattery, his courtiers all grew their beards, and the whole country followed suit.

PURE LOVE NO CRIME.

Landowner Must Pay Damages to Couple He Discharged.

Is love a crime? This is the question which a Prussian labor court has just had to decide.

It will all depend of love in the countryside which was unfolded. Herr Alexander, a farmer, was in charge of the pig-breeding farm of a great estate, and, although he was devoted to the pigs, there were moments when he stole from them to have a little chat with a pretty girl who worked on a poultry farm.

The two fell in love, met secretly, held each other's hands, and said all the silly things which are in that condition do say—and possibly they mean.

Their employer, hearing of these goings-on, was very angry and dismissed them both. They sued him in the local labor court for salary, in lieu of notice.

The court decided that people cannot be summarily dismissed for love-making, and, when one comes to think of it, it would be as unreasonable to discharge them for having the 'flu.

The landowner declared that the decision of the court was a blow to the dignity of the land and appealed to the higher court in Berlin. There the judge laid down that love-making is not an infringement of a contract to work and ordered the landowner to pay Herr Alexander and the pretty girl from the poultry farm sums amounting to £140.

It is understood that with this little capital they are going to pay for a home and the putting up of the banns.

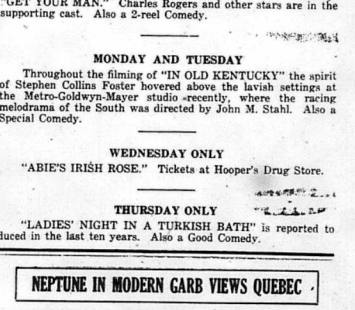
NEPTUNE IN MODERN GARB VIEWS QUEBEC



Now that Shakespearean productions are staged in plus fours, evening clothes and khaki there does not appear to be any solid objection against Father Neptune discarding his traditional garb of seaweed in favor of seaboots and sailer togs, and the Canadian National Railways photographer recently found the son of Saturn and Ops gracefully lounging in Quebec City as depicted above. It will be noted that the old gentleman retains trident and helm but has adopted a modern steering wheel in place of horse and dolphin. This particular effigy may be found on Mountain Hill and appears to replace one which up to 1850 had place of honor over the entrance to the "Old Neptune Inn" then a noted coffee house in St. Peter Street frequented by sea-faring men. Time was when carved wooden figures frequently marked hostelries and commercial establishments in Quebec and Montreal but only a scant few have withstood the advancing years.

New Throne In St. Paul's.

Dark oak and lime woods, beautifully carved, have been used in the making of a new throne which is being erected in the Chapel of St. Michael and St. George in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England. It is the work of Mr. Henry Poole, A.R.A., and has already occupied him more than six months.

The throne consists of three seats, one for the sovereign, another for the Prince of Wales, and the third for the chancellor of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

It is 25 feet high and 18 feet wide, and the woods used will harmonize well with the bishop's throne and the Grinling Gibbons work in the cathedral.

Irrigation Projects.

There are now eight irrigation projects in Southern Alberta covering a total acreage of 400,446, of which 188,930 acres are irrigable.

A Small School.

Fingland, Lanarkshire, where Douglas of Fingland, the writer of the famous song "Annie Laurie" was once laird, claims to possess the smallest school in the United Kingdom as there are only three pupils.

Why should you always be having trouble?

OTHER fellows use the same tires, run the same distance, cover the same roads—and have no trouble at all.

Test your tire pressure every week. Don't guess it — gauge it. Run round to a Dominion Tire Depot and have the pressure checked and your tires inspected. Let an expert search for cuts and bruises.

An Appeal to all Civic Officials

Millions of dollars damage to Ontario's crops are caused by weeds. The Weed Control Act seeks to control this menace. Municipal councils and officers have important responsibilities in carrying out this act. Weeds on highways must be destroyed by the "Road Authority." Weeds elsewhere must be destroyed by the owner or occupier of the land. An Inspector shall be appointed by each municipal council to see that these terms are complied with.

Most civic bodies are energetically discharging this obligation and when action is not being taken, residents should communicate with the members of their municipal council.

Every precaution is needed to wipe out the weed menace. Clean seed plus weed destruction at the proper time to prevent spread of weed seeds will bring your district greater profits from clean successful crops.

JUST MICE

There Are Five Kinds of Mice, of Which the Field Mouse Is the Largest.

We have not studied the habits of mice too closely, for, to tell the truth, we always thought them much nicer at a distance. But, in spite of the fact that they are classified as pests, they are wise, funny little creatures. There are five kinds of mice that we have heard about, says the Humane Pleader — the field mouse, which is the largest, the house mouse, next in size, and the harvest mouse, smaller still. Then there are white mice, which make nice pets, and deer mice, that have long hind legs, and very long tails, and jump instead of running. Once we met one of these on a trail in the woods. We looked at each other for a moment, then began to jump wildly, each one anxious to get out of the other's way. Back and forth we jumped, each in the most idiotic manner, getting in each other's way, and quite willing to give up the right of way, if we could find it. Presently the mouse made one supreme leap and reached the long grass. It probably went home and told its family about the awful jumping creature it had met.

We forgot to mention singing mice. A clergyman wrote to the Rev. J. G. Wood, telling him of a family of singing mice, who lived behind the wainscot of his kitchen. From what he heard he thought the young ones were being taught to sing. In the kitchen was a canary, and the chirp of one mouse grew by degrees, into an exact imitation of the canary's song. He often heard the little mouse singing in the evening, when the canary was asleep, and people coming in would ask if it was a bird.

A field mouse's nest was once turned up by a man digging in his garden. He says, "The mother was dazed and frightened at first, but soon ran off to the shelter of a gooseberry tree, leaving six young ones kicking about on the ground." He put them in a basin with their nest and waited to see what the mother would do. Meantime she was watching every movement. Her long ears quivered with terror, her eyes glistened like jewels, and she was an object of pity to move the coldest heart.

"Presently out she ran, came to the basin, looked, and jumped in and out again carrying in her mouth one of her children, and took it safely to a row of cabbages, twenty yards away. Will she return? I asked myself. Mouse quickly answered the question. She came tripping back, and so went on till she had carried off the whole six. Now, I said, will she return to satisfy herself she has not left one behind? But she did not come; she knew quite well that she had all her babies safe at last. The little mice were all nestling under a tuft of grass, and six yards off was the brave mother using feet and nose in burrowing a new home for her family. I left them alone—poor things!"

FILM-MAKING IN ITALY.

Foreign Competitions Too Great to Be Overcome.

A serious effort is again being made to revive the Italian film industry, and several newspapers are offering large sums of money as prizes for the best Italian film to be produced in the course of the year. The Government, on their part, have done all that was in their power to protect the Italian film industry, and the decree providing that at least one out of every ten films shown in the principal cinemas should be of Italian production is now receiving full application, says the Christian Science Monitor.

It is admitted, however, that Italy is unable to regain the desirable position which she held in this field before the war. All the best cinema artists and stars are now abroad, and the competition of foreign, and notably American, film companies is too great to be overcome. In spite of the fact that the few films produced in the country, with Italian artists and Italian capital, are artistically perfect, they fail to attract the interest of the Italian public and have never a long run.

The United States holds here, as elsewhere, the market, but Germany is daily gaining ground and is becoming an embarrassing competitor. English and French films are practically unknown in Italy.

Pedigrees In State Custody.

French notaries public preserve their records with attentive care. They file and stack away the notarial acts which they draw up, just as their predecessors have filed and stacked for centuries. There are offices which have been preserving this old paper for several hundred years. This is natural enough, as the paper tells the story of French families. But all this makes weight, collects dust, fills space. A new law, therefore, authorizes notaries to send to the official French archives all documents more than 125 years old. But the interested families have a right to insist that the documents remain secret. What a catastrophe, indeed, if it should be learned, through an official paper, that the ancestor of this or that great family, pretending to be descended from the crusaders, was in the eighteenth century merely a lackey who succeeded in making money!

Tells Skinny Men How to Gain Weight

Money Back If You Don't

If the flat chested man whose ribs are almost bursting his skin doesn't try to make himself look like a real man, no one else will.

When any man or woman needs more weight they ought to be told that the greatest of all flesh builders is McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

McCoy takes all the risk — Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health — your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists Call It "Joint-Ease" Because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaking Joints Only.

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint Ease" is prepared only for people who have a painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it be caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease". You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

Wallace's Drug Store dispenses it daily for about 60 cents a tube, as do first class druggists everywhere.

LIBRARY FACILITIES

New Libraries Are Being Constructed All Over Canada For the Benefit of All.

Contemplating settlers have at times raised the question of library facilities in the rural districts in which they expect to settle in Canada, and in the idea which persists of raw and primitive conditions in there have assumed that they were non-existent. On the contrary, however, in addition to the fact that the rural districts are each year being brought ever closer to the urban centres through the steady improvement of roads and the increase in motor transportation, putting all their facilities at the disposal of rural communities, the provision of good reading material has received its share of the general attention devoted to the education and culture of the people of the farm by governments, universities and other bodies.

There never was such an interest in public libraries as there is to-day, the librarian of the Toronto Public Library recently stated, and new libraries are being constructed all over Canada. The Canadian Library Council was recently formed, the first move to be made towards a union of Canadian association of libraries. Canadian cities and the larger towns are well equipped with public libraries to serve their people and take no subservient place in this regard to other countries. The Province of Ontario alone, for instance, has over five hundred public libraries. Smaller centres supported largely by farming communities about them are served in many cases by these larger city institutions as well as universities and other public libraries. Smaller centres supported largely by farming communities about them are served in many cases by these larger city institutions as well as universities and other public bodies. A large number of books at a time is despatched to such a small centre which is unable to support a library of any size, and these periodically changed, so that there is a steady supply of good literture at the disposal of the townspeople and farming districts which use the town as a centre.

In Western Canada more especially, however, library services have been introduced with special reference to the people on the farm. The Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have for years supported systems of what are known as travelling libraries, which have steadily widened in scope and service to rural communities. The books cover a wide unity, while changes can be made to suit the tastes of the community, while changes can be made as frequently as is desired. Increasing advantage is being taken of this service each year, and from a puny beginning it has expended into a large and very valuable work.

In British Columbia such work is looked after by the Public Library Commission. Travelling libraries there serve the rural communities in the same manner, each case of books despatched containing from 50 to 200 volumes. In 1927, 276 such cases were loaned to 220 communities, which record will be greatly exceeded in the present year. In addition to this a valuable service is being rendered students remote from the larger centres through a carefully selected reference library of 7,000 volumes, which can be supplemented from the shelves of the provincial library. This is available by mail to individual readers resident in any part of the province, and last year 2,527 volumes were sent by mail to 1,185 borrowers.

Western Canada throughout its development has regarded as of paramount importance, from both economic and cultural standpoints, the education and advancement of the dwellers on its farms, who constitute the larger part of its population and whose progress and satisfaction are most vital concerns. No opportunity is missed to expand facilities along this line, so that now it is difficult to discover any disability under which rural dwellers may be considered to labor in comparison with the people of the cities. This has been contributory to the development of a farm population which in intelligence, progressiveness, initiative, and successful endeavor is second to none on the earth.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Marshall Joffre, who was in command at the Battle of the Marne, is as modest as he is brave.

That he is also witty, is proved by a story going the round of the Paris clubs just now.

Political opponents have recently taken to belittling his sare in the great victory, saying that if it hadn't been for Gallieni—and so forth.

The other day a young French girl, after listening to a lot of idle chatter of this sort, put the question plump and plain to Joffre himself.

"Marshal," she asked, "who did really win the Battle of the Marne?"

The old soldier smiled grimly.

"I can't tell you that, mademoiselle," he said, "but if things had gone the other way I know who would have lost it."

Excellent for Croupy Children. — When a child is suffering with croup it is a good plan to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It reduces the inflammation and loosens the phlegm giving speedy relief to the little sufferer. It is equally reliable for sore throat and colds, earache, rheumatic pains, cuts, bruises and sprains. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is regarded by many thousands as an indispensable of the family medicine chest.

It was little Jacky's first journey in a train, and succession of wonders had reduced him to a state of astonishment.

When the locomotive plunged into a tunnel there came from his corner gasps of surprise. Then the train rushed into the open again, and a small voice was lifted in profound wonder.

"Lumme! It's to-morrow."

Powerful Medicine. — The healing properties in six essential oils are concentrated in every bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, forming one of the most beneficial liniments ever offered to the use of man. Many can testify as to its power in allaying pain, and many more can certify that they owe their health to it. Its wonderful power is not expressed by the small price at which it sells.

Two golfers discovered an old lady calmly seated on the grass in the middle of the fairway.

"Don't you know it's dangerous for you to sit there, madam?" asked one of them.

The old soul beamed as she replied: "It's all right, I'm sitting on a newspaper."

Drives Asthma Before It. The smoke or vapor from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy gives asthma no chance to linger. It radicates the cause. Our experience with the relief-giving remedy shows how actual and positive is the success that it is the result of long study and experiment and was not submitted to the public until its makers knew it would do its work well.

Sympathetic Neighbor—I hear you lost your husband. It's a terrible thing.

Widow — Yes, indeed. You know what you're losing, but you don't krow what you'll get the next time.

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any druggist's.

After the years of experience Kansas City has had with packing houses, it ought to be able to take care of all those attending the Republican Convention this summer without and difficulty.

No man or woman should hobble painfully about because of corns when so certain a relief is at hand as Holloway's Corn Remover.

Film Actor—"But look here, if he's going to throw me into the rapids how am I going to get out?"

Producer—"Oh, that's all right; you don't appear again!"

Every careful and observant mother knows when her child suffers from worms. She also knows that if some remedy be not speedily applied much harm will result to the infant. An excellent preparation for this purpose is Miller's Worm Powders. They drive worms from the system and set up stimulating and soothing effects, so that the child's progress thereafter is painless and satisfying.

Foreman (to bare-headed man working on road repairs)—"Put yer hat on, Bill, or the sun will spoil yer brains."

Workman—"Garm, yer don't think I'd be doing this for a living if I had any brains."

When Trees Grow.

A marked oak tree was found growing on April 17 last year, and grew regularly until May 2. Then it began a rest period of thirty-two days. On June 24 it started to grow again and continued until July 13.

At the beginning of the season it grew for thirty-six days, then rested for thirty-two days, and thereafter grew again for twenty days. During the first growth period it grew ten inches, an average of about one-third of an inch a day.

This proves that the belief that trees grow from early spring, when the leaves begin to come out, until the first frost, when they start to show their autumn colors, is not correct. For instance, in the latitude of Southern Pennsylvania the native forest trees make 90 per cent. of their height growth in forty days of spring and early summer.

Have Genuine DUCO applied correctly

TAKE your car to an authorized Duco refinishing station—qualified by a special training to apply Duco, using the complete Duco System from the bare metal up.

Look for the sign. Then, and only then, can you be sure that you have DUCO.

Six good reasons why you should insist on DUCO:

1. The longest wearing finish known.
2. A finish that gas, oil, mud, tar, battery acids, etc., cannot harm.
3. A finish that is easier to keep clean
4. A finish in the shade and lustre of your choice.
5. A finish that increases the resale value of your car
6. Finally, a finish that requires only a very short time for the complete job.

Fire Station In Every Street?

Alderman H. E. Darby, the eighty-six-year-old fire expert of Gravesend, has planned a fire station in miniature that can be "built" round any electric light standard and be operated by a policeman, says Tit-Bits.

Scores of lives and thousands of dollars might be saved by this device, for it is often in the short period before the arrival of a fire brigade that most of the damage is done.

The boxes could be fitted at intervals along the street or installed near big buildings or mansion, and could contain a fire alarm, a standpost fixed to a hydrant with hose, a branch pipe, and two spare lengths of hose, a jumping sheet, a life-line, and a felling axe. The complete outfit would cost about $500.

Doing Away With Street Cars.

Several German cities have done away with street cars and are using busses instead. Wiesbaden is the latest city in Germany to decide to use street cars no more. The franchise of the local line expires March 31, 1929, and the city fathers have refused to renew the franchise.

THE WHITE DOG

It took the man fifteen minutes to walk from the stucco house to the tram terminus. He set out every morning at half-past eight, and the white dog, which courtesy would have called a fox terrier though his shield was smudged, was waiting always at the gate. A prodigious leap or two he gave and a vivid, searching bark; then when the man was well without the gate, he would scamper madly to the road end, scamper as madly back, and, settling down at the man's heels, follow quietly to the terminus. He would watch the man embark upon the tram, and then return, in his own exploring and deviating way, to the stucco house.

For long the man had been proud of this. He bought the dog soon after he married, and he assured his wife that if you would keep a dog at all you must keep a trained dog. He was proud of his skill as a trainer. He loved to be in command, to rule the line, to see it walked on. All things at the stucco house learned this very quickly. It was a clean house, where everything was in its place. On a table in the window were two candles in candlesticks. They had never been lighted. The candlesticks were of brass and were cleaned frequently, and when time soiled the candles new ones were put in. The man knew his mind and liked to see two candles standing like that.

The white dog soon learned what was required of him, and the man boasted of the dog's intelligence, because he had drawn the lines along which the dog's intelligence flowed. Never, after a lesson or two, had the dog come beyond the terminus. The man did not fail to point this out to his wife. "It is rubbish," he said, "to say that you cannot make a dog do just what you wish." And he looked hard at his wife and hoped she understood that he was a strong man.

For four years, whenever the man went to the terminus, the white dog went with him. The man did not care much about the dog now, and did not look back when he had got on the tram. But the dog loved the man as much as ever.

The man's wife pointed out to him that he was prospering and ought to have a car.

"I know I am getting on," he said, looking strong, "and I intend to get on more. Everybody has stinking little cars nowadays, and I will get a car when I can have a car worth having."

And, a jump from the hedge being, as Cervantes said, better than the prayer of a good man, he jumped, and a hole was thereafter knocked in the wall of the garden of the stucco house and a garage was built, and in the garage a Lordly Limousine came to live. The white dog heard it purring like a stealthy feral beast, but because the man was in it he did not mind. He followed behind it as it went gravely through the gate, but the man shouted: "Chain that dog up!" And the dog was chained up every time the man went out learning to drive the car. The man still walked to the terminus in the mornings, and the dog was happy.

The time came when the man was confident, and he said he would in future drive the car to town. "I must train that dog not to follow the car beyond the terminus," he said. "You can teach a dog anything."

So the white dog followed the car to the terminus, and there the man stopped the car and said "Go home." The dog wagged his tail, waited till the man got in the car again, and then followed. The man stopped the car, got out, and said, "Will you go home!" But the dog only wagged his tail. The man cursed, put the dog in the car, reversed nervously, and drove back to the stucco house. "Take the dog for a walk," he said to his wife.

"Hadn't we better chain him up when you are setting out?" she asked.

"No," said the man, looking strong, "didn't I say I would train him?"

The next morning the man started off in the car and the dog followed. When they got to the terminus the man stopped the car, and said, "Go home!" The dog, with his belly on the ground, wagged his tail dubiously and followed, barking gladly, when the car set off again. The man would have no nonsense on the high road today. He turned into a side street and the dog followed. The man slowed down the car and shouted, "Will you go home!" But the dog followed, cringing, at a distance. Then the man picked up a spanner from his feet and threw it hard at the dog, shouting strongly, "Go home, damn you!" He accelerated the car, turned to right, and right again, into the main road. He looked back, and laughed to see that the white dog was not following. "I train him," he said, and felt strong. He exulted in the power of his car.

The spanner hit the white dog on the right eye, and the eye was out when the dog got home. He did not make much fuss, but patiently presented himself, as dogs will, to see what his betters at the stucco house could do for him. The man's wife felt sick and rang up the vet. The vet. came and found the white dog lying on the concrete floor of the garage. He said, "You'd better have him destroyed. Someone has thrown a stone at him."

"Oh, some filthy little sad," said the woman. The sight of the dog lying there, patient and helpless, upset her, and she agreed that the vet. should take him away and destroy him.

When her husband came home in the evening she told him what had happened. "Well, well," he said, with strong philosophy, "it's no use moaning about what's over and done with. We must get an Alsatian. They look well on motor-cars."

FLOWERS AND PERFUMES.

Mr. C. T. S. Thompson Writes of the "Mystery and Lure of Perfume."

"Although the perfume of most flowers is secreted during the sunshine in the day, there are curious exceptions, and others only yield their scent in the evening or at night," says Mr. C. T. S. Thompson in "The Mystery and Lure of Perfume." "These include the tobacco, Cestrum nocturnum, Lychnis vespertina, Hesperis tristes, and the spectanbes arbor tristes, the last-named being only odorous at night. The Habenaria bifolia, which is odorless during the day, begins to give off its perfume about eleven o'clock at night, gradually decreasing in strength towards the dawn and entirely disappearing at sunrise.

"A curious circumstance connected with the perfumes emitted by certain flowers, is the development of the odor at the time when some insects are most active. Some plants, like petunias, have only a slight odor during the day, but have quite a strong perfume in the evening, when they are attractive to certain moths. The dark pelargoniums also, which no odor in the day-time, smell like hyacinths at dusk, and are then visited by night moths. Other flowers which are odorous in the sunshine and attract bees, give off no perfume after sunset. This, of course, can be explained, and is no doubt due to the warming influence of the sun on the essential oil in the plant."

TURN TOES IN.

Scientists Says Outward Pointing Hurts Spine.

Which way do you walk—with your toes pointing inwards or outwards?

There is no catch in it; it is a serious matter.

According to a famous London osteopath, Capt. Lowry, it is definitely harmful for people to walk or stand with their toes pointing outwards, because: The body is thrown out of alignment; this affects the hipbone; the hip-bone articulates the spine; trouble at the base of the spine affects the whole nervous system; result—an impaired digestion.

"The natural balance is secured," claims Capain Lowry, "when the toes point very slightly inwards for that is how nature meant us to stand."

Lloyd's Still Free of Women.

One of the few business places in London to which women have not yet penetrated to work side by side with men is the underwriters' room at Lloyd's.

Until centuries-old rules are recast the sound of women's voices will not be heard officially in the beautiful marble hall in Lloyd's new home at Leadenhall street, E.C., where in future underwriters will conduct their business.

An official said to a London Mail reporter: "No woman comes into the room at Lloyd's except as a visitor."

Pinewood, Ont.—"I constantly had pains in my back and side and spent two days in bed every month. I have taken three boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets. They have done me good and I always have them in the house. I have recommended your good medicine to several friends and have given it to my 17 year-old girl."—Mrs. Alfred Oudleyes, Pinewood, Ontario.

Miss Annie Jang, 23 years old, and one of the most winsome products of the Orient, is probably the only Chinese nurse in Toronto. She has been in the Women's College Hospital for more than two years.

Miss Jang was born in China, coming to Toronto by way of Vancouver sixteen years ago, and steadfastly applying herself to learning not only the language of her adopted country but also its customs and ideals.

"But I am going back," she said "China needs more nurses than she can ever obtain. My training is going to help reduce suffering and distress and I want to use it where it is most needed."

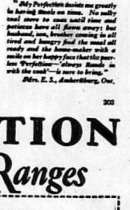
meals on time

SHARP on the dot, meals are ready to serve when Perfection does the cooking. No wood to chop, no ashes to lug.

Cooking starts with the touch of a match to the wick. Every drop of oil is changed to intense heat in the long chimneys. The automatic wick stop does not allow the flame to rise above a set point. No smoke, no soot, no odor. Far better than nursing a coal fire. No waiting for current.

See the beautiful new Perfection on display at your dealer's. Learn of its 27 new features. Inspect the wonderful 'live heat' oven. Prices on Perfection run from $8.75 to $212.50. Write to General Steel Wares, Limited, Toronto, Ont.



SHE LIKES IT!

"My Perfection heats me greatly in having meals on time. No ashes, coal dust, or coal smell. Fuel and patience have all been saved; but husband, son, brother coming in all tired and hungry find the meal all ready and the Perfection with a smile on her happy face that the perfect Perfection always lends to the cook"—is sure to bring."

Mrs. E. S., Amherstburg, Ont.

"Abie's Irish Rose"

"Abie's Irish Rose" has had a record run wherever its producer, Miss Anne Nichols, presented it. It ran over six years at the Republic Theatre, New York, and over a solid year at the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago. Long engagements, to record-breaking business, have been played at Pittsburg, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Montreal, Toronto, Washington, Baltimore, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Atlanta, New Orleans. It comes to the Winterland Theatre for an engagement of one night only, Wednesday, June 13th. It will be enacted by a thoroughly metropolitan all-star cast and a complete reproduction of the original New York stage settings, costumes, etc., is guaranteed with the company showing here. 23a

Dinner Dance at Paisley House.

We regret that we were unable in our previous issue to report the delightful dinner dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adams, at the Paisley House, in honour of the recent bride, Miss Helen Wallace. The hall looked very springlike and bridal, decorated with white streamers and bells, with sprigs of apple blossoms everywhere, while the same pink and white colour scheme prevailed on the table. The favours at the dinner were quaint little old-fashioned corsage bouquets for the ladies and buttonhole flowers for the gentlemen. The music was furnished by Stevens' Orchestra. It afforded great amusement when the winners of the lucky number dance, Mrs. Coombs and Mr. J. G. Daly, responded with an impromptu Irish Jig. The guest of honor wore a period gown of white taffeta brocaded with mauve flowers. The hostess had never looked more charming, in an exquisitely cut gown of soft white velvet. Among the out of town guests were Mr. William Foley and Cadets Batten and Lecky.

WEDDING BELLS

BATTEN—WALLACE.

On Saturday, June 2nd, at high noon, the marriage of Miss Helen Brandon, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Beattie Wallace, of Piety Hill, Napanee, and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Brandon; and Mr. Reginald Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Campbell Batten, of 30 Wychwood Park, Toronto, was solemnized at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene. The Rev. R. J. Dumbrille, Vicar of the Parish, officiated, assisted by the Ven. Archdeacon J. H. H. Coleman, of St. Paul's, Kingston. The church was decorated by Millers, Florists of Toronto.

The chancel was banked with ferns, palms and high standards holding cut flowers of pink and white, snap dragon, tulips and carnations; the guest pews tied with bunches of spring flowers, tulips, marigolds and ferns; and on the altar were bowls of orange blossoms. The whole made a fitting background for the beautiful ceremony.

The bride was very lovely in a white satin and lace gown, the bodice of which was studded with brilliants, the skirt made simply of frills of lace. A court train, lined with shell pink georgette, fell from the shoulders, and the veil of Brussels lace was fitted to her shapely head with a narrow band of orange blossoms, clusters of which were caught at the side. The bride's bouquet was a shower of lilies of the valley with sweetheart roses and little ostrich plumes of delicate pink.

The maid of honor, Miss Grace Boyes, was extremely pretty in yellow taffeta with plain bodice, with skirt of shaded tulle over scalloped taffeta, the edges of which were picoted. Her hat was yellow tulle with sash of mauve moire ribbon, falling over the shoulder and huge bow of the ribbon at the left hip. She carried yellow roses and mauve sweet peas tied with mauve and silver. The dainty little flower girls were the Misses Jean and Louise Gilbride, who wore yellow organdy frocks with tiny frills, shirred hats to match with a tiny band of mauve ribbon, and carried yellow baskets of mauve and white lilacs and sweet peas.

The groom was attended by his brother, Cadet John Batten, of the R.M.C. The ushers were Dr. Howard Batten, of Toronto; Mr. Brock Batten, of Montreal; Mr. Beverley Thompson, of Napanee, and Mr. Harmon Booth, of Toronto.

A reception was held at the Napanee Golf and Country Club, which was prettily decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. Mrs. Wallace wore a most becoming lace gown of beige with georgette coat of the same color. The beige mohair hat with violet trimming, and carried an armful of Ophelia roses. Mrs. Batten, the mother of the groom, was charmingly gowned in pale green georgette embroidered in gold with hat to match, and wore a gold lace wrap.

During the buffet luncheon, which was served by Coles, of Toronto, Stevens' Orchestra furnished delightful music. After the usual toasts to the bride and groom, a number of telegrams of congratulations were read. The bride threw her bouquet from the balcony, Miss Margaret Bailey catching it. Amid showers of confetti and good wishes, Mr. and Mrs. Batten drove away for a honeymoon in Montreal, New York, and the South, the bride wearing a smart travelling suit of fawn and green casha cloth, with crepe de chine blouse, and hat of green felt. The evening previous to the wedding Mr. Batten presented the bride with an emerald and diamond ring; the maid of honor with a gold vanity case; the little flower girls with silver bracelets; and the best man and ushers with canes.

The out-of-town guests were Miss Lane, of Barrie; Mrs. McPherson, of Woodstock; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McKeown, of Belleville; Mr. Brock Batten, of Montreal; Mr. Pepper, of Ottawa; Mr. James Wallace, of Georgetown; Mrs. Flach, of Carleton Place; Mrs. Shindel, of Scottdale, Pa.; Dr. and Mrs. McKinnon, of Renfrew; the Rev. Hope Swain, of Milford; and the Ven. Archdeacon and Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. James McLeod, Jr., Miss Vair, Mr. Vair, Mrs. J. B. McLeod, Miss Lena Wilson, and Cadet Jack Batten, all of Kingston. The Toronto guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Batten, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Batten, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Cotton, Dr. and Mrs. Albert Mavety, Mr. and Mrs. Davis and Miss Eleanor Davis, Miss Kathleen Daly, Miss Louise Harshaw, Mrs. Soward, Mr. Wallace Roy, Miss Margaret Bailey, Miss Evelyn Gregory, Miss Irma McKinnon, Mr. Harmon Booth, Mr. Jack Thompson, Mr. David Morris, Mr. Van Franks, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Tomlins, Miss Isabelle Wagar and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Vrooman.

WEDDING BELLS.

Graham—Brant

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, in St. Alban's Church, Odessa, when Miss Estella Madeline Graham, daughter of the late Thomas Copeland Graham and Mrs. Graham, and William Arthur Brant, Barrister and Solicitor, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brant, Toronto, were united by the Pastor, Rev. W. C. Swayne. The bride was given in marriage by her youngest brother, Roy Graham, and looked lovely in a dress of white silk with an overdress of white silk georgette crepe, and a corsage bouquet of sweet peas and roses. During the signing of the register Miss Gwendolyn Swayne sang very sweetly, "O, Perfect Love". After the ceremony a delicious wedding lunch was served at the bride's home on Church Street, to forty relatives and friends. The happy couple left for a motor trip for a few days before settling in their Toronto home, where the groom is practicing his profession. The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Brant, parents of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Ainsley, Toronto, and Mrs. Edith Mathews, Rochester, sister of the bride. The many beautiful gifts, consisting of silver, fine china, and money, told of the esteem in which the bride and groom are held.

Engineer Bradford Acquitted

County Court and General Sessions of the Peace opened at the Court House, on Tuesday, before His Honour Judge Lavell.

Three cases were up for trial, one criminal and two civil cases, all jury.

The King vs. Bradford.—This was a case arising out of the railway accident at Robinlade, Bradford, who was the engineer of the freight train, was charged with criminal negligence. The Grand Jury, on Tuesday evening, brought in a true bill.

Vannest vs. Perry.—An action for damages brought by Mrs. Vannest, of Enterprise, against Frank H. Perry, Napanee. One day last winter while Mrs. Vanneat was stepping out of a car on Dundas St., Perry's pony reared out and hit her hand. Found in favor of Vannest, plaintiff, Mr. Vannest for $135.00, and his wife for $100.00.

Davy vs. Bituminous Oil Spraying Co.—An action brought by B. F. Davy for damages when his car struck a spraying truck owned by defendants and standing on the side of the road without lights. Mr. Davy gets judgment for $263.00. Judge reserved his decision.

The Grand Jury.

W. D. Asselstine, Harold Dillenbeck, A. L. Dafoe, Lewis Fox, Hugh Glenn, Damon Garrison, Roderick Instant, A. B. Lott, John Mahoney, J. M. Ramsay, R. E. Sexsmith, Delbert Snider, J. H. Stone.

The Petit Jury.

G. H. Anderson, Chas. Allenbrand, Jas. Bird, J. W. Baker, Herb. Bulch, E. S. Bartley, G. W. Clark, Ross Card, Bruce Cummings, F. B. Carscallen, Henry Doyle, Vincent Donohue, Morley Elderbeck, Thos. Gibbons, J. W. Hogle, Geo. Hawley, Ed. Hewitt, J. E. Judge, Arthur Kilpatrick, J. H. Lucas, Henry Lamont, Jos. Milligan, W. J. McCrudden, Chas. McMillan, Earl Mikel, Archie Pybus, Harry Pringle, Frank Pearson, Ed. Rawson, Sr., Herb. Rikley, Walter Switzer, Amos Storey, Leslie Storey, Fred Stafford, Murney Stinson, Jas. Weaver, Wemp.

The King vs. Bradford.

Proceedings in the trial of Engineer Bradford, who is charged in County Court with criminal negligence in connection with the C. P. R. wreck at Deseronto on November 27th, were not without high spots. The star witness was R. W. Houghton, fireman on the freight train which crashed into a west-bound express train. During the days eleven witnesses were heard by Judge H. J. Lavell.

Horace C. Grout, general superintendent of the C.P.R. Eastern Ontario District, was heard at the special evening session of the court. U. M. Wilson, K.C., represented the Crown's case, and A. W. Roebuck moved for a dismissal, stating that the Crown had not shown that there was any negligence there. Judge Lavell stated, however, that he did not feel justified in taking the case out of the hands of the jury after so much evidence had been heard.

Mr. Roebuck in his address stated that the engineer was not justified in trying to back up the train if it meant loss of passengers' lives. Judge Lavell should have seen that the brakeman or the fireman flagged the rear.

In moving for dismissal, Mr. Roebuck stated that the Crown had not shown the substance of the accusation that there was wilful disregard of the consequences. There was a possible mistake in judgment, but he would not even admit this. Mr. Wilson declared that there was evidence that the engineer's duties had not been performed.

James McLennie, Toronto, an estimating engineer, stated he had met the brakeman, H. Warren, and he had stated that "the key had stuck in the switch and would not unlock."

This was the only evidence submitted by the defence, and court was adjourned, to meet on Thursday at 9 a.m.

Accused Seriously Injured.

The first witness was Dr. E. M. Horton, Enterprise, who stated that he had been at the scene of the accident and established the death of Engineer Burnett. Crossexamined by A. W. Roebuck witness said that Engineer Bradford was painfully injured and witness thought he was in hyperaemia. He looked after his comfort. "I gave Engineer Bradford a hypodermic."

Mr. Roebuck: "He was that badly injured?"

Dr. Horton: "Yes, I thought he was fatally injured."

T. H. Wiggins, Napanee, a surveyor, described the topographical of the land showing that there was a curve east of the siding, and that there was a rock cut which shut off the view.

Mr. Roebuck: "Can you think of a worse death trap than the conditions there?"

The Crown rose to object, but Judge Lavell stated that he could see no objection. Witness declined to commit himself.

Mr. Roebuck read the statement of Mr. Wiggins at the inquest, which stated that the engineer was slightly scurtailed. "That is true," witness said.

The fireman of the east bound freight, R. E. Houghton, of Smith's Falls, when questioned by Crown Attorney Wilson, stated that he had read the report received at Robinlade. The passenger train was fifteen minutes late from Smith's Falls to Crow Lake, and ten minutes late from Crow Lake to Currie, he said.

Cross-examined by Mr. Roebuck, witness said that he had heard the whistle of the approaching flier, but it couldn't be heard by the engineer. He had remained at the west switch.

"Our duty was to take advantage of extra time."

Mr. Roebuck: "Your duty to your company was to get to farthest siding?"

Mr. Houghton: "Yes."

Mr. Roebuck: "You thought you had plenty of time?"

"Barrels of Time."

Mr. Houghton: "Yes, I thought we had barrels of time."

Mr. Roebuck: "Isn't it the duty of the conductor to decide to go ahead?"

Witness: "Yes."

Mr. Roebuck: "Did you get the signal from him as it the requirements?"

Witness: "No, there was no signal passed from the conductor."

The braking apparatus was not the most modern, witness admitted, and he stated that if there had not been the crash in front of the switch the train could have been backed up.

Mr. Roebuck asked witness if the air brake system was antiquated, but he took back the question. "I shouldn't ask you to say anything against your company," he said.

H. Warren, front brakeman, said he tried to switch the train but failed. "Were you watching the time?" asked Mr. Roebuck. "No", was the answer.

"Then you were asleep on the job," said defence counsel.

Conductor William Hogg was then called. He gave no signal to pull into Lenz.

He did not think that there was any danger.

Mr. Roebuck said that he had the greatest responsibility of any of the crew, but witness said not. He stated that Bradford was very capable and he thought he could manage. If he had been in the engine he might have avoided the accident, but it would have taken too long to get there. J. F. Ryan, second brakeman, corroborated much of this evidence.

The conductor of the flier, J. Price, of Toronto, said that the express could not see the approach of the freight till they rounded the curve. The Wilkinson operator, George Copping, was called, and said that the flier passed there at 3.10, and S. O. V. Flinn, operator at Robinlade, testified that the freight received its orders there at 3.

The Jury acquitted Mr. Bradford.

Address and Presentation

On Tuesday evening, June 12th, 1928, Rev. W. R. and Mrs. Merrick and Mary were invited to a most delightful surprise at the parsonage, Morven, when the Executive of the Fourth Line Appointment gathered in full strength to show their appreciation of the services rendered during the past year in their pastoral term. Following a most enjoyable social period, Mr. Fenton Reid, in a few well chosen words, on the real purpose of their coming together. He then called upon Mr. Baines to read, on behalf of the Fourth Line friends, an address of appreciation, and the presentations were then made of an arm chair in solid walnut upholstered in plush, with a photo of Fourth Line and Church, and to Mary a beautifully designed ivory jewellery case, suitably inscribed. Jean Denyes, on behalf of her young friends,

June 12th, 1928.

Dear Mr. Merrick, Mrs. Merrick and Mary:—We have met here to-night to have one more social time together before you leave for your new home and duties. We regret very much the fact that we are to lose you all, and feel that your places cannot be filled in our midst. As our pastor we have learned to love and respect you for the example you have set before us in your devotion to your duties, which in spite of difficulties you have been faithful to the Great Call: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel". We shall miss your cheerful smile and friendly hand shake, that has been an inspiration to all who have come in contact with you. Especially have you helped the sick and sorrowing ones on the circuit by your kind and thoughtful ministrations, and many a sufferer's load has been made lighter by your cheering words. Also to Mrs. Merrick, who has helped in every possible way to assist our pastor in shedding the Light and Love that has been all smooth, but we hope that you will forgive our shortcomings. We are glad that you have received a field where you may be of still greater blessing to God's people, and trust that you may be the means of saving more souls for him. We would like Mr. and Mrs. Merrick to accept this arm chair as a slight token of appreciation and remembrance, and as you rest in it after your labours, may your every thoughts wander back to your friends at Fourth Line.

We would also like Mary to accept this gift from us, that she may have some visible means of remembering her Fourth Line chums and friends.

Signed on behalf of the Fourth Line members and friends.

Mrs. Horace Denyes.
Mrs. S. M. Reid.
Mrs. John Merriam.
Mrs. Byron Jackson.

Responding to the address and presentations, Mr. and Mrs. Merrick feelingly and heartily expressed their very deep appreciation of all the kindnesses and loyalty shown by the Fourth Line friends during the six years of Christian service together, and commented upon the fact that during the term of their pastorate they had never given them one moment's anxiety regarding the interests of the work. The cordial co-operation of the people, the spirit of unity and co-operation in the Sunday School, Young People's work, the Choir, and the Church generally, had been all along a real inspiration to them, and the remembrance of them would still continue to be with them in the years to come.

The hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds", was then sung. A sumptuous lunch was then served to all, bringing the happy evening to a close.

Miss Jean Ramsay has returned to her home, having recovered from her recent illness.

On Monday afternoon the funeral of Rev. Joseph H. Chant was held at the cemetery. Rev. C. W. DeMille, of Onawa, a former pastor of the church in Newburgh, and an intimate friend of the family, conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. T. H. P. Anderson. The Rev. Mr. Chant was first taken into the ministry of the Methodist Church in 1864. Amazingly thirty-five years he superannuated and, with his wife, came to live in Newburgh. Mrs. Chant predeceased him fourteen years ago this midsummer. After that he used to live with his daughter at North Bay, Mrs. Wagar, at whose home he died. Summers he used to spend with his sons. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, his two sons, Arthur and Stanley, with their wives and three sons of Mr. Stanley Chant, accompanied the body and were present at the funeral. While in the village they were the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Chas. Allward. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stainton, motored down for the funeral, and while in the village were guests of Rev. T. H. P. and Mrs. Anderson, at the parsonage.

Memorial intervention for the Sunday Schools of Camden East and Sheffield will be held at Moscow on Monday, June 18th, service beginning at 2.30 a.m. and 2 p.m. All interested in Sunday School work are urged to attend.

Mr. Ray Parliee, of Toronto, called on his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Farley, on Sunday.

Mr. Lorne Fox has returned from the hospital, slightly improved in health.

Miss Evelyn King has returned from Detroit, where she spent the past few months.

Mr. Frank Briscoe, who spent some time at his home here, is now on a visit to a friend in Alaska.

Mr. and Mrs. Orison Beam, of Sillsville, Sundayed in Newburgh.

Mrs. McMaster, of Verona, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Pere.

The June meeting of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Newburgh United Church was held at the home of Mrs. D. Denison. Mrs. Denison had as guests that day, Mrs. Denison and Mrs. McLeod, of Selby. Three women were welcomed to the meeting, and Mrs. Denison spoke on the temperance situation at the present time. The meeting was opened with a worship service, in which several members took part. Mrs. Hanes read a Bible reading with the subject for the day, and discussion followed on the dangers of the present condition under government sale of liquor, and the benefits of pledge signing. The roll call and business followed, when arrangements were made to hold a quilting in the basement of the church on Friday, the 15th inst., to make up a couple of quilts which had been pieced by members of the auxiliary. Mrs. Jos. Parliee, as a solo, words which had impressed her, "Bread Thou the Bread of Life, Dear Lord, to Me," and all present felt the uplift of the message. Miss H. M. Paul gave a concise and very interesting report of the meeting of the Women's Work Conference Branch, lately held in Lindsay, speaking of the encouraging and stimulating messages brought by the speakers, Mrs. (Rev.) T. H. P. Anderson, who was also a delegate to Lindsay, added a few words on the work that had been done for years on some of the fields in the north, pictured at one of the sessions of the Branch. The meeting, which all felt had been an especially interesting one, was closed with praise and prayer.

An immense assortment of Bathing Caps, from 15c. for the regular caps, to $1.50 for the heavier diving caps. See display at Wallace's.

BETHANY

Service was well attended here on Sunday last.—Mr. Henry Parker, Mr. Ed. Parker, Mr. Will Parker and sister, Mrs. Cora Osmond Camacque, visited their sister, Mrs. Page, who is ill, on Sunday last. We are glad to report at time of writing that Mrs. Page is some better. We hope for a complete recovery.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller, of Oshawa, spent the week end with friends here.—People are busy setting out tomato and other garden plants. The grubs are also busy.

WHAT'S the good of a "spare" if it won't take you home when you need it?

Just because it hasn't been on the road much is no guarantee that it is fit for work. The rain may have run inside and rusted the rim. The dust may have crept in. The tire may have picked up nail ends or flints when you used it last, and a few more miles will force them through the casing. It may not be inflated up to its correct running pressure.

ENTERPRISE

(For last week)

A quiet wedding took place at the United Church Parsonage, Enterprise, on Hednesday, June 6th, at 9.30 a.m., when Miss Nellie Gertrude Wagar was united in marriage to Mr. Milo Jackson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Jackson. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives, by Rev. H. A. Bunt, B.A., Pastor of Enterprise United Church, after which the young couple left on a motor trip. Upon their return they will reside on a farm near Enterprise. The good wishes of the whole community will follow them into their new home.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Edmond Fenwick, which took place on Sunday, June 3rd, was largely attended. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Masonic brethren attended in a body. The church service was conducted by Rev. H. A. Bunt, B.A., Pastor of the United Church at Enterprise, of which the deceased was an official for many years. Interment took place in Riverside cemetery, Napanee.

New Strength For Weak Stomachs

Indigestion Disappears When the Blood is Enriched

The most urgent need of all who suffer from any form of indigestion is a tonic to enrich the blood. Pain and distress after eating is the way the stomach shows that it is too weak to perform the work of digesting the food it takes. New strength is given to weak stomachs by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills because they purify and enrich the blood. This accounts for the speedy relief in stomach disorders that follows the use of this medicine. The value of this medicine in cases of indigestion is shown by the case of Mrs. George W. Johnson, Lequille, N.S., who says:—"I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I I was greatly distressed with indigestion. Always after eating I suffered from pains in the stomach and other distressing symptoms, and tried different remedies, but without getting relief. I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I readily did, and I am feeling very grateful ever since to the person who gave me the advice. The very first box helped me and before I had taken a half dozen boxes I was restored to my former good health and all traces of this distressing trouble disappeared. It is now about a year since I took the pills, and I have not been troubled with indigestion since. I can take every occasion to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to those in need of a medicine and shall continue to do so."

A little booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat", will be sent free to anyone asking for it. You can get the pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

STREETS EIGHT FEET WIDE.

Strange Community on Island in a Virginia Bay.

There are no automobiles in Tangier, Va., a little fishing town on a tiny island in the centre of Chesapeake Bay, yet the American Automobile Association is planning to give the place official recognition.

Tangier, the island on which the village is located, was discovered and named in 1608 by Capt. John Smith. It is a place of 1,200 inhabitants, whose eight-feet wide streets were designed for carts or wheelbarrows, but never for automobiles, but that does not affect—unless it be the reason for—the Automobile Association's decision to link up one of its touts with the island by routing travellers through Crisfield, Md., whence they can catch the daily mail boat to the village.

The first settlers came to the island from Cornwall, Eng., and the speech of the inhabitants to-day is still strongly flavored with a Cornish accent.

Great quantities of soft shell crabs are caught by the fishermen and the result has been that the island has been known as the "soft shell crab capital of the world."

Yankee's children take to the water early and tots not yet in their teens can be seen any fine day with their little "runners" paddling after the larger vessels, sculling or sailing around the harbor.

It is an interesting sight on a Saturday afternoon to see the several hundred rakish masted, white sailed runners running home before the wind for the Sabbath, or on a Sunday to see them bring 10 or 12 deep in the sheltered harbor.

It is more impressive, however, to walk through the village at church hour. Not a person is to be seen, for everyone goes to the single church on Tangier. Those unable to attend are required by law to stay within doors during the services, so that no one can disturb the peace and quiet of the day.

USES OF ELECTRICITY.

Now Being Used to Kill Bugs in Peach Orchard.

From making ice cream out of cold-structure butter in the mountains of Virginia, to electrocuting bugs in a peach orchard, the uses of electricity are widely varied, a recent survey in Popular Science Monthly discloses.

At the Government Radio Station at Arlington, Va., ice and sleet are melted from the antenna by electric currents.

The enormous defence guns at Sandy Hook, N.J., are raised, fired and lowered by the same kind of power that is used to sort white potatoes in Maryland.

While many beauty parlors remove superfluous hair with electricity, and some Latin American barber shops claim a method of using the current to grow hair on bald heads.

ANNUAL DISTRICT CONVENTION OF SOUTH ADDINGTON

The Annual Convention of South Addington met at the Town Hall, Croyden, on June 7th, 1928. The District President, Mrs. A. E. Huffman, opened the meeting by the use of the Institute Ode, followed by repeating the Institute Creed. A very hearty welcome was tendered the visiting Branches by Mrs. P. Teaky, and the reply was given by Mrs. E. Boyce. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and adopted. Reports of the several Branches followed, showing a flourishing condition in each Branch, also that each Branch was endeavoring to further the interest of their community to the best of their advantage. The District Secretary report was very satisfactory, showing a balance on hand of $22. The total receipts of the five branches was about $1500, and expenditures $900, with a balance of $600 to their credit. Mr. Laughland gave a few remarks concerning the judging contest in Household Science Competition and thought it would be work of interest if encouraged among our girls. A letter from Prontenac District, asking that a representative be sent from our district to meet the Executive of Sub Division No. 3, to make plans for the Fall Convention. Mrs. W. Redden was appointed. The President referred to a letter from Prontenac District asking for this district to co-operate with them in a flower exhibit at Kingston Fair. The matter was dismissed owing to the inconvenience connected with it. The President thought we should have an exhibit of our own at Centreville Fair. It was decided that each Institute exhibit two kinds of sprays and decorative flowers, viz. Gladiolus, Asters, and mixed flowers. Mr. Laughland typed several copies of the Ode and Creed for the Institutes for which he was given a vote of thanks. Five pennants were displayed beside the Banner. All adjourned for dinner.

The same exercises opened the afternoon session, followed by singing the Institute carol. The President requested each Branch President to sit beneath their pennants. The President gave a brief but splendidd address. She referred to the great spread of Institute work and to think it originated in the small Town of Stoney Creek. Now it reaches to New Zeland, India, Africa, Belgium, Germany, France, Italy, Ireland and England. Premier Baldwin in his recent visit, said one of the best things Canada has given to the Old Country is the Women's Institute. Then the best of all we are supported and backed by our Government. She suggested we co-operate as a District in some definite work such as Health Week or Dental Inspection in schools or having a Victorian Nurse to visit through our District. Lastly she suggested we have a District Rally, June 22nd, afternoon and evening, and invited it to her home in Moscow. This was readily accepted. The Rally is to be in form of a basket picnic. Moscow acting as hostess. The other Branches furnishing refreshments and programme.

The election of officers followed, conducted by Mrs. J. D. Shibley, Harrowsmith. The result returned the same President and Secretary Treasurer; with Mrs. Oliver, Enterprise, as Pedicated Delegate to the Convention, and Miss May Haggerty, Croydon, as District Delegate. Mrs. J. D. Shibley then addressed the meeting on the importance of the Federated Women's Institute, and the importance why each Branch should support it and link themselves with it. Mrs. Thomas Scanlin gave a very efficient paper on the League of Nations in which she showed the need for the Women's Institutes to support it and each have a member on their Board so we would get their literature and acquaint ourselves with their work.

Mr. Laughland gave some brief remarks on Co-operation, also on Dental Inspection and Victorian Nurses work. He also advocated the advantages gained by Institutes availing themselves of taking the Short Courses.

After giving Croydon a hearty vote of thanks for their kind hospitality, the Convention closed by singing the National Anthem.

Yarker very kindly invited the Convention to their village, in June, 1929.

DOES LIMING PAY ?

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Lime is not a fertilizer, and increases fertility only indirectly as it renders conditions favorable for the liberation of plant food, and also as it stimulates bacterial action, which in turn results in the organic matter in the soil, and breaks it up into a form available for plant food. Lime also improves the texture of the soil by flocculation of the soil particles. Its greatest value, however, lies in its capacity to correct soil acidity. Many crops will not grow well on acid soils. The failure to secure of our common farm crops, but is particularly apparent in connection with legumes, and as these crops form one of our most economical source of nitrogen, their place in the crop rotation is doubly important.

Lime to be used in correcting soil acidity, is put on the market in many different forms. It has been determined that that material applied in the form of finely ground limestone is the most desirable and economical. The rate of application varies with the degree of acidity in the soil.

In order to determine the actual increase in yields due to the application of ground limestone, a project has been under way at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lennoxville, for five years. Ground limestone is applied to the land on one set of plots, at the rate of two tons per acre, just before seeding the oat crop, in a rotation of corn, oats, clover, timothy. Manure is applied to the land previous to ploughing for corn at the rate of sixteen tons per acre. Another set of plots are treated in the same way in every respect, except that limestone is not applied. This experiment is carried on in duplicate, and accurate records have been kept in connection therewith, for the five year period.

In every instance there has been a decided increase in yield on the plots treated with lime. Corn has given a five year average increase in yield of 2.27 tons per acre. The yield of oats has been 12.2 bushels per acre higher on the limed plot. The increase in yield of clover is 0.84 of a ton, while timothy has yielded 0.68 of a ton more per acre. The increase in the value of crops on the limed plots after deducting the cost of lime, has been as follows: corn $4.14, oats $5.58, clover $2.71, timothy $2.81. These values are figured from the average market price for these crops, over the five year period. Such results prove quite conclusively, that the application of lime is a very important factor in obtaining high yields.

It has also been proven that lime may be applied very successfully to results on old pasture land. In many instances the carrying capacity of such pastures has been increased by an application of two tons of ground limestone. In answer to our title, it might be said that lime certainly does pay in the Eastern Townships, or any section where an acid condition of the soil exists.

INSUL-BOARD

(INSULATING BOARD)

A Board that shuts out cold. Stops heat. Deadens sound. An extraordinary building and insulating Board designed to make home interiors more comfortable, more restful and more healthful the year through. An All-Canadian Board, made in Canada from the products of Canada's Forests.

INSUL-BOARD meets the need for a stouter and more rugged material for wall and ceiling insulation. Its greater structural strength has been proven under critical tests by Canada's leading engineers. It makes the walls more rigid, more enduring, more capable of resisting severe strain and stress.

INSUL-BOARD insulates completely, producing a sure and lasting shield against winter's cold and summer's heat, sealing the home interior tight against all atmospheric discomfort.

Alabaster and his wife were engaging in the country in their new automobile.

Towards evening Alabaster proposed rather sentimental.

"Darling," he cried suddenly, "I have taken you over all the beautiful places in life like a good husband, haven't I?"

His wife glanced at him indifferently. She was a very unromantic wife.

"Oh, yes, dear!" she replied abstractedly. "I don't suppose you have missed many of 'em!"

ERGOT, ITS CAUSE AND CONTROL

(Experimental Farms Note)

Ergot is an important disease of rye, wheat, barley and many kinds of wild and cultivated grasses. Besides reducing the yield and quantity of the grain, the ergot bodies cause sickness or death when eaten by animals or the domestic fowl.

The disease is caused by a fungous parasite, the spores of which enter the floral parts of the plant when these are open at blossom time, and the result is the development of the ergot bodies instead of the kernels of grain. These blackish bodies mature as the plants on which they grow, mature. Some of these fall to the ground, while others shed their way into the threshed grain, and in this way the fungus is returned to the soil. In the spring, each of the ergot bodies on, or near, the surface of the soil, send out several stalks which, in turn, bear many tiny, light spores. These are shot out of the spore-bearing cavity, and carried upwards by air currents and insects, to the floral parts of susceptible plants. Under moist conditions, these spores send out tiny threads which grow into and fill the place where the new grain would have developed. At this stage, the fungus exudes a large amount of sweet, sticky honey-dew, and with it thousands of spores, which spread the fungus. Insects, attracted by this honey-dew, carry the spores on their body to the floral parts of other plants. Rain and wind also help to spread these spores. Warm showers followed by sunny periods produce favorable conditions for the spread of the disease. After some days the honey-dew stage comes to an end, and the familiar hard, black ergot bodies form.

Control.

Controlling the disease becomes a matter of eliminating the ergot from the seed and from the soil. Complete separation from the seed is possible by immersing the grain in a solution of common salt, made up by dissolving forty pounds of salt in twenty-five gallons of water. During the grain, the ergot bodies come to the surface, where they are skimmed off and then destroyed. The grain is then washed at once, and dried quickly, to prevent injury to germination. A combined salt-formaldehyde treatment must not be attempted.

A succession of crops susceptible to ergot should be avoided as far as possible. It is vry important to avoid sowing either rye or durum wheat after ergot infested crops of these grains since these two crops suffer most severely from the ergot disease. The common wheats in use are rarely affected to any extent, and the same is true of barley and oats. Brome, western rye, lolium and other wild wheat and rye grasses, which are commonly found about the borders of fields, are also attacked by the ergot fungus.

Drill seeding is much preferable to broadcasting for, in addition to burying the ergot bodies deeply, the period of blossoming is shortened, thereby reducing the changes for infection. A mixed early and late rye should not be used, nor should the close planting of early and late varieties be practised. Deep ploughing after a badly infested crop, is recommended, in order to bury the ergot bodies which have fallen to the ground during harvest. If these are deeply buried, they will not be able to germinate successfully and produce spores. Care should be taken that the ploughing be sufficiently deep to prevent the ergot bodies from being brought to the surface by subsequent cultivation. Early harvest lessens the number of ergot bodies which fall to the ground. It is also a very profitable practice to mow or destroy other grasses which are susceptible and growing nearby; the mowing to be done while they are still in blossom. These wild grasses are very often the principal source of infection.

No suitable variety of rye, or of wheat, has yet been found to be resistant to the ergot disease.

"Oswald" Adopts First Aiders

First aid, so invaluable to human sufferers in time of need, is usually highly appreciated by the recipient but never more so than in the case of Oswald, who showed his gratitude by adopting those who had rendered first aid and probably saved his life. As a result, Oswald has a private car in which he travels regularly and has become well known throughout that section of Ontario in which he travels, while the first aiders, employees of the Crown Corporation, Ontario Hydro Electric Railways, have a new pet.

Oswald is a pigeon who suffered severe injuries when while flying, he attempted to push aside a rapidly-moving electric car on the Canadian National lines near Eldorado Park, Ontario. The pigeon was struck by the car and when picked up by the crew, Motormen Cecil Brown and Conductor Joe Watson, was found to have sustained a broken wing and other injuries. The employees of this railway stand high in their First Aid test, having won the Galloway Cup on four occasions. A First Aid Kit is carried on each of the cars an the contents of this kit were used in rendering first aid to the injured pigeon. Results were such that the injuries soon healed, and the pigeon was able to fly again, but it became evident that Oswald, as the pigeon was named, had found a new home for himself, for throughout the winter he lived in Line Car 252, making his home under the Quebec heater which is carried for heating purposes. And any stranger entering the car is greeted by Oswald with a flood of "pigeon English."

Since the accident occurred last Fall, Oswald has made every trip with the car, covering 150 miles daily, and is thoroughly at home in his new surroundings. If taken from the car he immediately flies back to it. At Georgetown, Acton and Guelph, "ports of call" for the car during its daily journeys, children and adults join in asking after the health of the bird which has become a pet all along the route.

At Brown's Mill, Norval Ont., where the crew go in with cars of grain and come out with cars loaded with flour, Oswald has learned to make a practice of leaving this private car and dallying for lunch during the switching operations each day.

SAFEGUARDING THE FARM WATER SUPPLY

(Experimental Farms Note)

That many farm wells are not amply protected from pollution and are potential sources of danger from water-borne diseases as typhoid, dysentery, etc., is the conclusion drawn from the results of the analyses at the Central Experimental Farm of water samples from rural wells. Of 450 samples of water submitted during the past four years, bacteriological tests indicated that but 37 per cent were quite free from pollution. Thirty-one per cent of the samples were definitely polluted, while a fair number were of a suspicious character pointing to possible contamination.

In the majority of cases contaminated water comes from the ordinary shallow well with its much greater possibility for admitting germs of excretal origin than the drilled well which taps lower, purer depths. The location is very frequently at fault, and an examination of the data furnished with the samples shows a very distinct relationship between the quality of the water and the distance from such sources of pollution as privy, cesspool, barnyard, etc.

Fifty yards may be considered the minimum safe distance from any source of pollution, indeed experiments have shown that it is possible for bacteria from polluted sources to enter the water of a well 200 feet or more away when the well is in the direction of the ground water flow.

If the well is situated at a safe distance, it is next in importance to have it so constructed that any ground water must pass through soil and thus be filtered before entering the well. This can only be effected by insuring that the sides of the well, for a depth of 12-15 feet, are tight and impervious to water. The top, naturally, should be so constructed that no contamination can enter.

In emergency, water from contaminated or suspicious wells can be rendered safe by boiling and also by chlorination with chloride of lime, but at best this is only a temporary makeshift and does not get at the root of the trouble. The remedy is to construct a safe well and bear three points in mind: (1) that a deep well is best, (2) that a safe distance from contamination is essential, and (3) that the construction is right.

SUMMER PASTURE FOR BROOD SOWS

(Experimental Farms Note)

In order to obtain the best results in the feeding of market hogs, it is absolutely essential to give due consideration to the brood sows which produce the young pigs. It is generally considered that the health and condition of the sow at breeding time and during the subsequent period of pregnancy has a marked bearing on the size of the litter as well as on the size and vitality of the pigs.

The sow should not be fat either at breeding time or during the pregnancy period, but she should be in a good healthy condition with a tendency toward more than average thrift as she approaches. This condition is best obtained by encouraging plenty of exercise and supplying a ration which is largely made up of roughages and succulent feeds. During the summer season a well watered pasture provided with ample shade and protection from cold rains is an ideal location for brood sows.. There may be some doubt as to the advisability of using pasture for growing pigs, but there is no doubt as to its value for brood sows.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ontario, it has been found that brood sows do particularly well under conditions as described above. In this way it is possible to carry the sows over the summer period at a minimum cost and in a very vigorous and thriving condition. The ration made up of pasture supplemented by a light ration made up of coarse health producing grains such as bran, shorts and oats, with barley used occasionally if some gains were desired.

A good growth of red clover or alfalfa would be excellent as a pasture, but if these are not available an ordinary grass pasture will be much better than none.

Great Praise For Baby's Own Tablets

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. have received the following letter from Mrs. Alex. Griffith, of 21 Merchison Ave, East Hamilton, Ont., concerning her experience with Baby's Own Tablets:

Dear Sirs,—I wish to thank you for the handy little booklet you sent me on the Care of Children. My baby boy was six weeks old when I first used Baby's Own Tablets, being new to Canada, but since the first proof of their many uses in bringing up a family, I have never been without them, for they are worth their weight in gold. There is no trouble in getting the little ones to take them and they often prevent an illness if taken in time. My first baby is now, at the age of four and a half years, a picture of health, and my nine-months-old baby is also well and happy. They are both a real good sample of what Baby's Own Tablets can do, for I have never yet needed a doctor for either of them."

The booklet to which Mrs. Griffith refers is entitled "Care of the Baby", and tells you what a mother ought to know for baby's sake. A copy of the booklet will be sent free to anyone requesting same from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BRIDAL SUPERSTITIONS.

What a Bride Should and Should Not Do.

Among the bridal superstitions which have gained more or less credence from time immemorial are the following:

The bride must never wear her complete bridal outfit until arrayed for the ceremony.

She should put on her right shoe first, and try on her wedding-ring only at the altar, never removing it afterwards.

She must be careful not to look at herself in the glass after her costume has been donned, and before she is actually married.

The bride must not take any hand in sewing her wedding gown or in making her wedding cake.

The finding of a spider on the wedding gown by the bride is considered a sure token of happiness to come.

The bride who dreams of fairies on the night before her wedding will be thrice blessed.

If the bride should by chance see a funeral as she starts off on her wedding tour, she should order the driver of the carriage to turn back and start again; she may also refuse to do so doing, but if she neglects the precaution she will rue it.

SANTOS, BRAZIL

Coffee Built South American City and Keeps It Going at a Marvellous Rate.

Santos, Brazil, where a recent landslide buried scores of homes, is one of the commercial plants among South American cities, according to a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

Coffee built Santos and keeps it growing at a marvellous rate, just as rubber adds to the wealth of Singapore. Fifty miles inland on the plateau lies the city of Sao Paulo in the heart of the world's greatest coffee producing area, and from it more than a billion pounds of the green berries annually pour down grade into Santos for shipment overseas. As a result of this strategic economic situation Santos is the greatest coffee port in the world, shipping each year approximately nine million sacks of 132 pounds each, and worth more than $150,000,000.

This is not the only commercial record that falls to Santos. In total exports it surpasses Rio de Janeiro and so is Brazil's premier port for outgoing trade. The population of Santos has grown amazingly in recent years and is now close to 150,000. The town was established by the Portuguese more than 400 years ago, but modern Santos is little more than a generation old. It was a small place, on an undrained semi-tropical plain in the 80's when the marked development in coffee production began inland, and it became necessary to enlarge the part facilities. Drainage canals were extended through the plain, a sewerage system constructed, and streets paved. One of the most important improvements was the construction of concrete, rainproof wharves. Santos now has three miles of such wharves. Along them are more than a score of immense coffee warehouses, and farther from the water front are as many more. Altogether, these storage places could house more than five million bags of coffee at one time.

Modern loading machinery is in use, and a ship pausing at the Santos wharves for 24 hours can receive an astounding amount of coffee in this short period. A typical loading scene would disclose five belt conveyors, three electric cranes and five lines of laborers pouring continuous streams of burlap bags into a steel vessel's hold. While they work their supplies are built up by countless ox-carts, horse, mules and donkeys—transferring the bulging sacks from distant warehouses. Few motor trucks are seen.

The Santos wharves are along an estuary several miles from the Bay of Santos, and in reaching them a steamer winds about directing its course to every point of the compass. From the stream stretches the plain on which the city is built, with miniature mountains rising from it at intervals.

THE SPONGE INDUSTRY.

Over 2,000 Men Employed About the Coast of Florida.

There are some three hundred and ten vessels, with more than two thousand men, employed in the sponge industry about the coast of Florida. As it takes at least a year for a sponge to grow to a moderate size, and the grounds are fished over several times each year, it is plain the large sponges have all been removed from the available portions of the ocean's bed and the great fleet of fishing-vessels keep the product limited to sponges of small value. The United States and Fish and Fisheries Commission has recently taken steps toward the protection of this wholesale destruction of the young sponges on those submarine plateux which are now accessible.

The operation of collecting the sponges is very simple, the fisher spearing with a long pole all those he can see by the aid of a water-glass, the depth of water therefore in which they can be obtained is only limited by the distance penetrated by the light. If this distance could be increased, large areas would immediately be opened up where sponges have been growing unmolested for years, and the production would be not only greatly increased in quantity, but the quality would probably be as fine as that from any part of the world. Experiments are now on foot to devise a new submarine electric arc lamp, to ascertain by practical demonstration the feasibility of reaching these lower strata by this means.

Enormous Fossil Bird.

The prehistoric rocks of Wyoming have yielded up parts of the skeleton of a huge flightless bird that lived on the continent many hundreds of thousands of years ago. The fossils were found last summer, but their discovery was announced for the first time before the meeting of the American Philosophical Society recently by Prof. William J. Sinclair of Princeton University.

The bird was similar to other giant extinct birds found on this continent, but constitutes a new genus, which has been named Omorhamphus. It had no wings, and was a ground-dweller like the modern ostrich. Instead of the specialized club-like toes of the ostrich, however, it had more primitive feet with short curved claws. In some respects it resembled the moa of New Zealand, which became extinct during the memory of the native tribes of those islands.

Pencil Sharpening.

A drawing-master states that he is often obliged to judge the characters of his pupils by their manner of sharpening a pencil. The artistic individual, who gives a fine, delicate point, the business-like person a short, stubby one. Those who sharpen a pencil by means of a penknife and thumb are often secretive. The untidy person reduces his pencil-end to shapeless irregularity, while the very happy-go-lucky one hacks away in careless fashion, and finishes without half the length he started with.

Barber (about to lather)—Do you mind shutting your mouth, sir?
Tired Customer—No—do you?

Small Brother—What's a maxim, Tommy.

Tommy—Aw that's something that tells how good it is to do somethin' you don't wanter.

FOR OUR GOLF FRIENDS

THE AGE OF INNOCENCE

Child—Papa, why is it called the British Open Golf Championship?

Parent (modify)—On the lucus a non lucendo principle, my child (which you will not understand); in other words, because it is always won by Americans.

Child—But if it is always won by Americans, Papa, would it not be better to call it the American Open Golf Championship?

Parent—The plan has been thought of but abandoned. It would lead to confusion. There is always in existence an American Open Golf Championship.

Child—And who wins that, Papa?

Parent (a little testily)—Americans, of course.

Child—Do Americans win all golf championships, Papa?

Parent—Certainly not! No Americans have yet won the Welsh Close Amateur Championship (for which they are not allowed to enter), and I believe that the Monthly Medal at the Cheltenham Golf Club has never yet been gained by a citizen of U.S.A.

Child (timidly)—Papa, is it not against the principles of the Monroe Doctrine which you explained to me so clearly the other day? Do not five consecutive American winners of the British Open Championship represent a very definite entanglement in the affairs of the Europe, entanglements which you told me that President Monroe was determined to prevent?

Parent (sternly)—Be silent! You weary me with your immature sophistry.

Child (brightly)—Well, anyway, Papa, if Mr. Hagen has now won the thing three times I think he ought to be allowed to take it home with him and keep it as a pet.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Jackie Kinkley, who departed this life on June 15th, 1927.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought his death so near;
It's only those who have been can tell
The sorrow of parting without farewell.

He made no one a last farewell,
He said good-bye to none;
The heavenly gates were opened wide,
A friend was welcomed home.

Sadly missed by his Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers. 24ap

VIOLET WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Violet Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Herbert Roberson. There was a good attendance, with several visitors from Odessa and Ernestown.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and apopted.

Before the business matters were discussed, a very interesting program was given. Mrs. Henry Smith read the Institute Ten Commandments, which if obeyed would bring us up to the standard as Institute workers.

Mrs. K. Priest, of Ernestown, gave a humorous recitation, "The Quarrel", which all enjoyed very much. Mrs. Wm. Sager gave a helpful paper on Summer Salads. Mrs. Hamm, of Ernestown, gave a short talk on "How I Put My Dining Room in Summer Shape for $2.59". Miss Emma Shibley gave some very suitable selections on the Victrola.

It was decided to hold a picnic in the near future. We also intend starting a library. It will be stationed in the district, any book donations will be kindly accepted. Miss McGee, of Cherryville, has very graciously offered to send a box of books, as a gift.

Mrs. Robertson, assisted by the Committee in charge, served a very delicious lunch.

Mrs. Kenneth Valentine very kindly invited us to her home for the July meeting.

The Children's Friend.

"Don't be afraid to speak to a policeman," was the advice one of these Constable Johnston in the course of a lecture to Bedford school children on road traffic dangers.

When children wanted to cross the street he advised them to get hold of the first policeman they saw and tell him so.

"If he does not pay any attention to you," he added, "pull the leg of his trousers. Don't be afraid of him. He will stop the traffic if necessary so that you can get across the street. It is his duty to do so."

TOMBS ARE GUARDED.

Vaults of Six Sultans Are Closed to Prayers by New Turkish Regime.

While the new Turkey treads the westward path of modernization, Brousa, first capital of the Ottoman empire, guards the tombs of the nation's past.

Here are buried the first six Turkish sultans, their sultanas, their princes and princesses, in a cluster of gray tombs sheltered in a garden of plane trees, cypresses, roses and fountains. Gorgeon tombs, covered within with priceless faience and frescoes, were built here six centuries ago by the sultans for themselves and for relatives whom they murdered in devious ways for fear of succession plots.

Here in the magnificent tomb of Prince Djem, a forest of cobalt and turquoise blue tiles interlaced with gold filigree and frescoes soft and rich as old Persian prints, built by his brother, the Sultan Bayezid. Another interesting tomb, which stands out from the others in its straight simplicity of white marble, is that of Sultan Murad the Second. He decreed that his simple marble coffin should be left uncovered beneath the open roof of his mausoleum so that the rain and the sun might beat on his bones. His enormous golden turban is still there in the tomb, a witness to the almost incredible strength of the man who could carry such a burden on his head.

Monument to Heroic War Nurse

Mount Edith Cavell, in Jasper National Park, which will be visited by Canadian Weekly Newspaper editors and their wives at their Edmonton convention is one of the most strikingly beautiful peaks within easy reach of Jasper Park Lodge, and it is easily reached by means of the Cavell motor highway, which, after skirting the scenic golf course for which Jasper Park is now world-famous, climbs from the Athabasca Valley to the very foot of the Glacier of the Angels. Mount Edith Cavell was named in honor of Britain's heroic war nurse, and a visit to Jasper National Park inspired the following article by Thomas Arkle Clark, Dean of Men, University of Illinois, which was contributed to the Chicago Daily News.

"When Simon Garvey died—that was a good many years ago—he left a considerable sum of money to put up a monument to his memory. It was an imposing structure, as monuments went in our community, of sandstone and attracted attention.

"I saw it a few weeks ago when I visited the old cemetery. Time has ravished it. Rain and hail and frost have eaten into it, and the foundations, now too firm at the beginning, are gradually crumbling. Fifty years more, and it will be a wreck, and Simon Garvey's name will have been forgotten.

"Every normal human being cherishes the thought that he will do something during his lifetime that will cause him to be remembered.

"Our friends have the same feeling about us, and it is that feeling which fills cemeteries with monuments to the dead.

"Some of the most beautiful and wonderful structures of the world were built in honor of individuals—the Taj Mahal in India, the pyramids in Egypt, and the tomb of Victor Emmanuel in Rome, that most beautiful monument in our own country, the memorial to Lincoln in Washington.

"In modern times, at least, we have given much honor to the man who won distinction or gave his life in war. The tall shaft that rises high in the midst of Trafalgar Square keeps Nelson's achievements always before the minds of the busy Londoner. But these monuments, glorious as they are, seem insignificant and tawdry when compared with the monument which the Canadians have dedicated to a woman—Edith Cavell.

"It rises 10,000 feet or more, towering above the surrounding peaks, one of the most beautiful of the beautiful mountains in the Canadian Rockies, snow-covered even in mid-summer, its 'ghost glacier' hanging like a nun's veil over its glorious head.

"One cannot keep his eyes off it. There are other beautiful mountains near by, but always one comes back to Edith Cavell. As long as the world is a world it will stand; when the pyramids have crumbled into dust and the Taj Mahal is a forgotten memory, it will still rear its snow-capped head to the heavens, the most glorious monument ever devised to the memory of a noble woman."

SPARKS CIRCUS
TO BE IN KINGSTON
TUESDAY, JUNE 26th
AND BELLEVILLE
FRIDAY, JUNE 29th

In Kingston, on Tuesday, June 26th, and in Belleville, Friday, June 29th, afternoon and evening, under huge masses of canvas, the finest circus ever made by the humanity and the sagacity of men, will parade and show in both Kingston and Belleville, on the above dates, to make the young folks happy and the old folks young. The great parade in Kingston starts in the morning at 11 o'clock. First of all, a real wild animal circus in 1928 acquisition, having been procured from the world's greatest wild animal training quarters at Stellingham, Germany. Included in these displays will be found lions, tigers, leopards, polar and grizzly bears—even trained ostriches will be seen in addition to the Sparks group of sixteen "Rotation" horses, the two elephant herds, fancy gaited and posing horses, the Bibb County Pet Circus, Sparks' Seals, and hosts of others of a novel nature. The circus proper opens with an elaborately staged spectacle, "Ora, the Egyptian Queen," in which all of the animal performers, premier dancers, and a large chorus participate. As a final finish to the all feature performance is the mammoth pageant, "Historic Canada", will be presented, in which 800 people and 500 horses appear. Sparks Circus has been tripled in size this season and is to-day one of the largest in the world. Excursions on all railroads.

Don't forget the date :—Kingston, Tuesday, June 26th, and Belleville Friday, June 29th. 26

ODESSA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Owing to very unfavorable weather the attendance was small at the June meeting. Nevertheless there was a good meeting, and a lot of work accomplished. The roll call was "Paying Fees". After the business there was an exchange of quilt patterns. The afternoon was spent in cutting out quilt blocks, and the following papers were given while the work was being done. "Getting Something Out Of It", by Miss T. Aylsworth; "Preparing the Child to Meet Life", by Mrs. W. J. Snider, and a clipping from a farm journal was read by Mrs. Huggard, "That Table Oil Cloth".

There wasn't any change in the election of officers at the May meeting. A splendid paper on "Gardening" was given by Mrs. Harry Caton, with many helpful suggestions as to the different varieties of seeds, etc., to be used.

We are looking forward to Bay View Branch coming in July to provide the programme. The roll call will be "Sandwich Fillings".

RECEPTION.

A reception of much distinction was held at the lovely and spacious home of the late Mrs. A. W. Babcock, Willston, on Monday evening, their daughter, Mrs. Cecil Edward Reid, a winsome bride of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid, with Mrs. Babcock, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Reid, mother of the groom, received their guests, numbering seventy-five, under an arch of green and pink honeysuckle. The bride was gowned in powder blue georgette and shadow lace, over an embroidered of shell pink, hose to match the gown, and silver slippers. The other floral decorations which were in the home lovely were large bunches of lily-of-the-valley and bright colored tulips.

Mrs. J. J. Miller and Mrs. Bernard Mills acted as matrons of honour, while Miss Gladys Wallace and Miss Rhoda Babcock were the maids of honour. In the diningroom Mrs. Norman Boyce and Mrs. Walter Shilington poured tea, while a dainty buffet luncheon was served. The girls assisting in the dining room were Miss Helena Babcock, Miss Keitha Babcock, Miss Eleanor Emberly, Miss Marion Miller and Miss Helen Babcock, sister of the bride, who looked sweet and girlish gowned in white. Mrs. Kenneth Babcock, Miss Gladys Wallace and Mr. J. E. Miller gave musical selections during the evening.

As each guest went to their various homes, they were presented with a box containing wedding cake and cards.

The lovely gifts went to prove the high esteem in which the bride is held. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Reid a long life of happiness and success.

THOSE SCHOOL SIGNS

To the Editor of The Beaver.

Dear Sir,—I notice some new signs near the public school and the Collegiate Institute. Whoever is responsible for placing them there is to be commended for their care and foresight. They have been long needed, but they must be rather disconcerting to the teachers. Doubtless the teachers have spent a good deal of time during the year trying to instil into the scholars the difference between an adjective and an adverb. And now every scholar as he approaches the school is faced with a glaring grammatical error. It may be well enough for the sake of brevity to write "slow" in some instances. Our friends to the south invariably do so. Indeed they often take further liberties and write "slo" as a substitute for "slow". But really when preparing a sign to be placed in front of a school accuracy should not be sacrificed for brevity. The rules of grammar should be observed.

It is true that "slow" as an adverb may be used in poetry, and is often so used, as when Shakespeare says, "How slow time goes". But there is no poetic usuage that can possibly justify its adaptation as an admonition to motorists. Whoever is responsible for these signs should have them taken down and repainted to read "Drive Slowly" so may the rising generation learn to respect rather than disdain the rules of fathers. The teachers, too, will be relieved of an embarrassing problem.

—"SLOWLY".

CAMDEN EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The June meeting of Camden East Women's Institute was held on June 1st, at the home of the President, Mrs. J. A. Salisbury. There were present 15 fourteen members of Yarker-Colebrook Institute, and four other visitors, besides fourteen of our own members. After the usual opening of the meeting, the minutes of last meeting were read and approved. Correspondence was then read by the Secretary, and discussed by all.

Community singing was next enjoyed. A motion that we have no regular July meeting, but invite Yarker-Colebrook Institute to join us in a real old fashioned basket picnic in Mr. A. Salisbury's wood, was carried unanimously.

Our President asked for a few words from the visiting President, Mrs. N. Boyce, who ably responded and during her speech conveyed, on behalf of those she represented, thanks for the invitation to join us on the proposed picnic.

An interesting contest followed, the winners being two of the visiting ladies. A dainty lunch was served by the committee, and a social hour followed.

Two important recent events in connection with our Institute deserve particular mention. The first was a lecture on wildlife, by Mr. Laughland. This was very interesting and instructive. We were sorry more yount farmers did not attend this meeting. Meetings of this kind have a great educational value and should prove helpful to those who attend. Besides the lecture Mr. Laughland showed several reels of pictures, which were much enjoyed by the grown-ups as well as the children. One especially good reel was that showing the destructive work of the corn borer. The knowledge gained from these pictures alone well repaid those present for their time at the meeting. We are all looking forward to another visit from Mr. Laughland.

The second event of note was the Summer Series Lecture by Miss McGee, who is an Institute enthusiast and very fine speaker. Her topic was "Institute as an Educator and Community Builder". We regret we are unable to give her address word for word for the benefit of those unable to attend the meeting. However, we shall try to give a brief outline of it. First, she mentioned a few outstanding figures, namely :—The W. I. has over eleven hundred branches and a membership of about forty thousand in Ontario. All Institutes are the offspring of Stony Creek Institute, which was organized on the 19th of February, 1897, with a view to meeting the expressed desire to acquire information which would insure greater efficiency on the part of the women of the rural sections, in those varied responsibilities resting upon them in the home and as citizens.

The most alert Institute is the one that has an objective—not necessarily money but something for the good of the community. The Institute is divided into :—

1. It is an educational factor for grown-ups.
2. Brings out latent talents and a willingness to give to each other what we have.
3. Promotes sociability, especially in rural districts where it forms a common ground for meeting.
4. It is a service organization—mutual benefit and public duty.
5. It is a community builder—has made many communities better places for our boys and girls to grow up in.

Any Institute can be all the above mentioned if it has an high air and makes a point of reaching that aim. To do this there must be loyalty to the society, a combining of forces and focussing of efforts. Each member must use the talent she has, or as the speaker said, "Be the best of whatever you are". Then, too, we must work together. Co-operation will win any good thing. Let us have it among members, among branches, and with the district.

To those who could remain after lunch, Miss McGee gave a brief outline of her subject for the next meeting of the series. This subject was : "Woman, Her Place and Her Power". It was a wonderfully-planned and well-worked-out address, full of interest to all women.

KIRW DEEP-SEA PORT.

Proposed Improvements on Murray River, Australia.

A movement for the construction of a deep sea port on the Murray River has been started in South Australia by many who believe such a project to be the natural conclusion to the system of locking the waters of the river, which is now approaching finality. It is contended that the harnessing of the stream, whose waters have been running to waste in the southern ocean for many years, will mean greatly increased facilities for navigation, at the same time insuring adequate supplies for irrigation.

South Australia is asking the Commonwealth and the States of Victoria and New South Wales, which share the riparian rights, to contribute to the cost of the undertaking which it is estimated would amount to £750,000. The scheme would affect some 3,000 miles of navigable rivers.

Worth It.

"Twas off the coast of dear old Ireland, and the steamship was a trifle out of its course. It had, in fact, taken the wrong turning.

"Breakers ahead! We are lost!" yelled the lookout from his point of vantage in the bows.

"Begorra!" cried the Irish cook. "We're not lost if that will save us."

And seizing a belaying-pin, he hit the lookout man such a blow as to completely floor the man.

"How dare you?" bellowed the captain angrily. "Why did you strike that man?"

"Well," replied Pat, "he yelled 'Break us a head, or we are lost,' and sure, I did it, sir. And I'll break a dozen more, sir, if that'll save the ship."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

FROM OLD IRELAND.

A Few Stories Gleaned From "The Years of My Pilgrimages."

An American stranger in Ulster once asked a Belfast man what the 12th of July celebrations really meant. "Have you ever heard of the battle of the Boyne?" inquired his friend. An answer in the negative brought the further inquiry, "Have you never heard of 'Derry Walls' or the battles of Aughrim and Newtownbutler?" "I can't say I have!" said the American. "Ah, go home, man, and read your Bible!" was the pitying reply.

This story is told by Sir John Ross, Bart., late Lord Chancellor of Ireland, in his book of reminiscences, "The Years of My Pilgrimage." Here is another story from the book:

The Rectorship of Dublin, a most important office, was once held by a very able but impecunious lawyer, the Right Hon. Frederick Falkiner, about whom the following is reputed: Once, a counsel for the Treasury asked leave at the end of the case to recapitulate his points, but was informed that the court would go into it with him. Notwithstanding, he coolly proceeded as follows: "My first point is that your lordship has no jurisdiction to make any order; my second is that any order you may make will be in excess of jurisdiction; and my third point is that any such order will be against all the evidence of the case." Here the Recorder, in unconcealable fury, broke out, "My answer to your first point is Bah! My answer to your second point is Bah! And my answer to your third point is Bah!" The Treasury counsel, undismayed, responded, "My respectful reply to your lordship's answers is also a monosyllable; it is the word Boo!"

The Munster Bar produced a number of great lawyers, including Sir Edward Sullivan, who was Master of the Rolls for many years, and finally Lord Chancellor. He had a number of followers who simply worshipped him, the chief of these being Mr. Justice William O'Brien. On one occasion, at dinner at the Benchers' table, one of the judges was talking, when suddenly O'Brien, in an excited voice, cried, "Silence, sir! The Lord Chancellor is about to make an observation." The observation, when made, turned out to be a request to somebody to pass the salt.

THE FIRST BANK NOTES.

Chinese Used a Kind of Bank Note as Far Back as 119 B.C.

It is difficult to determine who first introduced paper money. We are told that the Chinese used a kind of bank note as far back as 119 B.C., and that the same nation in 800 A.D. had a paper currency which was graphically described as "flying money." The Japanese, though much behind the Chinese, had an early paper issue; their feudal lords in various districts issued little cards representing very small values. The first European note is accredited to the Bank of Sweden in 1473.

The earliest British bankers were the Londoners, who made use of paper to a considerable extent in what were termed "Goldsmiths' Notes," which might be described, in present-day language as deposit receipts which passed from hand to hand, and from which various amounts were from time to time withdrawn, the note being negotiable for the balance outstanding. They first came into use in 1670, but were not legalized until the reign of Queen Anne.

The Bank of England commenced active business in 1695, and very soon issued; but, as twenty pounds was the smallest sum, the Government introduced Exchequer Bills, under the name of "indented bills of credit." As little as one million two hundred thousand pounds was ordered in 1697, in sums of five pounds and ten pounds.

Giraffes as Ocean Travellers.

Most of the trouble and risk with imported animals and birds in the past has arisen through lack of expert attention during the voyage, and it has been difficult to restore perfect health on arrival on shore. Messrs. Chapman, of Tottenham Court road, however, point out in their "Monthly Notes" that they have a system of personally conducted trips that obviate this risk.

They have just delivered three magnificent pairs of giraffes from Southern Rhodesia to the London Zoo. Many cranes, and Thai elephants, in perfect health and splendid condition.

The herd that has reached London is three years of age and stands 11 feet 2 inches. It is believed to be the largest that has been brought over successfully, and high hopes of breeding are entertained.

To Vote at Eighteen?

At the Labor conferences recently held in New Sarum it was decided to determine the future policy of the Labor party, one item voted upon will be pushed on if possible. It provoked extended discussion when Brunch put forward a resolution that eighteen was an absurdly youthful age at which to vote for state and Federal Parliaments, and urged declaring that the youth of the present day is thoroughly competent at eighteen. There were not wanting those to declare that the present minimum age for voters of both sexes —21 is too young, and the resolution in favor of 18 was carried.

The Fireman's "Umbrella."

A newly-invented nozzle for a fire-hose is so arranged that the fireman can divert the water from the solid stream into a cascade which falls around him. He can thus place himself under an umbrella, as it were, of falling water, and escape through the smoke and flames in a burning room.

A Great Future.

Because of the abundance of cheap electrical energy, Sir Henry Thornton sees a great future for Eastern Canada.

Jones (very cross)—"I wish, you'd chuck that cigar out of the window."

Brown (very happy)—"Look here I don't often give a shilling for a cigar, but when I do——"

Jones—"You get ninepence change."

REMOVING A BULLET.

Magnet Drew Bullet Out of Soldier's Lung.

The problem of removing an awkwardly located German bullet from the lung of a Canadian soldier where it had been reposing for ten years was solved by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, of his bronchoscopic clinic, Philadelphia, by means of a magnet.

During an action in 1918 the soldier was wounded in the jaw. The fracture united, the wound healed and the patient was honorably discharged. After several years a cough developed, with considerable pain in the left side of the chest. X-ray examination showed a machine gun bullet in the upper lobe of the left lung. The soldier's history indicated that there had been no way for the bullet to enter the body except through the wound in the jaw, so the doctors concluded that the bullet had been nearly spent when it struck the jaw bone and had been carried into the lung by an indrawn breath.

By means of X-rays and the bronchoscope, an instrument which enables the operator to look directly into the lung, it was found that an abscess had formed around the bullet. When bronchial forceps were inserted into this cavity, however, they shoved the bullet up into a "round the corner" position where the operator could not possibly get a grasp on it.

Since the bullet was presumably covered with steel Dr. Jackson decided to see what a magnet would do. In order to be influenced by a magnet an object must have steel, nickel, cobalt or magnetic iron in its composition. This excludes about 90 per cent of the foreign bodies removed from the air and lung passages, and for this reason magnets are seldom used in bronchoscopic work. In this case the bullet proved responsive and by manoeuvres with the magnet outside the man's chest the bullet was drawn into a favorable position and withdrawn through the throat and mouth, after which the patient made a successful recovery.

ORIGIN OF THE BAYONET.

Is Said to Have Originated at Bayonne, France.

In the short reign of James II. the first step was taken towards the abolition of the use of pikes in the British army by the introduction of the practice of sticking the dagger into the muzzle of the musket, in order to protect the men when charged by cavalry immediately after they had fired. It is said that this practice, which was borrowed from the French, was the origin of the bayonet. The daggers were for many years affixed to the muskets by having their long handles, in some cases a foot in length, jammed down the barrels.

At what time the mode of fixing the bayonet so as not to prevent the loading and firing of the piece was adopted in England it is not very easy to discover; but the improvement is said to have originated in France; and the following anecdote in Grose's "Treatise on Ancient Armour" seems to support this: "In one of the campaigns of King William III. in Flanders there were three French regiments whose bayonets were made to fit after the present fashion, a contrivance then unknown to the British army. One of them advanced against the 25th Regiment of Foot, then commanded by the Lt.-Col. Max- well, who commanded it, ordered his men to screw their bayonets into the muzzles of their muskets to receive the enemy; but, to his great surprise, when the French came within a proper distance, they threw in a heavy fire, which for a moment staggered the people, who by no means expected such a greeting, not conceiving how it was possible to fire with fixed bayonets. They nevertheless recovered themselves, charged, and drove the enemy out of the line."

The word "bayonet" is believed to have been derived from the town of Bayonne, in the extreme southwest of France, the first weapons of this description—used to convert muskets, as it were, into pikes—having been made there.

What Does Your Brain Weigh?

The size of the brain has little relation to the intellectual capacity of its possessor. One example of this was the exceedingly small brain, weighing only 1,100 grammes, of Anatole France, the famous author. The brain of Lord Byron weighed 1,807 grammes, and that of Schubert 1,420 grammes. That of the average man weighs approximately 1,300 grammes.

The intelligence of the person is said to be related to the complexity of the convolutions. It has been represented by the number of convolutions and fissures. Anatole France's brain was considered by anatomists to be excellent from this point of view. The convolutions were separated by deep furrows together with secondary fissures and notches.

Sign of the Blue Lamp.

A new system for detecting crime has been introduced at Sheffield, England.

Kiosks surmounted by blue-colored Osram lamps have been erected in outlying districts. Immediately the central police stations learns of a burglary, motor theft, or other crime, the Osram lamp is switched on, which leads the constable on duty to visit the telephone in the kiosk to receive instructions.

The blue lamp was chosen after several experiments. Other colors were tried, but it was found that blue was the most effective.

The following information in reference to J. C. Eno Limited is contained in a letter written us by Mr. Harold F. Ritchie, who will be President of International Proprietaries Limited:

J. C. ENO LIMITED AND ITS BUSINESS—International Proprietaries Limited, to be incorporated under laws of the Dominion of Canada, will acquire all the share capital of J. C. Eno Limited (Great Britain), which company is the proprietor and manufacturer of Eno's "Fruit Salt". J. C. Eno Limited owns the formulae, has the exclusive right to manufacture, and through its own organization and selling agencies established throughout the world, and those of its predecessors, it has distributed this product in increasing amounts for more than fifty years. During a quarter century the Company has never had an unprofitable year.

Eno's "Fruit Salt", which is the company's principal product, is a well-known effervescent saline, the name of which as a household word in practically every home in the civilized countries of the world. The purity of its ingredients, the scientific method of its preparation, and the acknowledged medicinal and therapeutic qualities which it possesses, have all combined to enhance the business increasing goodwill, which the company has consistently and conservatively maintained since 1868. The recommendations by members of the medical profession, and the prominence given Eno's "Fruit Salt" by judicious advertising in the press and other suitable publicity, have contributed to enlarge the company's output substantially. Illustrating the comprehensive selling methods adopted is the fact that at the present time advertising campaigns in some form or another are running in practically every country in the world.

Five manufacturing plants are maintained,—in London, England, Toronto, Canada, Berlin, Germany, Paris, France, and Barcelona, Spain. With the exception of these countries no other factories are located, the world demand for the company's product is supplied wholly from London, England. Distributors in Canada, Newfoundland, United States of America, Mexico, Central America, South America, West Indies, Phillippine Islands, Hiwaii, Australia, New Zealand, Pacific Islands and the China Coast, is made through Harold F. Ritchie & Company Limited, Toronto, Harold F. Ritchie & Company, Incorporated, New York, and The British Harold F. Ritchie & Company Limited, London, England, through which well-known agencies approximately one-half of the total output is sold. Elsewhere, including the British Isles, France, Germany, Spain, Austria, Hungary, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Poland, Portugal, Africa and India, the Company conducts its own sales activities direct or through selling agencies.

TRADE MARK—The words "Eno" and "Fruit Salt" are registered trade marks in the United Kingdom, British Dominions and Colonies, the Irish Free State, the United States of America, and other foreign countries of any importance throughout the world.

MANAGEMENT AND POLICY—The Directors and Executives responsible for the growth of the business in the past will continue actively in the management. The successful direction of the company will not be altered by reason of the change in ownership and control.

EARNINGS—Based on the certificate of Messrs. Fidgeon, Jackson & Company, Chartered Accountants, London, England, earnings of J. C. Eno Limited, available for taxation and dividends on the shares now being acquired by International Proprietaries Limited, for the five years ended December 31st, 1927, have averaged $769,527

Earnings on the above basis for the twelve months ending December 31st, 1928, are estimated at 825,000

The manufacture in Canada of Eno's "Fruit Salt" was commenced in 1927, and it is now proposed to start production also in the United States and elsewhere. Giving effect to known savings to be effected by these changes, based on present operations, it is estimated that earnings on the basis for the twelve months ending December 31st, 1929, will exceed $900,000

Preferential dividend requirements on this issue $504,000

PRICE: $40 per Share and Accrued Dividend

These shares are offered when, as and if issued and received by us, and subject to the organization of and issue of shares by International Proprietaries Limited, being passed upon by Messrs. McLaughlin, Johnston, Moorhead & Macaulay for the Company, and by Messrs. Blake, Lash, Anglin & Cassels, for the Dealers. We reserve the right to reject any or all subscriptions, in whole or in part, to allot less than the amount applied for, and to close the subscription books at any time without notice. Dividends on the Class "A" shares will commence from June 15th, 1928.

Delivery of temporary Stock Certificates will be made on or about June 25, 1928. Application will be made in due course to list these Class "A" shares on one or more of the recognized Canadian Stock Exchanges.

Powerful, Penetrating Antiseptic Oil Heals Eczema and Other Skin Diseases

Must Give Results in 7 Days or Money Back

Make up your mind to-day that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

Like a lot of other people, you've probably been convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good), but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to Wallace's Drug Store or any other good druggist to-day and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil. The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that instead of sticking faithfully to it for a month or while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain, nor leave a greasy residue and that it will give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

HOW YOU PROFIT

Whenever you buy Cities Service oils and gasolene, think of this unique situation:

You're buying from a producer which not only controls every step in production and distribution from oil wells through refineries to service stations, but which also is its own best customer.

Cities Service is a diversified organization—its utilities division, serving millions in 17 states and in Canada, uses large quantities of Cities Service oils and gasolene. This fact insures rare quality.

These super-producers of Cities Service are available to the public—millions of dollars have been invested in pre-testing, in perfecting the gasolene and oil to meet the exact specifications of our utility companies.

No finer gasolene and oils are obtainable at any price. You are getting identical products used by one of the 12 largest industrial organizations in America.

For quick starting—longer life for your battery—Cities Service gasolene has proved its superiority. Instant ignition at the touch of the starter!

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT—McLAUGHLIN-BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

The Only Car with a Sealed Chassis fully guarded against dirt, dust and moisture-and offering protected performance

It is the fashion of the day to place first importance on motor car beauty; and for this the alluring beauty of McLaughlin-Buick's smart, low-swung bodies by Fisher is largely responsible.

But keep in mind that you get many things besides beauty when you buy a McLaughlin-Buick. You get unequalled riding ease—vibrationless performance—and above all the unique reliability of the world-famous McLaughlin-Buick Sealed Chassis and Triple-Sealed Engine.

Every vital part of the McLaughlin-Buick chassis is enclosed in dirt-proof, dust-proof, water-tight housings to assure reliability and long life.

And—McLaughlin-Buick's proved Valve-In-Head Engine is fully guarded by crankcase ventilator, air cleaner, oil filter and gasoline strainer.

McLaughlin-Buick is the only car offering this twin feature as well as protected performance under all road and weather conditions.

Admire McLaughlin-Buick beauty—but insist upon McLaughlin-Buick dependability. It's a wonderful thing to own—even in these days when all cars are assumed to be dependable.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

A London architect is designing a theatre with three galleries. Even when the play is a farce most of the audience will be in tiers.

The Family Physician. — The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

An old man who was called into the witness-box happened to be rather shortsighted and went up the stairs which led to the bench instead of those that led to the box.

The magistrate, a man with a remarkable sense of humor, smiled.

"Do you want to be a magistrate like me, then?" he asked good naturedly.

"To be sure, your honour," came the jovial answer. "I'm an old man now an' maybe it's all I'm good for."

Your Home Medicine Chest.—Among the standard household remedies that should always be on hand in your home medicine chest, none is more important than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Its manifold usefulness in relieving pain and healing sickness is known by many thousands throughout the land. Always use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for relieving rheumatic and sciatic pains, treating sore throats and chests, coughs, burns, scalds, cuts, bruises and sprains.

Mary—He says he has a good position in the tie department of the big store.

May—So he has—he's bundle wrapper, my dear.

Don't Submit to Asthma. If you suffer without hope of breaking the chains which bind you do not put off another day the purchase of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Remedy. A trial will drive away all doubt as to its efficiency. Be sure relief that comes will convince you more than anything that can be written. When help is so sure, why suffer? This matchless remedy is sold by dealers everywhere.

Miller's Worm Powders attack worms in the stomach and intestines at once, and no worm can come in contact with them and live. They also correct the unhealthy conditions in the digestive organs that invite and encourage worms, setting up reactions that are most beneficial to the growth of the child. They have attested their power in hundreds of cases and at all times are thoroughly trustworthy.

Staying at the hotel were a number of footlight young men who thought they had found a good target for their humor in a rather simple clergyman.

Day in and day out, at the table and in the lounge, he resieved their jests with indifference.

"I wonder what started those youngsters so well," said an older man, after a particularly foolish joke at the dinner table. "Don't you hear what they say?"

The clergyman smiled gently.

"Oh, yes," he answered; "but then, you see, I am chaplain at a mental home, so I'm used to this sort of thing!"

No child should be allowed to suffer an hour from worms when prompt relief can be got in a simple but strong remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Jones—I hear the head of the Digenheim mining interests is going to retire.

Corns cannot exist when Holloway's Corn Remover is applied to them, because it goes to the root and kills the growth.

THE NAPANEE BEAVER

SIDNEY WEBB RETIRES.

One of the Best - Known of British Socialists.

Word comes over the cables that Sidney Webb will shortly retire from the British House of Commons. It is an announcement of vastly greater interest than the brevity of the despatch would indicate. Sidney Webb is not only a European, but an international figure. Next to his leader, Ramsay MacDonald, he is probably the best-known British Socialist; the voluminous books on local government, trade unionism and co-operation, that he and his wife have written together are known throughout the world and are standard works in the most advanced lands of both hemispheres.

Webb has the rare distinction of having founded a school and then emancipated himself from everything cramping in it. Creator of the Fabian tactic and attitude, at one time arch-priest of bureaucratic collectivism, expounded in massive tomes of unequalled learning and research, he has since the war expanded and modified intellectually and extended an endless hospitality to new ideas that he has drawn astonishingly near the Lloyd Georgian point of view.

Respect he has always enjoyed and more than deserved by a lifetime of highly skilled and in comparably efficient service. The great series of books that bear the names, "Sidney and Beatrice Webb," have created the intellectual experience of countless Socialists, and moulded, to an extent hardly realized, the practice of public authorities throughout the British Islands.

Webb is an intimate of Ramsay MacDonald, is a friend of Bernard Shaw and was the comrade of Keir Hardie and of all the other great Socialist figures of the latter nineties. He was the real founder and inspirer of the London School of Economics, and is still an unpaid professor there of public administration. Not an orator and with little gift for practical politics, he never took the place at Westminster that his talents entitled him to take. Yet his retirement will leave a gap in politics that no man in his own or in any other party will be equipped to fill.

THREE-EYED PLESIOSAURUS.

Epoch of Sea Lizard Estimated Over Over 100,000,000 Years Ago.

The "red triangle" or three-eyed plesiosaurus which was dug up recently in a quarry at Harlury, Warwickshire, and brought to the natural history section of the British Museum at South Kensington, London, and is now on exhibition. Experts have been engaged since its arrival in removing ridges of rock from the sixteen-foot fossil in order to restore the skeleton to its orijcial condition, employing a pneumatic electric drill for that purpose, says the Christian Science Monitor.

The task of articulating the 16-foot prehistoric lizard, with its long neck and four paddle limbs has been supervised by Prof. W. E. Swinton of the Museum's department of zoology. He estimates its age at between 100,000,000 and 200,000,000 years. When pieced together the find was displayed beside the skeleton of an ichthyosaurus which was discovered in the same locality of Warwickshire thirty years ago.

"The plesiosaurus," said Prof. Swinton in an interview, "belonged to the lizard family and lived on fish. It has a long neck, short tail and four paddles. This specimen, which was lying on its stomach, was found in a deposit of lower Lias clay. It may have existed when England was under the bottom of the sea or when that particular spot formed a seashore upon which the creature crawled out for a sun bath. The ichthyosaurus lived about the same period, so it is possible that the two beasts met-in life.

"It is rare to find a specimen of the plesiosaurus with the head attached; generally the head is missing when such fossils are unearthed. One theory is that roving dinosaurs, who were carnivorous but rather stupid hunters, used to prey upon those marine lizards and often detached and lost the heads. The plesiosaurus' head is triangular and has a third eye on the top of the skull. When this specimen was found, the head was stained red and it was so well preserved that all its teeth were found intact."

A Large Game Reserve.

The British Columbia Government has created a large game reserve on the Queen Charlotte Islands boundary in the northern part of the province. It will be 20 miles long and 15 miles wide, lying 120 miles north of McBride.

JOINT-EASE FOR Stiff, Swollen Joints

RHEUMATIC OR OTHERWISE

Says : "When Joint-Ease Gets In—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw Joint-Ease after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered-through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Aches, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in, through-skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or in finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at Wallace's Drug Store, and druggists everywhere, for 60 cents a tube.

COMBING THE FORESTS.

Woods With Strange Names Making Homes Beautiful.

Collecting antiques is a difficult enough matter nowadays when genuine old furniture is made from only three woods—oak, mahogany, and walnut; and if you buy a faked workroom you will see only these employed for his unscrupulous art. But what will be the task of the collector —or fakir—in 200 or 300 years' time, when the woodwork of to-day has become valuable and eagerly sought?

For, as against the three good-class woods which Charles II. and Queen Anne knew, there will be literally hundreds of different varieties, and the more rare and hard to name they are the more valuable will they become.

Some of the most expensive furniture to-day is being made from Indian silver-grey wood, the only kind in the world from which articles of a natural silver-grey can be fashioned. Newer still, and perhaps destined to become even rarer, is laured wood, which, in addition to being ideal for panelling and furniture in many wealthy homes, has found a place in the new County Hall-at Westminster and the still uncompleted Bank of England offices.

"Rare old antique telephones" may be highly prized by connoisseurs in 2128 A.D. on account of their being mounted on Tasmanian myrtle, but which the British Post Office is shortly going to use for that purpose, and state-trends made from the recently favored greenheart, from British Guiana, may fetch high prices at auction.

Counter-tops in some of the new de luxe shops owe their magnificent sheen to Andaman padauk; and railway trains are rendered more beautiful by Mora wood. Also being used quite extensively are such timbers as purpleheart, Kuyana boxwood, crapeo, celery top pine, wandoo, tuart, and kurri.—Answers.

MOST POWERFUL LAMP.

Paris Boasts Most Powerful Flash-Light Lamp in the World.

Paris, Voltaire's City of Light, boasts to-day the most powerful flash-light lamp in the world. Its light, generated by electric current, is equal to 1,400 million candles. When we consider that 1,400 million ordinary candles, put end to end, would extend eight to ten times round the earth, and almost far enough to reach the moon, we realize how far man has travelled as light-maker since the days of the first tallow candle.

Even if mediaeval man had been able to manufacture 1,400 million candles and put them in 1,400 million candlesticks, the whole population of the world could not have set them alight; to-day a single man moves a switch, there is a shimmer in the ether, and the light of 1,400 million candles bursts into flame.

So powerful is the lamp in Paris that from the top of Eiffel Tower it would be visible for hundreds of miles; and if the Eiffel Tower were twice as high a man with field-glasses at Vienna would be able to see it quite clearly. The heat in the centre of the electric flame which radiates the light reaches 4,500 degrees Centigrade. That is to say, it equals the heat at the surface of the sun!

TOY PISTOL DANGERS.

Dangerous Toy Pistols Are Being Sold in Old Country.

Scotland Yard is concerned about the increasing number of dangerous toy pistols being sold in England. That these can be converted into lethal weapons has been proved by a mechanic who has bored a barrel and two chambers in a "toy," and fired bullets that penetrated a plank ¾ inch thick at 90 feet range.

Summonses against tradesmen for selling these firearms contrary to law have been dismissed by magistrates, and the Yard have stated that they will not prosecute where toy pistols are sold without a permit. The only time the police can protect the public, apparently, is when the Highways Act, which prohibits the use of any kind of firearm, whether with five or blank cartridges, within 50 feet of a highway, is contravened.

An official points out that the law leaves a considerable loophole, and a recent murder was committed with a pistol little larger than those which are sold as "toys." By inserting a barrel or drilling a bore," he says, "it is possible to convert a toy into a formidable weapon."

In an attempt to stop the unchecked sale of so-called "toy" pistols, a bill has been introduced in the British House of Commons.

How the Mind Works.

When we go to bed early, hoping to wake up fresher than usual, we generally seem to wake up drowsier than after a late night.

In fact, the longer and "deeper" we sleep, the more time it takes to recover the resultant "flightiness." Mental tests show that students averaged a ten per cent. higher score at night than immediately after eight hours' restful sleep.

In the morning when your mind is fresh it is best prepared for a brief spurt, but it is too restless to concentrate. As the day wears on the mind is helped to concentrate by fatigue poisons that accumulate in the system. They act as mental excitants, and the best time for sustained mental work is from late afternoon until midnight or later.

Two Million Miles of Jungle.

The Amazon basin in South America, which covers nearly two million square miles, has a population of less than one person per square mile. The reason is too marked fertility. The country is covered with an almost impassable jungle of naturaf vegetation.

Statue of Liberty.

The famous Statue of Liberty, in New York harbor, is 160 feet high.

"My dentist never acknowledges me when we meet," complains a writer. "That's nothing; I know a man who was cut by his barber."

The most dignified part of the average man is his head," a writer thinks. So it takes an acrobat to stand on his dignity.

MAPLE LEAF WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

On May 28th, the Maple Leaf Institute met at North Fredericksburgh Town Hall, at 2 p.m., the chief interest of the meeting being to receive the always much appreciated message of the Provincial delegate, who this year was Miss McGee.

The meeting opened with the President in the chair, by singing the Ode and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. The Secretary read the report of the year's work just completed. It was a very comprehensive report and showed much good work done during the year, and the substantial balance of $181 on hand.

A few matters of business were attended to. Arrangements were made for holding a cake contest at the June meeting. A prize will be given for the best dark layer cake with a white boiled icing.

Members are asked to note the change in the regular date of holding our meetings. The Institute will meet on the second Tuesday of each month at 2 p.m. instead of the second Thursday as formerly.

The delegate, Miss McGee, then gave her address, combining two subjects, "Woman, Her Place and Power", and "How to Make the Institute Work the Best for the Cummunity". One of the chief thoughts she impressed upon us was that women should be queens in their own sphere. A woman has unlimited power to destroy or to construct—and all should endeavour to be worthy of that power. She spoke of many means in which women may grasp her opportunity to do good both in the home and in the community. Her address was much appreciated and all felt they had benefited by its hearing. The message was something quite new.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss McGee and Miss Johnson. A lunch of sandwiches, cake and lemonade was served. The Institute was complimented by Miss McGee on the business-like manner in which the meetings were conducted.

A question drawer was held—questions being answered by Miss McGee.

EASTERN CANADA GARDENING SERVICE

Ready With Celery

That most popular green vegetable, celery, can be set out now. Except for the commercial man, it is advisable to use plants, and these should be secured from a reliable source where the variety will be guaranteed. For a continuous supply, set out a few plants every week or two, up to the middle of July, with the bulk going in about the last mentioned time for Fall storage. Celery can be grown on any rich, drained soil, provided it is not too compact. Well drained muck, which is the richest soil in humus that we have, gives the best results. Heavy applications of manure are needed on loam soil, with nitrate of soda about the early stages of growth. Water plants well before removing from flats, and, if possible, have soil moist from which they are being transplanted. Plant six to eight inches apart, in rows from one to three feet wide. Cultivate often and keep at it during the season. In order to keep the plants growing quickly, which is the only way to produce a tender crop, water when necessary. In the Fall, the simplest way to bleach the celery is to place boards against the outer plants on both sides of the row, and hill these up a little with earth to keep them in place. Celery will keep well out of the Winter in cool, fairly dry storage.

Tender Vegetables Go In Now

This is about the time to put in that group of vegetables, or botanists may consider some of them fruits, known as the tender sorts. Chief among these will be the squash types. Marrows and summer squash may be planted any time up to July 1st. The same holds true for watermelon, citron, and muskmelon. The Summer Squash and Marrows as well as Cucumbers, which come in about this time, should be picked when about half grown, the flesh being more tender then than at any other time. This fruit generally does not hold good for the Melons, however, which must be ripe before any but the very small boy will dare to tackle them. To determine whether they are ripe or not, simply press the end of the fruit with the thumb, and, if it is a little soft, one can consume them safely. The flesh of all of these plants should be warm, well-drained, well-watered, and very rich. An old chip pile, where considerable refuse manure has been put in, and which is fairly drenched with sunlight, is the ideal location. Plant six seeds to a hill, three feet apart, and thin to four plants. This also is the proper time to plant lima beans, which should give a fair crop if sown immediately. Limas need richer soil than string beans, and there must be plenty of humus to retain the moisture. Pole limas give larger yields than the bush varieties, and usually do best with the amateur. They need seven feet of climbing room. Bush limas should be planted in hills eighteen inches apart each way. Water well in dry weather with the nozzle off the hose. Soak, do not sprinkle, and keep the water off the leaves. Egg Plants should be set out now, and to lay their full quota, which is not more than three or four full sized eggs to the plant, they must be set in rich soil, but not too heavy, and have abundant moisture. Set them two feet apart in the row.

Keep Flowers Picked.

To keep the flower garden blooming and looking its best all dying flowers must be kept removed. With most sorts the quickest the bloom is removed, the more of it there will be. When the plants are allowed to start developing seed pods, there will be no more flowers. With these sorts, such as Alyssum, Phlox, Petunias, and others which do not produce flowers that can be easily picked, it is advisable to shear off the fading bloom.

It is a sombre thought that there is a great new generation springing up in the land that gives you a blank look when you mention Petticoat Government.

A French lady in this country would eat such food as she was accquainted with and on one occasion, being offered a dish which was new to her, she replied politely:

"No, zank you; I eat only my acquaintances."

This Modern Life!

Its Habits Produce Constipation, which "Fruit-a-tives" Corrects

MONTREAL, Que. — "After suffering many years from constipation, I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' All my ills are gone now." Mrs. H. Godin.

Indoor work, soft, rich foods, lack of exercise impair our bodily functions. The most common evidence is constipation. Normal intestinal activity, denied to most of us by our way of living, is restored and maintained by "Fruit-a-tives," made of the juices of fresh, ripe fruit, blended with health-building tonics.

Bridge Club Entertained.

Tuesday evening, Dr. and Mrs. Beattie entertained the Bridge Club to a supper dance at Collins Bay. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. McHoull, who are leaving soon for Picton, were presented with a beautiful silver entree dish. Regrets were expressed by members of the Club at losing this popular couple. Mr. and Mrs. McHoull, who have made many friends in Napanee, were completely taken by surprise. In a few well chosen remarks Mac thanked the Club for their kind remembrance, and expressed the hope that they would receive frequent visits from their Napanee friends.

Rev. J. H. Chant Dead.

At the residence of his daughter, Mrs. W. S. Wagar, North Bay, on Saturday, June 9th, Rev. Joseph Havelock Chant died. Mr. Chant was in his 91st year, and was born in Stoke, Somersetshire, England. His parents came to Canada in 1840, settling at Niagara-on-the-Lake, where Mr. Chant received his schooling. He attended Victoria College when it was still situated in Cobourg, and was ordained to the Methodist ministry in 1864. He is survived by one daughter and two sons. There are fourteen grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren. Mr. Chant was a poet of more than ordinary merit and published "Gleams of Sunshine" in 1915. He was an uncle of Prof. Chant of the University of Toronto. The late Mr. Chant will be remembered by many in this district, he having lived at one time in Newburgh, Ont.

ST. ANDREW'S W. M. S.

On Friday afternoon a large audience greeted Mrs. (Rev.) Anderson, of Newburgh, who in her capacity as Vice President of the Belleville Presbyterial, came to visit and encourage us in our missionary endeavours. She has the supervision of fifteen auxiliaries in this section. Her address was most interesting and inspiring. Officers of organizations are important, but the success of our missionary work depends on the zeal of each individual member. She based her remarks on three phases, "Love Christ, Live Christ, Give Christ", and by her earnest words and illustrations, gave us a vision of what our heritage and responsibility is, and what a privilege it is to know Christ, and like Him—to love and serve others.

The President, Mrs. Laughland, gave some extracts on the Habit of Prayer, which in this age of hurry, is being neglected.

Miss Harrison and Mrs. Thomson conducted the opening devotional exercises. Mrs. Corkill read an interesting account of the Missionary Conference held during Easter, Jerusalem.

Mrs. McLaughlin sang a beautiful solo, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say". The collection was taken by Mrs. Mabel Kelly, and Mrs. Gilbride offered the dedicatory prayer.

After the meeting a pleasant social hour was spent, Mrs. McCaul and Miss Alice Preston being the tea hostesses.

Examinations.

These are the days of writing exams. The Colleges and Universities throughout the county have just completed their work and made their awards. The Public and High School pupils began to write the departmentals next week. There is another group with which perhaps the general public is more quite so familiar. Queen's University, in connection with the Bankers' Association, gives two courses for Bankers—a fellows' course and an associate course. Two of the local bank boys are availing themselves of the opportunity of this advanced study, and are writing the University exams. this week, Mr. Jackson and Mr. R. Wilson, both of the Royal Bank.

Alfred Davis Killed.

About six o'clock on Saturday evening, on the Provincial highway, a short distance east of Napanee, Alfred Davis was almost instantly killed in a collision with an auto. Mr. Davis, who was about 65 years of age, was coming to Napanee on his bicycle, which he invariably used in getting about. A car, driven by Milton Gordon, of Demorestville, who is working on the highway, was going east and it is supposed that Davis tried to cross the road in front of the car. Deceased was struck and dragged a short distance, and died in a few minutes, probably from a fracture of the skull received when his head struck the hard road. Medical aid was summoned, but nothing could be done for the injured man. A jury was summoned and viewed the remains, after which the inquest was adjourned until Friday evening at 7 o'clock, when the proceedings will be continued at Fairview schoolhouse. Mr. Davis had lived most of a number of years near the top of Robin's Hill, and was a well-known citizen. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon.

A June Dance.

The Napanee Golf and Country Club presented a gay picture on Friday evening of last week, when Mr. and Mrs. Jack McPherson entertained their friends at a dance at the Club House. The verandah and dance-hall were bright with colored lights and Japanese lanterns, and perfumed with lilacs, lilies-of-the-valley, and other spring blossoms. Nothing more perfect than a June night, amidst the picturesque surroundings of the Golf Links, could be imagined for social gatherings. In doors, the balcony was arranged as a card room, but the majority of the guests preferred to dance to the very inticing music by Waring-ton's orchestra, of Kingston. Mrs. McPherson wore a charming French gown of black taffeta with silver embroidery, while her sister, Miss Margaret Roffey, was in white ruffled net over white. The Misses Nora Welsh and Mary Conus were also in white net over silk, and Miss Kathleen Orr wore green net over taffeta. Other house guests were the Messrs. David Roffey, Roy Hill, Bob Thistle, of Stratford; Mr. Fred Andrews, of Montreal, and Mr. Andy Ewing, of Kingston.

NAPANEE BOYS MAKE A GOOD SHOWING

TAKE RECORD PLACE AT ATHLETIC MEET

The fourth annual Athletic Meet for Public and High Schools was held here in Kingston on Saturday last, under the supervision of the District Representative of the Ontario Athletic Commission, T. A. Dennis. Schools from the district between Brockville and Trenton competed. Napanee took second place, securing seven firsts and one several seconds. This entitles the winners who attained the standard to compete in Toronto in the fall.

The events in which the Napanee team secured places were as follows:—

Boys 15 and Under

100 yards—H. Moore, Napanee, 1st. 220 yards—H. Moore, Napanee, 1st.
440 yards—Relay—Napanee, 2nd.

880 yards, Relay—Napanee, 2nd.
The Napanee Relay Team, Public School, was made up of B. Webb, G. Lucas, H. Howitt and W. Hart.
Collegiate and High Schools—H. Robinson, H. Webster, B. Herrington, E. Loucks.
Intermediate—D. McFadden, C. Amey, W. Smith, R. Stalker.
Mr. Murray has been appointed to coach these boys for the Toronto meet. With careful training and practise they should make a good showing in the Provincial arena.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Edmund Fenwick.

On Friday, June 1st, 1928, there passed away a life long and very valued resident of Enterprise, in the person of Mr. Edmund Fenwick, in his sixty-ninth year. Mr. Fenwick was a general merchant in the village for the last thirty years, transacting his business from time to time until he owned the largest and most up-to-date store in Enterprise, but owing to ill health he retired in October last.

The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Bunt, of the United Church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Merriam, of Napanee, who was pastor some years ago, and a personal friend. The service was of a most impressive nature, both ministers speaking of the fine qualities of deceased. Mr. Fenwick was known far and wide as a quiet unassuming Christian gentleman, always willing to help his fellowman in every way possible. He was a Steward in the church, also a valued member of the Quarterly Board for over thirty years. He was also a member of Victoria Lodge A.F. & A.M., and the Orange Order, and the Ancient Order for Foresters.

Mr. Fenwick leaves to mourn his loss his wife, who until he very last did everything possible to alleviate his sufferings, but it was God's will that he be called home; he also leaves three brothers, William S. and George H., of Enterprise, and John James, of Weston, Ont.; also three sisters, all residing in Chicago.

The funeral was largely attended, being under the direction of the Masonic Order. The remains were laid to rest in Riverside cemetery, Napanee, on Sunday, June 3rd. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Those attending the funeral from out of town were Mr. James Fenwick, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fenwick, of Weston, Ont.; Mr. F. R. Binnett and son, Walter, of Watertown, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Paul, Brockville, and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Allen, Kingston.

MAPLE LEAF INSTITUTE

One of the most interesting of our recent meetings was held on Tuesday afternoon, June 12th, at 2 p.m., in North Fredericksburgh Town Hall. There were twenty-one present, and we welcomed some visitors, particularly such old friends as Mrs. Miller and Mr. Laughland.

The meeting opened in the usual way, with the President in the chair. The roll call was responded to by, "Say, Sing, or Pay". Community songs were sung, with Mrs. Clayton Pretts at the piano. Some routine business was attended to, and reports given from the Hospital and School Committees. A Board of Directors was elected, consisting of Mrs. C. Dey; Mrs. W. G. Pretts, Mrs. Sager and Miss F. Close. The two first mentioned are to be members of the Executive. This will mean that the Executive will receive valuable support and our representatives for the district will be more.

Mrs. Miller gave us a few interesting facts regarding the growth of Institutes throughout the world—nearly all of which look to Ontario as their example. She also favoured us with a splendid paper entitled "Preparedness".

Mr. Laughland gave a very helpful talk on "Immigration", as it effects Ontario, and particularly this district. He spoke of those immigrants from Northern Europe and the British Isles, as being most desirable. This district needs more help on the farms and factories, so that it may pay higher wages and receive better prices for their products when they learn to cull their live stock, seed, etc., and grow the highest grade, and the result will be greater net profit and work well spent.

A Cake contest was then held for the best dark layer cake with white boiled icing. Mrs. P. Sager scored first place, Mrs. Raymond Pretts second, and Mrs. W. G. Pretts third.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Miller and Mr. Laughland for their addresses and for acting as judges in the contest.

The cakes were served for lunch, accompanied by tea. Collection amounted to $2.45. God Save the King.

WEDDING BELLS

Alice—Coulter.

St. Paul's Church, Roslin, beautifully decorated with lilacs and garden flowers, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday morning, June 2nd, at 10 o'clock, when Florence Adelaide Coulter, niece of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Coulter, of Roslin, was married to Harvey Clare Alice, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Allen, of Marlbank. The Rev. A. E. Smart, Rector of St. John's Church, Portsmouth, officiated, assisted by Rev. Arthur Smith, Rector of Roslin. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, looked lovely in her dress of blue crepe with hat and gloves to match, and carried a beautiful bouquet of tea roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Beatrice Allen, sister of the groom, who was prettily attired in mauve crepe with hat to match. The groom was attended by Mr. Wellesley Coulter, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Coulter. A beautiful array of presents evidenced the high esteem in which the young couple are held by their friends, who wish them many years of happiness and prosperity. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Allen left during the afternoon on a trip to the Pacific Coast.

The Beautiful Green Lake

The adventurers who first visited Jasper National Park, Canada's great national play ground in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, were concerned less with the marvellous scenic beauties of the Region than they were with finding a pathway through the mountain Ranges which seemed to bar their further progress.

However, those who followed in their footsteps realized the beauties of the territory now included in the 5,300 square miles of Jasper National Park and in naming the lakes, rivers and peaks of this area, used names which were expressive of their characteristics.

Thus, in the case of the lake on the shore of which was later located Jasper Park Lodge, the magnificent log cabin bungalow hotel of the Canadian National Railways, the name Lac Beauvert (Beautiful Green Lake) was applied. That no more fitting name could have been chosen for the beautiful body of water is evident to every visitor to Jasper. Clear as crystal water, reflecting the glory of the surrounding parks, green the tourist will be strolls from his cabin at Jasper Park Lodge to the shore of this lake, and before ed vegetable matter is this cool water that he can easily read a newspaper which has been weighted and sunk under several feet of water.

Canoes and boats are available for those who would paddle or row over the glassy surface, and a swimming pool with heated water has been constructed on the shore of the lake.

Jasper Park Lodge will be visited this year by members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at the conclusion of their Annual Convention at the Macdonald Hotel Edmonton, Alta.

ODESSA

Mr. W. S. Holmes, manager of the Royal Bank, who last week was found unconscious by Mrs. W. J. Pooke, trained nurse at the home of Dr. J. E. Mabee, having collapsed from the effect of carbon monoxide gas, has recovered sufficiently to be able to be removed to his home. Mr. Holmes had become unconscious when Mrs. Pooke gave him timely assistance, and had him taken into Dr. Mabee's home, where medical aid was called.

The many friends of Dr. J. E. Mabee were delighted to hear that he returned to his home last Saturday afternoon, after spending the past six weeks in the Kingston General Hospital, where he had undergone a very serious operation, and has fully recovered.

James McQueen, a very highly respected citizen, passed away last Sunday afternoon, at his home here. The deceased was practically a life long resident, and will be greatly missed by a large number of friends and relatives. Mr. McQueen, although in poor health for some time, had shown signs of improvement. The funeral was held from his late home on Tuesday afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. G. McQuade officiated, and interment took place in Wilton cemetery. Much sympathy is being offered Mrs. McQueen in her sad bereavement. The beautiful floral offerings clearly manifested the esteem in which the deceased was held. The pall bearers were H. J. Smith, Wm. Dougherty, Orange Babcock, James McParland, Marcus Fraser and Stanley Fraser.

Mrs. William Toles, late of Inverary, has moved in her new home on Ferguson Avenue, recently purchased from H. J. Smith.

Mrs. S. J. Sproule has returned from spending the past six weeks visiting relatives and friends in Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee, who have been guests of their aunt, Mrs. John Mancur, have returned to their home in Toronto.

Mrs. Bruce Graham, who has been spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Sproule, has returned to her home in Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan, Lynchburg, Virginia, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith and Mrs. Watts, Mrs. Logan arrived in Kingston in time to see her brother.

Dr. Harold Ettinger, Mrs. Ettinger, and little daughter leave for Scotland, where the former expects to spend one year in the University of Edinburg.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jenkins, of Kingston, spent Sunday at Mr. H. J. Smith's.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Moore and daughters, Leona and Athena, of Watertown, spent Sunday the guests of Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Oldman, of Napanee, were Sunday guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. William Toles.

Stanley Mabee, Williamsport, Pennsylvania, called on Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Mabee, Saturday, en route to Toronto to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Mabee.

Photo work at Wallace's.—Work left up to 8.30 at night, ready 4.30 next afternoon. All work done by an expert with over 20 years' experience. All prints on Perrotype at no extra charge. Terms cash with order. Wallace's, Kodak Agents.

TAMWORTH

Very successful anniversary services were conducted at Tamworth, in the United Church, on Sunday and evening, on Sunday last, by Rev. H. Pawson, of Trinity United Church. The messages brought by the visiting ministers were of a high order. — On Monday evening a splendid concert and entertainment were held by the Tamworth United congregation in the Religious Education Building. Every entrance was good, the building being filled to capacity. Napanee friends assisted with the programme. Musical numbers by Mrs. H. Pawson and Mrs. Mills pleased the audience greatly. Mrs. Mills recited a humorous selection very effectively. A quartette number was sung by Mrs. A. E. Hillyard, Clarence Lochead, Mr. W. G. Richmond, and Rev. H. Pawson. Rev. Mr. Morgan, of the Anglican Church, brought greetings from his congregation in their absence and wished success. Excellent speeches were contributed also by Rev. H. Pawson, Rev. Mr. Roblin, of Ottawa, Rev. R. Bunt, and Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Newburgh. The chairman, Rev. I. N. Beckstead, made grateful acknowledgment on behalf of the congregation of the Tamworth Church. The collection taken at the evening meeting, in the order Herbert Rogers was held on Thursday last from the family residence to Tamworth United Church. The attendance was very large. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Beckstead, conducted the service. Interment was made in Tamworth cemetery.

Berger's English Paris Green, in tins, at Wallace's.

DORLAND

The United Church was the scene of a delightful entertainment on Friday evening, when Rev. J. A. Rollins and family gave a musicale, which was very much enjoyed by all who were present. They leave on Thursday of next week for a two months' visit with relatives in Ireland, when a farewell social event last week was the Women's Institute meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Curlette, on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Ruttan gave an interesting report from the Girls' Convention held in Guelph in May.—Mrs. D. W. Allison spent a few days with Mrs. W. D. I., given by Jack Elder and his troupe from Kingston.

CAMDEN EAST W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of the President, Mrs. Sherlock. Hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name", followed by the Lord's Prayer. Roll call was answered by a verse from the Bible. Minutes were read and adopted. The missionary box, two quilts being donated by our President. Hymn, "Bringing Sheaves".

Solos.

The program was a temperance one. Sketch of laws for each Province was read by each member. Also a Temperance address by Miss A. Williams. Hymn, "Work for the Night is Coming". Prayer for Temperance.

Ten members were present. The July meeting will be held at Mrs. M. Switzer's.

Refreshments were served.

COUNTY COUNCIL

County Council met in regular session at the Court House, on Tuesday afternoon, at the call of the Warden.

Rev. Mr. Dunbrville opened the session with prayer.

Supt. Armstrong and Chairman Nickle, of the Kingston General Hospital, attended Council and addressed the members on matters connected with the hospital and their County patients in that institution.

The Finance Committee reported in reference to the County patients in the Kingston General Hospital. Report was read and adopted.

A second report of the Finance Committee, setting out the probable receipts and expenditures for the County Roads for the year.

On motion the usual grant of $600 was made to the poor schools of the county.

County Auditor Lapum presented a report of the receipts and expenditures of the county up to the 1st of June, showing receipts $170,686.10; expenditures, $170,666.10.

By-law, authorizing the expropriation of certain lands in order to straighten the Kingston County Road No. 9, in North Fredericksburgh, as shown on a plan annexed, drawn by J. Glover, Provincial Land Surveyor, was introduced, and read a first time.

The Council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading of the by-law.

The By-law was read a third time, and finally passed.

The Roads Committee reported that the amount of money appropriated to the committee would not be sufficient to build the mileage which was decided on earlier in the season. On commencing work it is found that the base on all the roads will cost more than anticipated, and an additional amount of $1500.00 will be required, or the mileage will have to be reduced.

Mr. Raynor, of the Ontario Amiesite, Limited, was present, and answered some questions relating to road matters.

Council adjourned for the benefit of Special Roads Committee.

The Special Roads Committee reported $166,227.63 as already contracted for on roads; also additional costs of $15,500.00 already arranged to be spent; leaving a balance of road money appropriated of $18,000 not under contract, of which $11,000 will be required for expenditures on machinery, compensation, repairs, etc., making it necessary to have $9500.00, or one mill on the dollar additional money to carry out the work contemplated.

Council adjourned until Thursday, 9 a.m.

Thursday

A letter re Amherst Island Ferry, from the Department of Highways, was read. The department is willing to contribute the usual subsidy toward the establishment of a ferry, and the money already appropriated may also be used to help defray the cost.

On motion the County Council will pay $1500 to such a contract is let, and a further $4600 toward the cost of the ferry, when such is in commission.

A letter from Messrs. Nickle & Farrell, re County Road grants to Amherst Island roads, was read and filed.

A letter from the Guelph Agricultural College, re County students. Mr. Laughland was heard in reference to the above matter. Mr. Laughland also advised the Township Council to supply their weed inspectors with a book published by the Department of Agriculture, describing the common farm weeds, and the method of their eradication. Communication filed.

On motion of Mr. Loyst, seconded by Mr. Aylsworth, the County will make a grant of $50.00 to supplement the amount offered selected County pupils.

Mr. Elliott moved, seconded by Mr. Johnson, that the Warden be tendered a hearty vote of thanks for the splendid trip to Gore Bay, and the 1000 Islands, given by the Warden on Wednesday.

A volume of communications, re the erection of the wig-wag at Ernestown Road, were received.

On motion the County's share of cost of wig-wag, $140.00, was ordered paid.

"Keep in mind you're Riding on Air!"

AIR lifts the load off the road. The heavier the load the more air it takes. That's why tire makers have worked out the correct inflation pressure for every size of tire for different loads.

Know the correct pressure for your tires, and stick to it. Don't guess it — gauge it. Two or three pounds under pressure cuts miles off the life of a tire.

Keep in mind you're riding on air, and if there isn't sufficient air, you're riding straight into trouble.

Pay a weekly visit to a Dominion Tire Depot and have your tires examined.

Fighting the Bugs.

Now that the garden is up and growing one must mobilize sprayers and spraying material to fight the millions of insects and other pests which prey on flowers and vegetables. Roughly speaking, these pests are divided into two groups, those that eat holes in the foliage, and those that suck out the juices. In the first case, poison is applied, while the "suckers", the damage from which is apparent by the plants wilting and dying, are destroyed with a spray which will burn them.

For Eating Insects.

For eating insects spray with paris green, arsenic of lead, hellebore, or some patent poisonous preparation. Paris green is usually applied at the rate of 1 oz. dissolved in ten gallons of water. It is well to add a couple of ounces of freshly slaked lime to make this mixture stick and to prevent burning. Arsenate of lead in powdered form is applied at the rate of 1 heaping oz. to a full gallon of water. As hellebore rapidly weakens when exposed to the air, a fresh supply of this poison must be secured every year and applied at the rate of 1 oz. to a gallon of warm water. It may be dusted on dry, when the foliage is damp. Cut worms which eat through the stems of plants close to the surface of the soil require special treatment. These grubs are about three-quarters of an inch long, gray in colour and about one-third inch in diameter. If the tomato or other plant withers and topples over, cut worms are generally responsible. Cultivate thoroughly and spread a little poisoned bran around the plants. Mix one quart of bran with one teaspoonful of paris green, add one tablespoonful of molasses, with enough water to moisten the bran. Place small bran around the stems of tomato and similar plants will also protect from these pests.

For Sucking Pests.

For sucking pests, chief of which are the aphids, or plant lice, spray with whale oil soap, one pound of soap to six gallons of water; nicotine sulphate oil "Black Leaf 40" or any other repellent advised by seedsmen. Cold water from a fine nozzle under high pressure will some times wash off the pests.

Fungus Diseases.

When a fungus attacks the plants, the foliage usually turns yellow or brown, or white spots like mildew cover the leaves. Careful examination will usually reveal the presence of tiny spores on the under side of leaves. Attacks of this kind may be expected during warm, murky weather. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture, or dusting with flowers of sulphur, when the plants are moist, will usually be found effective. Sulphur dust will also protect Hollyhocks and other plants from rust. Apply with a large shaker made of a tin can pierced with holes. Adding a dry poison such as arsenate of lead or tobacco dust will make the mixture effective against fungus and insect pests as well.

Rheumatic Pains Due To Thin Blood

Relief Comes Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the swollen, aching joints is a little relief, and all the while the trouble is becoming more firmly rooted. It is now known that rheumatism is rooted in the blood, and that as the trouble goes on the blood becomes still further thin and watery. To get rid of rheumatism, therefore, you must go to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved so beneficial when taken for this trouble. They make new, rich blood which expels the poisonous acid and the rheumatism disappears.

There are thousands of former rheumatic sufferers in Canada, now well and strong, who thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that they are now free from the aches and pains of this dreaded trouble. One of these, Mrs. W. F. Tait, McLellar Ont., who says :—"I am one of the willing ones to tell you of the great benefits I received from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After lying in bed for seven weeks suffering untold agony with inflammatory rheumatism, relief finally came through the use of this medicine. I could not move in bed only as they lifted me, and I could only sleep when opiates were given me. The medical treatment I was taking seemed of no avail. Then I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and soon I began to get relief. After taking six or eight boxes the rheumatism was banished and I had never felt better in my life. It is several years since this happened and I have had no return of the trouble since. I may add that I recommended the pills to two of my friends who were suffering with rheumatism and the pills were equally effective in both cases".

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, indigestion or nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CERTIFICATION OF SEED POTATOES

(Experimental Farms Note)

The certification of seed potatoes has been carried on for a number of years. It has become an established and very necessary factor in the ever increasing internal and external trade in this commodity which has developed in recent years. Seed potato certification is important both from the purchaser's, as well as from the grower's standpoint. One does not have to look far back to the time when almost any potato was merely taken at its face value and planted more on its appearance than for any inherent quality of productiveness it might possibly possess. On the other hand, a seed potato to-day in order to be classed as such must almost have a pedigree. Certification is a means to that end.

The information gained through experimental and pathological research of the many diseases affecting the potato is unanimous. The best-looking seed potatoes might be heavily affected with serious diseases to such an extent that the crop produced therefrom would be scarcely worth harvesting. Hence the need for some guarantee, preferably backed by government official standards and inspection, with which the purchaser of seed potatoes can depend, and which assures him, in great measure at least, that the stock he purchases will, under normal conditions, produce a satisfactory and maximum crop.

The work performed by the Inspection Service is two-fold. First of all, each inspector acts as an extension man. He must be prepared to carry information obtained through experimental work to the grower. This information includes not only a knowledge of the diseases affecting the crop, but also the most up-to-date methods of disease control, to say nothing of the multitudinous questions relating to soil types, cultivation, fertilizers, machinery, and many other phases relating not only to the growing of the potato crop but also to other farming activities. This personal contact with the individual grower has been of inestimable value.

Secondly, the inspector has to act as the medium through which the crop is certified. The official tag is given to the grower only after the crop has passed at least two field inspections and two or more tuber inspections, and been found to conform to the standards set for that purpose.

Certified seed potatoes are to-day recognized as being superior in every respect to other stock. They are practically free from serious diseases which affect the yield, are more true to type, should have no admixture of other varieties, and are of higher yielding quality, and are better graded. When purchasing seed potatoes ask for "Certified", and be sure the official tag is attached.

For further information on this subject see Dominion Department of Agriculture, Phamphlet No. 84, New Series; or write to the Dominion Botanist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, under whose direction the work is carried on.

CARE OF THE CHICKS ON RANGE

(Experimental Farms Note).

The simpler the methods of feeding and caring for the chicks that can be practised the better.

Feeding tests at the Central Experimental Farm have shown equally as good results from hopper feeding as when the chicks were fed at regular intervals, five or six times a day. When the nursery period is past and the chicks are old enough to go without heat they should be given roosts and as soon as they become used to them should be put out on range.

For range a light sandy soil is best. If a field of alfalfa is available on the one hand and a corn field on the other the conditions are ideal.

Do not overcrowd; use a dry, well ventilated houses, a mere shelter—a roof with walls covered with wire netting we have found excellent.

Shift the houses and feed hoppers frequently so that the ground where the chicks spend most of their time does not become contaminated.

Keep a supply of pure water, hoppers of grain, oyster shell and grit in the evening that is in the morning, or kept in hoppers which can be opened for a while in the evening and closed through the day.

Chickens kept as described will be reared under ideal conditions with the minimum amount of labour.

ANNOUNCING A REMARKABLE NEW BUILDING MATERIAL

INSUL-BOARD
(INSULATING BOARD)

A Board that shuts out cold. Stops heat. Deadens sound. An extraordinary building and insulating Board designed to make home interiors more comfortable and more healthful the whole year through. An All-Canadian Board, made in Canada from the products of Canada's Forests.

INSUL-BOARD meets the need for a stouter and more rugged material for wall and ceiling insulation. Its greater structural strength has been proven under critical tests by Canada's leading engineers. It makes the walls more rigid, more enduring, more capable of resisting severe strain and stress.

INSUL-BOARD insulates completely, producing a sure and lasting shield against winter's cold and summer's heat, sealing the home interior tight against all atmospheric discomfort.

SPARKS CIRCUS TO BE IN KINGSTON TUESDAY, JUNE 26th AND BELLEVILLE FRIDAY, JUNE 29th

In Kingston, on Tuesday, June 26th, and in Belleville, Friday, June 29th, afternoon and evening, under huge masses of canvass, the finest circus ever made by the ingenuity and courage of man, will parade and show in both Kingston and Belleville, on the above dates, to make the young folks happy and the old folks young. The great parade is on in both cities in the morning at 11 o'clock. First of all, a real wild animal circus is a 1928 acquisition, having been imported from the world's greatest wild animal training quarters at Stellingham, Germany. Included in these displays will be found lions, tigers, leopards, polar and grizzly bears—even trained ostriches will be seen in addition to the Sparks group of sixteen "Rotation" horses, the two elephant herds, fancy gaited and posing horses, the Bibb County Pig Circus, Sparks' Seals, and hosts of others of a novel nature. The circus proper opens with an elaborately staged spectacle, "L'Ora," the Jungle Queen," in which all of the animals, performers, premier dancers, and a large chorus participate. As a fitting finish to the all feature performance, the mammoth pageant, "Historical Canada", will be presented, in which 500 people and 500 horses appear. Sparks Circus has been tripled in size this season and is to-day one of the largest in the world. Excursions on all railroads.

EXPOSURE.

With almost a shock I realized what the spasmodic jerking of the engine indicated. My gas was quickly running out. And we had whisked gaily past a wayside garage less than half a mile back on the road which wound round the base of a hill. In front of us the nearest source of gas was a good four miles ahead.

My young nephew—rather a precocious youngster—was sitting on my left. He discerned the cause of the threatened stoppage just as soon as I did. But he did not publicly announce his discovery. Instead he crinkled up one side of his nose and directed an impish wink in my direction. The wink, when translated, read: "It's up to us to keep the secret from a certain person in the back who has more than once lectured you for your recurring failure to keep the spare tin other than empty. Your move, first."

I slowed down, stopped, and announced: "Sounds like that air jet on the carburetter is giving trouble again. I'll have a look and see."

As I was getting out I felt a tug at my sleeve. My knowing nephew came round behind me and whispered: "I'll to that pump we passed just now, while you're pretending to look for the cause of the trouble."

The young man started on his quest with an air of nonchalance, while I prepared to explore the region under the bonnet. Just as I had lifted one side and proceeded to fondle the main air jet I noticed that an old man in an adjoining field was very interested in my movements. He had stuck his spade deeply into the earth and was lazily leaning on it, his weather-beaten hat tilted across his forehead with a certain suggestion of rakishness. His curiosity apparently grew as the minutes passed, for soon he began to plod his way across the furrows towards the car. Leaning over the stone wall he queried confidentially:

"Is it how she's bet up on ye?"

"Oh, not at all," I told him briskly. "The engine wasn't running as sweetly as I like, so I'm just testing it to see where it misses perfection."

"To be sure you would," he commented, carefully clambering over the wall and coming to inspect my labours. "A great head entirely," he went on, "must have been on the man that made that yoke the first day. But sure even like a mule that'd shy at a shape of stones along the road, I suppose they take their fads and their whimpers at odd times, and then maybe the ould boy himself couldn't shake a budge out of them."

"Oh, the cause of any stoppage can soon be discovered by anyone knowing his job."

"Bedlike, indeed, that same's true enough, though it's a thrifle strange a mechanic a man would have to be for that same. Though, saving your presence, you're sort of knowledgeable as well iarnt about them cogglesome lit-tle bits and espers in the works of her yourself. You are so."

While the old man talked I busied myself cleaning the sparking plugs.

"Boys, oh, boys," he went on enthusiastically, "but there's a power of machines and little engines in them inwards! And more wires nor you'd see on a telegram pole! A regular engine doctor you must be, mister, and you having the larning to be testing and tapping so's you'll ascertain where the sweetness is missing from her. And maybe 'tisn't the penny piece ever you'd be paid for knowing her the rights? Belike you're one of them tourists now, and you to be finding your pleasuring in such a way."

"It's a wonderful way of spending a holiday," I told him, giving a hurry to a nut which was beginning to work loose.

"Forby 'twould be work for a man that'd have to be travelling the roads," he commented.

I espied the bearer of the gas tin coming round the corner, and decided that the psychological moment had arrived. Affecting a grave examination of the carburetter, I pretended to adjust it carefully. "The cause of the uneven running," I said, "was just there. It should go all right now." And with an off-hand air I emptied the gas into the tank with the remark that that was the place to carry it. A tickle of the carburetter, a touch on the starter, and the engine was ticking over beautifully.

Then I observed that the old man was bending across my left front wing, holding an ancient screw-driver against one sparking-plug after the other.

"All sparking grand, mister!" he announced with a twinkle in his eye.

A little nettled, I made ready to start. As I was about to slip in the clutch the old man leant across to me and whispered:

"Twas in the black tin the sweetness came to her! It was so. A drink the crathure wanted, as anyone could see when she wouldn't flood for you! Sure the drought is bad for man, baste, or machine. . . . Me son does be driving one of them for Mister Reilly in the town and he often shew-ed the ways of her! He did so. Well, good luck to ye now—and don't let the crathure go dry agin if you want to keep moving.

—THOMAS KELLY.

USUALLY DIE POOR.

Song Writers Are Seldom Good Business Men.

In spite of the money made from successful songs, the song writer usually dies poor. Business sense seldom plays much of a part in the make-up of a composer; hope fortunately does, and it is about all that many of them have to live on. When good fortune does come, it too often brings with it a wild burst of enthusiasm; and the money that should be reliously guarded as principal is spent as if it were a fractional part of the income which a grateful public is wont to continue to pour out on such musical genius.

It is a curious fact that many successful song writers are utterly ignorant of music. They can't read a note, their piano and hand organ is playing may have been composed by a man who could not play a piece of music in its proper place on the music paper, and who had to whistle or sing his ideas to a musical assistant. Given ideas of the right kind for everyday use, however, and it is easy enough to find those who can put them into singable shape. There are hundreds of musical scribes for every one of the few composers who can create a melody that the world will accept. . . .

AT JASPER PARK LODGE.

Jasper National Park which will be visited this year by members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association is noted as one of the great show places of the world. With its area of 5,300 square miles, not only is it the largest game sanctuary in the world but it contains the greatest number of mountain peaks. Few of these are below 8,000 feet and Mount Edith Cavell, Canada's mountain memorial to the memory of the British Red Cross Nurse, is 11,033 feet in height.

Set almost in the shadow of the lofty Rocky Mountain peaks and facing Lac Beauvert, which nestles in the serene water the towering peaks encircling it, is Jasper Park Lodge and adjoining rustic bungalows. Although situated amid surroundings noted for its wild and rugged beauty, the Lodge, and adjoining bungalows which are operated by the Canadian National Railways, offer every convenience to the tourist. To those who love the beauties of nature and the great out-doors there is no place in the world which can surpass Jasper National Park.

Trails and roads, winding amid spruce and pine through valleys, along rivers and lakes and ascending the slopes of mountains within the park have an aggregate length of several hundred miles—and they are being steadily extended. Some of them were blazed over a century ago by Indians, fur traders and explorers who traversed the Athabasca Valley on their way to and from the Pacific. These, in particular, are historical, almost sacred for many of the men who trod them in early pioneer days have left their imprint on Canadian history. But most of the trails and roads have been constructed by the Dominion Government in order to provide pathways by which tourists may have access, with the minimum of effort, to mountains, valleys, lakes, rivers and other points of interest within the Park.

Lakes—turquoise, sapphire, emerald, amethyst, according to the character of their environment, and mirroring adjacent mountain peaks on their placid surfaces—are scattered like jewels everywhere. Glaciers, great and small, abound while the Columbia ice field, just outside the park boundaries, out-rivals in vastness and in beauty those found in any other part of the continent, with the possible exception of the Mount Elias Alps field in Alaska.

EFFECT OF SUN SPOTS ON LIVING CONDITIONS

Dominion Observatory Investigating Scientific Aspects of Possible Relationships—Cycles Indicated

The Sun is usually looked upon as a permanent body radiating steadily a life-giving stream of energy. Time, he comes and goes with day and night, and rises and declines in the heavens with the changing seasons, but these apparent defections are ascribable to the vagaries of the Earth. However, on many occasions during the past twenty centuries, keen eyes have detected and recorded the presence of dark spots on the Sun, at times when he was sufficiently dimmed by smoke or haze to be clearly observed. These spots march across the surface of the sun indicating a period of rotation of about twenty-six days. They wax and wane in size and numbers in an irregular manner, the average length of about eleven and a half years. The telescope and spectroscope reveal the fact that the dark spots are accompanied by brilliant clouds especially rich in the light of glowing hydrogen and of calcium, the ultra-violet light of the latter constituting a relatively large proportion of all the ultra-violet light of the Sun.

Ultra-violet light has the power of disrupting gases at low pressure and liberating electrons. Hence it is not surprising that the northern lights and magnetic effects on the Earth have been found to pulsate with the spotted-ness of the Sun.

It has been observed also that the polar caps of the planet Mars melt more rapidly when spots are plentiful on the Sun than when they are few in number; and that Enckes comet in its return every three and a half years is brighter at or near the times of sunspot maximum than at minimum; and also that certain errors in the predicted positions of the Moon and planets coincide with a longer period in solar spottedness of sixty or seventy years. Consequently, it has not been without reason that a great number of investigations have been made in the search for a relationship between the variations in the Sun and in the weather, and in living things. This is one of the objects of research at the Dominion Observatory, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

In such a search effort has naturally been mainly confined to those records, unfortunately too few in number, which cover long periods of time. Scanty as they are they have revealed an eleven-and-a-half-year periodicity existing in various terrestrial phenomena and in a few cases where records of both living things and of the weather were kept, the relationship to sun-spottedness is still more convincing.

In the case of the auroral and electro-magnetic effects, as mentioned above, the relationship is at once apparent; in that of rainfall in some localities the pulsation of eleven and a half years in the rainfall is a well decided correspondence to the solar variations; temperature, barometric pressure, and numbers of storms have likewise shown the same periodic pulsations. A similar rhythm has been found in dates of migration-arrivals of birds in France (Chandon records, Montdidier); numbers of rabbits in Canada (records of Hudson's Bay Company); marriages, births, and deaths in Russia (for the latter period of seventy years); influenza; growth rates of cotton and of corn in some localities (according to Brooks records of sunspots). The existence of the eleven-and-a-half-year sun-spot cycle and its reflection in terrestrial conditions, probably many thousand years ago, appears likely from the testimony of a Sitka spruce recently released by the recession of a glacier in northern British Columbia and measured at the Dominion Observatory.

We may confidently look forward to the time when accumulating knowledge of sun-spots and other solar effects will provide a basis for valuable predictions concerning the weather and living and economic conditions. At the present time, however, notwithstanding statements which have appeared in the press, our knowledge is too incomplete to make definite predictions. The realization of our dependence, and that of all the forms of life within our ken, upon the Sun is leading astronomers, scientists, and statisticians, the world over, to bend their efforts to a clearer elucidation of the relationships of sun-spots and other solar phenomena to conditions on the Earth.

An Inch of Rain.

You have often seen the statement that the rainfall during the past week has been so many inches, and you have an adequate idea of what this means? Few people have.

You read in the weather bulletins that two or three inches of rain sometimes fall in a day, but these figures really convey very little information, and give no idea at all of the prodigality of nature.

An acre contains 6,272,640 square inches of surface, and an inch of rain means, therefore, the same number of cubic inches of water. A gallon contains 27,727 cubic inches of water, and an inch of rainfall means 22,622 gallons to the acre, and, as a gallon of water weighs 101 pounds, the rainfall on an acre is 226,220 pounds. Counting 2,000 pounds to the ton, an inch of rain means over 113 tons per acre.

The Postal Stone.

In the post office at Cape Town is a stone engraved: "Heare under looke for letters—Richard Blythe, Captain, 1622," and it was under this stone that mariners of that time left their communications to be taken care of and delivered by the crews of passing ships.

In the Knysan district a somewhat similar system is practiced even today, for by the roadside there are open boxes nailed to posts in which farmers leave their letters, to be collected by the mail motor-car.

This unguarded mail has never yet been known to miscarry.

SAYS — NOW STIFF JOINTS MUST GO!

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.

Yes; it's true—the world progresses. All you have to do nowadays to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint is to squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy.

Then read the evening newspapers and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its "creak" while you are dreaming about the high fences you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "you'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint-Ease: They call this wonder working substance, for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean, stainless prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether the knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale is immense.

Wallace's Drug Store has a big supply of it and druggists everywhere report a big demand.

ISLAND OF LONG LIFE

Shanklin, Isle of Wight, Is the Home of Aged People—No Other Village Has Similar Record.

Hundreds of visitors journey to Shanklin, on the Isle of Wight, to see the famous chine. It has been discovered that Shanklin has another quality to recommend it.

It is the home of long-lived men and women. Residents there claim that no other town or village in England can boast a similar record. It has sixteen inhabitants living within 100 yards of each other whose combined ages amount to more than 1,500 years.

First, there is Dr. David Edwicker, of Ivy Lodge, Landguard road. He is eighty-seven years of age and a native of Sussex. He has lived in Shanklin for fifty years, during which time he has worked as a gardener. He does not smoke, but enjoys his glass of beer and climbs a ladder with the agility of youth. He loves a game of billiards, and is often to be seen at a local club playing with some of his "young" friends. Mr. E. Morris, the butler, who is still actively in business, in spite of being more than eighty years old.

Next door to Mr. Edwicker lives Mr. Bennett. Mr. Bennett is eighty-three and has been in Shanklin for sixty years. His wife is seventy-nine.

Mr. Edwin Salter, of Western road, is eighty-two years old, and his wife is eighty-seven. He has resided in Shanklin since 1864, and as he helped to build the railway line and the bridges between Shanklin and Ventnor before it was open for traffic, he has justly proud of the permit. This couple celebrated their diamond wedding on December 22 last, when they received a telegram of congratulation from the King and Queen.

Mrs. E. Boynton, who has lived in Shanklin for nearly seventy years, is eighty-three years of age, and a neighbor of hers is Mrs. Joliffe, aged eighty-two.

The Wheelers have both lived in Shanklin nearly all their lifetime. Both are natives of the Isle of Wight. Mr. Wheeler is eighty-six. Mrs. Wheeler is eighty-two.

There is Mr. Thomas Burton, who has lived in Shanklin about eighty years and is now eighty-three. He was born at Cowes, and his neighbor, Mr. George Griffiths, aged eighty-four, is a native of Brighton. His wife is eighty-five. Mrs. Perren, who is eighty-three, has lived in Shanklin for sixty years, and Mrs. F. Phillips, who was born in the town and has lived there all her life, is seventy-nine, while Mr. George Lowe, whose eighty-two years complete the grand total, is a native of Brading.

The achievements of Shanklin are not exhausted on the records for venerable record. There are many other residents of remarkable age, including the ninety-two-year-old Dean Page-Roberts, Mrs. White-Popham, the "lady of the manor," Sir William Baker, and Col. The O'Gorman, hon. secretary of the local branch of the British Legion.

ARE UNLUCKY.

British Navy Shares the Popular Prejudice Against Snakes.

Apparently the navy shares the popular prejudice against snakes. The name of a new submarine has just been changed from Python to Hyderdora, and naval experts have explained that this was probably done because Python was the name of another unfortunate record.

Striking confirmation of this sea superstition was afforded at the beginning of the century, when two destroyers, H. M. S. Viper and H. M. S. Cobra, were lost within a few weeks of each other. The crew of the Viper were saved, but 67 lives were lost when the Cobra sank. As the wreck was ascribed to structural weakness, however—the Cobra was one of the first turbine vessels in the navy—it is probably unfair to blame the name.

In an earlier disaster, in 1890, H.M.S. Serpent, a new cruiser, struck a rock on her first commission. Three seamen were the only survivors, 175 lives being lost.

Deer as Weather Prophets.

Red deer are exceptionally sensitive to coming changes in the weather, says a writer in an English paper. It is said that an experienced stalker can tell with certainty what weather to expect simply by noting the movements of the deer. One day in the mountains of Kintale I found the keeper abandoning his plans for the day, and asking his gun. In a certain devoted himself to removing some stooks of corn which had been left near the river. The weather appeared to be settled, and there seemed to be no reason for the undue haste. On my asking him the reason he replied, "The deer had moved," and two days later the heavy rains flooded the river, and the place where the stooks had been standing was swept bare.

Ticket Machine Wonder.

A sixpence or a shilling inserted in the slot of a new railway ticket-issuing machine provides the passenger with a printed ticket and requisite change in the space of only half a second. It is the first of a batch of an entirely new design that is being put into service on the district railway in England.

Tests have shown that fifty-two per cent. of the public require change, and it is to simplify and expedite this that the new machines are being installed. The machines also issue tickets to passengers who insert the correct fare and reject all spurious or damaged coins.

The Oldest Letter.

Those who visited the British Antique Dealers' Association in London recently saw the oldest letter in the world.

It is written on 500 B.C., and refers to the purchase of a field in Babylon. It is not such a letter as our G.P.O. would willingly handle nowadays, for it is written in cuneiform characters on fire-clay, and when found at Ur was enclosed in a clay envelope.

Goat's Milk In High Favor.

About 12,000 goats are kept for milk production in British Columbia, says the Vancouver Province. Vancouver and Victoria suburbs are the chief centres of goat herding. The tendency is toward further increase.

Goats are believed to be practically immune to tuberculosis and their milk is therefore considered to be entirely free from the germs of the disease. Goats' milk is much sought for the diet of tubercular and anaemic patients and children of all ages. Daily house-to-house delivery of goats' milk is made in Vancouver by goat farmers.

Model's Dress.

Costing £500 and embroidered with more than 20,000 pearls and other stones, the dress to be worn by the model of Queen Mary in the new Madame Tussaud's has been made of specially woven brocade.

Designation of Our Apples.

According to Fruit Trade Commissioner J. Forsyth Smith, Liverpool, writing in the Commercial Intelligence Journal, there is to be a change in the British fruit market regarding the designations of Canadian apples. In the past the trade custom has given the name "Canadian" to fruit grown in Ontario, and "Scotians" to those of Nova Scotia. This season, all apples from Canada have been listed on auction catalogues everywhere in Great Britain under a double heading: "Canadian (Nova Scotia); Canadian (Ontario); Canadian (British Columbia).

The Fruit Commissioner adds that "A considerable proportion of apple packages have been coming forward with the indication, "Empire Apples —Canada"; a policy the value of which cannot be too strongly emphasized."

YARKER-COLEBROOK WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The June meeting of the Yarker Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. S. Freeman with about twenty-four members and five visitors in attendance.

The President, Mrs. N. Boyce, occupied the chair. The meeting opened by singing the ode, followed by the Institute prayer.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. Roll call was answered by hints for next year's programme. Plans were made for a bee on Friday, so clean the cemetery.

Mr. Reid gave an instructive talk on bank ng. Mrs. D. Martin an instrumental solo which was enjoyed by all. A splendid reading was given by Mrs. Fardell, "The Common Prayer Book". Mrs. Boyce gave an interesting paper on Medical Aid in schools.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Freeman, Yarker, on Wednesday July 18th, when Miss Hawley, Napanee, will demonstrate making crepe flowers.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and committee.

CONWAY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Conway Women's Institute held ten meetings with an average attendance of twenty-three. The programmes of these meetings comprised thirteen papers and addresses, namely: Travelogues by Mrs. Fred Ham on her trip to Japan and by the Rev. Mr. Bowers on his trip to England. Rev. Mr. Bowers also with us and gave a splendid discourse on Confederation. One no less worthy of merit was that on Banking given by Mrs. Cuppage. Mrs. Northmore and Mr. Laughland spoke enthusiastic on flowers and bulbs. Dr. Northmore favored us with another, dealing with the ever-important subject, health, diet and the begefit of milk. We also received a very educational address concerning municipal affairs from our reeve, Mr. Elliott.

We, at one meeting, had articles suitable as Christmas gifts, for sale which had been donated. The proceeds from this, completely covered the expenses incurred by our giving the needy of the neighborho. A feature of every meeting was current events and the roll call with fine for non-reply. We had 100 donations. Planners of which were presented with prizes. Miss Bick and Flower Committee sent flowers to members who were ill, and another committee worked for a bazaar which we hope to hold soon. A donation of five dollars was given to the Literary Fund. A year ago we held a sewing class which proved very advantageous there being fourteen dresses completed and several altered, while this year we have arranged for a course in Domestic Science from June 4th to the 14th. We hope the ladies will all avail themselves of the knowledge and instruction this course offers.

A POSER AND A MYTH

Will Iron Float at a Great Depth in Water? — Sailors Believe That Things "Find Their Level."

There has been much comment over the unexpectedness of some of the problems set in the education tests for the navy. One of the questions singled out for censure is this: "Will iron float at a great depth in water?"

It has clearly escaped the knowledge of the critic that a very ancient superstition among sailors, and probably among landsmen too, prompts the setting of this paper, for when we say that So-and-so "will find his level" we are merely adopting as a metaphor the old belief of sailors that iron does float at certain depths.

The belief is that under great pressure water becomes so dense and thick that solid matter will not descend through it; that a drowned man, a sunken battleship, a rent liner, sink only a certain distance, find their level, and then float, suspended in water too dense for further descent.

Generation after generation of seamen has inherited the legend of sunken objects "finding their level," just as generation after generation of rustics has inherited the legend that the building of Tenterden steeple caused the formation of the Goodwin Sands, a belief that was common and ancient when it was solemnly handed on by an aged peasant to Sir Thomas More four centuries ago.

No better type of sailors ever sailed than those who manned the great Challenger scientific expedition, yet when one of their number died and was buried at sea in his shot-weighted hammock they sent a message to their officers asking whether it was not a fact that their dead comrade, after sinking to a certain depth, would "find his level" and float there evermore, says a writer in the Children's Newspaper. Sir John Murray, who helped to solve the Challenger expedition's problem, lived to be asked a similar question as to the Titanic.

The fact is, as Sir John used to explain, that anything that will sink to the bottom of a tumbler will sink to the bottom of the deepest ocean. Upon that fact depends the livelihood of a countless population of weird and extraordinary forms of life whose world is the deep ocean in the abyss of seas miles deep. Food slowly rains down upon them from the watery above; entire fishes, fragments of fishes which have fed fishes keeping still lower levels, all sorts of dead creatures from all depths, even to the tiny shelled organisms whose home in life is on the surface, all pour down to the depths.

The water does not stop them. Not that water at great depth is not to some extent compressed. The greatest depth of water is also the most incontestable calculation shows that were the ocean to cease the oceans would at once rise 200 feet.

That would drown half England, and half the rest land. But we need not fear that natural law will fail us. Gravitation will hold the seas down as well as it will hold anything which is not water enough to float.

The problem will go on for many a day believing that things "find their level," and those who set the navy tests papers were not so eccentric as they seemed.

Warnings for Walkers.

Everyone is familiar with the red triangles, crosses, circles, and other signs that are dotted about the roads for the guidance of motorists. Why not similar signs for walkers? asks an Old Country paper.

A system of automatic traffic control that will indicate to pedestrians as well as to motorists the way they should go is being studied in Paris. It is hoped to dispense with policemen on point duty if the system is successful.

Already luminous signalling and one-way traffic make it possible for Parisian motorists to travel at twenty-five-miles an hour during rush hours, even in the busiest thoroughfares. The great problem is to educate the public to cross roads. Discs will be set up at points where walkers may cross the traffic, and a man crossing a road and an arrow indicating the way he must go.

A Bird's-Eye Secret.

What enables a wild bird to observe its prey, as it does when whilst, apparently, intent on feeding gardener knows, too, that birds show an unerring intuition concerning the range of a shotgun.

The wild bird's feeding on the ground will instinctively discover a hawk hovering so high in the sky as to appear to the human eye. There is quite a simply explanation. The two eyes of a bird do not focus, but are made on two kinds of vision, one molecular and the other binocular. While one eye is intent on searching for seeds and tiny insects, the other can keep a look-out for possible enemies.

World's Smartest Clock.

A clock that tells the time in twenty-four places in different parts of the world has been invented by a San Francisco jeweller. It is claimed to be the most intelligent clock.

In addition to telling the time, it gives the moon phase, date and day. It is only a little bigger than a large wrist watch, clock measuring 18 inches square. It contains 600 parts, and took the inventor seven months to build.

Early Canal.

The famous Canal of China which was built about 540 B.C., is one of the earliest known canals in the world. It extends over 1,000 miles long and is, therefore, one of the longest.

On the Athabasca Trail

The visitor to Jasper National Park in the Canadian Rockies finds that nature has made a lavish distribution of her beauty spots within this, the largest National Park and game sanctuary in America. Towering mountain peaks, pleasant valleys and shimmering lakes all help to make this a land of real enchantment.

The Athabasca River, from its birthplace among the glaciers and icefields of this region, flows down first through Rocky Gorges and then through a wide, pleasant valley. At one point it tumbles over a cliff at the foot of Mount [illegible] and here at Athabasca Falls is one of the beauty spots of the upper Athabasca Trail.

At the conclusion of their 1928 convention which is to be held at the Macdonald Hotel, Edmonton this year, members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association will visit Jasper National Park and will spend a short holiday amid the beauties of the largest and finest of Canada's scenic playgrounds. — Canadian Pacific Railways photograph.

YARNS OF ICY NORTH

COLDEST POLICEMAN IN THE WORLD.

Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman Does Duty Only 700 Miles From the North Pole—Frozen Tears—Dog Deserters.

There is a policeman on duty only 700 miles from the North Pole.

He works at Bache Peninsula, in Ellesmere Land, which is the most northerly post of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Stories of privations cheerfully accepted as part of the day's task, of obstacles overcome, of heroic, arduous, and devoted work, are contained in the annual report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police presented to the Canadian House of Commons.

Patrols undertaken in mid-winter, extend for many hundreds of miles over the Arctic wastes of Canada's northern islands.

Far ahead of the scattered army of settlers which is slowly pushing northward the frontiers of civilization, the patrols of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police press on, carrying to the natives and to the few white traders and trappers, the same great traditions of the force which in years gone by made possible the peaceful settlement of the Canadian prairies.

There is a tendency to invest with a halo of romance all the frontier activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police; but in sober truth there is not much romance in the toil and moil of life in the rough region of which the Lizard Post is the centre.

For the R.C.M.P. detachment the days are full of arduous toil. In summer they must endure the ravages of a million mosquitoes and black flies; in winter the intense cold of the north must be faced.

Constant patrols to outlying parts are their lot; visits to Indians whose whereabouts, since they live entirely by hunting, are never very certain; aid to white trappers who are ill or who need assistance in hauling supplies; long journeys to be made to "caches" of fried or frozen fish, for the dogs must be fed, and fish is their chief article of diet; wood must be hauled with dog-sleds in winter, and there are always Indians in need of medical attention, and they look to the R.C.M.P. as to super-excellent men.

Now and again things happen which call for courage and resource of the highest order. The patrol which returned recently had ample opportunity to prove that the men of the R.C.M.P. are still worthy of the highest traditions of the force.

A near-tragedy befell the patrol on a journey in January from the Lizard Post to McDame's Creek, ninety miles to the south. On January 16th, Inspector Wunsch, with Sergt. J. H. Paton, M.C., Constable Cooper, and two dog teams, set out. The mercury registered thirty-five below zero. Sergt. Paton was ahead feeling the way with a pole. Inspector Wunsch was a quarter of a mile behind him with one dog team, and the constable the same distance in rear with the other.

When they had travelled some two miles up the Dease river, a point was reached where a small open creek seeped into the river. It required care to pass these creeks without getting the dogs' feet wet, and Sergt. Paton was marking where the dog-teams should turn off to avoid this danger.

Suddenly he tripped and fell, plunging his left arm to the elbow in the icy water, and wetting his right mit as he scrambled to his feet. Instantly realising his peril in that intense cold, he flung off his mitts, and shouting to his companions, made full speed for a disused trapper's shack which he knew to be not far away. By the time he reached the shack his hands were frozen solid well above the wrists. They were quite white, and hard as marble. His companions rubbed Paton's hands with slush, but they, in turn, began to freeze and all three faced a desperate situation.

Sergt. Paton, whose pain was intense, realized the danger to his companions, and urged that they should care for themselves as he was now gone. His peril was imminent for the ground was like chocks and before their eyes the creek was creeping steadily up from his wrist. But after four hours, during which the inspector and constable worked continuously on him, circulation was restored to Sergt. Paton's hands though the fingers were all black and green. One finger had to be amputated.

In June, a trapper, Dan McLine, after a fairly successful, if short season, but with grub running dangerously low, packed his beaver pelts on the backs of his three dogs and, slung his pack on his back and set out on the long trek to the post. Ten days later his dogs set off in charge of a mounted police patrol. They took with them practically all Dan's worldly goods, the beaver pelts and the remaining scraps of grub. For ten days the trapper subsisted on what little game he managed to get with his rifle. He could not rabbit or ptarmigan, but when he came to the great lake flooding huge areas of about his emaciated form, and he sank down to his last two cartridges.

Incidents such as these, in which the R.C.M.P. extend a helping hand to the lonely settlers, do much to establish their control over such a remote area. There is no element of "Prussianism" in their methods, but the way of the R.C.M.P. is to come to these remote settlers as friends, as counsellors, anxious only to help them and to assure them of the protection of British justice.

SIXTH SENSE FORESEES.

Faculty That Allows Homing Pigeons to Locate Its Loft.

A hitherto undiscovered animal sense, the power that allows the homing pigeon to locate its loft in the starting bird its far distant home, the animal its burrow, is soon be revealed to the world at the sessions of the Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons at Washington, Dr. Frederick Tilney, professor of neurology at Columbia University, mentioned that experiments in progress upon this new sense which may prove to be masonic [illegible] retina of the eye was suggested by Dr. Tilney as the organ of the sense in which the sense resides.

Mere men have long marvelled at the abilities of animals to find their way home through strange surroundings. Aviators need compasses and intricate instruments to navigate efficiently as the birds of the air. The phenomena as these gave impetus to Dr. Tilney's researches.

One clue in the search that is now under way is the fact that animals are greatly disturbed by any change of direction of their surroundings. Mice that are taught to run intricate mazes, a feat that is not dependent upon ordinary sense of sight, or smell for instance, are completely baffled when the mazes are moved and ordered in geographically a different direction. They have to learn the mazes all over again.

Dr. Tilney has enlisted the help of scientists that as yet his research are in a preliminary stage. Besides his own laboratories and those of the department of psychology at Columbia University are at work.

If this magnetic sense is confirmed by his experiments it will be the ninth sense. Five sense are those of seeing, touch, taste and smell, which are the result of contact of the nerves system to environment, or stimulation to everyone. Then there are what Dr. Tilney called the skeletal sense and the visceral sense, which is presided in the body itself. As the eighth, Dr. Tilney lists what he calls the hurt or pain sense, which is protective instead of guiding like the others.
